Preface

This digest of statutes and official regulations governing use of public highways, roads, and streets in Arkansas and control of motor vehicles and operators permitted on these facilities is published as a service in the public interest. A safer, more convenient, and more orderly utilization of Arkansas's highway, road, and street systems is the objective.

Sections relating to administration of motor vehicles—registration, licenses, titles, equipment, vehicle operator licensing, and collection of motor vehicle fees and taxes—outline responsibilities of the Department of Finance and Administration. Sections relative to administration of highways, roads, and streets and regulation of weights, size, and movements of traffic thereon set forth powers, duties, and functions of the State Highway and Transportation Department.

The Arkansas General Assembly requires these two state agencies to: (a) interpret and disseminate statutory requirements in these two areas, (b) develop and promulgate policies complementary to these codes, and (c) prepare, publish, and enforce through proper channels, the regulations required by these codes.

Questions regarding application or interpretation of laws and regulations should be addressed to the appropriate State agency.

[SB 47 repeals § 27-51-1306]

Chapter 1

Let's Start with the Basics

1.1 Fourth Amendment

Out of all of the Bill of Rights, the Fourth Amendment is the most litigated. It is also the most important when it comes to your job as a police officer. At the core of every police action is the Fourth Amendment and you need to understand case law in order to do your job effectively and lawfully. That is what this book is all about.

LEGAL STANDARD

The Fourth Amendment is best understood in two separate parts:

Search and seizure clause:

1. The right of the people to be secure in their;
2. persons, houses, papers, and effects;
3. against unreasonable searches and seizures
4. shall not be violated; and

Search warrant clause:

1. no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause;
2. supported by oath or affirmation;
3. and particularly describing the place to be searched;
4. and the persons or things to be seized.

1.2 Fifth Amendment

The Fifth Amendment is the most famous. Because of Hollywood, everyone seems to know their rights. Yet, the Fifth Amendment is extremely complex. For example, how many times has a suspect complained that you did not read them his Miranda rights after an arrest, even though you did not interrogate him? Better yet, what if you forget to read someone his rights and he confesses? How do you fix that mistake? This book gives you these answers (Interview and Interrogation section).

LEGAL STANDARD

There are a lot of subsections to the Fifth Amendment, and you probably won't deal directly with any of them except #4, the right against self-incrimination (i.e., Miranda):

1. No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime;
2. unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger;
3. nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb;
4. nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself;
5. nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law;
6. nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

1.3 Three Golden Rules of Search & Seizure

I want to share three overarching Golden Rules to help provide you guidance in the field and to keep you out of trouble. These Golden Rules were developed after reading thousands of cases and I realized that there was a “theme” that developed when officers lost their cases or were successfully sued. In other words, these three rules seem to come up often when judges are analyzing your search and seizure decisions.

Embrace these Golden Rules and your career will benefit.

THREE GOLDEN RULES

The three Golden Rules of Search & Seizure are:

1. The more you articulate why you did something, the more likely it will be upheld in court.

This is the first and most important Golden Rule. Every time you make an intrusion into a person’s liberty or property interests (i.e., detain them or their property), you need to document why you did it. If not, you may be disciplined or successfully sued. Finally, you don’t necessarily need to produce a formal report. CAD and dispatch notes are also effective documentation when a formal report is unnecessary. For example, if you detained someone because you reasonably believed they were involved in an armed robbery, and you patted them down, then document this pat down even if you didn’t find a weapon or make an arrest.

2. The more serious the crime, the more reasonable your actions are likely to be viewed.

The Fourth Amendment is like a human-sized rubber band around your body. It’s naturally constricting. But when you are dealing with violent people, or emergencies, or rapidly evolving situations, the court will give you more room to breathe. For example, courts may let you enter homes to prevent the destruction of a kilo of cocaine but will criticize you for entering the same home to prevent the destruction of a marijuana cigarette. Use good judgment. Be willing to back down and seek judicial approval for minor crimes - use good judgment!

3. Conduct all warrantless searches and seizures in the same manner as if you had a warrant.

Most searches and seizures are warrantless. But that doesn't mean that you get any extra leeway when you proceed without judicial pre-approval. In fact, you get less leeway.

When you take the time to get judicial pre-approval courts like it. They respect it. And when your case goes to trial there is a legal presumption that you did the right thing. Therefore, the defendant must present evidence that your warrant is invalid. Good luck. The judge presiding over the case is likely the same judge who signed off on your warrant. Do you think that same judge will now decide the warrant was improperly issued? Yeah right!

On the other hand, when you proceed without a warrant there is a legal presumption that your search or seizure was unlawful! It's not personal - it's business. Without a warrant you have the burden to prove that what you did, and how you did it, was reasonable and lawful. Most of the time you will win these arguments with proper articulation (think Golden Rule #1) and your search or seizure was no more intrusive than what a judge would have allowed you to do.

Keep these Golden Rules in mind while in the field and your courtroom experience should be a tad less stressful.

1.4 The Right 'To be Left Alone'

The Supreme Court has recognized another "right," though it is not solely defined in the Bill of Rights, and that is the right "to be left alone." (The original phrase is the right "to be let alone." Modern English prefers "left alone.")

Whatever its source, whether common law, civil tort law, or the Bill of Rights, professional law enforcement officers must realize, and accept, that citizens have the right to be left alone. This is especially true today because more and more citizens are refusing police consensual encounters. I witnessed this firsthand when subjects, who I wanted to talk with, in order to develop intel, would bluntly ask me if they were free to go. When I replied yes, a few would immediately leave (usually on their bicycle or moped). However, this country was founded on an unwavering respect for individual liberties. It's just one of many reasons why this country is the best.

As Justice Brandies wrote in a dissenting opinion that was later endorsed by courts around the country:

The makers of our Constitution undertook to secure conditions favorable to the pursuit of happiness. They recognized the significance of man's spiritual nature, of his feelings and of his intellect. They knew that only a part of the pain, pleasure and satisfactions of life are to be found in material things. They sought to protect Americans in their beliefs, their thoughts, their emotions and their sensations. They conferred, as against the Government, the right to be let alone—the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized men. To protect that right, every unjustifiable intrusion by the Government upon the privacy of the individual, whatever the means employed, must be deemed a violation of the Fourth Amendment.¹

1.5 Decision Sequencing

Every search and seizure decision you make must be constitutional. If not, the evidence seized later will be “tainted” by the unconstitutional decision and the evidence may be suppressed. More importantly, an unconstitutional decision may have violated someone’s constitutional rights. If true, you may be successfully sued even if the suspect suffered no real harm. For example, if you illegally searched a backpack and found cocaine. The suspect may be able to recover damages and attorney’s fees even though they were never allowed to possess the cocaine in the first place.

A great way to conceptualize how this works is to think of constitutional decisions as upright dominos, each stacked next to each other.² Remember doing that as a kid . . . or last week? You line them up and when one falls, the rest fall after that one. In other words, if you just flicked the domino in the middle, only half the dominos would fall. Fourth Amendment decisions work the same way. For example, you make a lawful traffic stop (domino #1). You lawfully question the occupants about unrelated matters but it does not measurably extend the stop (domino #2). Eventually, you gain consent to search the trunk, but exceed the scope of search by searching inside the vehicle. This would violate the constitution and therefore that domino falls . . . and so do the decisions and evidence that come after it. Here, if you found drugs in the car, made an arrest, and found more drugs from a search incident to an arrest (another domino), that domino falls over too and that evidence is suppressed because it was tainted by a domino that fell over before.

Finally, remember everything that you found before the first domino that fell is constitutional. Any evidence discovered during that period would not be suppressed.

LEGAL STANDARD

Constitutional decisions are like upright dominos—an unconstitutional decision will cause the domino to fall over, knocking over (i.e., “tainting”) all the dominos that come later.

1.6 C.R.E.W.

The Supreme Court stated that all Fourth Amendment searches are presumed unreasonable unless there is a warrant or recognized exception. There are several exceptions, including “consent.” C.R.E.W. is an acronym to help you remember this important limitation.

The “C” stands for consent. “R.E.” stands for recognized exceptions. “W” stands for—yep, you guessed it—warrant.

² This concept came from Bruce-Alan Barnard, JD.

LEGAL STANDARD

Whenever you conduct a search or seizure you need one of the following:

1. Consent
2. Recognized Exceptions, examples include:
 - ✓ Exigency
 - ✓ Community caretaking
 - ✓ Reasonable suspicion
 - ✓ Probable cause arrest in public place
 - ✓ Motor vehicle exception
 - ✓ Plain view (or smell, feel, hear)
 - ✓ Emergency searches
 - ✓ Hot/fresh pursuit
3. Warrant including:
 - ✓ Arrest Warrant
 - ✓ Search Warrant
 - ✓ Court Orders

1.7 Fourth Amendment Reasonableness

The ultimate touchstone of the Fourth Amendment is reasonableness.³ In particular, the Fourth prohibits “unreasonable searches and seizures.” In other words, if a search or seizure is reasonable, it’s probably lawful.

Yet, how do we define what’s reasonable? Most of our definitions come from case law. What we can, and cannot, do is usually spelled out by judges. But remember, courts do not expect you to do your job perfectly—cops are humans and make mistakes. But you must be able to articulate why you are doing something. If you cannot then it’s probably unreasonable.

Also, keep in mind that the Fourth Amendment focuses on “objective reasonableness,” not subjective factors. This means that courts usually ignore personal motives and instead analyze whether or not an objectively reasonable officer “could” have lawfully done the same thing. As the U.S. Supreme Court stated, “the focus is to be on the [officers’] actions not their motives.”⁴

There is one important exception that relates to using “inventory searches” as a ruse to rummage around for criminal evidence. If an officer lacks probable cause and has discretion to tow and would not tow but for the intent to search for evidence, then the lawful decision is to seek consent or let the vehicle go.⁵

“[I]n determining whether the seizure and search were ‘unreasonable’ our inquiry is a dual one—whether the officer’s action was justified at its inception, and whether it was reasonably related in scope to the circumstances which justified the interference in the first place.”⁶

³ Riley v. California, 134 S. Ct. 2473 (2014).

⁵ State v. Greenwald, 109 Nev. 808 (1993).

“An otherwise lawful seizure can violate the Fourth Amendment if it is executed in an unreasonable manner.”⁷

Finally, the “Fourth Amendment does not mandate that police officers act flawlessly, but only that they act reasonably.”⁸

CASE EXAMPLES

An arrest would be lawful even if the officer admitted he did not think he had enough for an arrest, as long as the court found probable cause

An officer observed a hand-to-hand transaction and detained the suspects. The officer then conducted a pat down for narcotics despite not believing he had enough to arrest. Narcotics was discovered and the suspect was formally arrested. The court held that despite improperly calling this search a pat down the officer nevertheless had probable cause to arrest and therefore properly upheld the officer’s conduct as a formal search incident to arrest.⁹

Arrest lawful despite not having probable cause because court found probable cause for another uncharged offense

“In Klingler, the officers made an arrest for vagrancy and conducted a contemporaneous search which revealed a pistol that later formed the basis for a Federal Firearms Act charge. The court held that, while there was insufficient probable cause with respect to vagrancy, there was probable cause to arrest for robbery. Upholding the arrest, the court said

Because probable cause for an arrest is determined by objective facts, it is immaterial that (the officer) ... testified that he did not think that he had “enough facts” upon which to arrest Klingler for ... robbery. His subjective opinion is not material.¹⁰

An officer’s mistake of facts, if reasonable, will not result in suppression of evidence

Officers sought consent to search an apartment from the defendant’s brothers. Officers reasonably believed the brothers lived there because they were sitting in front, and told officers there was marijuana inside the apartment. The search resulted in evidence against the defendant. Later, the defendant provided evidence that his brothers did not actually live in the apartment. However, since the officer’s mistake was reasonable, evidence was not suppressed.¹¹

1.8 Private Searches

The Fourth Amendment controls government officials, not private actors. Therefore, there's generally no restriction on using information gained from a private citizen's search as long as he was not acting as a government agent. This is true even when the private search was conducted in a highly offensive, unreasonable, or illegal manner.¹²

An agent is someone who you encouraged or directed to perform a search or seizure. If so, then the agent must comply with the Fourth Amendment. In other words, you cannot direct a private person to do something that you could not do. A classic example of an agent is the confidential informant asked to go to a person's house to purchase narcotics. This would not violate the Fourth Amendment. However, if you asked the agent to "search around" while the dealer was in another room that would be problematic since you could not do the same thing. The dealer might be a criminal but he does have a right not to have police or their agents searching inside his house without his consent or a warrant.

There is another doctrine in play involving private searches known humorously as a "cat out of the bag" search. These searches occur when a private person searches another person's container (i.e., backpack, purse, etc.) and finds contraband. The private person then informs police what they found inside and the police conduct the same search on the container and usually seize the evidence and charge the owner of the container. For example, a roommate searches his fellow co-occupant's backpack and finds narcotics. Cops arrive and can perform the same search because the cat is out of the bag, the expectation of privacy is eliminated because of the original private search. Make sense?

Keep two important limitations in mind regarding these private searches. First, cops must not exceed the scope of the private search even if they have probable cause. If the roommate only searched the main compartment of the backpack then searching other closed compartments would be off limits unless another exception applies such as exigency or the owner's consent. Second, cat out of the bag searches require lawful access to the container. If the roommate left the contraband-laden backpack in his co-occupant's room then cops would likely not have lawful access to the backpack as the room would generally be off-limits. If you are in doubt or are dealing with a big case the best response is to seek a search warrant.

LEGAL STANDARD

Whether a private actor becomes a government actor depends on two factors:¹³

- Whether police encouraged, directed or participated in the search or seizure; and
- Whether the private person conducts the search with the intent to assist police or just furthering his own ends.

There are two important restrictions if police replicate a private search of a container (i.e., cat out of the bag search):¹⁴

¹³ State v. Miller, 110 Nev. 690 (1994).

¹⁴ See U.S. v. Jacobsen, 466 U.S. 109 (1984).

- Police must not exceed the scope of the private search; and
- Police must have lawful access to the container.

Note: Read Hotel, Tents, and RVs chapter for advice on how to deal with these areas after contraband is found.

CASE EXAMPLES

Government did not exceed private search by opening another box on the same pallet

Private carrier's employee opened one of thirteen boxes on a pallet and discovered marijuana. Police later searched the other boxes without a warrant. Typically, this would have exceeded the "scope" of the original private search. However, the government effectively argued that the additional boxes on the same pallet was essentially a "single" box. The court agreed and the search was upheld.¹⁵ Note: This is known as the "substantial certainty" test.

No government search where wife simply handed over evidence

Officers went to the defendant's home and questioned his wife. Officers asked if husband owned any guns and what clothes he had worn on the night of the crime. Wife then grabbed the items and gave them to police. This was a private search—no evidence police told her to do it, she did it on her own to clear her husband's name.¹⁶ That last part backfired!

Hotel manager was government agent while searching room for drugs

Hotel manager called police and asked that police protect him while he searched a suspected drug dealer's room. The officers stood guard at the door and listened to the manager describe the drug evidence found. This was a government search because police participated in (i.e., stood guard) and the manager was motivated to help police (i.e., look at what I just found boys!).¹⁷

FedEx employee not agent despite wanting to find evidence for police

A FedEx employee who previously found drugs in eight packages, and testified in court two times, was not a government agent simply because he wanted to find evidence to turn over to the government.¹⁸

Private search exceeded after laboratory tests performed

Where a previous private search was limited to visual inspection of pills but the government subsequently had a series of tests performed on the material at a toxicology laboratory that revealed its precise molecular structure, the action was a search because of the danger that private facts about the items could be revealed and because the search exceeded the scope of the private search. The court distinguished a field test that would reveal only whether or not the pills were a particular contraband substance but would not otherwise reveal exactly what they were.¹⁹

No violation where police viewed same child pornography wife viewed

Police officers who examined defendant's child pornography obtained and brought to the officers by defendant's wife did not violate defendant's privacy expectations, where defendant's wife had performed a private search of the materials, and the police officers only viewed those materials that had already been viewed by defendant's wife.²⁰ Still, officers are highly encouraged to get a search warrant for electronic devices, especially those suspected of containing child pornography.

1.9 “Hunches” Defined

You cannot make a stop or detention based “on mere curiosity, rumor, or hunch . . . even though the [you] may be acting in complete good faith.”²¹ The solution is to work on converting those hunches into reasonable suspicion so they can make investigatory detentions. As the Court said:

The officer, of course, must be able to articulate something more than an “inchoate and unparticularized suspicion or ‘hunch.’” The Fourth Amendment requires “some minimal level of objective justification” for making the stop. That level of suspicion is considerably less than proof of wrongdoing by a preponderance of the evidence. We have held that probable cause means “a fair probability that contraband or evidence of a crime will be found,” and the level of suspicion required for a Terry stop is obviously less demanding than that for probable cause.²²

You cannot seize a person or property based merely on a hunch. Instead, you may make a consensual encounter or pursue other investigative techniques that are not prohibited by the Fourth Amendment.

¹⁹ U.S. v. Mulder, 808 F.2d 1346 (9th Cir. 1987).

²² U.S. v. Sokolow, 490 U.S. 1 (1989).

CASE EXAMPLES

Hunches cannot support a stop, but are nevertheless valuable

“A hunch may provide the basis for solid police work; it may trigger an investigation that uncovers facts that establish reasonable suspicion, probable cause, or even grounds for a conviction.”²³

Criminal history alone is a hunch, not reasonable suspicion

During a traffic stop, the facts that a computer check reveals that driver had once been involved in a hit-and-run incident and had once been arrested on a drug charge did not provide reasonable suspicion for further detention. Officer was impermissibly acting on a hunch that defendant might presently be involved in criminal activity.²⁴

1.10 Reasonable Suspicion Defined

You may conduct an investigative detention (i.e., Terry Stop) when you can “point to specific and articulable facts which, taken together with rational inferences from those facts, reasonably warrant” you to detain the suspect for further investigation.²⁵

Like probable cause, reasonable suspicion is fact specific. Each situation is different. Therefore, the key is to articulate why this particular person appears engaged in criminal activity.

LEGAL STANDARD

Reasonable suspicion exists when:

- You can articulate facts and circumstances that would lead a reasonable officer to believe the suspect is, or is about to be involved in criminal activity;
- If your suspicions are dispelled, the person must be immediately released or the stop converted into a consensual encounter.

CASE EXAMPLES

Confidential informant may be used to build reasonable suspicion

An informant known to the officer who had provided him information in the past told him that a person seated in a car nearby was dealing drugs and was armed. Reasonable suspicion for an investigative stop was present.²⁶

²⁶ Adams v. Williams, 407 U.S. 143 (1972).

Being uncooperative is a hunch, not reasonable suspicion.

The mere fact that a suspect refuses to cooperate with police when the suspect has no duty to do so, is insufficient to support reasonable suspicion.²⁷

Fact that car is parked in front of fugitives house not enough for stop

“That on one occasion a car is parked on a street in front of a house where a fugitive resides is insufficient to create reasonable suspicion that the car’s occupants had been or are about to engage in criminal activity.”²⁸

1.11 Probable Cause Defined

Articulating precisely the definition of “probable cause” or “reasonable cause” is not possible. P.C. is a fluid concept and whether you had P.C. to arrest or conduct a search will be evaluated on a case-by-case basis. “On many occasions, we have reiterated that the probable-cause standard is a ‘practical, nontechnical conception’ that deals with the factual and practical considerations of everyday life on which reasonable and prudent men, not legal technicians, act.”²⁹

Remember, evidence found after a search cannot be used retroactively to establish probable cause.³⁰ It may be tempting to try to cure an unlawful search by telling the prosecutor, “But I found 100 kilos of cocaine! There must have been probable cause!” That’s a great argument, but it is legally flawed. Similarly, just because the evidence sought was not found does not mean that there was no probable cause at the beginning.³¹

Probable cause to arrest:

Probable cause to arrest exists “where ‘the facts and circumstances within [the arresting officer’s] knowledge and of which he had reasonably trustworthy information [are] sufficient in themselves to warrant a man of reasonable caution in the belief that an offense has been or is being committed,’”³² and that the defendant is the perpetrator.³³

Probable cause to search:

Probable cause to search, on the other hand, arises when there are reasonable grounds to believe, “not that the owner of the property is suspected of a crime, but that there is reasonable cause to believe that the specific ‘things’ to be searched for and seized are located on the property to which entry is sought,”³⁴

²⁷ I.N.S. v. Delgado, 466 U.S. 210, 216 (1984).

and there is probable cause to believe the things sought are evidence of a crime.³⁵ In fact, the identity of the offender need not be known.³⁶

CASE EXAMPLES

Officer had probable cause to search vehicle

“There was probable cause to search a vehicle where police knew that a “blue compact station wagon” with four men in it had been circling a service station shortly before it was robbed by two men and sped away from an area near the scene shortly thereafter, that one occupant wore a green sweater as did one of the robbers, [and] that there was a trench coat in the auto similar to that worn by another of the robbers.”³⁷

Officer had probable cause that tied-off balloon contained narcotics

Where an officer observed a tied-off, uninflated opaque party balloon in a vehicle together with additional balloons, small plastic vials, and white powder in the glove compartment, and when the officer knew from his experience that such balloons were often used to deal drugs, probable cause existed to believe that the balloon contained narcotics.³⁸

Probable cause existed to arrest party goers in near-empty house

A reasonable officer could have concluded that there was probable cause to believe the partygoers knew they did not have permission to be in the house, and the officers had probable cause to arrest the partygoers because the officers found a group of people who claimed to be having a bachelor party with no bachelor, in a near-empty house, with strippers in the living room and sexual activity in the bedroom, and who fled at the first sign of police.³⁹

Probable cause defines the scope of search

Smelling the odor of drugs can give probable cause to search for drugs. Scope is always an issue with probable cause. For example, the odor of burnt marijuana may give probable cause to search the passenger compartment while a powerful smell of unburnt marijuana may give probable cause to search the vehicle’s trunk.⁴⁰

1.12 Collective Knowledge Doctrine

The collective knowledge doctrine is one of the most powerful and important doctrines in law enforcement. It allows a single police officer to benefit from the ⁴⁰ U.S. v. Downs, 151 F.3d 1301 (10th Cir. 1998).

collective knowledge of all officers working on a case. For example, if a detective asks another officer to search a vehicle for drugs, the search would be valid even if the officer conducting the search had no idea why he was authorized to search the vehicle, as long as the detective had probable cause.

The key with the collective knowledge doctrine is that officers communicate with each other. This does not mean officers have to know everything about the case, but they at least have to be working together. (e.g., task force officers)

LEGAL STANDARD

There are two forms of collective knowledge: vertical and horizontal.

- Vertical collective knowledge occurs when one officer tells/orders/asks another officer to do something that implicates the law. For example, an officer tells his partner to pat down the suspect but the partner does not know why. This is fine as long as the first officer has a reason to order the pat down.
- Horizontal knowledge occurs under two conditions:
 - The officers must be involved in the same investigation, but may be from different departments (i.e., task forces); and
 - Officers must be in communication with each other related to the investigation.

CASE EXAMPLES

Collective knowledge doctrine applied to officer who stopped vehicle

A narcotics task force requested that an officer stop a vehicle for any observed traffic violation. Though the arresting officer only observed a traffic offense, the collective knowledge of the task force permitted the later arrest and warrantless search of the vehicle for drugs.⁴¹

Officer may wholly rely on the probable cause of a fellow officer

A police officer relied on the instruction of a fellow officer, who had probable that drugs were in a vehicle. The police officer stopped the vehicle and searched it under the automobile exception. Even though the initiating officer did not have probable cause, because he was in communication with a fellow officer that did, the stop and search were lawful.⁴²

Intel from confidential information contributed to collective knowledge

Officers who stopped defendant for a traffic violation had probable cause to arrest him for drug trafficking; at the time of the stop, law enforcement collectively knew that a confidential informant made a controlled drug purchase from defendant five days earlier, the informant made a controlled drug payment of $5,000 to defendant on the day of the stop, and defendant engaged in what appeared to be other drug transactions shortly before the stop.⁴³

Collective knowledge doctrine controls even when agent told officer to develop his own probable cause

A DEA agent had probable cause that the defendant was in possession of drugs. He told a local officer to watch out for the defendant, and to develop his own probable cause and stop the vehicle, but the officer had no knowledge of the facts underlying the DEA's probable cause. The officer stopped the vehicle and searched it. The court held the officer had probable cause under the collective knowledge doctrine.⁴⁴

Collective knowledge doctrine can also be used for investigatory detentions

Officer worked in a fast-paced, dynamic situation in an area known for drug sales, in which the officers worked together as a unified and tight-knit team. One officer developed reasonable suspicion to stop the defendant. A fellow officer, unaware of the officer's reasonable suspicion, stopped the defendant without his own individualized suspicion. The court upheld the stop under the collective knowledge doctrine.⁴⁵

Supervisor's knowledge, not on scene, was too remote for collective knowledge doctrine

Knowledge of all officers on the scene is imputed to each officer in determining whether "collective knowledge" provided probable cause but knowledge of a supervisor not on the scene cannot be imputed when the information was not communicated to those on the scene.⁴⁶

1.13 What is a "Search" Under the Fourth Amendment?

It is important to understand that the term "search," as used in this book at least, refers to conduct that invokes the protections of the Fourth Amendment. Police may engage in hundreds of "searches" every day, and yet invoke the Fourth Amendment only a few times.

For example, when police look into a stopped vehicle, they may be searching for weapons or contraband, but that conduct is not protected by the Fourth Amendment. In other words, just using your senses while lawfully positioned somewhere is not a Fourth Amendment search. On the other hand, opening the trunk of that same vehicle and looking around for contraband would be a protected search because that area is protected as a closed container.

There are two constitutional searches, a "physical intrusion" search or a search where a person has a "reasonable expectation of privacy."

⁴⁶ U.S. v. Edwards, 885 F.2d 377 (7th Cir. 1989).

LEGAL STANDARD

Physical Intrusion

A physical intrusion will be a search under the Fourth Amendment if:

- You make a physical trespass into a constitutionally protected area (i.e., persons, houses, papers, and effects); and
- You did it for the purpose of obtaining evidence.

Reasonable Expectation of Privacy

A reasonable expectation of privacy will be violated if:

- The person exhibited an actual (subjective) expectation of privacy; and
- His expectation is one that society is prepared to recognize as reasonable (objective).

1.14 What is a “Seizure” Under the Fourth Amendment?

A seizure of a person occurs when a reasonable person would believe that he or she is not free to leave, even if for a brief period of time.

The test is necessarily imprecise because it is designed to assess the coercive effect of police conduct, taken as a whole, rather than to focus on particular details of that conduct in isolation. Moreover, what constitutes a restraint on liberty prompting a person to conclude that he is not free to “leave” will vary, not only with the particular police conduct at issue, but also with the setting in which the conduct occurs. . . .⁴⁷

There are two ways to seize a person. First, and most obviously, you may use physical force to make the seizure. For example, intentionally grabbing a person’s shoulder or more drastically shooting him are both seizures. Alternatively, and more commonly, police may seize a person when there is a show of authority sufficient enough to lead a reasonable person to believe he was not free to avoid the officer without legal consequences and the person submits (i.e., does not run away).

A Fourth Amendment seizure of property occurs whenever you intentionally interfere with an individual’s possessory interest in his property. The most important element here is intent. For example, if you blow a red light and run into another person’s car, you have unintentionally interfered with his property and will be subject to tort liability, not a constitutional violation.

Remember you can be held vicariously liable if you “keep the peace” while someone takes another person’s property. For example, if you are called to a civil standby while a subject removes property from a residence, it may be unwise to allow any disputed property to leave the residence.

⁴⁷ Mich. v. Chesternut, 486 U.S. 567 (1988).

LEGAL STANDARD

A seizure of a person occurs under the Fourth Amendment when:

- You use force on a person with the intent to restrain,⁴⁸ even with minimal force.
- Additionally, a seizure occurs even if the suspect is trying to escape (submission is not required);⁴⁹ or
- There is a sufficient show of authority that would lead a reasonable person to believe he was not free to leave or avoid you without legal consequences and submits.⁵⁰

A seizure of property occurs under the Fourth Amendment when:

- You intend some meaningful interference with someone's possessory interest in his property.

CASE EXAMPLES

No seizure by DEA agents at airport

The defendant was not seized under the Fourth Amendment when she was asked by airport DEA agents if she would accompany them back to their office to discuss some discrepancies with her plane ticket. Once there, they asked for consent to search and she was informed of her right to refuse. She agreed and a female officer asked her to partially disrobe, after which bundles of heroin were discovered. The whole encounter was consensual.⁵¹

Consensual contacts on a bus

Narcotics agents boarded a Greyhound bus and without any reasonable suspicion asked various passengers for consent to search their luggage. Arrested smuggler later argued that he was not free to leave because he was stuck on the bus in order to complete his journey and therefore consent was tainted. The Supreme Court disagreed and stated that the test for a consensual encounter is not only the ability to leave, but also the ability to terminate the encounter while staying on the bus (e.g., "Leave me alone officer").⁵²

Officers that "kept the peace" liable for unlawful seizure of property

Police were called to "keep the peace" while a trailer park manager illegally removed a mobile home for non-payment. The trailer was removed and the homeowner was told by police to not interfere with the park manager. The Court said police transformed the situation into a government seizure.⁵³

Chapter 2

Consensual Encounters

2.1 Consensual Encounters

The most common police encounter is the consensual one. You do not need a specific reason to speak with people and consensual encounters are a great way to continue an investigation when you have neither reasonable suspicion nor probable cause. As the Supreme Court said, “Police officers act in full accord with the law when they ask citizens for consent.”¹

Start a consensual encounter by asking a question: “Can I talk to you?” Not, “Come talk to me.” Also, your conduct during the encounter must be reasonable. Lengthy encounters full of accusatory questioning will likely be deemed an investigative detention, not a consensual encounter.

Finally, your uncommunicated state of mind has zero bearing on whether the person would feel free to leave. Therefore, even if you had probable cause to arrest this factor will not be considered as long as the suspect did not know you intended to arrest him.

LEGAL STANDARD

A consensual encounter does not violate the Fourth Amendment when:

- A reasonable person would believe he was free to leave or otherwise terminate the encounter.² In other words, a reasonable person would have believed he was not detained or restrained.

A consensual encounter becomes a seizure when:³

- Under the totality of the circumstances;
- A reasonably innocent person;
- Believes they do not have the freedom to terminate the encounter or leave; and
- Yields to a show of authority or physical force.

Some factors courts consider include:

- How the initial contact was made (was order given?)
- Use of flashing lights or sirens
- Uniform versus plain clothes
- Number of officers
- Demeanor of officer (conversational v. accusations)
- Display of weapons
- Physical touching or pat downs
- Ordering person to move next to patrol car

³ CCDA Shanon Clowers.

- Blocking their vehicle
- Telling person they are free to leave
- Reading Miranda (not recommended for consensual encounters)
- Duration of the encounter
- Public versus private location
- And many others. Use common sense and talk to the person in a professional yet conversational tone.

CASE EXAMPLES

Order to come over and talk is not consensual

Suspect was observed walking in mall parking lot after stores were closed. Officer said, “Come over here, I want to talk to you.” Court held officer gave command to suspect and therefore needed reasonable suspicion. Evidence suppressed.⁴

Suspect fit drug courier profile and police conduct was not a consensual encounter

A suspect who fit the so-called “drug-courier profile” was approached at an airport by two detectives. Upon request, but without oral consent, the suspect produced for the detectives his airline ticket and his driver’s license. The detectives, without returning the airline ticket and license, asked the suspect to accompany them to a small room approximately 40 feet away, and the suspect went with them. Without the suspect’s consent, a detective retrieved the suspect’s luggage from the airline and brought it to the room. When the suspect was asked if he would consent to a search of his suitcases, the suspect produced a key and unlocked one of the suitcases, in which drugs were found. Court found this was not a consensual encounter and suppressed the evidence.⁵

Even if police have probable cause, they can still seek a consensual encounter with the suspect

“Therefore, even assuming that probable cause existed at some earlier time, there was no violation of the Fourth Amendment . . . No Fourth Amendment privacy interests are invaded when an officer seeks a consensual interview with a suspect.”⁶

Consensual encounter and search valid after officer released driver following a traffic stop

Where officer stopped vehicle to issue traffic citation, concluded traffic stop, indicated to the driver he was free to leave, but then asked whether driver had drugs and whether officer could search vehicle, consent to search was voluntary.⁷ Many cops call this move the “two step.” After releasing the offender, the officer will turn around towards his patrol car, stop, turn around, and in a Columbo-manner say, “Sir, can I ask one more question before you leave...” It is a solid way to separate the stop from the consensual encounter.

⁶ People v. Coddington, 23 Cal. 4th 529 (2000), as modified on denial of reh’g (Sep 27, 2000).

⁷ U.S. v. Rivera, 906 F.2d 319 (7th Cir. 1990).

Whether someone feels “detained” is based on objective facts

“The test provides that the police can be said to have seized an individual ‘only if, in view of all of the circumstances surrounding the incident, a reasonable person would have believed that he was not free to leave.’ As the test is an objective standard—looking to a reasonable person’s interpretation of the situation in question ... ‘This ‘reasonable person’ standard also ensures that the scope of Fourth Amendment protection does not vary with the state of mind of the particular individual being approached.’”⁸

2.2 Knock and Talks

There is no Fourth Amendment violation if you try to consensually contact a person at his home. The key to knock and talks is to comply with social norms. Think about it this way, if the Girl Scouts could do it, you can too.

You must be reasonable when you contact the subject. Constant pounding on the door, for example, would likely turn the encounter into a detention if the subject knows that it’s the police knocking (an objectively reasonable person would believe that police are commanding him to open the door). Additionally, waking a subject up at 4 a.m. was viewed as a detention requiring reasonable suspicion (see below). In other words, if the Girl Scouts would not do then it’s probably unreasonable.

What about “No Trespass” signs? You can usually ignore them because trying to have a consensual conversation with someone is not typically considered trespassing. Same goes with “no soliciting” signs. Still, there will be situations when a no-trespassing sign along with other factors will indicate to a reasonable person that no one should approach the front door and knock. Still, these rules don’t apply to calls for service where there is an ongoing issue, like a domestic violence call or loud party complaint.

 LEGAL STANDARD

Knock and talks are lawful when:

- The path used to reach the door does not violate curtilage and appears available for uninvited guests to use;
- If the house has multiple doors, you chose the door reasonably believed to be available for uninvited guests to make contact with an occupant;
- You used typical, non-intrusive methods to contact the occupant, including making contact during a socially acceptable time;
- Your conversation with the occupant remained consensual; and
- When the conversation ended or was terminated, you immediately left and did not snoop around.

⁸ State v. McKellips, 118 Nev. 465, 469 (2002).

CASE EXAMPLES

Knock and talk at 4 a.m. held invalid

Officers went to suspect's residence at 4 a.m. with the sole purpose to arrest him. There was no on-going crime and the probable cause was based on an offense that occurred the previous night. Violation of knock and talk because officers exceeded social norms.⁹

Command to open door was not a consensual encounter

"Officers were stationed at both doors of the duplex and (an officer) had commanded (the defendant) to open the door. A reasonable person in (defendant's) situation would have concluded that he had no choice but to acquiesce and open the door."¹⁰

Constant pressure to consent to search held unlawful

During knock and talk officers continued to press defendant for permission to enter and search. Later consent-to-search was product of illegal detention.¹¹

Officer's statement that he did not need a warrant to talk with occupant found to have tainted consent to enter

Officers made contact with a suspected alien at his apartment. The officers asked to enter the apartment, and the occupant asked whether they needed a warrant for that. The officers said they "did not need a warrant to talk to him." Based on the totality of the circumstances, the consent was involuntary since a reasonable occupant would have thought police did not need a warrant to enter and talk.¹²

Unless there is an express order otherwise, officers have the same right to knock and talk as a pollster or salesman

"One court stated more than forty years ago: 'Absent express orders from the person in possession against any possible trespass, there is no rule of private or public conduct which makes it illegal per se, or a condemned invasion of the person's right of privacy, for anyone openly and peaceably, at high noon, to walk up the steps and knock on the front door of any man's castle' with the honest intent of asking questions of the occupant thereof—whether the questioner be a pollster, a salesman, or an officer of the law."¹³

2.3 Investigative Activities During Consensual Encounter

Just because you are engaged in a consensual encounter does not mean you cannot investigate. However, be careful about how you go about it. Be cool, low key, and relaxed. Make small talk and just present yourself as a curious cop versus someone looking to make an arrest (though that may be your goal).

During a consensual encounter, there are really three investigative activities you can engage in; questioning, asking for ID, and seeking consent to search.

¹³ People v. Rivera, 41 Cal. 4th 304 (2007).

“(L)aw enforcement officers do not violate the Fourth Amendment by merely approaching an individual on the street or in another public place, by asking him if he is willing to answer some questions, (or) by putting questions to him if the person is willing to listen.”¹⁴

Asking for ID and running a subject for warrants does not automatically convert encounter into a detention.¹⁵ Hint, return ID as soon as possible so a reasonable person would still “feel free to leave.”¹⁶

LEGAL STANDARD

Questioning

Questioning a person does not convert a consensual encounter into an investigative detention as long as:

- Your questions are not overly accusatory in a manner that would make a reasonable person believe they were being detained for criminal activity.

Identification

Asking a person for identification does not convert a consensual encounter into an investigative detention as long as:

- The identification is requested, not demanded; and
- You returned the identification as soon as practicable, otherwise a reasonable person may no longer feel free to leave.

Consent to search

Asking a person for consent to search does not convert the encounter into an investigative detention as long as:

- The person’s consent was freely and voluntarily given;
- He has apparent authority to give consent to search the area or item; and
- You did not exceed the scope provided, express or implied.

CASE EXAMPLES

Child illegally questioned at school while officer was present

A child was illegally seized and questioned by a caseworker and police officer when they escorted the child off private school property and interrogated the child for 20 minutes about intimate details of his family life and whether he was being abused. The government argued this was a consensual encounter, but no reasonable child in that position would have believed they were free to leave.¹⁷

¹⁵ People v. Bouser, 26 Cal. App. 4th 1280 (Cal. App. 4th Dist. 1994).

¹⁶ U.S. v. Chan-Jimenez, 125 F.3d 1324 (9th Cir. Ariz. 1997).

¹⁷ Doe v. Heck, 327 F.3d 492 (7th Cir. 2003).

Note: This case may have come out differently if they did not remove the child from school grounds. Involuntary transportation usually converts an encounter into an arrest.

Consent to search was involuntary after arrest-like behavior

Suspect did not voluntarily consent to the search of his person, and suppression of a handgun discovered was warranted, where the suspect was in a bus shelter, was surrounded by three patrol cars and five uniformed officers, an officer's initial, accusatory question, combined with the police-dominated atmosphere, clearly communicated to the suspect that he was not free to leave or to refuse the officer's request to conduct the search, the officer never informed the suspect that he had the right to refuse the search, and the suspect never gave verbal or written consent, but instead merely surrendered to an officer's command.¹⁸

2.4 Asking for Identification

If you make a consensual encounter, you can always request that the subject identify themselves. But remember, there is no requirement that he do so. Additionally, there is likely no crime if the subject lied about his identity during a consensual encounter (however, possession of a fraudulent ID may be a crime).

I know a lot of officers do not understand how a person can lie about his identity and get away with it. But think about it, what law requires a person to identify himself during a consensual encounter? There may be a requirement the suspect identify himself during an investigative detention, but not a consensual one.

On the other hand, lying about ones' identity may help develop reasonable suspicion the person is engaged in criminal activity, but this cannot be the sole reason to detain or arrest the person.

LEGAL STANDARD

Asking a person for identification does not convert a consensual encounter into an investigative detention as long as:

- The identification is requested, not demanded; and
- You return the identification as soon as practicable, otherwise a reasonable person may no longer feel free to leave.

CASE EXAMPLES

Detaining a subject for identification requires reasonable suspicion

"When the officers detained [suspect] for the purpose of requiring him to identify himself, they performed a seizure of his person subject to the requirements of the Fourth Amendment."¹⁹

¹⁹ Brown v. Tex., 99 S. Ct. 2637 (1979).

Providing a false name not a crime unless lawfully detained or arrested

Defendant’s arrest was premised on his giving a false name. The state statute criminalizes a person’s false representation or identification of himself or herself to a peace officer “upon a lawful detention or arrest of [that] person...” The law applies only where the false identification is given in connection with lawful detention or arrest and does not apply to consensual encounters with police. Since defendant’s subsequent arrest was based upon an unlawful detention, and the search incident to the arrest was likewise unlawful suppression is required of contraband seized after search incident to unlawful arrest.²⁰

Asking for identification, among other activities, held to be consensual

Where a narcotics officer approached the defendant after she deplaned, identified himself and asked to speak with her; asked for her ticket, which she gave to him; asked for identification, which was produced; asked for permission to search her purse, which she allowed; and asked whether a female officer could pat her down for drugs to which she agreed; all consents were voluntary even though the defendant was visibly nervous and became more so as the interview progressed.²¹

Consent to search for identification valid

Following a pat down of defendant, and after defendant was not “immediately forthcoming” about his identity, giving only his first name and providing several false dates of birth, the officer asked defendant if he had any identification. Defendant indicated that it could be found in his back pocket. The officer asked for, and was granted, consent to retrieve the identification from defendant’s back pocket, but the pocket turned out to be empty. When asked if the identification might be located elsewhere, defendant suggested that it might be in his left front pocket, where the officer found not only an identification card, but what appeared to be cocaine.²² Double prizes!

Holding passenger’s identification while seeking consent to search from driver held be an unlawful detention

After stopping a car, the trooper obtained the driver’s license and the passenger’s identification card. After writing the citation, the trooper spoke to the driver outside the car. He handed the driver a citation and his license but held onto the passenger’s identification. The trooper sought and obtained consent to search. The court held that since the passenger’s ID was still being held, the driver was not truly free to leave, and the search was suppressed.²³

2.5 Removing Hands from Pockets

Generally, you may ask a subject to remove his hands from his pockets without worrying about converting the encounter into a detention. Courts understand the importance of officer safety.²⁴ What if the subject refuses to comply? If you can articulate a legitimate officer safety issue, then ordering a suspect to show his hands may be deemed reasonable.

Moreover, an order to show hands may be considered a minimal interference with a person's freedom and therefore may fall under the "minimal intrusion doctrine."²⁵ However, I do not recommend ordering a person to show their hands unless you have a legitimate and articulated safety concern.

What if the suspect still refuses to show his hands and tries to leave? Remember, this is a consensual encounter and if you decided to detain the subject you would need reasonable suspicion. An order to show hands may be a minimal intrusion, but a detention is not.

LEGAL STANDARD

Asking a person to remove his hands from his pockets does not convert a consensual encounter into an investigative detention as long as:

- You requested that he remove his hands from his pockets; and
- You did it for officer safety purposes.

Ordering a person to remove his hands from his pockets may not convert a consensual encounter into an investigative detention if:

- You had a legitimate safety reason for ordering it; and
- You articulate that ordering the person to remove his hands was a minimal intrusion of his freedom.²⁶

2.6 Transporting to Police Station

There is no Fourth Amendment violation if you consensually transport a subject to the police station for a consensual interview or to a crime scene. The key is that the subject's consent must be freely and voluntarily given.

LEGAL STANDARD

You may voluntarily transport a person in a police vehicle. However, if the person is a suspect to a crime and you are transporting the person for an interview, remember:

- Make it clear to the person that he is not under arrest;
- Seek consent to pat down the suspect for weapons, if the pat down is denied, do not pat down and you probably should not transport.

²⁶ U.S. v. Enslin, 327 F.3d 788 (9th Cir. Cal. 2003).

CASE EXAMPLES

No violation when a person agrees to accompany police

Appellate courts have held that when a person agrees to accompany the police to a station for an interrogation or some other purpose, the Fourth Amendment is not violated.²⁷

No seizure after agreeing to accompany police to station and stay for five hours

No seizure where defendant went with police to station and stayed there five hours before probable cause developed for his arrest.²⁸

Detention ended when suspect consented to go to police station

Law enforcement officer's Terry stop of automobile ended when defendant, who was riding in automobile, agreed to go to police station, rather than when defendant was arrested several hours later.²⁹

2.7 Consent to Search

Absent good reason, you should routinely seek consent to search a person or his property even if you have reasonable suspicion or probable cause. Why? Because this will add an extra layer of protection to your case. For example, let's imagine you have probable cause to search a vehicle for drugs but still receive consent to search, the prosecution essentially needs to prove that consent was freely and voluntarily given.³⁰ If that fails, the prosecutor can fall back on your probable cause.

Without consent your case depends entirely on articulating P.C. Why not have both? Plus, juries like to see officers asking for consent. Either way, do your prosecutor a solid and write a complete and articulate report.

LEGAL STANDARD

Asking a person for consent to search does not convert the encounter into an investigative detention as long as:

- The person's consent was freely and voluntarily given;
- He had apparent authority to give consent to search the area or item; and
- You did not exceed the scope provided, express or implied. Scope is determined by objectively viewing the situation from the suspect's position.³¹ Where would a reasonable person think you would search? It is not based only on where police think evidence would be found.
- Courts may look at four factors when evaluating whether or not the scope of search was exceeded: time, duration, area, and intensity.³²

²⁸ Craig v. Singletary, 27 F.3d 1030 (11th Cir.1997).

³¹ State v. Ruscetta, 123 Nev. 299 (2007).

³² See State v. Ruscetta, 123 Nev. 299 (2007).

- Time: Was the search executed within the time frame contemplated by the suspect?
- Duration: Was the search unreasonably lengthy?
- Area: Did officers search areas where the item sought could be found?
- Intensity: Did the methods used to search exceed the bounds of consent?

Things that help consent:³³

- Telling person they do not have to allow search
- Telling person what you are searching for
- Fewer officers
- Plain clothes
- No weapons displayed
- No trickery such as hinting “no prosecution”
- Relatively short contact before consent given
- Friendly tone of voice, not threatening or commanding.
- Giving Miranda warnings (especially if person is in custody)
- All factors about person giving consent such as: age, experience with the police, physical and mental condition, fluency in English.

Things that hurt consent:³⁴

- Display of weapons or hand on weapon
- Large number of police, especially uniformed
- Deceit or trickery about either purpose or outcome
- Officer’s threatening demeanor, tone of voice
- A claim that police have authority to do the search anyway such as false claim that police have a warrant
- Negatives about person giving consent (young, lower intelligence, drunk, poor English).

CASE EXAMPLES

“I do not care”

Suspect was stopped for speeding. He was suspected of drug possession and officer asked for consent to search. Suspect responded, “I do not care.” Search revealed crack cocaine. Suspect’s statement implied consent to search.³⁵

Note: this type of consent is not ideal and officers should try to get unambiguous consent to search.

Pat down of suspect who wanted to get out of vehicle upheld

Vehicle was stopped for an equipment violation. Driver wanted to get out and see proof that his taillight was broken. Officer said only on the condition that he be subject to a pat down. Suspect said, “that was fine” and stepped out. Pat down revealed drugs. Suspect voluntarily consented to pat down.³⁶

Time: Search of van two days after written consent received was upheld as reasonable

In-custody suspect gave written consent to search van for forensic evidence of a rape. Van was searched two days later by different agents. Under these particular circumstances, the time of the search was reasonable.³⁷ Note: Ideally, the suspect would have been told the search would be executed two days later. But since he was in custody and never revoked consent, the court upheld it.

Duration: Request for a “real quick” search exceeded after 15 minutes and unscrewing speaker box

With defendant agreeing to the officer’s request to “check (defendant’s car) real quick and get you on your way,” the scope of that consent was exceeded at some point before the search had continued for fifteen minutes without finding anything, and certainly when the officer later pulled a box from the trunk and removed the back panel to the box by unscrewing some screws.³⁸

Area: Directly “touching” genitals outside implied consent

Officer got consent to search for drugs and “within seconds” reached down the defendant’s crotch and felt the suspect’s genital area searching for drugs. This area was not included in the consent to search. Note, searching “near” genital area is often upheld.³⁹

Intensity: Damaging property requires “express consent”

Officer got consent to search for drugs and opened a “tamales in gravy” can, drugs were found inside. Since the officer “rendered the can useless” express permission was required.⁴⁰

2.8 Third-Party Consent

You may seek consent to search a residence from co-occupants or others in control of property belonging to another person. However, the situation changes when there is a present non-consenting co-occupant. If one occupant tells you to “Come on in and bring your friends!” and another yells “Get the hell out, I’m watching Netflix!” Well, you must stay out.

What about areas under the exclusive control of the consentor? For example, the “cooperative” tenant says you can still search his bedroom? Or a shed that he has exclusive control over in the backyard? There is no case that deals directly with this issue, but if the area is truly under the exclusive control of the consenting party, and you can articulate that the non-consenting party has no reasonable expectation of privacy in that area, it would likely be reasonable to search

³⁷ U.S. v. White, 617 F.2d 1131 (5th Cir. 1989).

³⁸ People v. Cantor, 149 Cal. App. 4th 961 (2007).

⁴⁰ U.S. v. Osage, 235 F.3d 518 (10th Cir. 2000).

just that area. But one issue remains, you still may not be able to access the area under the cooperative tenant’s control without walking through common areas—common areas would still be off limits because the non-consenting party has authority over them.

The best practice is to wait until the non-consenting occupant left the residence and then seek consent from the cooperative occupant. In other words, if the non-consenting occupant goes to work, store, or is lawfully removed, the remaining occupant can consent to search. Still, do not search areas under the exclusive control of the non-consenting party. This may include file cabinets, “man-caves,” purses, backpacks, and so forth.

Finally, if the consenting party has greater authority over the residence, then police may rely on that consent. For example, if a casual visitor or babysitter objected to police entry, it may be overruled by the homeowner. Remember, you may not search personal property under the exclusive control of the visitor or babysitter.

LEGAL STANDARD

Spouses and Co-Occupants:

Spouses or co-occupants may consent to search inside a home if:

- The person has apparent authority;
- Consent is only given for common areas, areas under his exclusive control, or areas or things the person has authorized access to; and
- A non-consenting spouse or co-occupant with the same or greater authority is not present.

Note: The consenting party does not need to be present.⁴¹

Articulating Greater Authority:

An occupant with greater authority over the premises may consent to search even if the objecting occupant is present if:

- The co-occupant had greater authority over the area or item searched (e.g., parents versus child); and
- Your search did not exceed the scope provided by the consenting occupant.

Note: A mature child can consent to search common areas or exclusive areas/item under his control. A child cannot consent to search private areas like parents’ bedroom.⁴²

⁴¹ Casteel v. State, 122 Nev. 356 (2018).

⁴² See Georgia v. Randolph, 547 U.S. 103 (2006).

CASE EXAMPLES

If non-consenting occupant is arrested or leaves, remaining occupant may consent to search despite prior objection

Police could conduct warrantless search of defendant’s apartment following defendant’s arrest based on consent to the search by a woman who also occupied the apartment, although defendant had objected to the search prior to his arrest and was absent at the time of the woman’s consent because of his arrest.⁴³

“The consent of one who possesses common authority over premises or effects” generally “is valid as against the absent, non-consenting person with whom that authority is shared.”⁴⁴

If an occupant invites police inside, police may assume other occupants would not object unless they speak up

“[S]hared tenancy is understood to include an ‘assumption of risk,’ that fellow roommates will consent to search common areas.”⁴⁵

2.9 Mistaken Authority to Consent

Sometimes you may think you are dealing with someone who has the authority to consent, but later find out you were wrong. For example, the consent was received from a guest, not homeowner. Here, courts will look to see if your mistake was reasonable.

However, ignorance is not bliss: “[O]fficers cannot use the apparent authority doctrine to justify a warrantless search when they fail to make a sufficient inquiry into the consenting party’s ‘use, access, or control over’ the area to be searched,”⁴⁶ especially when circumstances exist that would lead a reasonable person to question the person’s authority.

For example, if an adult female answers the door and consents to search and cops look around the apartment and it is fairly obvious only a man lives there, then courts expect officers to stop searching and ask more questions about her connection to the apartment. In the end, she may be an overnight guest with no apparent authority over the defendant’s property.

⁴⁵ Georgia v. Randolph, 547 U.S. 103 (2006).

⁴⁶ Lastine v. State, 134 Nev. 538 (Nev. App. 2018).

LEGAL STANDARD

If you mistakenly receive consent from a person who had “apparent authority,” courts may employ a three-part analysis to determine if your mistake was reasonable.⁴⁷

- Did you believe some untrue fact;
- Was it objectively reasonable for you to believe that the fact was true under the circumstances at the time; and
- If true, would the consent giver have had actual authority?

CASE EXAMPLES

Simply claiming to live at a home may not be enough without more info:

Even if person claims to live at a home, “the surrounding circumstances could conceivably be such that a reasonable person would doubt its truth and not act upon it without further inquiry.”⁴⁸

Chapter 3

Investigative Detentions

3.1 Specific Factors to Consider

In determining whether you have reasonable suspicion, consider the following factors. If one or more of these factors exist, articulate them in your report.

Remember that courts use the “totality of the circumstances” test when determining whether you had reasonable suspicion to detain a person. Therefore, it is in your best interest to articulate as many factors as possible in your report. That way, courts have enough information to rule in your favor.

LEGAL STANDARD

Specific factors you should consider include:

- Physical descriptions and clothing: Matching descriptions and clothing will certainly help, especially specifics characteristic like logos on clothing.
- Proximity to crime scene: The closer the better.
- Close in time: The sooner the detention is made after the crime the better (along with other factors).
- Nighttime: Activity late at night, especially in residential areas or closed business districts, is often more suspicious than in daytime;¹
- High-crime area: An area’s reputation for criminal activity is an appropriate factor in assessing R.S.²;
- Identity profiling: Race, age, religion, etc. may only be used to support R.S. if you have specific suspect attributes;³
- Unprovoked flight: Flight is a significant factor in assessing R.S., and combined with another factor, like a high-crime area, may justify a detention;⁴
- Training and experience: Your training and experience is possibly one of the most important factors in assessing reasonable suspicion. For example, if you believe a suspect is lying, this can help establish R.S. or P.C.⁵ Still, the key is to translate these experiences in your report. The court needs to know what you know. Otherwise, what separates you from John Q Citizen? Articulate, articulate, articulate.
- Information from reliable sources: You can use information from reliable sources. Reliable sources include fellow police officers, citizen informers not involved in criminal conduct, confidential informants if proved reliable, and so forth;⁶
- Anonymous tips: If a reliable source provides information, but they don’t want to get involved or be known, they are not truly “anonymous” since you know who they are. A true anonymous tip is from someone whose identity is unknown. Before acting on anonymous tips, you need to prove the information is reliable through an independent investigation;⁷

- 9-1-1 calls: The Supreme Court has held that 9-1-1 callers are rarely “anonymous” because dispatch can trace the call and tipsters can be charged with a false report.⁸ Still, whether or not you can make the stop depends on the totality of the circumstances.

CASE EXAMPLES

Presence in high-crime area, by itself, is not RS

Officers did not have reasonable suspicion to detain or search the defendant on nothing more than the defendant’s proximity to a high-crime area. The defendant’s presence near a home in a high crime area where a search warrant was being executed carried little weight as the officers did not see the defendant flee from the home nor did they recognize him as a suspect in the investigation.⁹

Standard of review

“In determining the reasonableness of a stop, the evidence is viewed under the totality of the circumstances and in the context of the law enforcement officer’s training and experience.” However, these factors must be articulated in your report.¹⁰

3.2 Detaining a Suspect

If you have an articulable reasonable suspicion that a suspect is involved in criminal activity, you may briefly detain him in order to “maintain the status quo” and investigate.¹¹ Courts use the “status quo” language because it implies that you are not really doing anything to the suspect, besides taking some of his time. This distinction is important because all Fourth Amendment intrusions must be reasonable. If all you are doing is temporarily detaining a suspect, versus conducting a full search or other arrest-like behavior, then it’s more likely to be considered reasonable.

⁸ See Navarette v. California, 134 S.Ct. 1683 (2014).

¹⁰ State v. Rincon, 122 Nev. 1170 (2006).

¹¹ Terry v. Ohio, 392 U.S. 1 (1968).

 LEGAL STANDARD

A suspect may be detained when:

- You can articulate facts and circumstances that would lead a reasonable officer to believe the suspect has, is, or is about to be involved in criminal activity;
- You use the minimal amount of force necessary to detain a cooperative suspect;
- Once the stop is made, you must diligently pursue a means of investigation that will confirm or dispel your suspicions;
- If your suspicions are dispelled, the person must be immediately released or the stop converted into a consensual encounter.

 CASE EXAMPLES

Long wait for K9 held reasonable under the circumstances

A 31-minute wait for drug dog was not an unreasonable after trooper developed R.S. for narcotics, was denied consent, and acted diligently in pursuit of his investigation.¹²

Detention of man with axe at 3 a.m. reasonable

Cops had R.S. to stop man with axe at 3 a.m., though no “axe crimes” were reported. “Some activity is so unusual . . . that it cries out for investigation.”¹³

3.3 Officer Safety Detentions

The vast majority of investigative detentions occur because you believe the person detained is involved in criminal activity. However, a detention based on officer safety concerns is also lawful “when an individual’s actions give the appearance of potential danger to the officer.”¹⁴ These detentions are often for people connected to the target suspect, such as lookouts.

 LEGAL STANDARD

A subject may be detained for officer safety when:

- You can articulate facts and circumstances that would lead a reasonable officer to believe the subject is a potential danger;
- You use the minimal amount of force necessary to detain the subject; and
- Once a pat down is conducted and no weapons are discovered, the subject should be released or converted to a consensual encounter unless the subject poses another risk, such as wanting to physically attack the officers.

¹² U.S. v. Lyons, 486 F.3d 367 (8th Cir. 2007).

¹³ People v. Forensic, 64 Cal. App. 4th 186 (1998).

¹⁴ People v. Mendoza, 52 Cal.4th 1056 (2011).

CASE EXAMPLES

Detention based on legitimate officer safety upheld

“A consensual encounter may turn into a lawful detention when an individual’s actions give the appearance of potential danger to the officer ... There is no question that a perfectly reasonable apprehension of danger may arise long before the officer is possessed of adequate information to justify taking a person into custody for the purpose of prosecuting him for a crime.”¹⁵

3.4 Detaining Victims or Witnesses

Generally, you cannot force a victim or witness to cooperate with your investigation. It is a “settled principle that while the police have the right to request citizens to answer voluntarily questions concerning unsolved crimes they have no right to compel them to answer.”¹⁶

If you have located an uncooperative witness, and they are vital for your investigation, then identify them. Give his information to the prosecutor and let him decide whether or not the witness should be subpoenaed.

LEGAL STANDARD

A witness may be detained if:

- He is a material witness for your investigation;
- The detention should last no longer than necessary to determine his identification and whether he’s willing to cooperate with your investigation;
- If the witness is uncooperative, identify and release. Contact your prosecutor and get advice on how to proceed.

CASE EXAMPLES

Detaining victim in order to continue investigation unreasonable

It would be an unreasonable detention for an officer, after investigating and determining that a person was an injured victim rather than a suspect, to continue to detain him and to prevent him from being taken to a hospital. The officer required that he wait for an ambulance and would not allow others who had been trying to take him to a hospital to do so.¹⁷

¹⁶ Davis v. Mississippi, 394 U.S. 721 (1969).

Checkpoint to ask if they had information concerning a fatal hit-and-run did not violate Fourth Amendment.

The checkpoint's "primary law enforcement purpose was not to determine whether a vehicle's occupants were committing a crime, but to ask vehicle occupants, as members of the public, for their help in providing information about a crime in all likelihood committed by others. The police expected the information elicited to help them apprehend, not the vehicle's occupants, but other individuals."¹⁸

3.5 How Long Can Detentions Last?

Whenever you detain someone for reasonable suspicion, you must diligently pursue a means of investigation that is likely to confirm or dispel the suspicion quickly.¹⁹ Once your suspicion has been dispelled, the person must be allowed to go on his way.²⁰ At the same time, the Supreme Court has never provided a maximum duration for investigative detentions.²¹ Rather, as long as you are diligently pursuing the investigation, it should not matter that the stop took ten minutes or, in an extreme case, two hours. Each investigation is unique and different. What's more, no violation occurs simply because a least intrusive investigation could have been utilized. Instead, the means chosen must be reasonable.

Finally, if you have dispelled your suspicions but still have a "hunch" you want to pursue, convert the stop into a consensual encounter or release the suspect. Failure to do so is a Fourth Amendment violation.

LEGAL STANDARD

The duration of an investigative detention is determined by these factors:

- Once the stop is made, you must diligently pursue a means of investigation that will confirm or dispel your suspicions;
- If your suspicions are dispelled, the person must be immediately released or the stop converted into a consensual encounter.

CASE EXAMPLES

Extending stop for 25 minutes was reasonable

Original stop was for erratic driving but was appropriately extended for 25 minutes to investigate trafficking due to conflicting answers, masking odor, and other circumstances.²²

3.6 Investigative Techniques During a Stop

If you make a stop based on reasonable suspicion, you may perform various investigative techniques as long as they are reasonably related to why you stopped the person and are minimally intrusive. The techniques may also be used to continue your investigation after the person is released, not just to build probable cause to arrest. For example, you may take the suspect's picture, or quickly take in-field fingerprints, and then release the suspect and use the photo and prints to continue your investigation.

LEGAL STANDARD

You may conduct investigative techniques in the field when:

- The suspect is still lawfully detained; and
- The technique employed should be minimally intrusive.

You may demand identification if:

- The suspect is still lawfully detained;
- The identification will help to pursue your investigation.
- However, many states do not allow an arrest for only refusing to identify. Check state law.

You may capture a suspect's fingerprints in the field when:

- You have reason to believe fingerprints may have been left at the scene;
- Minimally intrusive means were used to recover the suspect's fingerprints; and
- The fingerprints will aid your investigation after the suspect is released or during the detention (e.g., mobile fingerprint reader).

CASE EXAMPLES

Police may obtain fingerprints with reasonable suspicion

"There is support ... that the Fourth Amendment would permit seizures for the purpose of fingerprinting, if there is a reasonable basis for believing that fingerprinting will establish or negate the suspect's connection with that crime."²³

Officers may open door if they cannot see through tinted windows

During a lawful traffic stop, where the vehicle's windows were so heavily tinted that the officer could not see inside, it is reasonable to open the vehicle's door in order to be able to observe the interior. The court adopted this proposition as a "bright-line" rule.²⁴

²³ Hayes v. Florida, 105 S. Ct. 1643 (1985).

²⁴ U.S. v. Stanfield, 109 F.3d 976, 981 (4th Cir. 1997).

Collective knowledge doctrine applies to Terry Stops

An Illinois state police officer had reasonable suspicion that a suspect was transporting drugs in his airplane. He passed this information onto Federal Homeland Security...who passed it on to a Wyoming officer who stopped the suspect at the airport. The court found that there was significant communication between all of the officers and that they functioned as a team. Therefore, the collective knowledge doctrine applies and the stop was lawful.²⁵

Detention became a de facto arrest after suspect provided ID proving he did not violate curfew

“Here, Officer Shelley testified that he stopped Torres because Officer Shelley thought Torres was a minor out past curfew and too young to be drinking. Once Torres produced his ID card verifying he was not a minor and over the age of 21, the suspicion for the original encounter was cured and Officer Shelley no longer had reasonable suspicion to detain Torres. But rather than release Torres, Officer Shelley continued to detain him, and contacted dispatch to check for warrants. The officer explained his further detention of Torres as his ‘standard practice because he ‘very often get[s] fake I.D.’s, altered information on I.D.’s, I.D.’s that resemble the person but is not truly that person.’ However, there is no evidence to show that Torres’s ID card was fake or altered in any way. [Therefore, the encounter] transformed into an illegal seizure....”²⁶

3.7 Identifications - in the Field

Courts are scrutinizing police identification procedures more than they have in the past. One reason is because research has shown that eyewitnesses are easily swayed by suggestive practices. For example, if police make an investigative detention on an armed robbery suspect, it would be improper to say to the victim, “We have the perpetrator, but we still need you to ID him.”

You may also conduct a “show-up” between the suspect and witness under a few circumstances. Usually, these show-ups are conducted soon after the crime has occurred when police have detained a suspect (on-scene or in the vicinity).

Remember, it is vital that you stay as neutral and detached as possible when it comes to identification procedures.

LEGAL STANDARD

A suspect may be required to participate in solo in-field “show-up” if:

- The procedure is not overly suggestive of guilt (e.g., not surrounding suspect with cops, if safe, removing handcuffs, and not telling the witness that the suspect is the perpetrator).

²⁵ U.S. v. Latorre, 893 F.3d 744 (10th Cir. 2018).

²⁶ Torres v. State, 131 Nev. 11 (2016).

CASE EXAMPLES

In field show-up was not overly suggestive

Where victim was around assailant for about 30 minutes, and could see him under artificial lighting, described him before show-up, said “I do not think I could ever forget” his unique appearance, and so forth, the following in field show-up was not overly suggestive.²⁷

3.8 Unprovoked Flight

If you are patrolling a “high crime” area and a person suddenly, and without provocation, runs upon seeing you, then this may be sufficient to conduct an investigative detention in order to determine whether or not he is involved in criminal activity. Unprovoked flight, by itself, does not provide sufficient reason to conduct a pat down.²⁸ You need to articulate something more, such as a known gang member, history of violence, and so forth for a pat down.

Finally, this rule may also include wealthy areas where a rash of recent burglaries have occurred, or a business district when all the stores are closed. Articulate, articulate, articulate.

LEGAL STANDARD

A suspect that flees upon seeing you, may be detained if:

- There is some criminal activity associated with area;
- Upon seeing you or a readily-apparent police vehicle, the suspect suddenly, and without provocation;
- Engages in headlong flight indicative of a guilty mind; and
- You use a reasonable amount of force necessary to detain the suspect.

CASE EXAMPLES

Unprovoked flight away from police may be suspicious evasive behavior

“Refusal to cooperate, by itself, does not furnish reasonable suspicion. But unprovoked flight is simply not a mere refusal to cooperate. Flight by its very nature, is not ‘going about one’s business’; in fact, it is just the opposite.”²⁹

²⁷ Neil v. Biggers, 409 U.S. 188 (1972).

²⁹ Illinois v. Wardlow, 528 U.S. 119 (2000); see also State v. Stinnett, 104 Nev. 398 (1988).

3.9 Detentions Based on an Anonymous Tip

You may make an investigative detention based on an anonymous tip if the information has some indicia of reliability and, where appropriate, the information is independently corroborated. The courts will use the totality of the circumstances test and it's vital you articulate all pertinent facts and circumstances in your report.

One of the best methods to corroborate information is to determine whether the tipster shared something unknown to the general public and therefore represents "inside" knowledge. For example, if a tipster shared that a red Chevy truck was going to buy drugs at a particular gas station at 1 p.m., this information is easily corroborated. If the truck shows up at the time and place stated, that is not something the general public would know.

On the other hand, if the tipster said the red Chevy truck in the Walmart parking lot is dealing drugs, you would need to know more. Any member of the public could see the truck. It does not predict any future conduct.³⁰

LEGAL STANDARD

A suspect may be detained based an anonymous tip if:

- The tip had an indicia of reliability;³¹ and
- The tip was sufficiently corroborated³² to show that the caller had information not readily available to the general public.
- Anonymous tips to 911 are presumed reliable if the caller may be identified through subscriber information.³³

CASE EXAMPLES

Anonymous report that 25 people were being loud and displaying handguns justified Terry Stop, despite group being smaller and quieter

An anonymous 911 call, reporting that a group of 25 people were being loud and displaying handguns in a parking lot at a location where violent crime and drug activity were regularly reported, supported a reasonable suspicion that a crime was in progress or about to be committed and justified a Terry Stop. Even though the group at the scene was smaller and quieter than reported, and was not brandishing weapons, nature of call required a lower level of corroboration. Additionally, five-minute response time could have accounted for the change in the number of people present and their activities.³⁴

³¹ Navarette v. California, 134 S. Ct. 1683 (2014).

³² Alabama v. White, 496 U.S. 325 (1990).

³³ Navarette v. California, 134 S. Ct. 1683 (2014).

³⁴ U.S. v. Williams, 731 F.3d 678 (7th Cir. 2013).

Reality that some facts could not be corroborated due to dark tinted windows was considered in whether stop was reasonable

Reasonable suspicion existed when an anonymous tip stated that three black males, one of whom had a gun and wore a hooded sweater, would be found in a four-door gray Cadillac in the parking lot of a particular fast food restaurant. The officers corroborated the presence of the vehicle at that location, but could not corroborate more due to the vehicle's darkly tinted windows and its unusual location in a distant area of the parking lot.³⁵

Generalized tip was not enough for reasonable suspicion stop

Police officers did not have a reasonable, articulable, and individualized suspicion that the suspect was engaged in criminal activity, where they only had an anonymous tip that a male matching the suspect's description was in possession of a gun. The suspect was located in a high-crime neighborhood in which a shooting had occurred over one hour earlier, and it was late at night; the suspect's failure to comply with the order to show his hands could not be considered because it occurred after the moment of the seizure, and his few steps backward were entirely consistent with a surprised reaction and even acquiescence.³⁶

3.10 Handcuffing and Use of Force

Generally, if you handcuff a suspect, point a firearm, or use force during an investigative detention, it will likely be deemed an arrest requiring probable cause. Exceptions exist, but you need to have legitimate reasons. If you make a reasonable suspicion stop on a suspect you believe is about to pull a gun on you, then of course you get point your firearm on them and conduct a pat down! Your safety comes first but articulate that in your report. Similarly, if you believe a suspect is about to run, then handcuff him. Again, articulate why in your report.

LEGAL STANDARD

If a suspect fights or flees during an investigative detention, then:

- You may use a reasonable amount of force to detain the suspect;
- The suspect's flight upon a lawful order to stop, or a battery upon an officer, may be probable cause to arrest; and
- Deadly force cannot be used to detain a suspect, unless the suspect poses a deadly force threat to you or others.

Handcuffing a suspect is appropriate when:

- The suspect appears to be a flight risk; or
- The suspect appears to be a danger to himself or others.
- Handcuffs are removed when no longer justified.

³⁵ U.S. v. Bold, 19 F.3d 99 (2d Cir. 1994).

³⁶ U.S. v. Lowe, 791 F.3d 424 (3d Cir. 2015).

CASE EXAMPLES

Frisk may still be reasonable, even if suspect is handcuffed

Where there is reasonable suspicion that a suspect is armed (thus justifying a frisk under Terry) and where the facts make it reasonable to handcuff the suspect during the investigative seizure, the fact that the suspect is handcuffed does not negate the right of the officer to conduct the frisk.³⁷

Mere handcuffing does not always indicate an arrest

The court stated that, “handcuffing a suspect does not necessarily dictate a finding of custody.” The use of handcuffs “does not necessarily convert a Terry stop into an arrest.”³⁸

3.11 Pat down for Weapons

A pat down (or “Terry frisk”) is a limited search of a suspect’s outer clothing for weapons. You must articulate two things before you can conduct a pat down. First, the investigative stop itself must be lawful (based on individualized reasonable suspicion). Second, you must articulate that the person is armed and dangerous.

Additionally, if you feel an object that may be a weapon, but you are not positive, you may retrieve and inspect it.

LEGAL STANDARD

A suspect may be frisked for weapons under the following circumstances:

- If the suspect is lawfully or unlawfully armed with a weapon, the weapon may be secured and a pat down of outer clothing conducted for additional weapons;
- If no weapon is visible, and you believe the suspect is armed and dangerous, a pat down of outer clothing may be conducted; or
- If the suspect was stopped for a violent crime or one involving weapons, a pat down may usually be conducted.

CASE EXAMPLES

Officer does not need to be certain

“The officer need not be absolutely certain that the individual is armed; the issue is whether a reasonably prudent man in the circumstances would be warranted in the belief that his safety or that of others was in danger.”³⁹

³⁷ U.S. v. Sanders, 994 F.2d 200 (5th Cir. 1993).

³⁹ Terry v. Ohio, 392 U.S. 1 (1968).

Relevant considerations

Relevant considerations may include: observing a visible bulge in a person's clothing that could indicate the presence of a weapon; seeing a weapon in an area the suspect controls, such as a car; "sudden movements" suggesting a potential assault or "attempts to reach for an object that was not immediately visible;" "evasive and deceptive responses" to an officer's questions about what an individual was up to; unnatural hand postures that suggest an effort to conceal a firearm; and whether the officer observes anything during an encounter with the suspect that would dispel the officer's suspicions regarding the suspect's potential involvement in a crime or likelihood of being armed.⁴⁰

Refusal to remove hands is a factor justifying frisk

"The officers, after initiating the stop, twice ordered that [defendant] remove his hands from his pockets, which he refused to do. The report of an assault in progress, the matching description, and the additional factors that supported the stop provided the officers with reason to believe that [defendant] was armed and dangerous, and that the refusal to remove his hands was an effort to conceal a weapon."⁴¹

Stop in gang-ridden area helped justify pat down

"[T]he area in which the incident occurred gave police officers particular reason to be concerned about the possibility of gun-related violence. The neighborhood was known as a high-crime area of the city; but more importantly, there were indications of gang activity, recent reports of shots fired, and the occurrence of a drive-by shooting with two victims two days earlier and one block away from the location where the men were discovered drinking. These specific and recent indicia of violence, including gun-related violence, increased the odds that an individual detained at this location for apparent criminal activity (even a petty offense like the one at issue here) might be armed."⁴²

"Tap" by officer to open hand was a frisk requiring justification

Police officer's "tap" of the defendant's wrist to open closed-hand was a frisk that constituted a search subject to the protections of the Fourth Amendment.⁴³

Drug dealing and weapons go hand-in-hand

"Illegal drugs and guns are a lot like sharks and remoras. And just as a diver who spots a remora is well-advised to be on the lookout for sharks, an officer investigating cocaine and marijuana sales would be foolish not to worry about weapons."⁴⁴

3.12 Pat down Based on Anonymous Tips

A pat down (or "Terry frisk") is a limited search for weapons. If you receive an anonymous tip that someone is illegally carrying a weapon, you must prove that the tip is reliable.⁴⁵ Typically, this means that the tipster has an indicia of reliability and the information is independently corroborated. See previous sections on how to do this.

Here’s what to watch out for in this area: citizens boldly claiming that someone illegally possesses a weapon, without evidence, cannot be acted upon. Otherwise, a person could easily harass someone he did not like by claiming, without proof, that someone is illegally carrying a gun. This does not mean the tipster has to see the gun with his own eyes. But he would need to provide you with inside information, information that the general public would not know.

For example, a tipster tells you that he overheard that John Doe is going to burglarize ABC jewelry store at two p.m., and he is armed with a gun. You look up John Doe and he’s on parole for robbery. You then see John Doe walking up to ABC jewelry store at 3:30 (criminals have horrible time management). You could lawfully detain and frisk Doe based on this tip, even though the tipster never saw the gun and remained anonymous.

LEGAL STANDARD

A suspect may be frisked based on an anonymous tip if:

- The call states or implies that the suspect is engaged in criminal activity;
- The tip indicates the suspect is armed and dangerous;
- The tip had an indicia of reliability; and
- The tip was sufficiently corroborated to show that the caller had information not readily available to the general public.

3.13 Plain Touch Doctrine

Under the plain touch (or “feel”) doctrine, you can seize any item that is immediately apparent as contraband or evidence if you are conducting a lawful pat down for weapons.⁴⁶

LEGAL STANDARD

Evidence or contraband discovered during a frisk is admissible if:

- Your frisk was lawfully conducted and limited to weapons;
- When you felt the item, it was immediately apparent that the item was contraband or evidence of a crime; and
- You did not build probable cause by manipulating the item.

⁴⁵ Fla. v. J.L., 529 U.S. 266 (2000).

⁴⁶ Horton v. California, 496 U.S. 128 (1990).

CASE EXAMPLES

Suspect has no reasonable expectation of privacy in item immediately apparent as contraband during pat down

“The rationale of the plain-view doctrine is that if contraband is left in open view and is observed by a police officer from a lawful vantage point, there has been no invasion of a legitimate expectation of privacy and thus no “search” within the meaning of the Fourth Amendment...The same can be said of tactile discoveries of contraband. If a police officer lawfully pats down a suspect’s outer clothing and feels an object whose contour or mass makes its identity immediately apparent, there has been no invasion of the suspect’s privacy beyond that already authorized by the officer’s search for weapons; if the object is contraband, its warrantless seizure would be justified by the same practical considerations that inhere in the plain-view context.”⁴⁷

Officer reasonably believed “cylindrical-shaped” object was crack pipe

During a pat down, “the officer felt an object which, based on its contour and mass and based on his experience with such contraband, he correctly believed to be a crack pipe.”⁴⁸

3.14 Involuntary Transportation

Typically, involuntarily transportation of a suspect back to the crime scene for identification⁴⁹ will be considered a formal arrest requiring probable cause.⁵⁰ But like all good rules, there are exceptions.

During some particularly serious investigations you may have no choice but to transport the suspect. Just like the use of firearms or handcuffs will not always convert an investigative detention into an arrest, transporting a suspect against his will does not always equal arrest (though it usually does, so be careful here).

In practice, involuntary transportation occurs with some frequency. Sometimes a suspect is found a couple of blocks from the crime scene and then (involuntarily) transported back for an interview or witness identification.

Remember, without consent, probable cause, or exigency, this is an arrest. If this happens, one doctrine may save the day—the collective knowledge doctrine (in this book). If another officer on-scene developed probable cause before the transportation took place, the transportation is lawful even though the transporting officer did not have his own P.C. You may still have a Miranda issue.⁵¹ But at least you would not have an illegal arrest.

⁴⁸ Ingram v. City of Los Angeles, 418 F. Supp. 2d 1182 (C.D. Cal. 2006).

⁴⁹ Hayes v. Florida, 470 U.S. 811 (1985).

⁵¹ Kaupp v. Texas, 538 U.S. 626 (2003).

 LEGAL STANDARD

Police may not involuntarily transport a suspect away from the location where he was stopped unless:

- You have legitimate exigent circumstances (rare). Involuntary transportation without exigency is an arrest, requiring probable cause.

 CASE EXAMPLES

Transport away from “hostile crowd” upheld

A hostile crowd, in a high-crime area, gathered around detention stop. Officer’s involuntary movement away from scene upheld.⁵²

Valid transportation to find out what happened to children

A female walked into the police station and said that she had “done something very bad” to her children. An officer then told her she was not under arrest, but that he would drive her home to find out what happened. Officer discovered three of the six children were shot and killed. This was a lawful detention, not an arrest.⁵³

Transport to ID suspect upheld in gang rape

An officer investigating a brutal gang rape stopped two suspects. They did not speak English and the officer handcuffed them and transported them to the hospital for identification. The involuntary transport was reasonable under the circumstances and evidence was not suppressed.⁵⁴

Involuntary transportation for questioning unlawful

Officers picked up suspect, took him downtown for questioning, and eventually obtained a confession. The officers contended that the suspect was just being “detained” for questioning, but the Supreme Court disagreed, ruling that the movement resulted in the arrest of the defendant—Confession suppressed.⁵⁵

Moving high-level trafficking suspect from sidewalk into surveillance house was justified for safety concerns

“The most compelling factor supporting a finding that Medina was arrested was the agents’ transport of Medina from the street to the surveillance residence for questioning ... Even so, an officer may move a suspect or use greater force against a suspect, without probable cause, if safety concerns justify such precautions.”⁵⁶

⁵⁶ U.S. v. Lopez-Medina, 461 F.3d 724, 740 (6th Cir. 2006).

Transportation reasonable where lack of officers and desire to not leave patrol vehicles unattended

Police acted reasonably in transporting suspect brief distance to scene of reported burglary in patrol car as part of Terry stop, where it was reasonable to believe that victim might be able to identify perpetrator, and, although officers could have walked witness to scene, doing so would have required more officers, and might have required leaving patrol car unattended in high-crime area.⁵⁷

3.15 Detaining People Who Publicly Record Police Officers

Generally, you have no right to stop a person from recording your public activities. Do not detain the person unless you have specific articulable reasonable suspicion he is engaged in criminal activity. This is rarely the case and 99% of the time these people want to catch you doing something stupid and have it go viral on YouTube. Don't fall for it.

Additionally, if you lawfully detain a person who is recording you, and you have R.S. that he is dangerous, you can order him to put his phone away for officer safety purposes. But do not order him to stop recording unless you can articulate legitimate officer safety reason or distraction (e.g., Facebook live).

If a non-detained person is interfering with your investigation, like yelling or too close to the scene, give him orders to quiet down or move back. But be professional and explain what you want done and why.

LEGAL STANDARD

A person may video or audio record if: (think three P's)

- He is recording a public officer;
- In a public place;
- Doing his public duties; but
- A lawfully stopped person may be ordered to put the device away or stop recording for legitimate safety or investigative purposes (use good judgment).

CASE EXAMPLES*Filming a public officer, doing a public act, in a public place, is protected

Filming or videotaping of government officials engaged in their duties in a public place, including police officers performing their responsibilities, is protected by First Amendment.⁵⁸

Chapter 4

Arrests

4.1 Lawful Arrest

Officers make millions of warrantless arrests every year. Though there may be additional state laws in play (e.g., cannot arrest for misdemeanor not committed in your presence), the Fourth Amendment is not violated as long as you have probable cause, authority to make the arrest, and lawful access to the suspect.¹

You are not required to obtain an arrest warrant when the suspect is located in a public place.² A public place would be described as any place where you have a lawful right to be.³

Additionally, the arrest is lawful even if the charged offense is dropped for lack of probable cause as long as there was probable cause for another offense, even if uncharged.⁴

LEGAL STANDARD

A lawful arrest has three elements:

- You must have probable cause that a crime has been committed;
- You need legal authority to make the arrest; and
- You must have lawful access to the suspect.

There are two ways to effectuate an arrest:

- You may use any physical force with the intent to arrest; or
- You may make a show of authority sufficient enough to make a reasonable person believe he was under arrest.

CASE EXAMPLES

If the arrest is based on any probable cause, arrest is constitutional

“The standard of probable cause applies to all arrests, without the need to ‘balance’ the interests and circumstances involved in particular situations. If an officer has probable cause to believe that an individual has committed even a very minor criminal offense in his presence, he may, without violating the Fourth Amendment, arrest the offender.” Note, still abide by your agency/state rules.⁵

Warrantless arrest inside private office unlawful

It was illegal for police, without consent, exigent circumstances, or a warrant, to go past a receptionist and enter the locked office of an attorney to arrest him for selling cocaine.⁶

Probable cause existed based on smelling “burnt” marijuana even though only “fresh” marijuana was discovered

A police officer’s testimony that he smelled the odor of burning marijuana and saw smoke coming out of the truck parked in defendant’s driveway was not required to be corroborated by physical evidence of burnt marijuana from inside the truck in order to show that the officer had probable cause to conduct the warrantless search of the truck, where the officer’s failure to locate ash or burnt marijuana cigarettes inside the truck did not render his testimony inherently incredible, since officers did find over 350 grams of non-burnt marijuana inside the truck.⁷

Suspect must be physically touched or submit to your authority

“There can be no arrest without either touching or submission.” Therefore, if suspect runs away he is not arrested until you catch him.⁸

4.2 Entry into Home with Arrest Warrant

An arrest warrant allows an officer to not only arrest the suspect in a public place, but inside his home as well. In essence, the arrest warrant is really two warrants: a warrant to arrest the suspect and a warrant to search for the suspect at his home. However, before entering a suspect’s home you must have reason to believe he is presently home and knock and announce rules apply before entering. Of course, the arrest warrant does not authorize a search for evidence, but plain view seizures are permissible.

Finally, these rules apply equally to all criminal arrest warrants, whether for a misdemeanor or felony.

LEGAL STANDARD

Entry into a home based on an arrest warrant is lawful when:

- You have probable cause that this is the suspect’s home, and not a third-party’s home (get a search warrant for third-party homes);
- You have reason to believe the suspect is home;
- You knock and announce;
- If articulated, protective sweeps are permissible; and
- You may look for the suspect in people-sized places, but not search for evidence, but plain view seizure applies.

⁸ California v. Hodari D., 499 U.S. 621 (1991).

CASE EXAMPLES

Arrest warrant allows entry into suspect's home, not third-party's

“Thus, for Fourth Amendment purposes, an arrest warrant founded on probable cause implicitly carries with it the limited authority to enter a dwelling in which the suspect lives when there is reason to believe the suspect is within ... [but] is plainly inapplicable when the police seek to use an arrest warrant as legal authority to enter the home of a third party to conduct a search.⁹

4.3 Warrantless Entry to Make Arrest

You cannot make a warrantless entry into a home to make an arrest without consent or exigency.¹⁰ Even if the arrest was for a violent triple-murder, you would have to articulate consent or exigency before entering.

LEGAL STANDARD

A warrantless entry into a home to make an arrest may be made under five circumstances:

Consent:

- You may enter if you have consent from an occupant with apparent authority over the premises and you make known your intention to arrest the suspect.

Hot Pursuit:

- You are in hot pursuit of a suspect believed to have committed an arrestable offense and he runs into a home (a surround and call-out may also be done for officer safety purposes). See Hot and Fresh Pursuit chapter for more information.

Fresh Pursuit:

- You are in fresh pursuit of the suspect after investigating a serious violent crime and quickly trace the suspect back to his home. See Hot and Fresh Pursuit chapter for more information.

Suspect will Escape:

- You have probable cause that the suspect committed a serious violent crime, and you reasonably believe he will escape before obtaining a warrant.

Undercover Officer - Immediate Reentry with Arrest Team:

- You are an undercover officer and conduct a narcotics transaction inside the home, you may leave and immediately reenter with an arrest team when two conditions are met: First, there must be a legitimate officer safety reason why you had to leave first, instead of summoning the arrest team into the home; and you must re-enter as soon as reasonably safe to do so.

Remember for all Uninvited Entries:

- Knock and announce rules apply; and
- You cannot search for evidence, but may make a plain view seizure.

⁹ Steagald v. U.S., 451 U.S. 204 (1981).

¹⁰ Payton v. N.Y., 445 U.S. 573 (1980).

CASE EXAMPLES

Entry to make any arrest, even for murder, requires consent, exigency, or a warrant

“To be arrested in the home involves not only the invasion attendant to all arrests but also an invasion of the sanctity of the home. This is simply too substantial an invasion to allow without a warrant, at least in the absence of exigent circumstances, even when it is accomplished under statutory authority and when probable cause is clearly present.”¹¹

Additional officers may enter if undercover officer is inside the residence

An informant and undercover police officer went to defendant’s residence to arrange a drug transaction. Defendant showed the pair a bag containing cocaine. The pair left the residence and returned with another agent, who was the purported purchaser. The door had been left ajar, so police officers entered the residence and arrested defendant.¹²

Delayed entry unlawful without exigency

“In a prosecution arising out of the purchase of stolen weapons from an undercover police officer in defendants’ home. Although the undercover officer had been voluntarily admitted into the home, he had walked outside of the house to signal uniformed officers to arrest defendants. The officers then arrested defendants within the house without first obtaining an arrest warrant, seized the weapons sold, and uncovered a rifle in their subsequent search of the house. The court held that despite the legality of the officer’s initial entry, his reentry without consent and in the absence of exigent circumstances rendered the arrest and the search incident thereto unlawful.”¹³

Immediate reentry lawful

Warrantless arrest of defendant in his residence upheld when defendant had consented to initial entry by police officer, during which time defendant committed crime in officer’s presence, after which officer left and immediately reentered with other officers to arrest defendant.¹⁴

4.4 Collective Knowledge Doctrine

The collective knowledge doctrine is one of the most powerful and important doctrines in law enforcement. It allows a single police officer to benefit from the collective knowledge of all officers working on a case. For example, if a detective asks another officer to search a vehicle for drugs, the search would be valid even if the officer conducting the search had no idea why he was authorized to search the vehicle, as long as the detective had probable cause.

¹³ People v. Garcia, 139 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 1 (Cal. App. Dep’t Super. Ct. 1982).

¹⁴ People v. Cespedes, 191 Cal. App. 3d 768 (Cal. App. 1st Dist. 1987).

ARRESTS

The key with the collective knowledge doctrine is that officers communicate with each other. This does not mean officers have to know everything about the case, but they at least have to be working together.

LEGAL STANDARD

There are two forms of collective knowledge: vertical and horizontal.

- Vertical collective knowledge occurs when one officer tells/orders/asks another officer to do something that implicates the law. For example, an officer tells his partner to pat down the suspect but the partner does not know why. This is fine as long as the first officer has a reason to order the pat down.
- Horizontal knowledge occurs under two conditions:
 - The officers must be involved in the same investigation, but may be from different departments (i.e., task forces); and
 - Officers must be in communication with each other related to the investigation.

CASE EXAMPLES

Collective knowledge doctrine applied to officer who stopped vehicle

A narcotics task force requested that an officer stop a vehicle for any observed traffic violation. Though the arresting officer only observed a traffic offense, the collective knowledge of the task force permitted the later arrest and warrantless search of the vehicle for drugs.¹⁵

Officer may wholly rely on the probable cause of a fellow officer

A police officer relied on the instruction of a fellow officer, who had probable that drugs were in a vehicle. The police officer stopped the vehicle and searched it under the automobile exception. Even though the initiating officer did not have probable cause, because he was in communication with a fellow officer that did, the stop and search were lawful.¹⁶

Intel from confidential information contributed to collective knowledge

Officers who stopped defendant for a traffic violation had probable cause to arrest him for drug trafficking; at the time of the stop, law enforcement collectively knew that a confidential informant made a controlled drug purchase from defendant five days earlier, the informant made a controlled drug payment of $5,000 to defendant on the day of the stop, and defendant engaged in what appeared to be other drug transactions shortly before the stop.¹⁷

¹⁷ U.S. v. Nickson, 628 F.3d 368 (7th Cir. 2010).

Collective knowledge doctrine controls even when agent told officer to develop his own probable cause

A DEA agent had probable cause that the defendant was in possession of drugs. He told a local officer to watch out for the defendant, and to develop his own probable cause and stop the vehicle, but the officer had no knowledge of the facts underlying the DEA's probable cause. The officer stopped the vehicle and searched it. The court held the officer had probable cause under the collective knowledge doctrine.¹⁸

Collective knowledge doctrine can also be used for investigatory detentions

Officer worked in a fast-paced, dynamic situation in an area known for drug sales, in which the officers worked together as a unified and tight-knit team. One officer developed reasonable suspicion to stop the defendant. A fellow officer, unaware of the officer's reasonable suspicion, stopped the defendant without his own individualized suspicion. The court upheld the stop under the collective knowledge doctrine.¹⁹

Supervisor's knowledge, not on scene, was too remote for collective knowledge doctrine

Knowledge of all officers on the scene is imputed to each officer in determining whether "collective knowledge" provided probable cause, but knowledge of a supervisor not on the scene cannot be imputed when the information was not communicated to those on the scene.²⁰

4.5 Meaning of "Committed in the Officer's Presence?"

If you have probable cause to believe that a person has committed even a very minor criminal offense in your presence, you may arrest the offender without violating the Fourth Amendment.²¹ Still, adhere to state law when making any arrest.

Additionally, most states require that misdemeanor crimes be committed "in the officer's presence." Under this requirement, you must perceive the acts or events which constitute the offense while they are taking place, and not just learn of them later or simply see evidence of the crime.

LEGAL STANDARD

An offense is committed within the officer's presence when:

- You observed or experienced an essential element of the crime through one of your senses, namely sight, smell, hearing, or touch.

¹⁸ U.S. v. Williams, 627 F.3d 247 (7th Cir. 2010).

²¹ Atwater v. City of Lago Vista, 532 U.S. 318 (2001).

CASE EXAMPLES

Watching shoplifting video recording did not satisfy “within the officer’s presence” requirement

An officer watched a video which clearly showed the suspect shoplifting. However, this did not satisfy the state’s requirement that misdemeanors be committed within the officer’s presence.²²

Driver’s failure to produce license, registration, and insurance was a misdemeanor committed in the officer’s presence

When the officer asked the driver for her license, she said that she did not have one and that the constitution did not require one. Her subsequent arrest was lawful as a misdemeanor committed in the officer’s presence.²³

4.6 Line-Ups

Courts are scrutinizing police identification procedures more than they have in the past. One reason is because research has shown that eyewitnesses are easily swayed by suggestive practices. For example, if police make an investigative detention on a potential armed robbery suspect, it would be improper to say to the victim, “We have the perpetrator, but we still need you to ID him.”

It’s vital that police stay as neutral and detached as possible when it comes to identification procedures.²⁴

Police may also conduct a “show-up” between the suspect and witness under a few circumstances. Usually, these show-ups are conducted soon after the crime has occurred when police have detained a suspect (on-scene or in the vicinity).

Overall, when you conduct any kind of identification procedure it’s important that you do not use words or conduct that’s overly suggestive.

LEGAL STANDARD

Photo Arrays:

A photo array (e.g., “six pack”) may be done at any time, without probable cause, and without notifying a suspect’s court-appointed counsel if:

- You minimized suggestive influences.
- You should perform double-blind line-up (i.e., officer providing pictures to witness does not know who the suspect is); and
- You should show the witness one photo at a time, not all at once. This is called absolute certainty versus relative certainty.

²⁴ Neil v. Biggers, 409 U.S. 188 (1972).

Physical Line-Ups:

A suspect may be required to participate in a physical line-up if:

- You minimized suggestive influences;
- The suspect consents to the line-up or is lawfully arrested; and
- If the suspect has been arraigned, indicted, or appointed counsel, the attorney must be notified and allowed to attend, but not control, the line-up.

In-Field Show-Up:

A suspect may be required to participate in solo in-field “show-up” if:

- You minimized suggestive influences (e.g., not surrounding suspect with cops, if safe, removing handcuffs, and not telling the witness that the suspect is the culprit).

CASE EXAMPLES

A person has no expectation of privacy in a photograph of his or her face

A person has no expectation of privacy in a photograph of his or her face. Thus, a probation officer’s conduct in taking a photograph of a defendant, allegedly at the request of law enforcement agents, which was later used by the agents in a photographic lineup during which the defendant was identified by two witnesses as the perpetrator of a bank robbery, did not violate the defendant’s Fourth Amendment rights.²⁵

Unzipping suspect’s jacket during show-up was a search

Partial unzipping and opening of suspect’s jacket so that a robbery complainant could see the sweatshirt underneath the suspect’s jacket during a show-up identification procedure was a non-protective evidentiary search that violated the Fourth Amendment.²⁶ However, it is possible that this search may have been justified under the minimal intrusion doctrine. But that was not argued in this case.

4.7 Protective Sweeps

If you make a lawful arrest inside a home, you are allowed to conduct a protective sweep.²⁷ There are three zones, or areas, you may search depending on the circumstances.

LEGAL STANDARD

A protective sweep may be made inside a home during an arrest under the following conditions:

²⁵ U.S. v. Emmett, 321 F.3d 669 (7th Cir. 2003).

²⁷ Maryland v. Buie, 494 U.S. 325 (1990).

- Zone 1: You may search areas under the immediate control of the suspect for weapons, evidence, or means of escape;
- Zone 2: You may search for people in people-sized places in adjacent areas (where the arrest occurs); and
- Zone 3: If you have reasonable suspicion that a dangerous person(s) is in the house, you may search for people in people-sized places and detain the people until the arrest is completed (not automatic! Requires articulation).

Remember: Zone 2 and 3 sweeps may never be used to search for “evidence”; only people in people-sized places. Nevertheless, you may seize evidence observed in plain view.

If you are making an arrest outside the home then you may enter the home and conduct a protect sweep under the following conditions:

- You have reasonable suspicion that a dangerous person is in the house and may attack you or the arrestee you may enter the home and detain the person until the arrest is completed.

CASE EXAMPLES

Severity of crime committed can help justify protective sweep

“(T)he type of criminal conduct underlying the arrest or search is significant in determining if a protective sweep is justified.”²⁸ Generalized safety concerns are not enough.²⁹

Protective sweep beyond adjoining areas must be justified

Protective sweeps of the areas of the home beyond adjacent areas (i.e., other rooms) of the arrest will not be upheld absent an articulable reason for believing someone in the home is present who constitutes a potential danger to the officers.³⁰

Warrantlessly entering home and seizing a domestic violence suspect’s guns is not permitted under community caretaking

“Decades ago, this Court held that a warrantless search of an impounded vehicle for an unsecured firearm did not violate the Fourth Amendment. In reaching this conclusion, the Court observed that police officers who patrol the ‘public highways’ are often called to discharge noncriminal ‘community caretaking functions,’ such as responding to disabled vehicles or investigating accidents. The question today is whether Cady’s acknowledgment of these ‘caretaking’ duties creates a standalone doctrine that justifies warrantless searches and seizures in the home. It does not.”

Justice Alito went on to say, “This case also implicates another body of law that petitioner glossed over: the so-called ‘red flag’ laws that some States are now enacting. These laws enable the police to seize guns pursuant to a court order to prevent their use for suicide or the infliction of harm on innocent persons. They typically specify the standard that must be met and the procedures that must be followed before firearms may be seized. Provisions of red flag laws may be challenged under the Fourth Amendment, and those cases may come before us. Our decision today does not address those issues.”³¹ The takeaway here is law enforcement generally needs some form of exigency to warrantlessly enter home, not just a “best practice.” Therefore, if there is no exigency or consent, get a warrant.

³⁰ U.S. v. Furrow, 229 F.3d 805 (9th Cir. Idaho 2000).

Officers lawfully conducted protective sweep inside home despite arrest occurring outside

“If the exigencies to support a protective sweep exist, whether the arrest occurred inside or outside the residence does not affect the reasonableness of the officer’s conduct. A bullet fired at an arresting officer standing outside a window is as deadly as one that is projected from one room to another.”³²

4.8 When to “Unarrest” a Suspect

There are two situations where you should unarrest a suspect. The first scenario occurs when you arrest a suspect with probable cause, but later determine they are innocent. Constitutionally, you must unarrest the suspect without unreasonable delay. The second scenario occurs when you (or supervisor) decide that continued arrest is not the best outcome for a case. This usually occurs before transportation to jail. As long as the initial arrest had P.C. and you acted reasonably (i.e., did not arrest the person just to conduct a warrantless search or to embarrass the suspect), then it’s permitted.

However, never make an arrest “just to search” and then release if you don’t find anything. This is shady and unconstitutional. Either intend to make the arrest or don’t. Pick one.

Either way make sure your report is rock solid and fully explain what you did and why you did it.

LEGAL STANDARD

An in-custody suspect must be released:

- If you discover new evidence that clearly eliminates probable cause the suspect must be released; or
- If you already booked the suspect, you must notify the prosecutor in writing.

An in-custody suspect may be release when:

- You made the arrest with the intent to book the suspect; and
- You learned of new facts or circumstances that warrant releasing the suspect with a citation or warning.
- Remember, you may not use an arrest-and-release as loophole to search the suspect without consent, exigency, or a search warrant.

³¹ Caniglia v. Strom, 141 S. Ct. 1596, 1598 (2021).

³² U.S. v. Hoyos, 892 F.2d 1387 (9th Cir. 1989).

CASE EXAMPLES

Initial arrest of burglary suspect lawful, but additional evidence showed that suspect lived at apartment, and therefore did not commit burglary

After police arrested defendant for attempted burglary of apartment based on a complaint from the alleged tenants, the landlord approached police and said that the defendant was the actual tenant, not the alleged tenants. Additionally, police found no evidence of a burglary or forced break-in. The court held, at that point police should have immediately released the defendant, since police no longer had probable cause to believe he had committed the offense of attempted burglary.³³ Remember, the original arrest here was lawful and police made the right call based on the information they had at the time. Therefore, there was no constitutional violation. But once the case falls apart and police realize they arrested the wrong person, there is no longer probable cause to maintain an arrest and release is required ... if nothing else transform the encounter to an investigative detention in needed.

Reasonable suspicion to stop car dissipated once police realized it was a different color with different suspects

Officers on the roadside at night were notified that a blue car with three black males had just robbed the victim. Police immediately saw a car matching the description and stopped it. However, once police walked up to vehicle, it was green, not blue. And instead of having three suspects, it only had two. Finally, the occupants were not black, but Hispanic. The court held at that point there was no reason to continue to detain the vehicle.³⁴

Probable cause existed to field test bag, but once multiple tests came back negative probable cause was eliminated

Search of defendant's bag on consent revealed white powder, the defendant then terminated consent. Since the white powder was believed to be illegal substance police field tested it three or four times, but all were negative, thus there was no longer probable cause to continue searching the bag.³⁵

Court dismissal of information against defendant

Here, the court dismissed the information found against the defendant because, first, the pat down "search of his pant's pocket was over broad as a pat down." In addition, the officer "did not believe that defendant had drugs," and thus the search was unjustifiable since the defendant "could have been released after his initial arrest."³⁶

³³ People v. Quarles, 88 Ill. App. 3d 340 (1980).

³⁵ Berg v. State, 384 So. 2d 292 (Fla. App. 1980).

³⁶ People v. West, 31 Cal. App. 3d 175 (1973).

4.9 “Contempt of Cop” Arrests

Do not make an arrest for “disorderly conduct” or “obstruction” primarily because a person criticizes, insults or challenges your authority. The Supreme Court has made it very clear that they expect law enforcement officers to rise above these insults. They also hold you to a higher standard when it comes to “fighting words.”

“The freedom of individuals to verbally oppose or challenge police action without risking arrest is one of the principal characteristics by which we distinguish a free nation from a police state.”³⁷

Additionally, you may be liable even if you had probable cause to arrest, but were primarily motivated to suppress free speech. The point is do not mess with people’s free speech rights.³⁸

LEGAL STANDARD

A person may not be arrested because:

- A person criticized, insulted or challenged you; or
- The arrest is primarily motivated to suppress a person’s First Amendment rights (plaintiff would need to show objective evidence that arrest was primarily motivated for retaliatory reasons if P.C. also existed).

CASE EXAMPLES

Officer criminalized First Amendment speech

Suspect yelled “Why do not you pick on somebody your own size?” while his friend was getting arrested. When officer asked if he was interfering with his duties, suspected yelled, “Why do not you pick on someone my size!” Suspect was arrested for obstruction. Court held the arrest was unlawful and police cannot criminalize First Amendment speech.³⁹

4.10 Arrests at Public Protests

Generally, be very hesitant before you take any enforcement action against a person or group who appears to be exercising their rights under the First Amendment. Courts are very quick to come down on officers who violate a person’s freedom of speech.

You usually cannot regulate the content of a person’s speech, just the time, place and manner. For example, if a group was loudly protesting in a residential neighborhood at two in the morning, it would be permissible to order that they move their protest to the main city park, away from sleeping residents.

³⁷ Houston v. Hill, 482 U.S. 451 (1987).

³⁸ Lozman v. City of Riviera Beach, 138 S. Ct. 1945 (2018). But see Nieves v. Bartlett, 139 S. Ct. 1715 (2019) (need obj. evidence of retaliatory motive).

³⁹ Houston v. Hill, 482 U.S. 451 (1987).

However, these rules must be content neutral and apply equally to all groups. “Content neutral” means police cannot regulate “what” a person says, but “how” they say it (e.g., “say whatever you want, just not with a bullhorn inside city hall”). If police need to regulate a protest they should first seek consent, if that fails, and there’s no immediate breach of the peace, consult with legal counsel.

LEGAL STANDARD

When dealing with public protests, you may:

- Only regulate legitimate time, place and manner issues during the protests;
- Generally, you may not take enforcement action based on “what” someone says, only how, when, and where they say it. Tread lightly here!

CASE EXAMPLES

Protestors at deceased soldier’s funeral protected by First Amendment

Protester’s message was vile to soldier’s father (e.g., “God loves dead soldiers”). But they did not actively disturb the funeral. Therefore, their message was protected by First Amendment.⁴⁰

4.11 Search Incident to Arrest

You have automatic authority to conduct full searches (except strip or cavity searches) once a person has been lawfully arrested.⁴¹ You may also search any items the person is going to bring with them to jail.

If you are going to take other property and store it for safekeeping, you may conduct an inventory.

LEGAL STANDARD

An arrested suspect and belongings within his “immediate control” may be searched under the following conditions:

- You are looking for weapons, evidence, contraband, or means of escape;
- The search occurs substantially at the same time and within the immediate vicinity of the arrest;
- If the search occurs later or at a different location, articulate a reason why (e.g., dangerous scene, severe weather, etc.).

⁴⁰ Snyder v. Phelps, 562 U.S. 443 (2011).

⁴¹ Chimel v. Cal., 395 U.S. 752 (1969).

CASE EXAMPLES

A citation and release, no matter how serious the crime, will not justify a search

Only full custodial arrest gives right to conduct search incident to arrest. Being placed in a patrol car does not automatically mean the person is arrested. Therefore, you cannot search the person, though a pat down may be allowed if you articulate the person may be armed and dangerous.⁴²

Probable cause to arrest must come before the search

Where the search provided probable cause for the arrest, the search could not be justified as incident to a lawful arrest.⁴³

Search of property within “immediate control” lawful despite no possibility of access

These searches are lawful “without requiring the arresting officer to calculate the probability” the suspect will access the items.⁴⁴

Note: More and more courts are now requiring possibility of access.⁴⁵

4.12 Search Prior to Formal Arrest

Generally, there is no prohibition in making a pre-arrest “patsearch” of a subject right before you formally arrest them (compare to “pat down,” which is only for weapons). The Supreme Court requires that a search incident to lawful arrest be conducted “contemporaneously.”⁴⁶ This means the search may occur before the formal arrest (though uncommon).

A pre-arrest “patsearch” often occurs when police see a hand-to-hand transaction and go over to the suspect and pull the drugs out of the suspect’s pocket. This is obviously not a pat down for weapons, and therefore requires probable cause. Remember, once you start looking in a suspect’s pockets for evidence, that’s instantly an arrest—requiring Miranda if you plan to interrogate. Therefore, if you plan to talk to the suspect consider leaving the evidence in his pocket and begin the encounter as an investigative detention.

LEGAL STANDARD

A pre-arrest search of the suspect may be made when:

- You have probable cause to arrest before the search;
- You intend to make a formal arrest; and
- Your search occurs contemporaneously before the arrest.

⁴² U.S. v. Parr, 843 F.2d 1228 (9th Cir. 1988).

⁴³ U.S. v. Rivera, 867 F.2d 1261 (10th Cir. 1989).

⁴⁴ U.S. v. Chadwick, 433 U.S. 1 (1977).

⁴⁵ See State v. Branson, 639 S.W.3d 556 (Mo. Ct. App. 2022) (Backpack between legs).

⁴⁶ Chimel v. Cal., 395 U.S. 752 (1969).

CASE EXAMPLES

Searches should be “contemporaneous” with the arrest

“The fact defendant is not formally arrested until after the search does not invalidate the search if probable cause to arrest exists prior to the search and the search is substantially contemporaneous with the arrest.”⁴⁷

If officer develops P.C. during pat down, he may conduct full search

When an officer finds contraband, “the pat down may be expanded to a full search permitted incident to arrest.”⁴⁸

4.13 Search Incident to a “Temporary” Arrest

Sometimes you’ll make an arrest with the intention to later “release” the suspect at another location. For example, you may arrest a juvenile with the intent to release him to his parents. Or you may take a person into civil custody for public intoxication with the intent to transport him for a “civil hold.” Even under these conditions you may make a full search incident to arrest for officer safety reasons.

LEGAL STANDARD

A suspect taken into custody for a lawful reason, such as truancy or public intoxication, but not booked into jail, may be searched when:

- You had lawful authority to take the suspect into custody; and
- You transported the suspect.

Note: No search if a suspect is “cited and released” on-scene.⁴⁹

CASE EXAMPLES

Transporting truant juvenile back to school was an arrest

An officer stopped a truant juvenile several miles from school. After determining that the student was indeed skipping class, the officer searched the teen before transporting him back to school. A dagger was found and the teen argued it was an unlawful search. The court disagreed, and said that the teen was technically arrested, even though the result was school, not jail. Therefore, the search was incident to a lawful arrest. Note, a key point in this case was the way California law classified this law. Some states may not classify truancy as an “arrestable offense.”⁵⁰

⁴⁷ People v. Adams, 175 Cal. App. 3d 855 (Cal. App. 2d Dist. 1985).

⁴⁸ People v. Collins, 2011 Cal. App. Unpub. LEXIS 5863 (Cal. App. 3d Dist. Aug. 4, 2011).

⁵⁰ In re Humberto O., 80 Cal. App. 4th 237 (Cal. App. 2d Dist. 2000).

Arrest must be likely, not just possible, before search

Officer stopped bicyclist for traffic violation and searched his cell phone and discovered child porn. Evidence suppressed since there were no facts that suspect would have been arrested prior to search.⁵¹

4.14 Attempt to Swallow Drugs

Sometimes a suspect will try to swallow drugs before you arrest him. “A suspect has no constitutional right to destroy or dispose of evidence by swallowing, consequently he cannot consider the mouth a ‘sacred orifice’ in which contraband may be irretrievably concealed from the police.”⁵²

If possible, you should prevent the drugs from going inside his mouth, but if that does not work I suggest you do not place your hands around the subject’s throat to prevent swallowing. Some courts have held this practice per se deadly force. You are under no legal obligation to retrieve drugs that the suspect tries to swallow.

Let the medical professionals figure it out. Remember, it’s worth losing a case then catching the Alphabet Soup (HIV/Hep). Is that worth preventing a “victimless crime?”

LEGAL STANDARD

Treat a suspect attempting to swallow drugs in the following manner:

- If safe, use a reasonable amount of force to prevent him from putting the drugs in his mouth;
- If swallowed, order him to spit it out and call medical; and
- Inform medical what occurred and allow them to make all medical decisions, do not ask or order medical to help retrieve the drugs unless you have a search warrant.

CASE EXAMPLES*Ordering a suspect to spit out drugs reasonable

Officers were presented with exigency and were permitted to order him to spit out the drugs. Note, the officers did not grab the suspect’s neck.⁵³

Applying hands to a suspect’s throat is the equivalent of choking

“An application of force to the throat sufficient to prevent swallowing is, in our opinion, the equivalent of choking.”⁵⁴

4.15 DUI Breath Tests

The courts do not view DUI breath tests and blood tests the same. A blood test, because it is naturally more invasive, usually requires consent or a search warrant absent exigent circumstances. As the Supreme Court pointed out in Birchfield about breath tests:

A breath test does not ‘implicat[e] significant privacy concerns.’ Blood tests are a different matter. . . . Blood tests are significantly more intrusive, and their reasonableness must be judged in light of the availability of the less invasive alternative of a breath test. . . . Breath tests have been in common use for many years. Their results are admissible in court and are widely credited by juries, and respondents do not dispute their accuracy or utility . . .

Nothing prevents the police from seeking a warrant for a blood test when there is sufficient time to do so in the particular circumstances or from relying on the exigent circumstances exception to the warrant requirement when there is not.⁵⁵

LEGAL STANDARD

If a suspect is arrested for DUI, you may:

- You may order the suspect to produce a breath sample, unless a state statute states otherwise; and
- If he refuses, you may use his refusal as additional evidence of DUI and it may be admitted against him in court.

CASE EXAMPLES

Officer may order a suspect submit to breath test after an arrest

“Because breath tests are significantly less intrusive than blood tests and in most cases, amply serve law enforcement interests, we conclude that a breath test, but not a blood test, may be administered as a search incident to a lawful arrest for drunk driving. As in all cases involving reasonable searches incident to arrest, a warrant is not needed in this situation.”⁵⁶

4.16 DUI Blood Tests

If you have consent, exigent circumstances, or a search warrant you may conduct a blood draw in a medically approved manner. If you have exigent circumstances or a search warrant, you may use reasonable force to hold down the suspect while medical personnel obtains the blood sample.⁵⁷

⁵⁵ Birchfield v. North Dakota, 136 S. Ct. 2160 (2016).

⁵⁶ Birchfield v. N.D., 136 S. Ct. 2160 (2016).

⁵⁷ Missouri v. McNeely, 133 S. Ct. 1552 (2013).

LEGAL STANDARD

If a suspect is arrested for DUI, a blood draw may be conducted if:

- You obtain the suspect’s consent;
- You have legitimate exigent circumstances; or
- You obtain a search warrant for a blood sample.

CASE EXAMPLES

Blood draws invoke the Fourth Amendment

“Intrusions into the human body, including the taking of blood, are searches subject to the restrictions of the Fourth Amendment.”⁵⁸

Miranda not required while administering field sobriety tests

A driver is not “in-custody” for Miranda purposes when they are performing field sobriety tests.⁵⁹

Even when officer knows he will arrest, Miranda is not required until the arrest is made

If the driver has not been advised he is under arrest (or a reasonable driver would feel they have not been arrested), Miranda is not required even if the officer decided the driver would be arrested no matter how he performed during the field sobriety tests.⁶⁰

Warrantless blood draw from unconscious driver permitted

Unconsciousness of the arrestee will “almost always” permit a warrantless blood draw in that unconsciousness itself is an exigent circumstance.⁶¹

4.17 Searching Vehicle Incident to Arrest

If you arrest any vehicle occupant, you may search the vehicle incident to arrest if the suspect is within the lunge distance from the vehicle and unsecured (rare situation).⁶² Here, you are mainly looking for weapons or a means to escape. Once the suspect is secured you may no longer automatically search the vehicle incident to arrest.⁶³

You may also search a vehicle if you have reason to believe evidence of the crime is inside the vehicle. No warrant is required. Two things should be noted. First, “reason to believe” evidence is inside the vehicle is a slightly lower standard than probable cause. And second, it does not matter if the suspect has immediate access ⁵⁸ U.S. v. Wright, 215 F.3d 1020 (9th Cir. Cal. 2000).

⁵⁹ Pennsylvania v. Bruder, 488 U.S. 9 (1988).

⁶¹ Mitchell v. Wisconsin, 139 S. Ct. 2525 (2019).

⁶³ Arizona v. Gant, 556 U.S. 332 (2009).

to the vehicle. Still, this type of search must be conducted contemporaneously (around same time) with arrest.

LEGAL STANDARD

When a suspect is arrested and unsecured, his vehicle may be searched if:

- The suspect is within the lunge distance of the vehicle;
- The suspect is unsecured; and
- You may search for weapons, evidence, and a means of escape.

When a suspect is arrested and secured, his vehicle may be searched if:

- You have reason to believe⁶⁴ evidence of the crime for which he was arrested may be inside the vehicle;
- You do not exceed the scope of search necessary to find the evidence; and
- When you no longer have reason to believe evidence of the crime is inside the vehicle, the search must end unless you develop additional probable cause to search for something else.

CASE EXAMPLES

Officer can search vehicle if reasonable to believe evidence in vehicle

An officer is permitted to conduct a vehicle search when an arrestee is within reaching distance of the vehicle or it is reasonable to believe the vehicle contains evidence of the offense of arrest.⁶⁵ Note, you may still conduct a probable cause or inventory search if appropriate.

Search after issuing speeding ticket unlawful

Defendant was stopped by a police officer for speeding and was issued a citation rather than arrested. The officer then conducted a full search of defendant's car, incident to the citation. The officer found a bag of marijuana and pipe. Defendant was then arrested and charged with violation of Iowa state laws dealing with controlled substances. The Supreme Court held the search unlawful, since the officer did not arrest the defendant before the search or gain consent.⁶⁶

Reason to believe marijuana is inside car does not allow search of credit cards

Police had probable cause to search the car for marijuana, because the defendant had been smoking marijuana in his car. However, there was no showing that the officer observed any device that could be used in credit card fraud, or that, when the officer looked in the bag and saw multiple cards, he actually knew that they were credit cards, as opposed to gift cards, insurance cards, membership cards, or library cards, and that they did not belong to the defendant, as required to support probable cause for inspection of the cards.⁶⁷

⁶⁴ U.S. v. Vinton, 594 F.3d 14 (2010).

Police search a “container within a container” permissible as long as probable cause exists for each container

A container within a container is within the scope of the vehicle search so long as the second container is a place which could hold the item for which there is probable cause to search.⁶⁸

Chapter 5

Vehicles

5.1 General Rule

You may stop a vehicle if you have reasonable suspicion or probable cause that an offense has been, or will be, committed. It does not matter what you subjectively thought about the driver or passengers (unless racial profiling). What matters is objective reasonableness. However, it would be unlawful to unreasonably extend the stop while you pursued a hunch. If you develop reasonable suspicion that the occupants are involved in criminal activity, then you may diligently pursue a means of investigation that will confirm or dispel those suspicions.¹

LEGAL STANDARD

A vehicle may be lawfully stopped if:

- There is a community caretaking purpose;
- You have reasonable suspicion for any occupant, or
- You have probable cause for any occupant.

Note: The scope of a traffic stop is similar to an investigative detention. Therefore, the officer must diligently pursue the reason for the stop and not measurably extend the stop for reasons unrelated to the original reason for the stop unless additional reasonable suspicion or probable cause develops.

CASE EXAMPLES

Stop by undercover narcotics officers for minor violation upheld

D.C. detectives in an unmarked vehicle had a hunch that two suspects were dealing narcotics. The only violation they observed was failure to use a turn signal. The stop violated a policy that unmarked vehicles could only make stops for serious crimes. Drugs were observed in plain view. The Supreme Court held that the subjective mindset of the officers was irreverent as long as the initial stop was legal.² And a violation of a department policy does not affect Fourth Amendment analysis.

² Whren v. U.S., 517 U.S. 806 (1996).

5.2 Scope of Stop Similar to an Investigative Detention

The scope of a routine traffic stop is similar to an investigative detention. As one court stated, this is because “the usual traffic stop is more analogous to a so-called ‘Terry stop’ than to a formal arrest.”³

It also makes sense that a DUI stop will take longer than an equipment violation. And a traffic stop will last longer if you are writing a ticket than just giving a verbal warning. Remember, as long as you are diligently working on the original reason for the stop you should be fine. However, once that reason of the stop is over, the driver must be allowed to leave.⁴

Finally, you may ask miscellaneous questions without additional reasonable suspicion, but those inquiries must not measurably extend the stop.

LEGAL STANDARD

The duration of a traffic stop is determined by these factors:

- Once the stop is made, you must diligently pursue the reason for the traffic stop;
- Unrelated questioning must not measurably extend the stop unless additional reasonable suspicion or probable cause develops.

CASE EXAMPLES

Stop was not measurably extended by asking about drug possession

Officer did not exceed the scope of the stop by inquiring if defendant had drugs or weapons in his possession even though the reasonable suspicion leading to the stop concerned a robbery. Based on the driver’s answers, reasonable suspicion developed for drug possession.⁵

5.3 Community Caretaking Stops

You may make a traffic stop on a vehicle if you believe any of the occupant’s safety or welfare is at risk. If you determine that the occupant does not need assistance, you must terminate the stop or transition the stop into a consensual encounter. Otherwise, you would need to articulate reasonable suspicion (e.g., DUI) or other criminal involvement (e.g., domestic violence).

Stranded motorists fall under this rule. It’s not illegal for a vehicle to break down. So, you cannot demand ID, or otherwise involuntarily detain stranded motorists unless you can articulate they are involved in criminal activity.

Remember, these are essentially “implied” consensual encounters unless you have a reasonable suspicion of criminal activity. In other words, if someone needs help there’s a reason to believe they would have impliedly consented to police assistance. Once there’s no more consent, the occupants must be left alone.

³ Berkemer v. McCarty, 468 U.S. 420 (1984).

⁵ Medrano v. State, 914 P.2d 804 (Wyo. 1996)

LEGAL STANDARD

A vehicle may be stopped if:

- You have a reason to believe one of the occupants needs police or medical assistance; and
- Once you determine that no further assistance is required, the occupant must be left alone.

CASE EXAMPLES

Community caretaking stop unreasonable based on passenger who appeared extremely drunk

An officer observed a staggering suspect get into the passenger seat of a car. The officer wanted to make sure he was not in need of medical attention. The court held the stop unreasonable, since he was not the driver and did not appear in medical distress.⁶

5.4 Reasonable Suspicion Stops

You may stop a vehicle if you have individualized reasonable suspicion that any occupant may be involved in criminal activity. Probable cause is not required.

LEGAL STANDARD

A vehicle and its occupants may be detained if:

- You can articulate facts and circumstances that would lead a reasonable officer to believe that one of the occupants has, is, or is about to be involved in criminal activity;
- Once the stop is made, you must diligently pursue a means of investigation that will confirm or dispel your suspicions;
- If your suspicions are dispelled, the occupants must be immediately released or the stop converted into a consensual encounter.

CASE EXAMPLES

Stop of possible stolen truck, even with different plates, reasonable

Observation of a truck that matched the description of one that had just been stolen in a carjacking, but with a different license plate that appeared to be recently attached, and with two occupants who generally matched the suspects' description, constituted the necessary reasonable suspicion to justify the defendant's detention.⁷

⁷ U.S. v. Hartz, 458 F.3d 1011 (9th Cir. Wash. 2006).

Terry stop conducted after officer told driver, “sit tight”

Suspect was subjected to a Terry stop at the time the police car parked behind the car in which he sat, where three officers shined their flashlights into the car, and one officer told the suspect to “sit tight.”⁸

5.5 Stops to Verify Temporary Registration

You cannot stop a vehicle solely to verify that a temporary registration is valid or not fraudulent. Even if you have a “hunch” that the registration is fake, you still need to articulate an individualized articulable suspicion that a vehicle may have fraudulent registration. It is irrelevant that based on your “training and experience” temporary permits are often forged.⁹

LEGAL STANDARD

A vehicle with temporary registration may be stopped if:

- You can articulate facts and circumstances that would lead a reasonable officer to believe that the temporary registration may be fraudulent, altered, expired, or belongs to another vehicle; and
- Once the stop occurs, you must diligently pursue whether the registration is legitimate. If it is, you no longer have reason to detain the vehicle and you should immediately allow it to leave, unless the stop is converted to a consensual encounter or you develop reasonable suspicion for a different crime.

CASE EXAMPLES

Deputy had reasonable suspicion to stop vehicle registered to defendant based on commonsense inference that defendant, whose license had been revoked, was likely the driver

“When the officer lacks information negating an inference that the owner is driving the vehicle, an investigative traffic stop made after running a vehicle’s license plate and learning that the registered owner’s driver’s license has been revoked is reasonable under the Fourth Amendment.”¹⁰

5.6 DUI Checkpoints

The Supreme Court has upheld DUI checkpoints because the state’s interest in preventing drunk driving accidents is outweighed by the minimal intrusion upon driver’s who are temporarily stopped.¹¹ Nevertheless, some states have outlawed

⁸ U.S. v. Young, 707 F.3d 598 (6th Cir. 2012).

⁹ People v. Hernandez, 45 Cal. 4th 295 (Cal. 2008).

¹⁰ Kansas v. Glover, 140 S. Ct. 1183 (2020).

¹¹ Mich. Dep’t of State Police v. Sitz, 496 U.S. 444 (1990).

DUI checkpoints and some prosecutors refuse to take these cases. Check before setting up a checkpoint.

Also, do not get sucked-in by drivers who record you at checkpoints. Often these drivers roll down their window a few inches and refuse to answer any questions. If you think they're sober and just playing games, let them go! The purpose of a DUI checkpoint is to get drunk drivers off the road, not teach people to stop being jackasses. On the other hand, if you cannot reasonably determine that the driver is not intoxicated, then keep your cool, take your time, follow protocol, and investigate.

LEGAL STANDARD

A vehicle may be stopped at a DUI checkpoint if:

- The checkpoint furthers a legitimate state interest and is established by a high-ranking police official;
- There is a plan in place that minimizes police discretion on who may be stopped absent reasonable suspicion;
- Based on that plan, vehicles are stopped in a systematic method;
- The means used to determine whether a driver is under the influence are minimally intrusive; and
- Driver wait time does not become unreasonable.

CASE EXAMPLES

Evasive driving away from roadblock is reasonable suspicion

“Evasive behavior in response to a roadblock” may contribute to reasonable suspicion that the driver is possibly DUI.”¹²

5.7 Information Gathering Checkpoints

Police are permitted to setup checkpoints in order to gather information concerning a serious crime that has been recently committed. An example would be asking motorists if they witnessed a fatal accident that occurred a week ago.

LEGAL STANDARD

A vehicle may be stopped at an information-gathering checkpoint if:

- There was a serious crime recently committed;
- The means used to determine whether an occupant was a witness to the crime are minimally intrusive; and
- Driver wait time does not become unreasonable.

¹² U.S. v. Smith, 396 F.3d 579 (4th Cir. N.C. 2005).

CASE EXAMPLES

Information checkpoint upheld after fatal hit-and-run

About a week after a hit-and-run driver killed a bicyclist, local police set up a checkpoint, to obtain information from motorists about the accident. Officers asked motorists whether they had seen anything and handed out flyers. As one driver approached, his van swerved, nearly hitting an officer. The officer smelled alcohol, administered a sobriety test and then arrested the driver. The Supreme Court upheld the checkpoint as reasonable.¹³

Fake “Drug Checkpoint Ahead” ruse not unlawful as long as stop based on reasonable suspicion or probable cause

Posting a sign for a fictitious drug checkpoint, to create opportunity for law enforcement officers to observe motorists’ suspicious behavior of taking exit after signs, was not illegal police activity, and officer’s search and seizure of package voluntarily abandoned by motorist at top of exit ramp therefore did not violate Fourth Amendment.¹⁴

5.8 Legal Considerations for Any Checkpoint

Police supervisors should address the following factors in any checkpoint operations plan.

LEGAL STANDARD

If police setup a checkpoint, keep these considerations in mind:

- The decision to establish a sobriety checkpoint, the selection of the site, and the procedures for the operation of the checkpoint, are made and established by supervisory law enforcement personnel;
- Motorists are stopped according to a neutral formula, such as every third, fifth or tenth driver;
- Adequate safety precautions are taken, such as proper lighting, warning signs, and signals, and clearly identifiable official vehicles and personnel;
- The location of the checkpoint was determined by a policy-making official, and was reasonable, i.e., on a road having a high incidence of alcohol-related accidents or arrests;
- The time the checkpoint was conducted and its duration reflect “good judgment” on the part of law enforcement officials;
- The checkpoint exhibits indicia of its official nature (to reassure the public of the authorized nature of the stop);
- The average length and nature of the detention is minimized; and finally,
- The checkpoint is preceded by publicity.

¹³ Illinois v. Lidster, 540 U.S. 419 (2004).

¹⁴ U.S. v. Flynn, 309 F.3d 736 (10th Cir. 2002).

5.9 Ordering Passengers to Stay in, or Exit Vehicle

The Supreme Court has stated that passengers are seized under the Fourth Amendment during traffic stops. This means that they may challenge the constitutionality of the stop if they are later charged with a crime.¹⁵

You are allowed to order passengers out of a vehicle,¹⁶ or alternatively, order them to stay in the vehicle if they demand to leave, even if they haven't committed an offense. The courts understand the risks associated with traffic stops, and the intrusion upon controlling passengers is minimal.

LEGAL STANDARD

Any occupant inside a vehicle may be ordered to stay, or exit vehicle if:

- The stop was based on reasonable suspicion or probable cause; and
- You can articulate any legitimate reason (i.e., officer safety or need to interview separately).

CASE EXAMPLES

Officer can order occupant out of vehicle for any legitimate reason

"[O]nce a motor vehicle has been lawfully detained for a traffic violation, the police officers may order the driver to get out of the vehicle ...and may order passengers to get out of the car pending completion of the stop as well."¹⁷

Passengers may challenge stop under Fourth Amendment

"A traffic stop necessarily curtails the travel a passenger has chosen just as much as it halts the driver." Therefore, they may challenge the reason for the stop.¹⁸

5.10 Detaining a Recent Vehicle Occupant

An occupant is any person inside the vehicle when the stop is made, or any person who was inside the vehicle moments before the stop.¹⁹ Why is this important? Because if a person qualifies as an occupant of a vehicle, and is near that vehicle when they are arrested, you may conduct a warrantless search if you have reason to believe evidence of the crime is inside the vehicle.

¹⁵ Brendlin v. California, 551 U.S. 249 (2007).

¹⁶ Md. v. Wilson, 519 U.S. 408 (1997).

¹⁷ Arizona v. Johnson, 129 S. Ct. 781 (2009).

¹⁸ Brendlin v. California, 551 U.S. 249 (2007).

¹⁹ Thornton v. U.S., 541 U.S. 615 (2004).

LEGAL STANDARD

A suspect may be treated like an occupant of a vehicle if:

- You observed or had probable cause that the suspect was an occupant in the vehicle;
- You stopped the suspect within the vicinity of the vehicle;
- The stop occurred almost immediately after the occupant exited the vehicle; and
- You had reason to believe evidence of the crime charged is inside the vehicle.

CASE EXAMPLES

Driver, who exited vehicle before police pulled up, was a “recent occupant”

An officer observed the defendant make an unsafe left-hand turn, which caused oncoming traffic to slam on their brakes. By the time the officer caught up to the vehicle the driver had exited and was walking away. The driver was later arrested and the search incident to arrest of vehicle was lawful.²⁰

5.11 Consent to Search a Vehicle

There is no Fourth Amendment violation if you seek consent to search a vehicle from a lawfully stopped driver.²¹ Whether consent was voluntarily given will be judged by the totality of the circumstances. Finally, if consent to search is obtained, it will not be considered an unreasonable extension of the traffic stop.

LEGAL STANDARD

A person may consent to search a vehicle if:

- It is reasonable to believe the driver or occupant has authority to consent to the search;
- The consent is freely and voluntarily given; and
- Your search did not exceed the scope of the consent provided, whether express or implied.

CASE EXAMPLES

The scope of consent to search is normally defined by the object of the search

The officer informed the driver that he believed drugs were in the car, and that he would be looking for narcotics in the car. “We think that it was objectively reasonable for the police to conclude that the ... consent to search [driver’s] car included

²⁰ U.S. v. Mapp, 476 F.3d 1012 (D.C. Cir. 2007).

²¹ Schneckloth v. Bustamonte, 412 U.S. 218 (1973).

consent to search containers within that car which might bear drugs. A reasonable person may be expected to know that...contraband goods rarely are strewn across the trunk or floor of a car. The authorization to search in this case, therefore, extended beyond the surfaces of the car's interior to the paper bag lying on the car's floor."²²

5.12 Searching Vehicle and Occupants for Weapons

If you can reasonably articulate that any occupant is armed and dangerous, you may conduct a pat down for weapons. This applies even if the occupant is not suspected of any crime.²³ Courts recognize the inherent danger of traffic stops and provide officers wide discretion when it comes to officer safety.

LEGAL STANDARD

Any occupant may be frisked for weapons if:

- You can articulate that the occupant is armed and dangerous; and
- You may only pat down the suspect's outer clothing.
- Note: If you feel an item that's not a weapon but it's immediately apparent (i.e., no manipulation) as contraband, evidence, fruits, or instrumentalities of a crime then you can reach into the person's clothing a retrieve it.

A frisk of a vehicle may be conducted when:

- You have reason to believe a weapon may be inside the vehicle;
- The occupant has access to the vehicle;
- May return to vehicle later (i.e., not under arrest);²⁴
- Occupant could break away from police;
- In handcuffs, but mechanical devices may fail or hands squeezed through.

The frisk includes areas or containers inside the passenger compartment where the person could gain immediate access.²⁵

CASE EXAMPLES

Protective sweep upheld despite stopping wrong suspects

"Based on information obtained during the investigation of a series of armed robberies of drug dealers, law enforcement officers used 'felony stop' tactics to stop a vehicle under the belief that it carried armed and dangerous suspects for whom arrest warrants had been issued." Based on the totality of the circumstances protective search was reasonable.²⁶

²² Florida v. Jimeno, 500 U.S. 248 (1991).

²³ Arizona v. Johnson, 555 U.S. 323 (2009).

²⁴ State v. Chang, 147 Wash. App. 490 (2008).

²⁵ Mich. v. Long, 463 U.S. 1032 (1983).

²⁶ U.S. v. Holmes, 376 F.3d 270 (4th Cir. S.C. 2004).

Traffic stops are inherently dangerous

“Every traffic stop is a confrontation....That expectation becomes even more real when the motorist or a passenger knows there are outstanding arrest warrants or current criminal activity that may be discovered during the course of the stop.”²⁷

5.13 Frisking People Who Ride in Police Vehicle

Whether you may pat down a person depends on why he is in your patrol vehicle. If you are being nice and giving someone a ride home (e.g., mom and kids on freezing day) then you must seek consent. If, on the other hand, you had no choice but to transport them (e.g., take driver off highway after accident) then you may conduct a pat down for weapons.

LEGAL STANDARD

A person receiving a courtesy ride may be frisked for weapons if:

- You have received consent to pat down the suspect;²⁸
- If consent is denied, a compulsory pat down is likely unlawful (maybe no ride should be offered).

A person being transported under a legal or policy obligation may be frisked for weapons if:

- You first ask for consent (recommended);
- If consent is denied, a pat down for weapons will likely be considered reasonable if you were legally required to transport the person, or agency policy allows pat downs under the circumstances.²⁹

CASE EXAMPLES*Policy requiring pat down of all lawfully transported suspects lawful

In cases where the police may lawfully transport a suspect to the scene of the crime in the rear of a police car, the police may carry out a departmental policy, imposed for reasons of officer safety, by patting down that person.³⁰

5.14 K9 Sniff Around Vehicle

Generally, there’s no Fourth Amendment protection of the air around a vehicle.³¹ Therefore, you may run a drug detection canine around a vehicle during a traffic

²⁷ U.S. v. Dennison, 410 F.3d 1203 (10th Cir. Colo. 2005).

²⁸ People v. Scott, 16 Cal. 3d 242 (Cal. 1976).

²⁹ People v. Tobin, 219 Cal. App. 3d 634 (Cal. App. 1st Dist. 1990).

³⁰ U.S. v. McCargo, 464 F.3d 192 (2d Cir. N.Y. 2006).

³¹ U.S. v. Place, 462 U.S. 696 (1983).

VEHICLES

stop or when the vehicle is left in a place that you are lawfully allowed to be, like a parking lot. Canine alerts give you probable cause to either search it under the mobile conveyance exception or to apply for a warrant.

Keep in mind two important restrictions. First, do not intentionally command the canine to touch, climb or jump onto a vehicle as this would be a search in violation of U.S. v. Jones.³² Second, a canine sniff cannot extend the traffic stop unless you had reasonable suspicion for a drug offense.

LEGAL STANDARD

If no reasonable suspicion exists that drug evidence is inside the vehicle, then:

- Your canine may conduct a free-air sniff around the vehicle as long as there is no break in the investigation that led to the stop; and
- The free-air sniff must not extend the stop.³³

If reasonable suspicion exists that drug evidence is inside the vehicle, then:

- You may continue to detain the vehicle for a reasonable amount of time for a canine to arrive on scene; and
- You may conduct a free-air sniff around the vehicle, but may not intentionally make a physical intrusion in or on the vehicle without probable cause.

CASE EXAMPLES

Use of K9 during a stop is reasonable

No violation where one officer wrote ticket while another ran drug dog.³⁴

Instinctual touching is lawful and not a search under the Fourth Amendment

“[A]bsent police misconduct, the instinctive actions of trained drug dogs do not expand the scope of an otherwise legal dog sniff to an impermissible search without a warrant or probable cause. The term instinctive implies that a dog enters a car without assistance, facilitation, or other intentional action by its handler. Thus, during a lawful detention, when a drug dog’s leap into a car is instinctual rather than orchestrated by police conduct, courts have upheld the legality of such a search. Further, a dog’s independent act of entering a vehicle is lawful where the dog was attracted into the car by the smell of contraband.”³⁵

No search occurred when K9 deployed around cars in motel parking lot

“Neither defendant, resident of motel, or even motel owner had legitimate expectation of privacy in motel’s parking lot, and thus, police officer’s entry of motel parking lot with dog for canine sniff of vehicles parked in lot was not “search” under Fourth Amendment, where parking lot was open and visible from public roads bordering it

³² U.S. v. Jones, 565 U.S. 400 (2012).

³³ Rodriguez v. U.S., 575 U.S. 348 (2015).

³⁴ U.S. v. Hernandez-Mendoza, 600 F.3d 971 (8th Cir. S.D. 2010).

³⁵ State v. Randall, 169 Idaho 358 (2021) (Note, Idaho does not permit instinctual touching).

and was not fenced, no gate prevented unauthorized entry, and no signs restricted entry to parking lot.”³⁶

Directing a K9 to jump onto or touch a vehicle is a search

A “K-9 officer made upward gestures, purportedly “[p]resenting areas for [Nero] to sniff.” The K-9 officer later testified that Nero alerted during his explicit contact with Dorff’s vehicle, i.e., after Nero stood up and put his front paws on the front driver side door and window....

Applying these principles to the instant case, a Fourth Amendment “search” occurred here because the State’s drug dog, Nero, intermeddled with (and thereby trespassed against) Dorff’s vehicle for the purpose of obtaining information. As a preliminary matter, it cannot be overemphasized that a “search” occurred here because Nero trespassed against Dorff’s vehicle for the purpose of obtaining information about, or related to, the vehicle.³⁷

Note: It is imperative that handlers never direct their K9 to physically touch vehicles without either consent or probable cause first. A free air sniff is not a search. But directing a K9 to touch cars for the purpose of gathering information is a search.

5.15 Searching Vehicle Incident to Arrest

If you arrest any vehicle occupant, you may search the vehicle incident to arrest if the suspect is within the lunge distance from the vehicle.³⁸ Here, you are mainly looking for weapons or a means to escape. Once the suspect is secured you may no longer automatically search the vehicle incident to arrest.³⁹

You may also search a vehicle if you have reason to believe evidence of the crime is inside the vehicle. No warrant is required. Two things should be noted. First, “reason to believe” evidence is inside the vehicle is a lower standard than probable cause. And second, it does not matter if the suspect does not have immediate access to the vehicle. Still, this type of search must be conducted contemporaneously (i.e., soon after) with arrest.

LEGAL STANDARD

When a suspect is arrested and unsecured, his vehicle may be searched if:

- The suspect is within the lunge distance of the vehicle;
- You reasonably believe the suspect may gain access to inside the vehicle; and
- You may search for weapons, evidence, and a means of escape.

When a suspect is arrested and secured, his vehicle may be searched if:

VEHICLES

- You have reason to believe⁴⁰ evidence of the crime for which he was arrested may be inside the vehicle;
- You do not exceed the scope of search necessary to find the evidence; and
- When you no longer have reason to believe evidence of the crime is inside the vehicle, the search must end unless you develop additional probable cause to search for something else.

CASE EXAMPLES

Officer can search vehicle if reasonable to believe evidence in vehicle

An officer is permitted to conduct a vehicle search when an arrestee is within reaching distance of the vehicle or it is reasonable to believe the vehicle contains evidence of the offense of arrest.⁴¹ Note, you can still conduct a probable cause or inventory search if appropriate.

Search after issuing speeding ticket unlawful

Defendant was stopped by a police officer for speeding and was issued a citation rather than arrested. The officer then conducted a full search of defendant's car, incident to the citation. The officer found a bag of marijuana and a "pot pipe." Defendant was then arrested and charged with violation of Iowa state laws dealing with controlled substances. The Supreme Court held the search unlawful, since the officer did not arrest the defendant or gain consent.⁴²

Arrest of an occupant does not permit search of fellow occupant

Officers arrested an occupant for possession of fraudulent government documents. This search permitted the search of the vehicle, but not a fellow passenger absent consent or a lawful arrest.⁴³

Search of coin box upheld for ammunition

A search of the coin box and bank bag, found within the vehicle, was upheld, but only because they could have contained "ammunition and paperwork related to the firearms investigation."⁴⁴

Search of car lawful after wanted suspect threw drugs under it

Though officers initially approached the suspect to execute an outstanding bench warrant for failure to appear, search of vehicle was lawful after suspect threw a bundle of cocaine under the car and had $1,010 on his person.⁴⁵

5.16 Searching Vehicle with Probable Cause

If you have probable cause that a vehicle contains evidence or contraband, you can usually conduct a warrantless search.⁴⁶

There are two reasons why the Supreme Court allows these searches:

1. Ready mobility of the vehicle means evidence could leave the jurisdiction before obtaining a warrant; and
2. Vehicles have a lowered reasonable expectation of privacy because they are heavily regulated.

LEGAL STANDARD

A vehicle may be searched without a warrant if:

- You have probable cause that contraband or evidence is inside the vehicle;
- You have lawful access to the vehicle (i.e., not within curtilage or in a backyard);
- The vehicle appears to be readily mobile (e.g., can be mobile with little to no repair); and
- Your search does not exceed the scope of the probable cause.

CASE EXAMPLES

If probable cause exists to search a vehicle, police may search all containers, including those of a non-arrested occupant

“If probable cause justifies the search of a lawfully stopped vehicle, it justifies the search of every part of the vehicle and its contents that may conceal the object of the search.” This applies “broadly to all containers within a car, without qualification as to ownership.”⁴⁷

Police may search a vehicle in the same manner as if they had a warrant

“The scope of a warrantless search based on probable cause is no narrower-and no broader-than the scope of a search authorized by a warrant supported by probable cause. Only the prior approval of the magistrate is waived; the search otherwise is as the magistrate could authorize.”⁴⁸

Motor vehicle searches do not require exigency

“As we recognized nearly 75 years ago in Carroll v. United States, (1925), there is an exception to this requirement for searches of vehicles. And under our established precedent, the “automobile exception” has no separate exigency requirement. when we said that in cases where there was probable cause to search a vehicle “a search is not unreasonable if based on facts that would justify the issuance of a warrant, even though a warrant has not been actually obtained.” ... we repeated that ⁴⁶ Md. v. Dyson, 527 U.S. 465 (1999).

⁴⁷ Wyoming v. Houghton, 526 U.S. 295 (1999).

⁴⁸ United States v. Ross, 456 U.S. 798 (1982).

the automobile exception does not have a separate exigency requirement: “If a car is readily mobile and probable cause exists to believe it contains contraband, the Fourth Amendment ... permits police to search the vehicle without more.”⁴⁹

The motor vehicle exception doesn’t authorize searching a vehicle within curtilage

“[I]t is a “settled rule that warrantless arrests in public places are valid,” but, absent another exception such as exigent circumstances, officers may not enter a home to make an arrest without a warrant, even when they have probable cause. That is because being “‘arrested in the home involves not only the invasion attendant to all arrests but also an invasion of the sanctity of the home.’ Likewise, searching a vehicle parked in the curtilage involves not only the invasion of the Fourth Amendment interest in the vehicle but also an invasion of the sanctity of the curtilage.”⁵⁰

The motor vehicle exception applied to broke-down vehicle

Automobile exception to search warrant requirement was applicable to vehicle that was temporarily immobile due to mechanical problem, where problem was readily repairable.⁵¹ Note: I call this the AAA rule. In other words, if the vehicle can become mobile by AAA (e.g., gas, flat tire, dead battery) or small mechanical repairs then the vehicle still falls under the motor vehicle exception.

5.17 Dangerous Items Left in Vehicle

If you have reason to believe a dangerous item was left inside a vehicle, which may endanger public safety if left unattended, you may secure the item for safekeeping.

LEGAL STANDARD

A vehicle may be entered without a warrant if:

- You have reason to believe a dangerous item is left unattended inside a vehicle; and
- Leaving the item inside the vehicle unattended would pose a risk to the community.

CASE EXAMPLES

Warrantless search for gun upheld

Chester Dombrowski was a Chicago officer who was drunk and involved in a one-car traffic accident while driving a rental car in Wisconsin. He identified himself as a Chicago officer to the investigating officers, who understood that Chicago police officers were supposed to carry their weapons at all times. Dombrowski had no weapon on him, and none were found in the passenger compartment. They had the car towed to a private garage several miles from the police station. Dombrowski was arrested for drunk driving and then taken to the hospital. One of the officers returned to the car to retrieve Dombrowski's service revolver. While looking for it, the officer found evidence which strongly suggested that Dombrowski was involved in a crime of violence. When confronted with the evidence, he gave the location of a body. He was ultimately convicted of first degree murder. The Supreme Court upheld the gun search under community caretaking.⁵²

5.18 Inventories

You may conduct an inventory search whenever you impound a vehicle. The main purpose of the inventory is specific—to protect your agency from false allegations about stolen or damaged property and protect the owner from theft or damage caused by tow companies. These inventories are searches, but they are not for evidence. Of course, plain view applies.

You cannot use vehicle inventories as a pretext to search a vehicle for contraband. This behavior is unlawful and can result in the suppression of evidence and 1983 lawsuits. In other words, officers cannot use inventories as a loophole to the probable cause requirement.⁵³ Additionally, some states require police to give on-scene owners the opportunity to take possession of their vehicle, if feasible, instead of towing it.⁵⁴

Finally, if you want to inventory a locked container, develop probable cause or get consent. I would not break it open under your inventory policy.

LEGAL STANDARD

A vehicle may be inventoried when:

- Your agency has an inventory policy which minimizes your discretion;
- Your primary reason you are towing the vehicle is legitimate and not simply a loophole to search a vehicle for criminal evidence;
- The policy describes what may be searched and inventoried; and
- It's recommended you articulate a legitimate community caretaking rationale such as blocking traffic, illegally parked, no license or registration, or risk of theft or vandalism.

CASE EXAMPLES

Officer admitted that inventory was a ruse to search—not good

The narcotics team wanted Defendant stopped on a traffic offense, and deputies stopped him for failing to signal a turn. Upon determining that Torres was an unlicensed driver, they impounded his truck. The lead deputy testified that he was “basically using the inventory search as the means to go look for whatever “community caretaking function warranting the impoundment.” The court suppressed three pounds of methamphetamine, cocaine, a rifle, and over $113,000 in cash found in defendant’s home.⁵⁵

Lawful inventory when officer looked under ripped carpet

The inventory search, including search under the floor carpeting, was within the department’s policy, which authorized the search of all interior areas. Here, the carpet was “ripped up,” which drew the officer’s attention, the officer simply lifted an already loose flap of carpet that appeared to have been tampered with based on his reasonable belief that it might be concealing a hiding place for items, and the officer did not search under all of the carpeting, but just the portion that appeared to have been disturbed.⁵⁶

Officer opened locked suitcase during inventory

During an inventory search an officer forced open a locked suitcase and found drugs. Evidence suppressed because the agency’s written policy did not tell officers that they could break open locked containers.⁵⁷

Officer had tow driver unlock door

An officer towed a car that had been illegally parked. He asked the tow driver to open the car and the officer continued his inventory. Drugs were found in the glove-box and the owner was charged.⁵⁸

Tow of suspected mobile PCP lab valid

Officers responded to house fire and observed a vehicle with suspected PCP lab inside. Tow reasonable because vehicle was unregistered, appeared abandoned, and owner could not be identified.⁵⁹ Note, this vehicle could also have been searched under the mobile conveyance exception.

Statutory authority to tow a vehicle may not be enough, you should also articulate a community caretaking rationale

Generally, the Community Caretaking Doctrine has been held to apply (allowing for the impoundment of a vehicle) only when the vehicle, if left at the scene, is parked illegally, blocks traffic or passage, or stands at risk of theft or vandalism.⁶⁰

5.19 Identifying Passengers

There is no constitutional violation by requesting a passenger identify himself.⁶¹ However, you may not demand identification when you have no reasonable suspicion the passenger was involved in criminal activity.

My advice is to not push the issue unless you have developed reasonable suspicion that the passenger may be involved in criminal activity.

LEGAL STANDARD

If you want to identify a passenger, then:

- You may request identification, without reasonable suspicion;
- If you have reasonable suspicion that the passenger was involved in criminal activity, you may demand identification. Failure to identify may be an arrestable offense under state law.

CASE EXAMPLES

Officers may ask passenger for identification

A traffic stop “may include asking a passenger for identification and running a computer check if the passenger consents to the request for identification.”⁶²

Asking for identification does not implicate the Fourth Amendment

Asking passenger for identification while he was lawfully detained did not implicate the Fourth Amendment because the police did not need to have reasonable suspicion in order to ask questions or request identification.⁶³

5.20 Unrelated Questioning

The Supreme Court stated, “An officer’s inquiries into matters unrelated to the justification for the traffic stop . . . do not convert the encounter into something other than a lawful seizure, so long as those inquiries do not measurably extend the duration of the stop.”⁶⁴

Officers may ask various questions, such as where the driver is coming from, going to, where they work, etc. If you develop additional reasonable suspicion, then articulate those facts and circumstances in your report.

⁶¹ People v. Vibanco, 151 Cal. App. 4th 1 (Cal. App. 6th Dist. 2007).

⁶² U.S. v. Cloud, 594 F.3d 1042 (8th Cir. Minn. 2010).

⁶³ People v. Vibanco, 151 Cal. App. 4th 1 (Cal. App. 6th Dist. 2007).

⁶⁴ Arizona v. Johnson, 555 U.S. 323 (2009).

 LEGAL STANDARD

Inquires into matters unrelated to the reason for the stop are permissible if:

- Your inquiries do not measurably extend the traffic stop; and
- The unrelated inquiries should resemble a consensual encounter, otherwise a court may view it as an investigative detention requiring reasonable suspicion.

 CASE EXAMPLES

Unrelated inquiries cannot measurably extend stop

“An officer’s inquiries into matters unrelated to the justification for the traffic stop ... do not convert the encounter into something other than a lawful seizure, so long as those inquiries do not measurably extend the duration of the stop.”⁶⁵

An officer may further detain occupant with additional reasonable suspicion

“[T]he officer may detain the driver for questioning unrelated to the initial stop if he has an objectively reasonable and articulable suspicion illegal activity has occurred or is occurring....A variety of factors may contribute to the formation of an objectively reasonable suspicion of illegal activity.”⁶⁶

5.21 Constructive Possession

If you discover contraband inside a vehicle with multiple occupants and no one wants to claim ownership, you may charge all occupants with constructive possession.⁶⁷ However, it’s not enough that the contraband was simply in the vehicle. You also need to articulate why the arrested occupants likely knew the contraband was inside the vehicle. For example, if burglary tools were found in the trunk that would not permit you to arrest passengers without articulating that the passengers probably knew the tools were there.

Alternatively, you could choose which occupant is the most culpable (usually the driver) and only charge him. Nothing requires you to arrest everyone under constructive possession. If you could arrest all, you may arrest one.

 LEGAL STANDARD

Multiple occupants may be charged for constructively possessing contraband when:

- You articulate that there was at least a fair probability that the arrested occupant knew contraband was inside the vehicle; and
- The occupant had the ability to possess the contraband in the past, present, or future.

⁶⁵ Arizona v. Johnson, 555 U.S. 323 (2009).

⁶⁶ U.S. v. Hunnicutt, 135 F.3d 1345 (10th Cir. Okla. 1998).

⁶⁷ Maryland v. Pringle, 540 U.S. 366 (2003).

CASE EXAMPLES

All suspects involved in a hand-to-hand transaction were lawfully arrested

Two officers observed three suspects, in two vehicles, exchanging objects between their vehicles. Based on reasonable suspicion that they witnessed a hand-to-hand transaction, they made a stop. Drugs were eventually located and the court upheld the arrest of all suspects based on constructive possession, even though the drugs were only found in one vehicle.⁶⁸

Associate can be arrested when he willfully and knowingly exercises control

It is well-established that one need not actually possess the controlled dangerous substance to violate the prohibition against possession thereof, as constructive possession is sufficient. The mere presence in an area where drugs are located or the mere association with one possessing drugs does not constitute constructive possession, a person may be deemed to be in joint possession of a drug which is in the physical custody of a companion, if he willfully and knowingly shares with the other the right to control it.⁶⁹

Boyfriend who stayed with girlfriend had constructive possession of full-auto AK-47

Defendant argues that the officer did not have probable cause to believe that he actually or constructively possessed the firearm. He asserts that the bedroom where the AK-47 was found belonged to his girlfriend, and there was no evidence at the time of the arrest that he had knowledge of its existence. The court disagreed because defendant stayed at apartment, and suspiciously sat on bed when asked about the firearm.⁷⁰

Passenger was in constructive possession of large amount of narcotics

There was probable cause to arrest the only passenger in a vehicle in which 37 pounds of marijuana were discovered by border control agents as the vehicle attempted to cross from Tijuana, Mexico into the United States. Here, the facts and circumstances support a fair probability that the passenger was linked to the crime of drug trafficking. He was a passenger in a car loaded with a commercial quantity of marijuana, the car belonged to neither occupant, and the car was procured under suspicious circumstances. Given these facts, a prudent and experienced police officer might reasonably suspect that the passenger is involved in drug smuggling.⁷¹

Chapter 6

Homes Overview & Standing

6.1 Warrant Requirement

A person's home is the most protected area under the Fourth Amendment. Therefore, tread lightly whenever you make a warrantless search or seizure inside a home.

Whether a particular place is deemed a "home" will depend upon whether the place provides a person with a reasonable expectation of privacy, such that he would be justified in believing that he could retreat there, and be secure against government intrusion. In simple terms, where a person sleeps is usually his home.

LEGAL STANDARD

Whether a structure is a person's "home" may depend on evaluating these factors (among others):

- The defendant has a property interest in the thing seized or the place searched;
- He has a right to exclude others from the thing seized or the place searched;¹ and
- He exhibited a subjective expectation² that the item would remain free from governmental intrusion and this expectation is something society would view as objectively reasonable.³

CASE EXAMPLES

Hotel rooms have similar protections as homes

The rule that a warrantless entry by police into a residence is presumptively unreasonable applies whether the entry is made to search for evidence or to seize a person. It applies no less when the dwelling entered is a motel.⁴

A lawfully erected tent is equivalent to a home

"The thin walls of a tent are notice of its occupant's claim to privacy unless consent to enter be asked and given. One should be free to depart a campsite for the day's adventure without fear of his expectation of privacy being violated. Whether of short- or longer-term duration, one's occupation of a tent is entitled to equivalent protection from unreasonable government intrusion as that afforded to homes or hotel rooms."⁵

¹ See People v. Stewart, 113 Cal. App. 4th 242 (2003).

³ Young v. State, 109 Nev. 205 (1993).

⁴ People v. Williams, 45 Cal. 3d 1268 (Cal. 1988).

⁵ People v. Hughston, 168 Cal. App. 4th 1062 (Cal. App. 1st Dist. 2008).

Subject had no reasonable expectation of privacy in his campsite

“Defendant had no authorization to camp within or otherwise occupy the public land. On at least four or five recent occasions he had been cited by officers for ‘illegal camping’ and evicted from other campsites in the preserve. Thus, both the illegality, and defendant’s awareness that he was illicitly occupying the premises without consent or permission, are undisputed. “Legitimation of expectations of privacy by law must have a source outside of the Fourth Amendment, either by reference to concepts of real or personal property law or to understandings that are recognized and permitted by society.”⁶

Tent over vehicle at music festival was a home

Suspect went to a music festival and pitched a ‘10x30’ tent-like structure over his SUV. Suspect was later arrested for dealing drugs. Police conducted warrantless search on vehicle. Court held it was an illegal search inside “home.” Tent was similar to a garage.⁷

Frequent visitor may have privacy inside friend’s home

A frequent visitor, with free reign of the house despite the fact that he did not stay overnight, might also have standing to contest an allegedly illegal entry of a third person’s home.⁸

Officer could not crouch under home’s window and listen to conversation

An officer, unable to see inside the home from the sidewalk, crossed a ten-foot strip of grass and crouched under a window. He then heard a telephone conversation about a narcotics transaction. The court suppressed the evidence and said the officer’s behavior was similar that of a “police state.”⁹

6.2 Hotel Rooms, Tents, and RVs

Generally, hotel rooms receive full Fourth Amendment protections. You cannot enter a room without consent, recognized exception, or a warrant (C.R.E.W.).

Additionally, a hotel manager may not give authorization to search a room while the room is lawfully rented. Again, the room is treated like a temporary home. However, once the room has been vacated (e.g., moved out), or the occupants rightfully ejected, police may search any items abandoned, like trash containers, along with anything that belongs to the hotel including dressers, fridges, and room safes.

Finally, if a person is lawfully ejected by the hotel, usually due to non-payment or consuming drugs inside the room, police may assist in ejecting the occupants. However, police should not encourage or direct hotel to eject anyone since this may convert the hotel in the officer’s agent and evictions are civil issues. Also remember, you should not instantly enter the room and start searching for evidence. Under normal circumstances, let management provide the occupants with a reasonable amount of time to pack up and leave. Still, if necessary for officer safety police may enter the room and watch the occupants pack up in order to prevent ambushes, barricade situations, and non-compliance with the ejection.

LEGAL STANDARD

The following rules apply to hotel rooms:

- Hotel rooms are considered a home for the person who rented the room and invited overnight guests;
- Police should consider standard operating procedures before determining whether a room has been abandoned, such as grace periods or mutual understanding by occupant and hotel management (e.g., late payments accepted);
- Hotel rooms that were procured fraudulently (i.e., stolen credit card) are not protected under the Fourth Amendment. However, the court may want evidence the defendant knew or should have known about the fraud.

The following rules apply to tents:

- Tents are considered a home when lawfully erected, or if unlawfully erected, in an area where a person would have a reasonable expectation of privacy, such as an area frequented by transients.

The following rules apply to RVs:

- Recreational Vehicles are often considered homes whenever they are hooked up to a utility, setup in a camping configuration, or not readily mobile (e.g., side skirts, no tires, etc.);
- Even if an RV is considered a “home” under the circumstances, they may still be searched if the officer has probable cause and exigency (e.g., solo park ranger with no time to go into town and procure warrant).

CASE EXAMPLES

Police may assist in evicting occupants

“A defendant, justifiably evicted from his hotel room, has no reasonable expectation of privacy in the room under the Fourth Amendment and police may justifiably enter the room to assist the hotel manager in expelling the individuals in an orderly fashion.”¹⁰

Hotel manager may not authorize search of occupant’s room

Defendant was a suspect in an armed robbery. After police officers obtained information where defendant was staying, they went to the hotel and received permission from a hotel clerk to enter defendant’s room, where they seized evidence without a warrant. Search held to be a violation of the Fourth Amendment.¹¹

¹⁰ U.S. v. Molsbarger, 551 F.3d 809 (8th Cir. N.D. 2009).

¹¹ Stoner v. California, 376 U.S. 483 (1964).

Blocking front door with foot considered a warrantless entry

It has also been found that police blocking door of home with foot constituted entry. Further that lack of warrant, probable cause and exigent circumstances or consent rendered seizure unlawful.¹²

Note: In my experience officers too often refuse to allow occupants to close the door in either a hotel room or home. If police prevent the door from closing they should have probable cause and some exigent circumstance (e.g., ongoing nuisance or potential violence).

Guest did not inform hotel he was extending room, therefore abandoned

The defendant rented a motel room for a single night, paid only for one night, and never informed the desk that he wished to stay beyond that time. After check-out time the following day, the manager entered the room, saw a weapon, and summoned the police. In upholding the police entry of that room, the court reasoned: “[W]hen the term of a guest’s occupancy of a room expires, the guest loses his exclusive right to privacy in the room. The manager of a motel then has the right to enter the room and may consent to a search of the room and the seizure of the items there found.”¹³

No abandonment where hotel did not strictly enforce checkout time

Where hotel did not strictly enforce noon checkout and defendant indicated he would stay until 12:30, abandonment occurred only after later time and therefore police search of the room held unlawful.¹⁴

Officers violated the Fourth Amendment while processing a murder scene inside a tent

The defendant called police and said that he found his female companion shot dead inside their tent. Police arrived and entered the tent without a warrant and found the victim and observed other evidence in plain view. Detectives were summoned and they later entered the tent and processed the crime scene without a warrant. The court held the police lawfully entered the tent initially under the emergency doctrine but the second warrantless entry by detectives was unlawful.¹⁵ Remember, if the defendant has a privacy interest in the place searched police will need valid consent or a warrant. There is no “murder scene” exception.¹⁶

Fact that defendant could not pay for additional nights due to being in jail doesn’t defeat abandonment

After an arrestee’s hotel rental expired, police obtained the manager’s permission to search it. Evidence was discovered and the court held the defendant abandoned room even if no payment was due to being locked up.¹⁷ Note: Cops could still not search closed containers belonging to defendant. The room was abandoned, but not backpacks and so forth.

6.3 Knock and Talks

There is no Fourth Amendment violation if you try to consensually contact a person at their home. The key to knock and talks is to comply with social norms. Think about it this way, if the Girl Scouts could do it, so could you.

You must be reasonable when you contact the subject. Incessant pounding on the door, for example, would likely turn the encounter into a detention if the subject knows that it's the police knocking (an objectively reasonable person would believe that police are commanding him to open the door). Additionally, waking a subject up at 4 a.m. was viewed as a detention requiring reasonable suspicion (see below). Again, if the Girl Scouts would not do then it's probably unreasonable.

What about "No Trespass" signs? You can usually ignore them because trying to have a consensual conversation with someone is not what is typically meant by trespassing. Same goes with "no soliciting" signs.

LEGAL STANDARD

Knock and talks are lawful when:

- The path used to reach the door does not violate curtilage and appears available for uninvited guests to use;
- If the house has multiple doors, you chose the door reasonably believed to be available for uninvited guests to make contact with an occupant;
- You did not employ extraordinary efforts to contact the occupant, including making contact during a socially acceptable time;
- Your conversation with the occupant remained consensual; and
- When the conversation ended or was terminated, you immediately left and did not snoop around.

CASE EXAMPLES

Knock and talk at 4 a.m. held invalid

Officers went to suspect's residence at 4 a.m. with the sole purpose to arrest him. There was no on-going crime and the probable cause was based on an offense that occurred the previous night. Violation of knock and talk because officers exceeded social norms.¹⁸

¹⁸ U.S. v. Lundin, 47 F. Supp. 3d 1003 (N.D. Cal. 2014).

Persistent knock in the middle of the night not consensual

Officers knocked on motel room door in middle of night for a full three minutes in order to make the occupant answer. Conduct constitutes investigative detention, not consent.¹⁹

Command to open door was not a consensual encounter

“Officers were stationed at both doors of the duplex and (an officer) had commanded (the defendant) to open the door. A reasonable person in (defendant’s) situation would have concluded that he had no choice but to acquiesce and open the door.”²⁰

Officer’s statement that he did not need a warrant to talk with occupant found to have tainted consent to enter

Officers made contact with a suspected alien at his apartment. The officers asked to enter the apartment, and the occupant asked whether they needed a warrant for that. The officers said they “did not need a warrant to talk to him.” Based on the totality of the circumstances, the consent was involuntary since a reasonable occupant would have thought police did not need a warrant to enter and talk.²¹

Warrantless entry to secure gun during knock and talk reasonable

While conducting a knock and talk, it was reasonable for the sheriff’s deputy to believe a gun may have been within reach of defendant in his camper and to fear for his safety, and exigent circumstances justified the sheriff’s deputy’s warrantless entry into defendant’s camper to complete the arrest of defendant and subdue the security risk, where the underlying incident that brought the deputies to defendant’s property to question him involved a firearm, defendant was uncooperative, angry, and made a threat toward another person, and defendant resisted arrest and attempted to retreat behind a hanging blanket and out of view, escalating a tense situation.²²

6.4 Open Fields

Open fields are those areas that do not receive any Fourth Amendment protections. Typically, these areas are literally “open fields,” and there are no structures on them (like sheds). Sometimes police will commit a technical trespass in order to reach open fields and view evidence (e.g., marijuana grows). The Supreme Court has held that there is no constitutional violation because the open field itself is not a “house” or “effect” or an area where a person has a reasonable expectation of privacy.²³

If you want to inspect something that is on private property, you may do so without a warrant as long as the property is not within the curtilage of a home. Also, just because there is a physical structure on the open field does not mean it’s curtilage (e.g., tool shed 300 feet away from home). You cannot enter any structure unless it was abandoned, even on open fields.

LEGAL STANDARD

An area is considered an “open field” not protected by the Fourth Amendment when:

- The area is not enclosed by a building or other structure (unless the building is abandoned); and
- The area is not curtilage (discussed next).

CASE EXAMPLES

The Fourth Amendment does not protect open fields

“[T]he special protection accorded by the Fourth Amendment to the people in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, is not extended to the open fields. The distinction between the latter and the house is as old as the common law.”²⁴

6.5 Curtilage

The home is the most protected area of the Fourth Amendment. The space around the home, called curtilage, is also offered this high level of protection.

Whenever you run into a curtilage issue, the first question is whether or not the space is actually curtilage. If not, the area is considered an open-field and not protected by the Fourth Amendment.

If a space is deemed curtilage, then the question becomes whether the area may be used by “uninvited guests” to make contact with an occupant.²⁵ Usually, this area is the pathway up to the front door.

LEGAL STANDARD

Whether an area around a home is curtilage, protected by the Fourth Amendment, depends on weighing four factors:²⁶

- The proximity of the area to the home itself (closer the better);
- Whether the area is included within a single enclosure, natural or artificial, surrounding the home;
- The use of the area (e.g., BBQ pit, pool, kid’s toys, etc.);
- Steps taken by the resident to protect the area from observations by people passing by (built high wooden fence, guard dog, etc.).

CASE EXAMPLES

Area around unoccupied trailer was not curtilage

A suspect had an uninhabited trailer on his property. Police looked around and saw a meth lab inside. Suspect argued the area immediately surrounding the trailer was curtilage. Court held area around trailer was not curtilage.²⁷

Private boat dock not curtilage

Police entered a private dock area, passing a “No Trespass” sign, and looked around. The area was used by boaters who docked their boats there. Area was not curtilage or protected by the Fourth amendment.²⁸

Installing an electric meter on pole in backyard did not violate curtilage

An electric meter installed on a utility pole in the suspect’s backyard by PG&E at police request to monitor theft of electricity did not violate curtilage. PG&E had lawful access to pole and the meter did not reveal anything private, such as what devices were powered by the electricity.²⁹

Observation from side yard of apartment lawful

“In sum, although the defendants could easily have shielded their activities from public view, they failed to take the simple and obvious steps necessary to do so. By exposing their illicit cocaine activities to the side yard—a place where they should have anticipated that other persons might have a right to be—defendants failed to exhibit a subjective expectation that they intended their dealings in the bedroom to be private.” Hence, police observations lawful.³⁰

Apartment lobby not curtilage

“[T]he only issue before us is whether tenants in a large, high-rise apartment building, the front door of which has an undependable lock that was inoperable on the day in question, have a reasonable expectation of privacy in the common areas of their building. Our answer is no. There was nothing to prevent anyone and everyone who wanted to do so from walking in the unlocked door and wandering freely about the premises.”³¹

Whatever the Girl Scouts may do, police may do

The authority of police to conduct a knock and talk “typically permits the [officer] to approach the home by the front path, knock promptly, wait briefly to be received, and then (absent invitation to linger longer) leave.” In other words, whatever the “Girl Scouts” or “trick- or-treaters” would feel lawfully permitted to do, so may police.³²

Automobile exception does not apply when vehicle parked inside curtilage
Warrant required when vehicle is parked under carport next to home.³³

6.6 Plain View, Hearing, Smell

Under the Plain View Doctrine, you may seize any item, that is immediately apparent as contraband or evidence, where you have lawful access.³⁴

The rationale of the plain view doctrine is that if contraband is left in open view and is observed by a police officer from a lawful vantage point, there has been no invasion of a legitimate expectation of privacy and thus no search within the meaning of the Fourth Amendment—or at least no search independent of the initial intrusion that gave the officers their vantage point.³⁵

Again, you need to articulate lawful access. This concept also applies to using other senses such as smell and hearing.

For example, while walking up to a house to perform a knock and talk you pass by a garage window and see a stolen car inside. Can you enter the garage and seize it? Nope, you cannot invade garage without consent, exigency, or a warrant. An example of plain smell would occur when an experienced narcotics officer smells the distinct odor of a methamphetamine lab emanating from the house during a knock and talk. Finally, an example of plain hearing would be an officer walking up to a car during a traffic stop and hearing the driver tell the passenger, “Quick, hide the ‘four five,’” he’s walking up,” apparently referring to a handgun (i.e., .45 caliber).

LEGAL STANDARD

Evidence may be seized if:

- Your protective sweep was lawful (e.g., consent entry, protective sweep, etc.);
- You had probable cause the item was evidence, contraband, fruits, or instrumentalities of a crime (i.e., what courts refer to as “immediately apparent”); and
- You had lawful access to the item.

CASE EXAMPLES

Plain view seizure inside home is reasonable

“The seizure of property in plain view involves no invasion of privacy and is presumptively reasonable, assuming that there is probable cause to associate the property with criminal activity.”³⁶

Plain view did not apply to DNA testing on clothes

Police department's extraction of defendant's DNA sample from his clothing and creation of his DNA profile for testing in murder investigation constituted unreasonable searches under Fourth Amendment, even though police had lawfully obtained defendant's bloody clothing from hospital after he had been shot in unrelated incident, and did not obtain DNA sample from his person, where defendant was free citizen and had never been convicted of felony at time DNA searches were conducted, and defendant's DNA was specifically sought as result of police suspicions that he was involved in murder, and based on some quantum of proof amounting to less than probable cause.³⁷

Using flashlight to see inside car fell under plain view

Our court has held that there is no reasonable expectation of privacy in those areas of a vehicle viewable through the windows by a police officer located outside the vehicle. Thus, the seizure of suspected illegal weapons seen by illuminating the backseat of a vehicle was valid under the plain view exception to the search warrant requirement.³⁸

Plain view includes plain feel, and plain smell

"The bag with the handgun, we believed, fell securely within the well-established "plain view" exception. The officer who came upon that container indicated in his testimony that he felt the outline of the gun as he grasped the paper bag. "Plain view," we think it safe to say, encompasses "plain touch," and probably "plain smell" as well. The idea is, the incriminating contents (contraband or evidence of crime) are "immediately apparent."³⁹

Plain view is nothing more than "right to be, right to see"

"The rationale of the plain view doctrine is that if contraband is left in open view and is observed by a police officer from a lawful vantage point, there has been no invasion of a legitimate expectation of privacy and thus no search within the meaning of the Fourth Amendment—or at least no search independent of the initial intrusion that gave the officers their vantage point."⁴⁰

Overhearing a telephone conversation fell under plain hearing

Without any electronic amplification, an agent overheard the defendant's conversation while on the telephone at the airport. This conversation was used in a search warrant. "As the agent was located in a public place and overheard the conversation... without the use of any amplification device, we conclude that [defendant] did not have a reasonable expectation of privacy."⁴¹

After hot pursuit inside home officer detected plain smell of marijuana

“To elaborate, after observing defendants unloading the bales under the dark of night in a surreptitious manner, and after smelling the odor of marijuana emanating from the packages, and after observing marijuana residue on the floor where the bales were stacked, the police action in opening a package was not a search. Rather, the marijuana was in plain view and ‘plain smell,’ not in a container requiring a search warrant.”⁴² Note: Opening these bundles without consent or a warrant falls under the Single Purpose Container Doctrine discussed elsewhere in this book.

Out of the five senses, the only one that gets “touchy” is when cops touch things to gather information

“Many courts disagree about whether touching or manipulating a person’s luggage constitutes a Fourth Amendment violation. The differences turn on whether a person has an objectively reasonable expectation of privacy in the item being touched. The following cases demonstrate how factual subtleties change the result. In U.S. v. Gault, 92 F.3d 990 (10th Cir. 1996) a police officer lifted a gym bag that was protruding five inches into the aisle of a train. The court ruled that this action was not a search. However, in Bond v. U.S., 529 U.S. 334 (2000), the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that police could not manipulate a passenger’s bag placed directly above the passenger’s head without consent because such action would violate the passenger’s right to privacy.”⁴³

6.7 Trash Searches

It has been clearly established by the Supreme Court that a suspect has no reasonable expectation of privacy in trash that has been left out, in order to be collected by the garbage company (i.e., trash has been “abandoned”).

The key here is that the trash has been put out for collection. If the trash is within the curtilage, and the trash company does not pick-up trash from that location, it has not been abandoned . . . yet.

LEGAL STANDARD

Evidence seized from a “trash pull” is lawful when:

- The person put his trash out for collection in a public area; or
- The trash was seized around a time and at a location where normal collection occurs.

CASE EXAMPLES

Seizing trash for twelve days straight considered lawful

Police seized an apartment dweller’s trash for 12 days straight. Court held trash was abandoned.⁴⁴

Garbage not protected on commercial property unless effort made to keep people out

No reasonable expectation of privacy in garbage left in dumpster⁴⁵ near commercial premises, on private property, where no reasonable effort has been made to keep people out. Remember, commercial property is typically not curtilage, so it is treated as an “open field.”

Depositing contraband into neighbor’s trashcan

Here, the court found the “defendants had no reasonable expectation of privacy with respect to such an unauthorized deposit of contraband,” into the trashcan of her neighbors.⁴⁶

6.8 Consent to Search by Co-Occupants

You may seek consent to search a residence from co-occupants. However, the situation changes when there is a present non-consenting co-occupant. If one occupant tells you to, “Come on in and bring your friends!” and another yells, “Get the hell out, I’m watching Netflix,” then you must stay out.

What about areas under the exclusive control of the consentor? For example, the “cooperative” tenant says you can still search his bedroom? Or a shed they have exclusive control over in the backyard? There is no case that deals directly with this issue, but if the area is truly under the exclusive control of the consenting party, and you can articulate that the non-consenting party has no reasonable expectation of privacy in that area, it would likely be reasonable to search just that area. But one issue remains, you still may not be able to access the area under the cooperative tenant’s control without walking through common areas—evidence found in common areas may still be off limits.

The best practice is to wait until the non-consenting occupant left the residence and then seek consent from the cooperative occupant. In other words, if the non-consenting occupant goes to work, store, or is lawfully arrested, the remaining occupant can consent to search. Still, do not search areas under the exclusive control of the non-consenting party. This could include file cabinets, “man-caves,” purses, backpacks, and so forth.

Finally, if the consenting party has greater authority over the residence, then police may rely on that consent. For example, if a casual visitor or babysitter objected to police entry, it could be overruled by a homeowner. Remember, you may not search personal property under the exclusive control of the visitor or babysitter.

LEGAL STANDARD*Spouses and Co-Occupants

Spouses or co-occupants may consent to search inside a home if:

- The person has apparent authority;

⁴⁵ U.S. v. Dunkel, 90-1 U.S. Tax Cas. (CCH) P 50243 (7th Cir. 1990).

⁴⁶ People v. Superior Court, 23 Cal. App. 3d 1004 (1972).

- Consent is only given for common areas, areas under his exclusive control, or areas or things the person has authorized access to; and
- A non-consenting spouse or co-occupant with the same or greater authority is not present.

Articulating Greater Authority

An occupant with greater authority over the premises may consent to search areas either under his exclusive control or common areas if:

- The co-occupant had greater authority over the area searched;
- You did not enter or walk through any area where the non-consenting occupant had equal or greater authority;
- You did not search any property under the exclusive control of the non-consenting occupant; and
- Your search did not exceed the scope provided by the consenting occupant.

CASE EXAMPLES

If non-consenting occupant leaves, remaining occupant may consent

“[A] co-tenant’s consent to a search can prevail over a defendant’s refusal to consent when the defendant has left the scene, where there is “no evidence that the police have removed the potentially objecting tenant from the entrance for the sake of avoiding a possible objection.”⁴⁷

The consent of one who possesses common authority over premises or effects” generally “is valid as against the absent, non-consenting person with whom that authority is shared.”⁴⁸

If an occupant invites police inside, police may assume other occupants would not object

“[S]hared tenancy is understood to include an “assumption of risk,” on which police officers are entitled to rely, and although some group living together might make an exceptional arrangement that no one could admit a guest without the agreement of all, police need not assume that’s the case.”⁴⁹

6.9 Parental Consent to Search Child’s Room

Generally, a parent can grant consent to search a child’s room, particularly a minor child, even if the child objects to the search.

⁴⁷ People v. Strimple, 267 P.3d 1219 (Colo. 2012).

⁴⁸ Fernandez v. California, 571 U.S. 292 (2014).

⁴⁹ Georgia v. Randolph, 547 U.S. 103 (2006).

LEGAL STANDARD

A child's room may be searched, even when the child denies consent, under the following circumstances:

Minor children:

- A parent may consent for you to search a child's belongings and living areas; unless
- The child possesses an item which the parents have no right to access (like a friend's backpack).

Note: Minor children don't have a reasonable expectation of privacy if they intentionally lock their parents out of their room unless the parents consented to the arrangement.

Adult children:

- Courts will look at whether the child pays rent, if so, it is likely a landlord/tenant relationship and parents may not consent to search; or
- Has the child taken steps to deny his parents access to the property or living area in question, if so, then child may have a reasonable expectation of privacy.

CASE EXAMPLES

Parents may consent to search over a child's objection

"While there is no question minors are entitled to the protection of the Fourth Amendment, adults and minors are not necessarily entitled to the same degree of constitutional protection ... To fulfill their duty of supervision, parents must be empowered to authorize police to search the family home, even over the objection of their minor children."⁵⁰

6.10 Mistaken Authority to Consent

Sometimes you may think you are dealing with someone who has the authority to consent, but later find out you were wrong. For example, the consent was received from a guest, not homeowner. Here, courts will look to see if your mistake was reasonable.

However, ignorance is not bliss: "[O]fficers cannot use the apparent authority doctrine to justify a warrantless search when they fail to make a sufficient inquiry into the consenting party's 'use, access, or control over' the area to be searched,"⁵¹ especially when circumstances exist that would lead a reasonable person to question the person's authority.

For example, if an adult female answers the door and consents to search and cops look around the apartment and it is fairly obvious only a man lives there, then courts expect officers to stop searching and ask more questions about her connection to the apartment. In the end, she may be an overnight guest with no apparent authority over the defendant’s property.

⁵⁰ In re D.C., 188 Cal. App. 4th 978 (Cal. App. 1st Dist. 2010).

⁵¹ Lastine v. State, 134 Nev. 538 (Nev. App. 2018).

 LEGAL STANDARD

If you mistakenly receive consent from a person who had “apparent authority,” courts may employ a three-part analysis to determine if your mistake was reasonable:⁵²

- Did you believe some untrue fact;
- Was it objectively reasonable for you to believe that the fact was true under the circumstances at the time; and
- If true, would the consent giver have had actual authority?

 CASE EXAMPLES

Simply claiming to live at a home may not be enough without more info:

Even if person claims to live at a home, “the surrounding circumstances could conceivably be such that a reasonable person would doubt its truth and not act upon it without further inquiry.”⁵³

6.11 Protective Sweeps

If you make a lawful arrest inside a home, you are allowed to conduct a protective sweep.⁵⁴ There are three zones, or areas, you may search depending on the circumstances.

 LEGAL STANDARD

A protective sweep may be made inside a home during an arrest under the following conditions:

- Zone 1: You may search areas under the immediate control of the suspect for weapons, evidence, or means of escape;
- Zone 2: You may search for people in people-sized places in adjacent areas (e.g., closets and rooms); and
- Zone 3: If you have reasonable suspicion that a dangerous person(s) is in the house, you may search for people in people-sized places and detain the people until the arrest is completed (not automatic! Requires articulation).

Remember: Zone 2 and 3 sweeps may never be used to search for “evidence”; only people in people-sized places. Nevertheless, you may seize evidence observed in plain view.

⁵² State v. Taylor, 114 Nev. 1071 (1998).

⁵³ Ill. v. Rodriguez, 497 U.S. 177 (1990).

⁵⁴ Maryland v. Buie, 494 U.S. 325 (1990).

If you are making an arrest outside the home then you may enter the home and conduct a protect sweep under the following conditions:

- You have reasonable suspicion that a dangerous person is in the house and may attack you or the arrestee you may enter the home and detain the person until the arrest is completed.

CASE EXAMPLES

Severity of crime committed can help justify protective sweep

“(T)he type of criminal conduct underlying the arrest or search is significant in determining if a protective sweep is justified.”⁵⁵ Generalized safety concerns are not enough.⁵⁶

Protective sweep of other rooms must be justified

Protective sweeps of the areas of the home beyond adjacent areas (i.e., other rooms) of the arrest will not be upheld absent an articulable reason for believing someone in the home is present who constitutes a potential danger to the officers.⁵⁷

Warrantlessly entering home and seizing a domestic violence suspect’s guns is not permitted under community caretaking

“Decades ago, this Court held that a warrantless search of an impounded vehicle for an unsecured firearm did not violate the Fourth Amendment. In reaching this conclusion, the Court observed that police officers who patrol the ‘public highways’ are often called to discharge noncriminal ‘community caretaking functions,’ such as responding to disabled vehicles or investigating accidents. The question today is whether Cady’s acknowledgment of these ‘caretaking’ duties creates a standalone doctrine that justifies warrantless searches and seizures in the home. It does not.”

Justice Alito went on to say, “This case also implicates another body of law that petitioner glossed over: the so-called ‘red flag’ laws that some States are now enacting. These laws enable the police to seize guns pursuant to a court order to prevent their use for suicide or the infliction of harm on innocent persons. They typically specify the standard that must be met and the procedures that must be followed before firearms may be seized. Provisions of red flag laws may be challenged under the Fourth Amendment, and those cases may come before us. Our decision today does not address those issues.”⁵⁸ The takeaway here is law enforcement generally needs some form of exigency to warrantlessly enter home, not just a “best practice.” Therefore, if there is no exigency or consent, get a warrant.

⁵⁵ People v. Ledesma, 106 Cal. App. 4th 857 (Cal. App. 1st Dist. 2003).

⁵⁷ U.S. v. Furrow, 229 F.3d 805 (9th Cir. Idaho 2000).

⁵⁸ Caniglia v. Strom, 141 S. Ct. 1596, 1598 (2021).

Officers lawfully conducted protective sweep inside home despite arrest occurring outside

“If the exigencies to support a protective sweep exist, whether the arrest occurred inside or outside the residence does not affect the reasonableness of the officer’s conduct. A bullet fired at an arresting officer standing outside a window is as deadly as one that is projected from one room to another.”⁵⁹

6.12 Hot Pursuit and Fresh Pursuit

There’s a difference between “hot pursuit” and “fresh pursuit.” Hot pursuit is when you are literally chasing a suspect who is trying to flee. You can follow him anywhere he goes, but you will need some form of exigency (see below). Fresh pursuit, on the other hand, is where you have identified a suspect in a serious violent felony and are actively tracking him down. If you quickly track down where he’s hiding you may make a warrantless entry and arrest him if there’s exigency (see below). In two recent U.S. Supreme case, the Court has severely restricted law enforcement ability to enter a home without a warrant and exigency.

Here’s the bottom line, if you don’t have some form of exigency, get a warrant.

LEGAL STANDARD

You may make a warrantless entry into a residence to arrest a suspect if:

Hot Pursuit:⁶⁰

- You have probable cause to arrest the person (if the original stop was for reasonable suspicion, his flight may transform into obstruction, check state law);
- You are actively chasing the person and do not lose sight of him for an unreasonable amount of time (+/-15 minutes);
- The suspect knows you’re trying to stop him before he flees into his home;
- Knock and announce rules apply (if you’re right on the suspect’s tail you don’t need to stop and knock. Instead, this refers to losing the suspect briefly and then tracking him down into his house. Depending on the circumstances, you may have to knock and announce before entering);
- The crime is a felony or misdemeanor with exigency:
 - Prevent the destruction of evidence;
 - Prevent the suspect’s escape;
 - There is a safety risk to the officer or public;
 - Need to render aid to an occupant;
 - Need to protect an occupant from imminent harm;
 - Any other situation where there is a compelling need for official action and no time to get a warrant; and
- You cannot search for evidence, but may make a plain view seizure.

⁵⁹ U.S. v. Hoyos, 892 F.2d 1387 (9th Cir. 1989).

⁶⁰ People v. Lloyd, 216 Cal. App. 3d 1425 (Cal. App. 2d Dist. 1989).

Fresh Pursuit:⁶¹

- You have probable cause that the person committed a serious violent felony;
- You develop probable cause that the suspect has fled inside his home;
- You are fresh on the suspect's trail since the crime was committed (elapse of more than three hours is pushing it);
- Knock and announce rules apply;
- You have exigency:
 - Prevent the destruction of evidence;
 - Prevent the suspect's escape;
 - There is a safety risk to the officer or public;
 - Need to render aid to an occupant;
 - Need to protect an occupant from imminent harm;
 - Any other situation where there is a compelling need for official action and no time to get a warrant; and
- You cannot search for evidence but may make a plain view seizure.

CASE EXAMPLES

Officers were in fresh pursuit of murder suspect 2 ½ hours later

Where there was a two and a half hour investigation between a robbery-murder and the location of the defendant's home, the officers were found to be in "fresh pursuit," justifying a warrantless entry to arrest the suspect.⁶²

Police were not in fresh pursuit of suspected get-away driver in convenience store robbery-murder

Exigent circumstances did not justify warrantless entry into upstairs duplex for purpose of arrest of overnight guest; police knew that suspect was in upstairs duplex with no suggestion of danger to other occupants of duplex and it was evident that suspect was going nowhere. Additionally, the crime occurred the previous day.⁶³

Attempting to arrest DUI suspect who makes it home before police arrival does not automatically allow entry to make warrantless arrest

An officer informed an occupant that she could be charged for interfering with the investigation if he was not allowed to come in and arrest the driver, at which point she let the police in. The driver was in a locked bedroom and refused to come out. However, when the officer threatened to break down the door, she opened it and was arrested. The court found no exigency and suppressed the evidence (blood draw).⁶⁴

Following fresh snow prints after rape fell under fresh pursuit

When an officer began following the suspect's footprints 30 to 45 minutes after the rape was committed, it was reasonable to assume that the suspect, who left the scene on foot, might still be in flight and therefore entering his hotel room to make the arrest was lawful fresh pursuit (the court called this “hot pursuit”).⁶⁵

Misdemeanor hot pursuit does not automatically equal entry

“In misdemeanor cases, flight does not always supply the exigency that this Court has demanded for a warrantless home entry.”⁶⁶

6.13 Warrantless Arrest at Doorway

Normally, you cannot enter a person’s home to make a warrantless arrest. There are two exceptions: 1) “exigency” and, 2) the “threshold doctrine.” If a person is standing “in” his doorframe (i.e., threshold) you may physically take him into custody because the court views the threshold as quasi-public. Same logic applies to any area where the public has access, like porches. If the suspect runs you may chase him based upon hot pursuit.⁶⁷ However, under a recent Supreme Court ruling Hot Pursuit requires a felony or exigency.⁶⁸

Tread lightly here because if the suspect successfully argues that he was a few inches inside his house, and not within the “threshold,” it would be an unconstitutional entry and arrest.

Alternatively, the majority of cases hold that you may use a ruse to get the subject to voluntarily exit the residence if you had P.C. For example, you could tell a wanted suspect that his car was illegally parked and to move it even if not true since that tactic doesn’t invade the sanctity of the home.

LEGAL STANDARD

A suspect may be arrested if:

- You are conducting a lawful knock and talk;
- He is standing “in” or “outside” his doorway; and
- You have probable cause.

If the suspect flees into his home, exigency will likely be required before you can enter and arrest him. Courts typically look at these factors:

- Felony offense;
- Prevent the destruction of evidence;
- Prevent the suspect’s escape;
- There is a safety risk to the officer or public;
- Need to render aid to an occupant;
- Need to protect an occupant from imminent harm;
- Any other situation where there is a compelling need for official action and no time to get a warrant.

⁶⁷ People v. Hampton, 164 Cal. App. 3d 27 (Cal. App. 1st Dist. 1985).

⁶⁸ See Lange v. California, No. 20-18, 2021 WL 2557068 (U.S. June 23, 2021).

Note: You may arrest a person who is standing inside their house, even if the door is open. This is true even if you have probable cause for a serious offense. Instead, you will also need exigency or an arrest warrant. It has been referred to as “body snatching” people from homes and is not constitutionally sound. Instead, persuade them to come out or get a warrant.

CASE EXAMPLES

Suspect standing in doorway was lawfully chased in hot pursuit

Standing in the doorway is a public place for arrest purposes.⁶⁹ Therefore, when the suspect ran back inside his home it was a lawful hot pursuit.

Courts generally do not permit “body snatching” suspects out of their home without exigency

Officers decided that they had probable cause to arrest a suspect for aggravated stalking. Though they had no warrant or exigent circumstances, the officers went to his home to arrest him. In response to the officers’ knock, the suspect opened his front door. One of the officers immediately reached into his home and arrested him. The officers violated the suspect’s Fourth Amendment right to be free from unreasonable seizure.⁷⁰

6.14 Warrantless Entry to Make Arrest

You cannot make a warrantless entry into a home to make an arrest without consent or exigency.⁷¹ Even if the arrest was for a violent triple murder, you would have to articulate consent or exigency before entering. Also, the entry should be “peaceful,” if possible.

LEGAL STANDARD

A warrantless entry to make an arrest may be made with:

Consent:

- You may enter if you have consent from an occupant with apparent authority over the premises and you make known your intention to arrest the suspect.

Hot Pursuit:

- You are in hot pursuit of a suspect believed to have committed any felony or a misdemeanor and you have exigent circumstances and they run into their home (a surround and call-out may also be done for officer safety purposes).

⁶⁹ U.S. v. Santana, 427 U.S. 38 (1976).

⁷⁰ Moore v. Pederson, 806 F.3d 1036, 1045 (11th Cir. 2015).

⁷¹ Payton v. N.Y., 445 U.S. 573 (1980).

Fresh Pursuit:

- You are in fresh pursuit of the suspect after investigating a serious or violent felony and diligently track the suspect back to his home (anything over three hours is pushing it).

Suspect will Escape:

- You have probable cause that the suspect committed a serious violent crime, and you reasonably believe he will escape before obtaining a warrant.

Undercover Officer - Arrest team entries:

- You are an undercover officer and develop probable cause to arrest the occupant you may summon additional officers into the home to assist.⁷²

Remember for all Uninvited Entries:

- Knock and announce rules apply; and
- You cannot search for evidence but may make a plain view seizure.

CASE EXAMPLES

Entry to make any arrest, even for murder, requires consent, exigency, or a warrant

“To be arrested in the home involves not only the invasion attendant to all arrests but also an invasion of the sanctity of the home. This is simply too substantial an invasion to allow without a warrant, at least in the absence of exigent circumstances, even when it is accomplished under statutory authority and when probable cause is clearly present.”⁷³

Additional officers may enter if officer is inside the residence

An informant and undercover police officer went to defendant’s residence to arrange a drug transaction. Defendant showed the pair a bag containing cocaine. The pair left the residence and returned with another agent, who was the purported purchaser. The door had been left ajar, so police officers entered the residence and arrested defendant.⁷⁴

Delayed entry unlawful without exigency

“In a prosecution arising out of the purchase of stolen weapons from an undercover police officer in defendants’ home. Although the undercover officer had been voluntarily admitted into the home, he had walked outside of the house to signal uniformed officers to arrest defendants. The officers then arrested defendants within the house without first obtaining an arrest warrant, seized the weapons sold, and uncovered a rifle in their subsequent search of the house. The court held that despite the legality of the officer’s initial entry, his reentry without consent and in the absence of exigent circumstances rendered the arrest and the search incident thereto unlawful.”⁷⁵

⁷³ U.S. v. Reed, 572 F.2d 412, 423 (1978).

⁷⁴ Toubus v. Superior Court, 114 Cal. App. 3d 378 (Cal. App. 1st Dist. 1981).

⁷⁵ People v. Garcia, 139 Cal. App. 3d Supp. 1 (Cal. App. Dep’t Super. Ct. 1982).

Immediate reentry lawful

Warrantless arrest of defendant in his residence upheld when defendant had consented to initial entry by police officer, during which time defendant committed crime in officer's presence, after which officer left and immediately reentered with other officers to arrest defendant.⁷⁶

6.15 Warrantless Entry for an Emergency

You may make a warrantless home entry if you have an objective reasonable basis for believing that an occupant requires emergency assistance,⁷⁷ or an occupant is threatened with imminent injury.

Remember, the scope of your entry is limited and you must leave, if demanded, once the emergency is over.

LEGAL STANDARD

A warrantless entry into a home may be made when:⁷⁸

- You have reason to believe an immediate need exists for the protection of human life or to protect property;
- The search or entry is primarily motivated by the emergency, rather than by an intent to arrest or secure evidence;
- There is a reasonable connection between the emergency and the actions conducted by law enforcement;
- Knock and announce rules apply; and
- You cannot search for evidence, but may make a plain view seizure.

CASE EXAMPLES*Warrantless entry for serious injury or threatened injury reasonable

A warrant is not required when there is a “need to assist persons who are seriously injured or threatened with such injury. The need to protect or preserve life or avoid serious injury is justification for what would be otherwise illegal absent an exigency or emergency.”⁷⁹

Warrantless entry justified to protect domestic violence victim

“Officers’ decisions to enter a home to ensure the safety of those believed to be at risk of domestic violence have been found reasonable” by most courts.⁸⁰

⁷⁶ People v. Cespedes, 191 Cal. App. 3d 768 (Cal. App. 1st Dist. 1987).

⁷⁷ Michigan v. Fisher, 558 U.S. 45 (2009).

⁷⁸ State v. Bookheimer, 221 W. Va. 720, 656 S.E.2d 471 (2007).

⁷⁹ Brigham City v. Stuart, 547 U.S. 398 (2006).

⁸⁰ Fletcher v. Town of Clinton, 196 F.3d 41 (1st Cir. Me. 1999).

Warrantless entry into home and seizing a domestic violence suspect's guns is not permitted under community caretaking

“Decades ago, this Court held that a warrantless search of an impounded vehicle for an unsecured firearm did not violate the Fourth Amendment. In reaching this conclusion, the Court observed that police officers who patrol the ‘public highways’ are often called to discharge noncriminal ‘community caretaking functions,’ such as responding to disabled vehicles or investigating accidents. The question today is whether...these ‘caretaking’ duties creates a standalone doctrine that justifies warrantless searches and seizures in the home. It does not.”⁸¹

6.16 Warrantless Entry for Officer Safety

Generally, you may make a warrantless entry when you have reason to believe violence is imminent upon officers.

Courts have recognized two situations where this can occur. First, if you are making an arrest outside of a person’s home (i.e., front yard) and you have an objective reasonable basis to believe that someone inside the home is about to attack you, police may make entry and conduct a protective sweep.

Second, if you are interviewing a suspect outside his home and he suddenly flees back into the home, you can follow him if you have an objective reasonable belief that he was going to get a weapon.

LEGAL STANDARD

An warrantless entry into a home may be made if:

- You have reason to believe that someone inside the home possesses a serious threat to an officer’s safety;
- Once there is no longer a threat, you must leave unless you receive consent or a warrant;
- Knock and announce rules apply; and
- You cannot search for evidence, but may make a plain view seizure.

CASE EXAMPLES

Judges should be cautious about second guessing officer safety

Officers in Burbank were investigating reports that a student was going to “shoot up” the school. They went to his house and spoke to his mother, who acted oddly and when asked about whether there were guns in the house quickly turned around and went into the house. Officers followed in case she was going to get a gun...an officer may enter if he had a reasonable basis for concluding that there is an imminent threat of violence...Judges should be cautious about second-guessing a police officer’s assessment, made on the scene, of the danger presented by a particular situation.⁸²

⁸¹ Caniglia v. Strom, 141 S. Ct. 1596, 1598 (2021).

⁸² Ryburn v. Huff, 565 U.S. 469 (2012).

6.17 Warrantless Entry to Investigate Child Abuse

If you have an objective reasonable basis to believe that a child needs immediate protection or aid you may make a warrantless entry to render aid or protect the child from further harm.⁸³ These rules generally fall under the Emergency Aid Exception.

LEGAL STANDARD

An warrantless entry into a home may be made if:

- You have a reason to believe that a child inside the home is in immediate need for protection or aid;
- Knock and announce rules apply;
- If the child is determined to be safe, you must leave unless you receive consent or a warrant; and
- You cannot search for evidence, but may make a plain view seizure.

CASE EXAMPLES

Exigency existed for caseworker to enter home and remove child

Exigent circumstances permit a social services caseworker to seize a child without a warrant if the caseworker has reasonable cause to believe that the child is likely to experience serious bodily harm in the time that would be required to obtain a warrant.⁸⁴

Note: This was a case involving a lawsuit against the caseworker, not law enforcement. Courts may not be as strict with them, but will be with you (see case below).

However, if police and caseworker work as team, probable cause and exigency required, not lower “reasonable cause” standard

Exigent circumstances did not justify an officer’s warrantless entry into the parents’ home while accompanying social workers following up on a child abuse referral.⁸⁵

6.18 Warrantless Entry to Protect Property

If you have an objective reasonable basis to believe that a warrantless entry will help protect property from damage, such as theft or vandalism, you may enter the property in order to help secure it or to contact the owner.

⁸³ People v. Brown, 6 Cal. App. 3d 619 (Cal. App. 4th Dist. 1970).

⁸⁴ Gates v. Texas Dept. of Protective and Regulatory Services, 537 F.3d 404 (5th Cir. 2008).

⁸⁵ Andrews v. Hickman County, Tenn., 700 F.3d 845 (6th Cir. 2012).

LEGAL STANDARD

An warrantless entry into a building may be made if:

- You have a reason to believe that the property is in immediate need of protection (e.g., on fire, gas leak, etc.);
- Once the property is secured or the owner notified, you must leave unless you receive consent or a warrant;
- Knock and announce rules apply; and
- You cannot search for evidence, but may make a plain view seizure.

CASE EXAMPLES

Warrantless entry upheld in search of starving horses

Animal control officer determined that a horse on defendant's farm had died of starvation. A warrantless search of the barn for other horses was justified under "state policy to render aid to relatively vulnerable and helpless animals when faced with people willing or even anxious to mistreat them."⁸⁶

Lawful entry when investigating a burglary and television was outside of window

While investigating a possible home burglary, the officer noticed a television set outside the window of a house, entered the residence without a warrant, and came upon a methamphetamine lab. The court held the entry as valid, "as the television set outside the window was substantial evidence indicating the burglars could still be inside."⁸⁷

6.19 Warrantless Entry to Investigate Homicide Crime

Generally, you cannot make a warrantless entry into a home unless you have consent, recognized exception or a warrant (C.R.E.W.). There's a recognized exception to make a warrantless entry to render emergency aid to a shooting victim or to freeze a homicide scene to prevent destruction of evidence and remove occupants. However, it would be a violation to fully process the crime scene without first obtaining consent or a search warrant. There is no "crime scene exception" to the warrant requirement, even for a violent murder.

LEGAL STANDARD

A warrantless entry into a home may be made if:

- You have a reason to believe that a serious crime has occurred inside the property and police need to check for additional victims or secure the scene for a warrant;

⁸⁶ State v. Bauer, 127 Wis.2d 401 (1985).

⁸⁷ People v. Duncan, 42 Cal.3d 91 (1986).

- Knock and announce rules apply;
- You cannot search for evidence, but may make a plain view seizure; and
- Once the property is secured, you must receive consent or a warrant to search for evidence.

CASE EXAMPLES

There is no “murder scene exception” to warrant requirement

The United States Supreme Court rejected the contention that there is a “murder scene exception” to the Warrant Clause of the Fourth Amendment. Police may make warrantless entries onto premises if they reasonably believe a person is in need of immediate aid and may make prompt warrantless searches of a homicide scene for possible other victims or a killer on the premises, but searching for evidence requires a warrant.⁸⁸

6.20 Warrantless Entry to Prevent Destruction of Evidence

Generally, you cannot make a warrantless entry into a home unless you have consent, recognized exception or a warrant (C.R.E.W.). One of the recognized exceptions is the warrantless entry to prevent the destruction of evidence.⁸⁹ Remember, you cannot create the exigency. But simply knocking on the door does not count.

LEGAL STANDARD

A warrantless entry into a home or business may be made if:

- You have probable cause that an occupant is or is about to destroy evidence or contraband;
- You did not create the exigency;
- Once the home is secured, you must get a warrant to search for evidence;
- Knock and announce rules apply; and
- You cannot search for evidence, but may make a plain view seizure (or quickly photograph, leave it, and attach photo to affidavit).

CASE EXAMPLES

Knocking on door and saying “police” did not create the exigency

Officers smelled marijuana coming from apartment. After knocking on the door and saying “police” they heard suspects destroying evidence. Warrantless entry was lawful to preserve evidence.⁹⁰

⁸⁸ Mincey v. Arizona, 437 U.S. 385 (1978).

⁸⁹ Minnesota v. Olson, 495 U.S. 91 (1990).

⁹⁰ Kentucky v. King, 563 U.S. 452 (2011).

6.21 Warrantless Entry Based on “Ruse” or Lie

Generally, courts do not like “ruses.” A ruse is where someone is tricked. Still, it’s okay to “lie” about your identity, but not your purpose. For example, as an undercover cop you couldn’t sneak around a suspect’s home during a drug buy, that would be a lie about purpose (i.e., there to buy drugs, not snoop around).

Additionally, it’s inappropriate to use a ruse in order to gain entry into someone’s home in order to arrest him. For example, if you planned to arrest a suspect (without arrest warrant) it would not be okay to conduct a knock and talk and lie to the subject that you were investigating a gas leak. On the other hand, if your intention was to talk and during the conversation you developed P.C. to arrest, you could make the warrantless arrest since you were lawfully inside the home. Do you see the subtle difference?

Alternatively, the majority of cases hold that you may use a ruse to get the subject to voluntarily exit the residence if you had P.C. For example, you could tell a wanted suspect that his car was illegally parked and to move it even if not true since that tactic does not invade the sanctity of the home.

LEGAL STANDARD

A ruse or lie may not be used to enter a home and search for evidence unless:

- You possessed a search warrant; and
- You had exigency which justified not announcing your purpose to enter the home under “knock and announce.”

CASE EXAMPLES

Unlawful ruse by ATF agent who portrayed himself as state LEO

ATF tagged along with a CA DOJ agent to perform a licensing inspection. ATF was actually conducting a different investigation. Court held the entry was an unlawful ruse.⁹¹

6.22 Using Ruses to Get Occupants to Leave Home

Generally, you may use a ruse to get a suspect to come out of his house if you have probable cause.⁹² Once the suspect is outside, you may arrest him. “Outside” the home includes the front porch and anywhere the general public has lawful access. These areas usually include walkways to the front door and driveways.

Generally, courts highly scrutinize ruses with the intent to make a warrantless entry into the home. Generally, an officer may lie to an occupant in order to make a consensual entry as long as the officer does not lie about the primary purpose for entering.

⁹¹ U.S. v. Bosse, 898 F.2d 113 (9th Cir. Cal. 1990).

⁹² U.S. v. Rengifo, 858 F.2d 800 (1st Cir. R.I. 1988).

For example, if cops wanted enter a home with the intent to see plain view evidence, they should not tell the occupants they suspect a (fake) gas leak. It would be okay for an undercover officer to lie about their identify in order to purchase drugs because the primary purpose is to buy drugs. However, that same undercover officer should not falsely represent himself as political candidate in order to gain consent to enter the home to talk politics, with the primary purpose is to see inside the home. Best practice, don't use ruses, especially when trying to gain entry inside a home. They are heavily scrutinized.

Tricking people out of their home is one thing. Tricking your way in is another.

LEGAL STANDARD

You may use a ruse or lie to get a suspect to exit his home if:

- You have an arrest warrant; or
- You have probable cause and exigent circumstances to make the arrest.

CASE EXAMPLES

Unlawful ruse where plainclothes cop told citizen he just hit his car

Where subject came out to inspect damage on car, court held that ruse was unreasonable since even innocent people would leave their residence. Evidence from consent to search suppressed.⁹³ Here, there was no probable cause and exigent circumstances.

6.23 Impounding a Home in Anticipation of a Warrant

Generally, you may “freeze” or “impound” a residence if there’s probable cause to believe there’s evidence inside, and exigent circumstances exist to believe the evidence will be gone before receiving a search warrant.⁹⁴

If you are inside the home to exclude occupants and see evidence in plain view, you may make a warrantless seizure of the evidence. But often the best practice is to leave the evidence inside the residence, exclude the occupants, and obtain judicial approval with a warrant.

Remember, knock and announce rules apply.

LEGAL STANDARD

A residence may be impounded in anticipation of a search warrant when:

- You have clear probable cause to get a search warrant;
- You have additional probable cause that the evidence or contraband will be destroyed or moved prior to executing the search warrant;

⁹³ People v. Reyes, 83 Cal. App. 4th 7 (Cal. App. 4th Dist. 2000).

⁹⁴ Illinois v. McArthur, 531 U.S. 326 (2001).

- You may not enter the residence unless you have a reason to believe the home is occupied;
- You must diligently apply for the warrant; knock and announce rules apply; and
- You cannot search for evidence, but may make a plain view seizure.

Note: I strongly suggest you do not include evidence observed during the detention of the home in your search warrant. First, you shouldn't need it because you needed probable cause before the entry. Second, the defendant may argue that you only got the warrant because of the evidence observed during the warrantless entry and therefore your pre-detention probable cause was insufficient. Save yourself the headache and leave it out.

6.24 Surround and Call-Out

A barricaded suspect is one who poses a danger to himself or others and refuses to leave his residence. Often, police will surround the house and try to convince the suspect to come out peacefully. Surrounding a home is a seizure under the Fourth Amendment and must be justified by exigency (usually not an issue in these cases). Further, police may not “bullhorn” someone out of their home on nothing more than probable cause to arrest since this would be a “seizure” inside the home which also requires exigency.

If the subject is suicidal, the recognized exception is the “emergency aid exception.” Often there’s no crime committed by the subject (attempting suicide is generally not a “crime”) and police are trying to take the suspect into custody for a mental evaluation.

LEGAL STANDARD

A surround and call-out is lawful when:

- You have probable cause and authority to enter the home to make the arrest or a civil commitment; and
- You have exigency that the suspect poses a threat to officers;
- Additionally, a surround and call-out is lawful under the emergency aid exception when the subject is a danger to himself or others (usually suicidal with weapon);
- If entry is made you cannot search for evidence, but may make a plain view seizure.

CASE EXAMPLES

No warrant needed during a surround and callout

During an armed standoff, once exigent circumstances justify the warrantless seizure of the suspect in his home, and so long as the police are actively engaged in completing his arrest, the police need not obtain an arrest warrant before taking the suspect into full physical custody.⁹⁵

⁹⁵ Fisher v. City of San Jose, 558 F.3d 1069 (9th Cir. Cal. 2009).

Chapter 7

Businesses & Schools

7.1 Warrantless Arrest Inside Business

Generally, you may enter “public areas” of a business to make an arrest. However, you do not have an automatic right, even when you possess an arrest warrant, to enter business offices and other private areas where there is a reasonable and legitimate expectation of privacy.¹ These areas are typically private offices where the public does not have access.

LEGAL STANDARD

A warrantless arrest inside a business is lawful when:

- You make the arrest in a public area of the business; or
- If the suspect is in a private area where he has a reasonable expectation of privacy, consent to enter is given by someone with apparent authority and the suspect does not object before entry;
- Or you have a search warrant for that location.

CASE EXAMPLES

Entry into closed portion of business unlawful

Officers entered a casino bingo hall that was presently closed to the public. Officers saw evidence of illegal gambling. Since bingo hall was not presently accessible to the public, the court suppressed the evidence.²

Forced entry into private area of dental office unlawful

Police officers, who were investigating claim that dentist had sexually assaulted his receptionist, could not make unannounced forcible entry into private area of the business without exigency.³

Entry into public areas does not require a warrant

Warrant not necessary to enter reception area through unlocked door during business hours, as there was “no reasonable expectations of privacy there.”⁴

³ People v. Polito, 42 Ill.App.3d 372, 355 N.E.2d 725 (1976).

7.2 Customer Business Records

Generally, a customer has no reasonable expectation of privacy in information kept by a third party.⁵ Therefore, you may request access to business records. However, if access is denied then a court order, subpoena, or search warrant is required. You cannot demand a business hand over its records.

LEGAL STANDARD

Police may request or subpoena customer records without a warrant if:

- The company consents to provide the records; or
- You receive a subpoena for the records; and
- If the records are digital tracking data, such as cell phone location records, which would violate the suspect's reasonable expectation of privacy in his movements or activities, a search warrant is required.
- You comply with state law.

CASE EXAMPLES

Customer has no reasonable expectation of privacy in banking records

“The Fourth Amendment protects against intrusions into an individual’s zone of privacy. In general, a depositor has no reasonable expectation of privacy in bank records, such as checks, deposit slips, and financial statements maintained by the bank. Where an individual’s Fourth Amendment rights are not implicated, obtaining the documents does not violate his or her rights, even if the documents lead to indictment.”⁶

Tracking suspect through cell-site records requires a warrant or exigency

The Government’s acquisition of the cell-site records was a search within the meaning of the Fourth Amendment.⁷

7.3 Heavily Regulated Businesses

In general, businesses enjoy Fourth Amendment protections. One notable exception is when you conduct warrantless administrative inspections of heavily regulated businesses. These often include bars, gun stores, and junk yards.

⁵ Smith v. Md., 442 U.S. 735 (1979); U.S. v. Miller, 425 U.S. 435 (1976).

⁶ Marsoner v. U.S. (In re Grand Jury Proceedings), 40 F.3d 959 (9th Cir. Ariz. 1994).

⁷ Carpenter v. U.S., 138 U.S. 2206 (2018).

LEGAL STANDARD

The following is required to conduct warrantless administrative searches:

- A statutory scheme must be in place so that the business is on notice that a warrantless administrative search may be conducted; and
- The scope of the search must comply with the statute. If denied entry, a warrant may still be required but the business may lose their license as a result of their refusal.

CASE EXAMPLES

Owners of heavily regulated businesses are on notice for warrantless searches

“Certain industries have such a history of government oversight that no reasonable expectation of privacy could exist for a proprietor over the stock of such an enterprise. Liquor...and firearms...are industries of this type; when an entrepreneur embarks upon such a business, he has voluntarily chosen to subject himself to a full arsenal of governmental regulation.”⁸

Fishing business is heavily regulated industry in Massachusetts

Fishing industry is heavily regulated industry in Massachusetts and statute authorizing random document checks was constitutional.⁹

Warrantless safety inspection of commercial vehicles upheld

Texas statute authorizing stop and safety inspection of trucks without individualized suspicion is constitutional administrative search because trucking is a pervasively regulated industry.¹⁰

7.4 Fire, Health, and Safety Inspections

Generally, businesses enjoy Fourth Amendment protections. One notable exception is “fire, health and safety” inspections.

LEGAL STANDARD

The following is required to conduct warrantless safety searches:

- A statutory scheme must be in place so that the business is on notice that a warrantless administrative search may be conducted;

⁸ Marshall v. Barlow’s, Inc., 98 S. Ct. 1816 (1978).

⁹ Tart v. Com. of Mass., 949 F.2d 490 (1st Cir. 1991).

¹⁰ U.S. v. Fort, 248 F.3d 475 (5th Cir. 2001).

- The scope of the search must comply with the statute;
- However, unlike heavily regulated businesses, if you are denied entry, an administrative warrant is required based on the statute.

CASE EXAMPLES

OSHA inspections require a warrant without consent

OSHA attempted to make a safety inspection on a plumbing business. The owner denied OSHA entry, and demanded a warrant. The Court held that it was not overly burdensome for OSHA to get a warrant if consent was denied.¹¹

Warrantless health inspection of rabbits upheld

Warrantless inspection, by the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, of breeder of rabbits for research, pursuant to Animal Welfare Act, met constitutional requirements.¹²

Officer may not use admin search as loophole to seize evidence

“[W]hen a law enforcement officer intends to seize a particular piece of criminal evidence from the premises of a pawnshop, the seizure may not be substantiated by relying on the pretense of an administrative search coupled with the plain view doctrine. In such a situation, the officer must obtain a warrant.”¹³

7.5 Government Workplace Searches

The Fourth Amendment applies to all government searches and seizures, including government workplace searches and drug tests. However, the Supreme Court has significantly lowered the bar for these searches and they are generally upheld if conducted for a legitimate purpose and carried out in a reasonable manner. A government supervisor may search an employee’s desk, filing cabinets, or other areas without a warrant or probable cause so long as the search is reasonable at its inception and reasonable in scope. As the Supreme Court noted:

In our view, requiring an employer to obtain a warrant whenever the employer wished to enter an employee’s office, desk, or file cabinets for a work-related purpose would seriously disrupt the routine conduct of business and would be unduly burdensome.¹⁴

¹¹ Marshall v. Barlow’s, Inc., 436 U.S. 307 (1978)

¹² Lesser v. Espy, 34 F.3d 1301 (7th Cir. 1994)

¹³ Winters v. Bd. of Cty. Comm’rs, 4 F.3d 848, 854 (10th Cir. 1993).

¹⁴ O’Connor v. Ortega, 107 S. Ct. 1492 (1987).

LEGAL STANDARD

You may search a government employee's work area if:

- The search is justified by a legitimate workplace need;
- The search is carried out in a reasonable manner;
- The search is not excessively intrusive in light of the circumstances given rise to the search; and
- The employee does not enjoy a reasonable expectation of privacy in the particular area or thing searched.

CASE EXAMPLES

The Fourth Amendment applies to government workplace searches

"The Amendment guarantees the privacy, dignity, and security of persons against certain arbitrary and invasive acts by officers of the Government," without regard to whether the government actor is investigating crime or performing another function. The Fourth Amendment applies as well when the Government acts in its capacity as an employer."¹⁵

7.6 School Searches

The Fourth Amendment applies to public schools. However, school administrators may search under the reasonable suspicion standard instead of the typical probable cause standard.

On the other hand, the Fourth Amendment does not apply to private school searches, even if the school receives most of its operating funds from public revenue. Therefore, any search conducted by a private school is admissible as evidence and not subject to the exclusionary rule.

Finally, police officers must apply regular Fourth Amendment protections.

LEGAL STANDARD

Lockers

Students have little reasonable expectation of privacy in their lockers. Some factors courts may consider are whether the student was informed that lockers could be searched at any time, whether the school provided the lock, and whether the locker contents could be viewed without opening it (e.g., mesh door). Locker searches based on general or individualized suspicion will be upheld. Random and suspicionless locker searches will be judged on a case by case basis and officials should articulate the need to maintain a safe campus, and why students would not have a reasonable expectation of privacy in their locker.

¹⁵ City of Ontario v. Quon, 560 U.S. 746 (2010).

Desks and work areas

Students and staff members have no reasonable expectation of privacy in areas that are shared with others. Additionally, this applies to hallways, classrooms, and school computers.

Vehicles on School Grounds

School officials may run a drug K9 on the outside of vehicles without reasonable suspicion. However, officials need individualized suspicion in order to conduct a warrantless search for drugs, firearms, or evidence of school policy violations.¹⁶

Metal Detectors and Bag Searches

Metal detectors and student bag searches upon entry to a school is considered a special needs search and will be upheld without reasonable suspicion.¹⁷

Searches of Student Social Media Accounts and Cell Phones

Officials may surf the internet and view publicly available information. However, compelling a student to provide a Facebook password likely violates the First and Fourth Amendments. Officials cannot search a student's confiscated cell phone absent reasonable suspicion that a violation of school policy would be found.¹⁸

Strip Searches

Strip searches are highly intrusive and should only be done if absolutely necessary. If possible, arrest the juvenile and have the detention center conduct the search. If that is not an option, and it is imperative that the evidence be recovered, conduct the search in the most delicate and professional manner possible. Same sex searcher, private, and use professional language at all times. Consider recording the encounter with a body cam but hold hand over camera to block any view of private areas (i.e., keep recording audio).

Field Trips

The lowered standard applies to off-campus field trips.

CASE EXAMPLES

School searches only require a “moderate chance” of finding evidence

The lesser standard for school searches could as readily be described as a moderate chance of finding evidence of wrongdoing.¹⁹

Purse Search

A teacher at a New Jersey high school found a 14-year-old freshman smoking cigarettes in a school lavatory in violation of a school rule, and took them to the Vice Principal's office. The student denied that she had been smoking and claimed that she did not smoke at all. The Vice Principal demanded to see her purse. Upon opening the purse, he found cigarettes and rolling papers that are commonly associated with the use of marijuana. He then proceeded to search the purse and found some marijuana, a pipe, plastic bags, a fairly substantial amount of money, an index card containing a list of students who owed the student money, and two letters that implicated her in marijuana dealing. The search was constitutional.²⁰

Strip Search for Prescription Ibuprofen Illegal

A school principal made a warrantless search of a student's belongings because she apparently possessed over the counter ibuprofen. The search included telling the student to pull out the elastic on her underwear in order to release any contraband that may have been hidden there. The Supreme Court found this "strip search" unreasonable and a violation of the Fourth Amendment.²¹

Search of Shoes Not Strip Search

A search of socks and shoes for stolen money was not a strip search.²²

Private school search not bound by the Fourth Amendment

Defendant went on a private school-sponsored ski trip. He and the other trip participants stayed at a resort hotel. Defendant and other students were aware that they were subject to certain rules, including the seizure of contraband either at school or on school trips. A chaperone learned that some students had been to their room unsupervised and investigated. He found marijuana and cocaine. The Defendant was arrested and argued that the school violated his rights. The court held that the school was not a government actor.²³

Video surveillance inside locker room violated Fourth Amendment

The videotaping by school officials of middle school students while they changed their clothes in school locker rooms, using video surveillance cameras installed in the locker rooms, was an unreasonable search.²⁴

Viewing student's text messages unreasonable search

School officials' knowledge that, a year and a half earlier, a public high school student had expressed suicidal thoughts and had admitted that he smoked marijuana, combined with the student's violation of school policy barring use of cell phones in classrooms, did not provide reasonable grounds for school officials, upon seizing the phone based on a violation of the policy, to search the phone by reading the student's text messages.²⁵

7.7 Student Drug Testing

Schools are allowed to conduct random, suspicionless, urinalysis of public school students who participate in extracurricular activities (primarily athletic). However, schools cannot conduct random drug testing of the entire student body. Additionally, a school may require a student to submit to drug testing if it has reasonable suspicion of illegal drug use.

LEGAL STANDARD

Schools may conduct random drug testing on students if:

- Student participates in extracurricular activities;
- School has legitimate concern of illegal drug use;
- The manner of the testing is the least-intrusive; and
- The results are shared on a need-to-know basis.

It is imperative that school officials coordinate drug testing with their attorneys. This is an area that could generate expensive lawsuits.

CASE EXAMPLES

Random urinalysis drug testing upheld as reasonable

Public school district's student athlete drug policy, which authorized random urinalysis drug testing of students who participated in its athletic programs, did not violate student's federal or state constitutional right to be free from unreasonable searches; school district had immediate, legitimate concern in preventing student athletes from using drugs, invasion of student privacy interest was negligible, and district was not required to come up with "least intrusive" search.²⁶

7.8 SROs, Security Guards, and Administrators

When the Supreme Court issued its opinion in T.L.O.,²⁷ which authorized warrantless searches based on reasonable suspicion instead of probable cause, school resource officers were rare. In fact, the Court noted that the official's search of the students purse for cigarettes may have been different if the search was conducted by a police officer.

Today SROs are common and the question is whether or not the lower Fourth Amendment standard applicable to school searches applies to SROs. The short answer appears to be no—SROs are held to the higher probable cause standard. But things get a little more complicated when the SRO and school official work together. Which standard applies? Read guidelines below, that should help.

²⁷ New Jersey v. T.L.O., 105 S. Ct. 733 (1985).

LEGAL STANDARD

Police give information to school officials:

- If you learn of criminal activity, and relay that information to school officials, the reasonable suspicion standard applies.

Police act as school's agent:

- If school officials learn of criminal activity and call police for assistance, and ask officers to conduct the search on the school's behalf, then the reasonable suspicion standard applies. The key here is that the police are acting as the school's agent. If the police "take over" the investigation, then probable cause is required.

Police conduct a criminal investigation:

- If police take over the investigation, or the SRO intends to file criminal charges based on his investigation, then apply regular police rules. At the end of the day, try to use common sense. If the search is primarily a school search, then T.L.O. applies. If the search is primarily a criminal investigation, full Fourth Amendment protections apply.

CASE EXAMPLES

Officers can perform pat down, but not full search on truant student

Two police officers came into contact with the juvenile at a government housing project behind a high school. The officers believed she was truant, so they stopped her. She appeared to be 16 or 17-years old and wore a polo shirt bearing the high school emblem. After confirming she should be in school, they told her they were going to transport her back. Before placing her in the police car, one of the officers, searched all of her pockets and found a small bag of marijuana. Court held that officers were permitted to conduct a pat down, but not a full search.²⁸ However, if this state classified truancy as a "crime" then a full search would be authorized as a search incident to arrest, even if transported back to school, not jail. Check your state laws.

Officer who searched student at dance required probable cause

An officer at a school dance required probable cause before searching a student who smelled of alcohol (my kind of high school!). The lower reasonable suspicion standard did not apply because the officer was acting in a criminal investigation capacity.²⁹

Reasonable suspicion standard applied to SRO

A SRO helped school officials investigate a fight. The SRO was acting as a school official at the time of the school search because "[h]e was on duty as an SRO and ²⁸ L.C. v. State, 23 So. 3d 1215 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 3d Dist. 2009).

acting under his authority as an SRO when he personally observed the activity that formed the basis for his search.”³⁰

Probable cause not required merely because police are involved

School official’s reasonable suspicion standard for search is not elevated to probable cause merely because the school official asks a police officer to help conduct the search.³¹

7.9 Use of Force Against Students

You must be very cautious and hesitant whenever force is used against a child. If you use any force, make sure that it’s absolutely necessary under the circumstances. Kids are not adults. And many times, it may be wise to allow the kid to yell and scream without restraining them if he is not a danger. You make the call, but remember that if you use force be able to articulate why.

LEGAL STANDARD

Only use force against a child if:

- It is necessary under the circumstances;
- It is not done for punitive reasons; and
- Deescalation techniques are employed.

CASE EXAMPLES

Taping kid’s head to tree unreasonable punishment (real case!)

A teacher told a student to stand against a tree and stay there as punishment for fighting. The student did not stay still and the teacher taped the student’s head to the tree. A fact finder could find that the official’s conduct was objectively unreasonable because there was no indication that the student posed a danger to others, he was only eight years old, and the conduct was so intrusive that another fifth grader said it was inappropriate.³²

Handcuffing is not reasonable punishment

A SRO witnessed a child refusing to do jumping jacks and talking back to the coach. The deputy told her, “this is what it feels like to be in jail” and handcuffed her. The court held that the deputy’s action was excessive force.³³ Note: I cannot make this stuff up.

Chapter 8

Personal Property

8.1 Searching Containers

If you develop probable cause that a container (package, luggage, etc.) contains evidence or contraband, you may seize it in order to apply for a search warrant.¹ Remember, the length of the detention must be reasonable and the more “intimate” the container, the more courts will scrutinize the detention.

For example, detaining a woman’s purse is more intimate than seizing an undelivered UPS parcel. A nine-hour detention on the purse may be struck down as unreasonable, where a two-day detention on the parcel may not. Either way, diligently seek the warrant unless you are relying on a recognized exception to the warrant requirement.

LEGAL STANDARD

A container seized with probable cause that it contains contraband or evidence may not be searched without a warrant unless:

- Someone with apparent authority gave you consent to search; or
- The container was seized from a vehicle; or
- The container’s contents were obvious under the single purpose container doctrine; or
- The container was in the suspect’s possession and searched incident to arrest; or
- You conducted a legitimate inventory; or
- The container was searched under the community caretaking doctrine; or
- You had exigent circumstances.

Remember, container plus probable cause does not equal warrantless search. You need C.R.E.W—consent, recognized exception, or a warrant (C.R.E.W. is explained in first section of book).

8.2 Single Purpose Container Doctrine

The single purpose container doctrine is an extension of the plain view doctrine. Here, an officer that sees a container and knows instantly what is inside—a gun case, or a balloon containing heroin, or kilos of packaged cocaine. If officers see these items in plain view, and have lawful access, they can seize it as evidence and search the because there is no expectation of privacy in the container.

LEGAL STANDARD

A container may be seized and searched without a warrant if:

- You were lawfully present when you observed the container;
- Even though the container’s contents were not visible, based on the shape, weight, size, material, and so forth, the contents were obvious (i.e., drugs);
- These observations gave you probable cause; and
- You had lawful access to the container when it was seized.

CASE EXAMPLES

Convicted felon had no privacy in container labeled “gun case”

Defendant had no reasonable expectation of privacy in contents of case located in his residence and labeled as “gun case.” Thus, police officers’ warrantless search of the case after officers’ valid entry into residence did not violate the Fourth Amendment, where officers knew that defendant was convicted felon prohibited from possessing guns.²

A “drug bindle” is a single-purpose container

Because it was immediately apparent to experienced officers that paper bindle viewed in defendant’s identification folder contained contraband, defendant did not have reasonable expectation of privacy which would have prevented opening of bindle or field testing of it.³

8.3 Searching Abandoned or Lost Property

A person has no reasonable expectation of privacy in abandoned, lost, or stolen property. The courts have defined abandonment broadly for search and seizure purposes. Abandonment occurs whenever a person leaves an item where the general public (or police) would feel free to access it. It can also occur whenever a person disowns property.

When it comes to abandonment, traditional property rights do not matter (i.e., a person could legally own an item, but still “abandon” it).⁴ If abandonment occurs after an illegal detention, the evidence would be tainted and inadmissible.⁵

Additionally, if the defendant stole the item, like a purse or vehicle, he would not have a reasonable expectation of privacy in that item (but may have privacy in his own containers).

² U.S. v. Meada, 408 F.3d 14 (1st Cir. Mass. 2005).

⁴ Stoner v. California, 376 U.S. 483 (1964).

⁵ People v. Verin, 220 Cal. App. 3d 551 (Cal. App. 1st Dist. 1990).

LEGAL STANDARD

A container is considered abandoned when:

- Based on the totality of the circumstances, a reasonable person would believe that it was intentionally abandoned; or
- Based on the totality of the circumstances, it appears the container was inadvertently abandoned, but the container’s owner would not have a reasonable expectation of privacy that a member of the general public, including a police officer, would not search it; and
- If the container was inadvertently abandoned (e.g., accidentally left at the crime scene), your scope of search was similar to what a member of the public could have done (e.g., no forensic analysis).

CASE EXAMPLES

No privacy in stolen property

“The Fourth Amendment does not protect a defendant from a warrantless search of property that he stole, because regardless of whether he expects to maintain privacy in the contents of the stolen property, such an expectation is not one that ‘society is prepared to accept as reasonable.’”⁶

Dropping paper bag and running equals abandonment

Police got a tip that the defendant was selling drugs and patrolled the area. They saw defendant leaning into a car, so the officers pulled over and walked in a “semi-quick” pace towards the defendant. In response, the defendant dropped the bag full of drugs and ran. The bag was abandoned and could be searched without a warrant.⁷

Search of burglar’s cell phone six days after crime committed was reasonable

The suspect forgot his cell phone at the crime scene. Police later searched it without a warrant, finding evidence. The court held the phone was abandoned because the “idea that a burglar may leave his cell phone at the scene of his crime, do nothing to recover the phone for six days, cancel cellular service to the phone, and then expect that law enforcement officers will not attempt to access the contents of the phone to determine who committed the burglary is not an idea that society will accept as reasonable.”⁸

Abandonment is clearer when it occurs before the suspect was seized by police

When the officer entered the bar, defendant dropped a crumpled cigarette package on the floor, under the table, and turned away. The officer retrieved the package, which contained illegal drugs, and arrested defendant.⁹

⁶ U.S. v. Caymen, 404 F.3d 1196 (9th Cir. Alaska 2005).

⁷ In re Kemonte, 223 Cal. App. 3d 1507 (1990).

⁸ State v. Brown, Opinion No. 27814 (S.C. 2018).

⁹ Cooper v. State, 806 P.2d 1136 (1991).

Reclaiming ownership revokes abandonment

Although defendant initially vacillated on whether he owned the bag or not, by the time the search was conducted he had claimed ownership, which police knew and therefore, had not abandoned the bag.¹⁰

8.4 Searching Mail or Packages

You cannot search any first-class mail or package(s) without a warrant. However, if you have lawful access you may read any writing on the outside of mail and packages.¹¹

LEGAL STANDARD

The outside of first-class mail or packages may be observed if:

- You had lawful access to the item;
- You did not manipulate or open the item;
- Your observations were in plain view or free-air canine sniff; and
- The duration of the detention was reasonable.

CASE EXAMPLES*No reasonable expectation of privacy in mail addressed to “alias”

Agents with the USPS became suspicious of a package. Inspectors found that both the sender and receiver’s names did not match mail records. The investigation revealed that the actual intended recipient had the package sent to a friend’s house under a fake name. The friend consented to allow police to search the package and narcotics were discovered. The intended recipient was arrested. The court found that since the recipient used a fake name and sent it to a friend’s house, he did not have a reasonable expectation of privacy.¹²

Police may seize mail and apply for a warrant

Officers who have probable cause may seize a package and apply for a warrant.¹³

Chapter 9

Electronic Searches

9.1 Sensory Enhancements

Generally, you may use sensory enhancements if they are in general public use (like binoculars and flashlights). But you must be reasonable, especially when you use sensory enhancements to observe inside protected areas, like a home. If not, your actions may be classified as a warrantless search requiring exigent circumstances.

LEGAL STANDARD

If sensory enhancements are used to view public areas, then:

- There are essentially no restrictions unless the enhancement captures information where a person would have a reasonable expectation of privacy (e.g., microphone that can detect two people whispering in a park).

If sensory enhancements are used to observe inside a home, then:

- The technology used must be in general public use; and
- Only enhance that which was seen with the naked eye or heard with the naked ear (e.g., binoculars used to confirm motorcycle in garage is similar to stolen motorcycle).

CASE EXAMPLES

Use of a thermal imaging device against home unreasonable search

“We think that obtaining by sense enhancing technology any information regarding the interior of the home that could not otherwise have been obtained without physical “intrusion into a constitutionally protected area,” constitutes a search—at least where (as here) the technology in question is not in general public use.”¹

9.2 Flashlights

Generally, you may use flashlights to enhance your vision. There are two good reasons for this: First, something visible during the day should not get additional protections simply because it was concealed by darkness. Second, flashlights are in “general public use” and the public expects police officers to use them, wherever a police officer has a lawful right to be.

Still, flashlights can violate a person’s reasonable expectation of privacy if the flashlight is used in an unreasonable manner. Take, for example, a police officer who is conducting a knock and talk. It would be unlawful to shine a high-powered LED flashlight through closed blinds in order to illuminate inside the home. On the other hand, if the blinds were open, then a person would lose his reasonable expectation of privacy and enhancing your view with a flashlight would be lawful.

LEGAL STANDARD

If a flashlight is used to view public areas, then:

- There are no restrictions.

If a flashlight is used to observe inside a home, then:

- You may use the flashlight to observe that which would have been observable in broad daylight. In other words, if you use a flashlight to observe something inside the home which would not have been visible in full daylight, then it likely violated an occupants reasonable expectation of privacy; but
- This restriction does not apply when conducting an investigation with exigency (burglary, shots fired, etc.).

CASE EXAMPLES

Typical use of flashlight does not violate Fourth Amendment

Officers use of a flashlight to illuminate interior of driver’s car, “trenched upon no right secured ... by [the] Fourth Amendment.”²

9.3 Binoculars

You may use binoculars to enhance your vision to view items or people if they are in a public place, such as parks, sidewalks or streets.³ You may not, however, use binoculars to view items or people inside private areas that would otherwise be completely indistinguishable by the naked eye. For example, if you were investigating a jewelry heist and you saw a “gold glint” coming through the suspect’s open apartment window, you may lawfully use binoculars to confirm what you saw.⁴

On the other hand, it would be unlawful to use binoculars to peer into a suspect’s apartment window from 200-300 yards away to determine whether he was viewing child pornography. In this case, there was no way an officer could see any incriminating evidence with the naked eye and therefore the suspect does not lose his reasonable expectation of privacy.⁵

³ U.S. v. Shepard, 1995 U.S. App. LEXIS 23118 (9th Cir. Ariz. 1995).

⁴ Cooper v. Superior Court, 118 Cal. App. 3d 499 (Cal. App. 1st Dist. 1981).

⁵ People v. Arno, 90 Cal. App. 3d 505 (Cal. App. 2d Dist. 1979).

LEGAL STANDARD

If binoculars are used to view public areas, then:

- There are no restrictions.

If binoculars are used to observe inside a home, then:

- You may use binoculars to observe that which would have been observable with the naked eye. You only need to be able to see the item, not necessarily know what it is. However, if the item is completely hidden from view, using binoculars to view the item likely violates an occupant's reasonable expectation of privacy; but
- This restriction does not apply when conducting an investigation with exigency (hot pursuit, fresh pursuit, surround and call-out, etc.).

CASE EXAMPLES

Use of binoculars from open field not a Fourth Amendment search

“At the trial, Special Investigator Griffith testified that through binoculars, he observed the appellant, a known liquor violator, placing two large cardboard boxes (each of which contained six gallons of untaxed whiskey), in a 1961 Buick. The observations were made from a field belonging to another, about 50 yards from the appellant’s house. This did not constitute an illegal search.”⁶

Use of high-power telescope to see inside a hotel room an unlawful search

Police made a binocular search of a hotel room through the uncurtained window by means of a powerful telescope on a hilltop a quarter of a mile from the hotel. There were no buildings or other locations closer to the hotel from which anyone could see into the hotel room. By using the telescope, the police observed a well-known gambling sheet. The court held the defendant had a reasonable expectation that no one could see into his room under these circumstances: “[I]t is inconceivable that the government can intrude so far into an individual’s home that it can detect the material he is reading and still not be considered to have engaged in a search.”⁷

Viewing marijuana grow in backyard from street not a search

While standing in the roadway, officers used a 60-power scope to view a marijuana grow in the suspect’s backyard. The court held that this was not a Fourth Amendment search.⁸

Use of binoculars to see something in suspect’s hand not a search

The police officer became suspicious that a drug transaction was underway. He parked his vehicle, walked back to the alleyway and, with the aid of binoculars, saw ⁶ U.S. v. Grimes, 426 F.2d 706 (5th Cir. Ga. 1970).

⁷ U.S. v. Kim, 415 F. Supp. 1252 (D. Haw. 1976).

⁸ State v. Bennett, 205 Mont. 117, 666 P.2d 747 (1983).

Barr display metal slugs to his companion in his upturned hand. The officer was no more than seventy-five feet from Barr when he saw the slugs. Barr then entered a casino abutting the alleyway. The officer followed him, and Barr was arrested for possession of a cheating device.⁹

Climbing on fellow officer's shoulders to see in backyard was a search

Where an officer on neighboring property climbed three-quarters of way up fence and braced himself on fellow officer's shoulder, and then, using a 60-power telescope, was able to see marijuana plants in defendant's back yard, this was a search.¹⁰

9.4 Night Vision Goggles

There is no particular restriction if you use night vision goggles. They fall under the same rules as flashlights. However, some prosecutors and judges may not understand this technology and may equate it with thermal imaging, which is very restricted. Therefore, articulate that night vision goggles simply amplify the ambient light and do not detect any heat signatures.

LEGAL STANDARD

If night vision goggles are used to view public areas, then:

- There are no restrictions.

If night vision goggles are used to observe inside a home, then:

- You may use the night vision goggles to observe that which would have been observable in broad daylight. In other words, if you use night vision goggles to observe something inside the home which would not have been visible in full daylight, then it likely violated an occupant's reasonable expectation of privacy; but
- This restriction does not apply when conducting an investigation with exigency (hot pursuit, fresh pursuit, surround and call-out, etc.).

CASE EXAMPLES

Night vision goggles the same as a flashlight

"It was dark the entire time he was there. While he did not use a flashlight, the deputy wore "night vision" goggles during both this visit and a subsequent visit. The goggles enhanced the available light by magnifying it, allowing him to see better in the dark. The goggles merely amplify ambient light to enable one to see something that is already exposed to public view."¹¹

¹¹ People v. Lieng, 190 Cal. App. 4th 1213 (Cal. App. 1st Dist. 2010).

9.5 Thermal Imaging

Generally, you may not use thermal imaging to look at homes. You may use thermal imaging in public areas, like open fields or parks. If you want to use thermal imaging on a house you need consent, exigent circumstances, or a warrant.

LEGAL STANDARD

If a thermal imaging device is used to view public areas, then:

- There are essentially no restrictions unless a person would have a reasonable expectation of privacy (e.g., tent located on public land).

If a thermal imaging device is used to observe a home, then:

- You need consent, exigency or a warrant. An example of exigency may include use by a SWAT team to ascertain where a suspect is located.

CASE EXAMPLES

Cannot use a thermal imager against a home, without warrant

When the police use a thermal imager to gain any information regarding the interior of the home that could not otherwise have been obtained without physical intrusion, that constitutes a search.¹²

Police may use thermal imager in open fields

“[T]he officers in this case were entitled to observe the steel building either by air or on foot because the building, like the barn in Pace, stood in an open field. And, as we have already discussed, the fact that the officers enhanced their observations with a thermal imager does not require a different conclusion.”¹³

9.6 Cell Phones, Laptops, and Tablets

You may not search cell phones without consent, exigency or a search warrant. This includes searches incident to arrest, even where you have probable cause that evidence of the crime is contained on the device. The Supreme Court no longer includes cell phones as part of the “search incident to arrest” exception. This rule applies to all devices that can contain “vast amounts of personal data,” like laptops and tablets.

Valid exigency would include looking in an active shooter’s cell phone to determine if there were undiscovered accomplices. Or looking in a kidnapper’s cell phone if the victim has not been found. However, the possibility of a remote wipe, standing alone, does not justify exigency.

¹² Kyllo v. U.S., 533 U.S. 27 (2001).

¹³ U.S. v. Ishmael, 48 F.3d 850 (5th Cir. Tex. 1995).

LEGAL STANDARD

A cell phone may be searched if:

- You have a search warrant; or
- Legitimate exigency (e.g., such as searching cell phone immediately after terrorist incident to determine whether other confederates are on the loose).

CASE EXAMPLES

Search of cell phone after arrest unlawful

Defendant was stopped for a traffic violation, which eventually led to his arrest on weapons charges. An officer searching incident to the arrest seized a cell phone from defendant's pants pocket. The officer accessed information on the phone and discovered evidence of gang activity, which led to evidence of a shooting a few weeks earlier. The Court found the warrantless search unreasonable since mobile devices hold a vast amount of personal data.¹⁴

9.7 Cell Phone Location Records

Electronic surveillance is a search or seizure protected under the Fourth Amendment if it occurred in protected areas (i.e., house or car) or where a person has a reasonable expectation of privacy (i.e., cell phone location records).

The Supreme Court has struggled to keep up with technological advancements. However, the Court is beginning to see just how intrusive modern technology can become and is limiting the use of technology searches in investigations. The Court's latest position is that obtaining cell phone location records, even from a third-party, is a Fourth Amendment search when those records are combined to recreate a person's activities over a period of time.¹⁵ This is especially important because cell phone companies typically retain location information for five years. Therefore, it is possible for police to retrace a person's steps for the last five years if he kept his cell phone with him.

Therefore, if you want cell location information, you need a search warrant.

LEGAL STANDARD

Cell phone location information may obtained if:

- You have a search warrant; or
- Legitimate exigency (e.g., such as requesting a tower dump immediately after a child has been kidnapped).

¹⁴ Riley v. California, 134 S. Ct. 2473 (2014).

¹⁵ Carpenter v. U.S., 138 S. Ct 2206 (2018).

CASE EXAMPLES

Use of Cell Site Location Information violated Fourth Amendment

Mapping a cell phone's location over the course of 127 days provides an all-encompassing record of the holder's whereabouts. As with GPS information, the time-stamped data provides an intimate window into a person's life, revealing not only his particular movements, but through them his "familial, political, professional, religious, and sexual associations." Therefore, a search warrant is required.¹⁶

9.8 Aerial Surveillance

Generally, police are not prohibited from flying an aircraft over protected areas, like a person's home and backyard.¹⁷ Anything observed falls under plain view and may be used in a search warrant.

There are three notable guidelines: First, police should not violate FAA rules unless there are exigent circumstances, such as tracking a fleeing suspect. Second, the manner of flight shouldn't be highly intrusive, like a loud helicopter hovering directly over the home, or multiple passes over the home, otherwise the manner of the surveillance may become unreasonable.¹⁸ Third, police are permitted to use "moderate enhancement" to view the protected area. It may help to review the guidelines on flashlights, binoculars, and thermal imaging. Overall, if your conduct is reasonable, then it is likely lawful.

LEGAL STANDARD

Aerial surveillance is permissible when:

- You obey FAA regulations;
- The flight is not conducted in a highly intrusive manner; and
- You do not utilize unreasonable sensory enhancements.

CASE EXAMPLES

Available technology helps determine what is reasonable

"It would be foolish to contend that the degree of privacy secured to citizens by the Fourth Amendment has been entirely unaffected by the advance of technology. For example, ... the technology enabling human flight has exposed to public view (and hence, we have said, to official observation) uncovered portions of the house and its curtilage that once were private."¹⁹

9.9 Drones

Generally, activity a person knowingly exposes to the public is not subject to Fourth Amendment protection and is not constitutionally protected from observation by police when they are lawfully present.²⁰

When we apply this concept to drones it becomes apparent that when a person places an object, like a stolen car, in a place where the general public has a right to be then that object (here the stolen car) is not protected under the Fourth Amendment. For example, imagine a suspect parks a stolen car in his backyard. Unfortunately, the police do not have any lawful vantage point to see inside the backyard. In other words, there is no hill, second story building, or police helicopter available to see into the suspect's backyard. The police then resort to the next best option - deploy their drone. When police deploy their drone they follow all FAA regulations, all state statutes, and any local ordinances (if applicable). Additionally, police deploy their drone in a relatively non-intrusive manner. Police do not hover low to the ground over the suspect's backyard. They don't use thermal imaging. And police don't use other technology not generally available to the general public. As a result, police see the stolen car in the backyard and add these "plain view" observations in a warrant. Lawful? This conduct adheres to all Fourth Amendment principles because it does not violate the suspect's reasonable expectation of privacy. The suspect knows, or should know, that the public could fly a drone in the exact same manner the police flew their drone. Therefore, this deployment would not be a search. Finally, because there is generally a vacuum of case law on this subject many states have passed drone laws to fill the void. Therefore, it's imperative police comply with state law since courts will consider these violations intruded onto a person's reasonable expectation of privacy.

LEGAL STANDARD

Aerial surveillance is permissible when:

- You comply with FAA regulations;
- You comply with state and local regulations;
- The flight is not conducted in a highly intrusive manner; and
- You do not use sensory enhancements not commonly utilized by the general public.

If drones are deployed in a highly intrusive manner, the observations may nevertheless be constitutionally permissible if there is exigency (e.g., active shooter, hot pursuit, etc.).

CASE EXAMPLES

Available technology helps determine what is reasonable

"It would be foolish to contend that the degree of privacy secured to citizens by the Fourth Amendment has been entirely unaffected by the advance of technology. For example, ...the technology enabling human flight has exposed to public view (and ²⁰ See United States v. Cantu, 684 F. App'x 703 (10th Cir. 2017).

hence, we have said, to official observation) uncovered portions of the house and its curtilage that once were private.”²¹

Violating state drone law will be considered

“Considering the great historical importance placed on the freedom to use one’s own property, and in light of the fact that the consequences of this action may entail far more than merely the imposition of money damages, we conclude that this is the kind of proceeding to which the Fourth Amendment may apply. Further supporting this conclusion is MCL 259.322(3), which expressly prohibits the use of a drone to “capture photographs, video, or audio recordings of an individual in a manner that would invade the individual’s reasonable expectation of privacy.”²²

Drones should not fly directly over backyards Landowners are entitled to ownership of some airspace above their properties, such that intrusions into that airspace will constitute a trespass no different from an intrusion upon the land itself.²³

Ariel surveillance of entire city violated Fourth Amendment: “[T]he AIR program “tracks every movement” of every person outside in Baltimore. Because the data is retained for 45 days...the “retrospective quality of the data” enables police to “retrace a person’s whereabouts,” granting access to otherwise “unknowable” information.”²⁴

9.10 Pole Cameras

Whether or not deploying a pole camera is constitutional depends on whether the defendant had a reasonable expectation of privacy. Courts analyze two factors. First the defendant must “have exhibited an actual (subjective) expectation of privacy and, second, that the expectation be one that society is prepared to recognize as ‘reasonable.’”²⁵ However, things a person “exposes to the ‘plain 1 view’ of outsiders are not ‘protected’ because [there’s] no intention to keep them to himself.”²⁶

With these factors in mind, the vast majority of courts have held that pole cameras that target areas of the home that can be seen by the general public are not protected, even if those areas are considered curtilage.

However, I would caution officers that long-term 24/7 recording of curtilage may become a search under the Fourth Amendment. The U.S. Supreme Court has not addressed the lawfulness of pole cameras directly, but it has held that a person has a reasonable expectation of privacy in their location data provided by a person’s cell phone to their service provider. As the Supreme Court started:

“Although no single rubric definitively resolves which expectations of privacy are entitled to protection, the analysis is informed by historical understandings “of what was deemed an unreasonable search and seizure when [the Fourth Amendment] was adopted.” On this score, our cases have recognized some basic guideposts. First, that the Amendment seeks to secure “the

Therefore, it is my suggestion that officers obtain a search warrant if they engage in long-term, targeted, and 24/7 recording of curtilage. Still, this is only a recommendation and I understand if some my peers disagree. Again most courts have found no constitutional barrier with using pole cameras and the U.S. Supreme Court will eventually opine on this technique.

LEGAL STANDARD

Using a pole camera to target a particular home’s curtilage is lawful when:

- They target areas of the home that are visible to the general public;
- Optical magnification is not used to see something inside the home that could not have been observed by the general public
- Thermal imaging may not used to view the home, but night vision is permissible.

However, I still recommend that limitations be placed on pole cameras. I recommend:

- A search warrant be obtained for pole cameras deployed more than 90-days.
- Warrantless long-term pole cameras (more than 90-days) are permissible if they only provide a live-feed and do not record 24/7.
- Agencies should adopt a policy to purge recordings after a certain amount of time, for example, one year, unless the recording is relevant to the investigation.

CASE EXAMPLES

Available technology helps determine what is reasonable

“It would be foolish to contend that the degree of privacy secured to citizens by the Fourth Amendment has been entirely unaffected by the advance of technology. For example, . . . the technology enabling human flight has exposed to public view (and hence, we have said, to official observation) uncovered portions of the house and its curtilage that once were private.”²⁸

8-month pole camera upheld, in part, because government installed with probable cause

In this case, law enforcement officers installed the pole camera and used it “over an eight-month period during this major drug crime conspiracy investigation. This was not an example of law enforcement installing a camera without even reasonable suspicion. Before the camera was installed, a [confidential informant], acting on the government’s orders, purchased four guns illegally from [the] house.”²⁹

²⁹ United States v. Moore-Bush, 963 F.3d 29, 46 (1st Cir. 2022).

CO Supreme Court held three-month pole camera was a search under the Fourth Amendment

The court held that the three-month-long surveillance of curtilage of defendant's home with pole camera constituted a search under Fourth Amendment because the defendant had a reasonable expectation of privacy in the area surveilled, the pole camera continuously recorded video surveillance footage of defendant's curtilage, the footage was stored indefinitely, the camera could pan and it showed the defendant's everyday habits and routines, as well as who came to the house and how long they stayed at the house.³⁰ Note: I agree with this opinion but the majority of courts have held otherwise.

18-month pole camera surveillance was "concerning," but permissible

"Although we now hold that the pole camera surveillance of the exterior of Tuggle's home did not constitute a Fourth Amendment search, we are not without unease about the implications of that surveillance for future cases. The eighteen-month duration of the government's pole camera surveillance...is concerning, even if permissible."³¹

9.11 Automatic License Plate Readers

There has been a massive proliferation of automatic license plate readers (ALPR's) around the country. And for good reason. They work. ALPR's are extremely effective for finding stolen cars, missing person's, and useful in a variety of investigations. Additionally, ALPR's almost never implicate the Fourth Amendment because a driver does not have a reasonable expectation of privacy in the alphanumeric characters placed on a license plate.

Still, like most things there are exceptions. It is my view that ALPR's may become "searches" under the Fourth Amendment if they can basically track a vehicle on any street throughout a city. For example, imagine that a city installs ALPR readers on every intersection. As a result, an officer can pull up the ALPR software, type in a license plate, and view exactly where that vehicle has been driven over the past 30, 60, or even 365 days. Would this capability be a Fourth Amendment search? In my view, yes. In effect, this would be practically the same thing as placing a GPS tracker on a vehicle or obtaining cell site location information. Still, the counter-argument is not merit. Therefore, time will tell. Either way, most cities do not have this capacity. . . .currently.

LEGAL STANDARD

An automatic license plate reader is not a search under the Fourth Amendment unless:

- There are so many ALPR's that the government can essentially track a vehicle in a similar manner as placing a GPS tracker on the vehicle.

³⁰ People v. Tafuya, 2021 CO 62.

³¹ United States v. Tuggle, 4 F.4th 505, 526 (7th Cir. 2021).

CASE EXAMPLES

Typical deployment of ALPR is not a Fourth Amendment search

While defendant had constitutionally protected expectation of privacy in the whole of his public movements, an interest which potentially could be implicated by widespread use of automatic license plate reader data, that interest was not invaded by the limited extent and use of ALPR data in this case because only four cameras were placed at two fixed locations on the ends of two bridges, cameras gave police only the ability to determine whether defendant was passing onto or off of Cape Cod at particular moment.³²

A person does not have a reasonable expectation of privacy in a license plate

“[The defendant] turns to the computer check of his license plate and contends that it was a search governed by the Fourth Amendment... In considering his contention, we point out that a Fourth Amendment search is only involved when the government intrudes into areas in which an individual is said to have a reasonable expectation of privacy... We do not believe that either [the defendant] or the public at large has an expectation of privacy from the state when it is well known to all that the state is the very body that issues, controls, and regulates motor vehicle registration license plates. Furthermore it seems plain to us that there can be no expectation of privacy in one’s license plate when it hangs from the front and the rear of one’s vehicle for all the world to see.”³³

9.12 GPS Devices

You may not attach a GPS tracker to a vehicle without consent, exigency, or warrant. An example of exigency is if you found a kidnapper’s vehicle in a parking lot and needed to immediately track it back to the victim’s location.

LEGAL STANDARD

A GPS may be placed on a vehicle if:

- You have a search warrant; or
- Legitimate exigency.

CASE EXAMPLES

Warrantless attachment of GPS to vehicle unlawful

Agents installed a GPS tracking device on the undercarriage of a vehicle registered to defendant’s wife while it was parked in a public parking lot. Over the next 28 days, the Government used the device to track the vehicle’s movements. The U.S.

³² Commonwealth v. McCarthy, 484 Mass. 493 (2020).

³³ State v. Bjerke, 697 A.2d 1069 (R.I. 1997).

Supreme Court determined that the Government’s installation of the GPS device on defendant’s vehicle, and its use of that device to monitor the vehicle’s movements, constituted a “search.”³⁴

Tracking suspect through their cellphone GPS is a Fourth Amendment search

Warrantless GPS tracking constitutes a search even in the absence of a trespass, because a Fourth Amendment search occurs when the government violates a subjective expectation of privacy that society recognizes as reasonable.³⁵

9.13 Obtaining Passwords

If you need a defendant’s digital password after he asserts his Fifth Amendment rights, good luck. If the password is in the defendant’s head, then courts will likely refuse to compel the defendant to provide the password because it would be viewed as testimony, and therefore protected.³⁶ Some courts recognize an exception where police know with certainty what information is inside the device and therefore its contents are a “foregone conclusion.” If so, courts may order the defendant to produce his password.

On the other hand (pun intended), if the phone can be opened with a fingerprint, then get a court order. Fingerprints are physical evidence unprotected by the Fifth Amendment.

LEGAL STANDARD

Passwords are protected as follows:

- Passwords inside a suspect’s head are protected by Miranda;
- If the contents are a foregone conclusion, a court may order the defendant to provide his password;
- If the password is physical, like a fingerprint, get a search warrant.

CASE EXAMPLES

Cannot compel suspect to provide password to computer

Compelled testimony that communicates information that may “lead to incriminating evidence” is privileged even if the information itself is not inculpatory.³⁷

Suspect may be compelled to unlock device with fingerprint

Defendant cannot be compelled to produce his passcode to access his smartphone, but he can be compelled to produce his fingerprint to do the same.³⁸

Chapter 10

Miscellaneous Searches & Seizures

10.1 Cause-of-Injury Searches

You're allowed to conduct a limited "medical search" of an unconscious person or someone in serious medical distress in order to determine the cause of injury (if unknown) and to ascertain his identification to help render aid.

Your search should be objectively reasonable under the circumstances. An example of a lawful search would be a victim who was found unconscious and there were no clear signs why. It would be lawful to look for a medical alert bracelet, identification, medicines, or even illegal drugs he may have overdosed on in order to provide that information to medical. Any contraband or evidence found in plain view could be admitted into evidence.

LEGAL STANDARD

A limited search of a suspect's backpack or purse may occur if:

- You have a reason to believe that the person is in medical distress;
- Finding medications, medical-alert bracelet, or reason for overdose will assist in the medical response;
- Search of belongings is limited in scope and terminates once items are found or are not present.

CASE EXAMPLES

Search of purse while driver getting x-rays unreasonable

A driver was transported to the hospital after an accident. The officer took her purse to the hospital and looked inside for ID in order to finish his report. He found drug paraphernalia. The court found the search was not needed and suppressed the evidence.¹

Search of locked briefcase was reasonable

Driver was found passed out, foaming at the mouth. Officers opened two locked briefcases to look for ID or medicines. Instead, they found money from a recent bank robbery. Court upheld search as reasonable.²

10.2 Medical Procedures

If you have probable cause that a suspect has swallowed evidence, or has contraband in their anal or vaginal cavities, you'll need to consult with medical personnel to retrieve it. Rarely will you have exigent circumstances to retrieve it yourself (why would you want to?). For example, if a corrections officer discovered partially concealed contraband during a visual strip search, it may be unlawful to pull it. The officer would either have to request the inmate remove it himself (if it was safe to do so), or contact medical.

If an arrestee swallowed evidence (like drugs) and it created a medical emergency, no search warrant would be required as long as medical personnel made all decisions, including not retrieving the evidence and allowing the drugs to metabolize or pass.

If no medical emergency exists, and you want to retrieve the evidence, you must seek a search warrant and it's very unlikely a court will issue it. The evidence must be vital for your case and you must convince a judge the medical procedure is safe for the suspect.

LEGAL STANDARD

Medical procedures may be done if:

- They are conducted by medical personnel without police influence or direction; or
- With a search warrant that describes the necessity of the evidence and the relative risks of the procedure; and
- If time allows, the defendant should have an opportunity to challenge the search warrant in an adversarial hearing.

CASE EXAMPLES

If police request medical staff to recover evidence, then Fourth Amendment applies

“When a medical procedure is performed at the instigation of law enforcement for the purpose of obtaining evidence, the fact that the search is executed by a medical professional does not insulate it from Fourth Amendment scrutiny.”³

Surgical intrusions for evidence will rarely be approved

“A compelled surgical intrusion into an individual’s body for evidence implicates expectations of privacy and security of such magnitude that the intrusion may be unreasonable even if likely to produce evidence of a crime.”⁴

Unless there's legitimate exigency, you must seek a warrant

“Search warrants are ordinarily required for searches of homes, and, absent an emergency, no less could be required where intrusions into the human body are concerned. The importance of informed, detached and deliberate determinations of the issue whether or not to invade another's body in search of evidence of guilt is indisputable and great."⁵

³ Sanchez v. Pereira-Castillo, 590 F.3d 31 (1st Cir. P.R. 2009).

⁴ Winston v. Lee, 105 S. Ct. 1611 (1985).

Removal of bullet upheld as reasonable

The suspect sustained two gunshot wounds during a robbery-turned-murder inside a doctor's office. The prosecutor wanted one of the bullets lodged in the suspect. The court held an adversarial hearing and thereafter issued the search warrant. "As the skilled and experienced surgeon who performed the operation testified 'maximum precautions' were taken when the bullet was removed, 'we bent over backwards'. The bullet, which was small, close to the skin and easily felt, was extracted by gentle squeezing after an incision an inch long had been made. Less than five cc.'s of blood were lost, an amount smaller than may be taken in a pre-marital examination. The entire operation took ten minutes. In the opinion of the surgeon the risk was 'negligible' and in fact there were no complications."⁶

Search warrant denied where there was a fatal risk to suspect

The bullet was close to the suspect's spinal cord and there was a risk that the surgery would have caused the suspect's death. Therefore, the search warrant was properly denied.⁷

Medical search warrants require higher showing of P.C.

The more intense, unusual, prolonged, uncomfortable, unsafe or undignified the procedure contemplated, or the more it intrudes on essential standards of privacy, the greater must be the showing for the procedure's necessity.⁸

10.3 Discarded DNA

A person has no reasonable expectation of privacy in an item that has his DNA which he later discards. For example, if a suspect drinks from a cup and throws it away, you can test it for DNA as long as you had lawful access to the cup (for example, restaurant trash). Since the suspect has no privacy in the cup there's no Fourth Amendment search.

LEGAL STANDARD

An item may be searched for DNA if:

- The item was abandoned or discarded; or
- The suspect has no reasonable expectation of privacy in the DNA sample (i.e., CODIS database).

⁵ Schmerber v. Cal., 86 S. Ct. 1826 (1966).

⁶ U.S. v. Crowder, 543 F.2d 312 (D.C. Cir. 1976).

⁷ Bowden v. State, 256 Ark. 820, 510 S.W.2d 879 (1974).

⁸ People v. Scott, 21 Cal.3d 284 (1978).

CASE EXAMPLES

Abandoned cigarette butt

There was not Fourth Amendment violation when defendant voluntarily discarded his cigarette butt by tossing it onto a public sidewalk and left it in a place particularly suited for public inspection. He thus abandoned the cigarette butt in a public place and had no reasonable expectation of privacy concerning the DNA testing of it to identify him as a suspect in a murder.⁹

Suspect abandoned DNA in letter sent to undercover officer

Undercover officer sent letter to suspect with the intent of testing reply letter for his DNA. The court held that the suspect “abandoned” his DNA when he sent his letter.¹⁰

10.4 Fingernail Scrapes

If you have probable cause to believe a suspect committed a crime, and currently has evidence underneath his fingernails, you may conduct a warrantless “scrape” and retrieve any evidence such as dirt, blood, DNA, and so forth. You are allowed to use the minimal force necessary to recover the evidence. Moreover, no arrest is required—you may test the evidence and make the arrest later.

LEGAL STANDARD

You may conduct a fingernail scrape in the field when:

- You have probable cause evidence of the crime may be under the suspect’s fingernails;
- Minimally intrusive means were used to recover the evidence; and
- Due to the evanescent nature of the evidence exigency existed.

CASE EXAMPLES

Officer permitted to conduct fingernail scrape during arrest

Where there is probable cause, a very limited intrusion undertaken incident to a station house detention, and a ready destructibility of evidence, a warrantless search of a defendant’s fingernails does not violate the Fourth Amendment.¹¹

⁹ People v. Gallego, 190 Cal. App. 4th 388 (Cal. App. 3d Dist. 2010).

¹¹ Cupp v. Murphy, 412 U.S. 291 (1973).

10.5 Arson Investigations

Generally, warrants are required when investigators search for evidence in a protected area. However, firefighters are allowed to search for the “origin of a fire,” in order to prevent a fire from restarting. If the risk restarting is over, then investigators need consent or a warrant. The type of warrant required depends on the purpose on the investigation. If the primary purpose is to determine cause and origin of a recent fire, an administrative warrant will suffice. If the primary object is to obtain evidence of criminal activity, then a search warrant is required.¹²

LEGAL STANDARD

A warrantless search may be made when:

- Firefighters remain in the home to discover the origin of the fire, in order to prevent it from restarting;
- After the fire is out and no risk of restarting is present, a search warrant or consent is required to stay or reenter the home and look for evidence.

CASE EXAMPLES

Firefighters permitted to search house after waterbed broke

The defendant accidentally caught his waterbed on fire (how?), which in turn caused the waterbed to leak into the basement. Firefighters entered the basement in order to ascertain whether there was an electrical fire hazard (due to water leak). Firefighters found explosives in the basement and these observations were upheld as lawful.¹³

Search warrants apply to arson investigators

“Evidence of arson discovered in the course of such [origin of fire] investigations is admissible at trial, but if the investigating officials find probable cause to believe that arson has occurred and require further access to gather evidence for a possible prosecution, they may obtain a warrant only upon a traditional showing of probable cause applicable to searches for evidence of crime.”¹⁴

10.6 Airport & Other Administrative Checkpoints

A person has a reduced expectation of privacy if he is attempting to access a secure area of an airport or government building. Additionally, a person who has started the screening process cannot “opt-out” and leave.

¹² Michigan v. Clifford, 464 U.S. 287 (1984).

¹³ U.S. v. Buckmaster, 485 F.3d 873 (6th Cir. Ohio 2007).

¹⁴ Michigan v. Tyler, 436 U.S. 499 (1978).

LEGAL STANDARD

Government administrative searches must follow these rules:

- The search is made in good faith for weapons or explosives;
- The search must have a legitimate, non-criminal goal; or
- People may avoid the search by electing not to fly, which must be done before submitting to the screening process.

CASE EXAMPLES

Passengers that enter screening area impliedly consented to the search

The passenger was subjected to a random search, at an airport security checkpoint, of a carry-on bag that passed through an x-ray scan without arousing suspicion. Nothing was found in his bag and he proceeded to board the airplane. The passenger argued that random post-x-ray searches were unconstitutional, unless the x-ray scan aroused suspicion. The court held that the passenger impliedly consented to the random search by placing his bag on the x-ray conveyor belt.¹⁵

Social Security security checkpoint was reasonable

Hand searches conducted of visitor defendants' possessions at the entrance of a Social Security Administration (SSA) office, which revealed evidence of methamphetamine possession in their purses, were reasonable and no more intrusive than necessary as required for the searches to qualify for the administrative search exception.¹⁶

10.7 Border Searches

An exception to the warrant requirement developed for searches at the border or its functional equivalent because of the specific difficulties and governmental interests involved in border crossings and the problem of smuggling contraband, dutiable goods, and illegal aliens.

Under the border search exception, neither probable cause, reasonable suspicion, nor a search warrant are required for a Customs or immigration search of persons, personal effects, belongings, or vehicles at the border or its functional equivalent.

LEGAL STANDARD

Who may conduct a border search?

Customs agents, Coast Guard officers, immigration officers, agriculture officers, and Border Patrol officers are all Customs officials capable of conducting a border search. FBI agents and local police officers are not included. However, local officers are permitted to be present and assist a border search (See case below).

¹⁵ Torbet v. United Airlines, Inc., 298 F.3d 1087 (9th Cir. Cal. 2002).

When may a border search be conducted?

Merely presenting oneself for entry is “gaining entry,” and is sufficient to warrant a border search, and one cannot attempt to decline entry to avoid it.¹⁷ Additionally, a suspect who was turned around by Canadian border officials was found to be crossing the border, and subject to search.¹⁸

What is the scope of a border search?

Border searches may be as intense as the situation permits.¹⁹ Officers may search persons, papers, computers, vessels, luggage, airplanes, mail, and packages. Strip searches are not authorized unless justified with articulable facts. Body cavity searches are only authorized in officers who have a “clear indication” of smuggling (basically you can see it visually or via x-ray).

CASE EXAMPLES

State police trooper allowed to help with border search

Customs officials and a state trooper patrolled the Louisiana coast. Without any suspicion of criminal activity, they boarded a boat and conducted an inspection where they found bales of marijuana. The court found the search lawful under Fourth Amendment.²⁰

Municipal guardsman not authorized to make border search

A suspect ran from a border search and was caught by a municipal guardsman. The guardsman conducted a search and found cocaine which they handed over to an arriving custom’s agent. The court found the guardsman was not allowed to make searches on behalf of the customs agent. Still, the evidence was admitted under inevitable discovery doctrine.²¹

Miranda warnings not required

Miranda warnings are not required because it is considered a “routine administrative interview.”²²

Strip search must be justified

“[A]lthough anyone entering or leaving the country may expect to have his luggage and personal effects examined, he does not expect that his entry or departure, standing alone, will cause him to be subjected to a strip search. Before a border official may insist upon such an extensive invasion of privacy, he should have a suspicion of illegal concealment that is based upon something more than the border crossing, and the suspicion should be substantial enough to make the search a reasonable exercise of authority.”²³

10.8 Probationer & Parolee Searches

Most probationers/parolees have a “search clause” or “Fourth Amendment waiver” that authorizes warrantless searches of their person, residence, car, and any property under their control at any time of day.

Additionally, police officers may conduct the search on behalf of the probation officer if the search is related to the probationer’s status. These rules are general and differ by state.

LEGAL STANDARD

If the probation officer is not present and the search is done by police, the warrantless search is constitutional if:

- Authorized by a probation officer or release condition; and
- Related to the suspect’s probationary status.
- The probation officer should not become an “agent” of police

CASE EXAMPLES

Arrest of probationer inside doctor’s office held unconstitutional

“The evidence, interpreted in the light most favorable to [plaintiff medical office manager], is sufficient for a jury to conclude that her Fourth Amendment rights were violated [by probation officer’s unwarranted entry into medical office in search of probationer for whom arrest warrant had been issued]. Though physical entry of the home is the chief evil against which the wording of the Fourth Amendment is directed, its protection extends to any area in which an individual has a reasonable expectation of privacy. Offices and other workplaces are among the areas in which individuals may enjoy such a reasonable expectation of privacy.”²⁴

Warrantless search of cellphone was upheld

A warrantless search of a cellphone was upheld, because “a probationer consents to the waiver of his or her Fourth Amendment rights in exchange for the opportunity to avoid service of a state prison, except insofar as a search might be undertaken for harassment or for arbitrary or capricious reasons.”²⁵

Chapter 11

Search Warrants

11.1 Overview

There are four core requirements of a search warrant. If any of these elements are later found to be missing the evidence discovered may be suppressed.

LEGAL STANDARD

The four requirements of a search warrant are:

- You must establish probable cause within the affidavit, cannot add information later;
- The warrant must be supported by oath or affirmation;
- You must particularly describe the people or places to be searched; and
- You must particularly describe the things to be seized.

CASE EXAMPLES

Warrantless searches of home are presumptively unreasonable

No reasonable officer could claim to be unaware of the basic rule, well established by our cases, that, absent consent or exigency, a warrantless search of the home is presumptively unconstitutional.¹

Courts grant search warrants great deference

An officer got a warrant to search a suspected gang member's house for firearms. The trial court later found that the warrant was defective. However, the Supreme Court held that because the officer acted in good faith and was not "plainly incompetent" the exclusionary rule did not apply.²

11.2 Why Get a Warrant, Even if You Don't Need to?

A search warrant is given significant deferential treatment by the courts. In other words, if you take the time to obtain pre- authorization from a neutral and detached magistrate before conducting a search or seizure, the defendant will have a hard time proving that the warrant was invalid.

This is no easy task. The defendant would usually have to prove that the officer was plainly incompetent or reckless with his facts, and that an objectively reasonable officer would know that the warrant did not establish the necessary probable cause.

LEGAL STANDARD

For a search warrant to be invalid, the defendant would need to prove:

- The magistrate was not neutral or detached; or
- The search warrant did not particularly describe the place to be searched or the things to be seized; or
- The officer was plainly incompetent or reckless with his facts; and
- An objectively reasonable officer would know that the warrant did not establish the necessary probable cause.

CASE EXAMPLES

Courts grant search warrants great deference

An officer got a warrant to search a suspected gang member's house for firearms. The trial court later found that the warrant was defective. However, the Supreme Court held that because the officer acted in good faith and was not "plainly incompetent" the exclusionary rule did not apply.³

11.3 Particularity Requirement

All search warrants must describe with particularity the places to be searched and things or people to be seized. This ensures that officers executing the warrant know where to go, where to look, and what to seize. Otherwise, the warrant becomes more like a "general search warrant" which is forbidden by the Fourth Amendment.

LEGAL STANDARD

All search warrants must:

- Particularly describe the people or places to be searched; and
- Particularly describe the things to be seized.

CASE EXAMPLES

Warrant must be described with particularity

The uniformly applied rule is that a search conducted pursuant to a warrant that fails to conform to the particularity requirement of the Fourth Amendment is unconstitutional. That rule is in keeping with the well-established principle that except in certain carefully defined classes of cases, a search of private property without proper consent is unreasonable unless it has been authorized by a valid search warrant.⁴

³ Messerschmidt v. Millender, 132 S. Ct. 570 (2011).

Facially invalid warrant will not be saved by Good Faith reliance

The officer “contends that the search in this case was the product, at worst, of a lack of due care, and that our case law requires more than negligent behavior before depriving an official of qualified immunity.” But “a warrant may be so facially deficient—i.e., in failing to particularize the place to be searched or the things to be seized—that the executing officers cannot reasonably presume it to be valid. This is such a case.”⁵

11.4 Anticipatory Search Warrant

An anticipatory search warrant is where probable cause will be established once a “triggering event” occurs. For example, the triggering event could be whenever an occupant, unknown at the time, receives a parcel known to contain narcotics.

LEGAL STANDARD

A search warrant may be received on prospective probable cause when:

- There is reason to believe that contraband or evidence will be delivered at a particular residence;
- The warrant may be executed upon probable cause that a triggering event has occurred, such as observing package being accepted for delivery.

CASE EXAMPLES

Supreme Court upheld anticipatory warrants

“When an anticipatory warrant is issued, the fact that the contraband is not presently located at the place described in the warrant is immaterial, so long as there is probable cause to believe that it will be there when the search warrant is executed.”⁶

Anticipatory warrants are not authorized in every state

“While the anticipatory search warrant issued in this case does not run afoul of either the United States Constitution or the Oklahoma Constitution, it was not authorized by the plain language of our statute which specifically sets forth the requisites for when a search warrant may be issued.”⁷

⁴ Groh v. Ramirez, 540 U.S. 551 (2004).

⁵ Groh v. Ramirez, 540 U.S. 551 (2004).

⁶ U.S. v. Grubbs, 547 U.S. 90 (2006).

11.5 Confidential Informants

If you use a confidential informant (C.I.) to establish reasonable suspicion or probable cause, you need to articulate he was trustworthy. Do this by articulating how the C.I. was “credible” and how he obtained his “basis of knowledge.”⁸

Credible means that the C.I. was telling the truth. Basis of knowledge means that the information shared by the C.I. was accurate, usually because of first-hand observations.⁹

LEGAL STANDARD

A C.I. may be used to develop probable cause when:

- There is reason to believe the C.I. is credible;
- The C.I. has a basis of knowledge;
- Both factors are judged under the totality of the circumstances.

CASE EXAMPLES

Judge has discretion to meet C.I. in person to confirm he actually exists

If there is doubt as to the credibility of a C.I., or if one even exists, a judge may order the prosecution to produce the C.I. in court for a non-public hearing (in chambers) without the defendant’s attorney being present. As one court put it, “in proper cases, such a hearing can avoid an otherwise irreconcilable conflict between the legitimate need for informant anonymity and the right of the defendant to be free of unfounded infringements of his privacy and liberty.”¹⁰

Confidential informant allowed to use video recorder inside apartment

A confidential informant’s use of visual recording equipment when conducting a controlled drug purchase, in defendant’s apartment, did not exceed the scope of the informant’s license to be in the apartment and was admissible in court.¹¹

⁷ Dodson v. State, 150 P.3d 1054, 1055-59 (Okla. Crim. App. 2006).

⁸ Aguilar v. Tex., 378 U.S. 108 (1964).

⁹ Illinois v. Gates, 462 U.S. 213 (1983).

¹⁰ People v. Dailey, 639 P.2d 1068, 1077 n.11 (Colo. 1982).

¹¹ U.S. v. Thompson, 811 F.3d 944 (7th Cir. 2016).

11.6 Sealing Affidavits

Typically, you are supposed to leave a copy of the search warrant, including affidavit, during the search warrant execution. Unfortunately, leaving the affidavit may compromise your investigation. You are allowed to seal a search warrant affidavit for “good cause.” You can seal the affidavit for a specific number of days, or until the court authorizes the release.

LEGAL STANDARD

An affidavit may be sealed if:

- You have a compelling need, such as protecting an on-going investigation or protecting informant’s safety;
- The search warrant particularly describes what is sought and where to search, without the affidavit; and
- There is a continuing need to maintain seal.

CASE EXAMPLES

Federal courts have inherent discretion to seal affidavits

The district court has the inherent power to seal affidavits filed with the court in appropriate circumstances. “The government contends that the materials should be sealed to protect the informant and to keep confidential ongoing investigations. We find that, on this basis, the district court did not abuse its discretion.”¹²

Police may maintain seal if disclosure would endanger safety of informant

“In our view, a sealed search warrant affidavit, like search warrant affidavits generally, should ordinarily be part of the court record ... However, a sealed search warrant affidavit may be retained by the law enforcement agency upon a showing that disclosure of the information would impair further investigation of criminal conduct or endanger the safety of the confidential informant.”¹³

11.7 Knock and Announce

Whenever you enter a person’s home without his consent, you must meet the requirements of knock and announce.¹⁴ This applies whether you enter with a warrant or under a recognized exception. For example, even if you plan to enter a home because of a medical emergency, you are required to knock and announce before making a non-consensual entry unless an exception to knock and announce applies.

¹² U.S. v. Mann, 829 F.2d 849 (9th Cir. Or. 1987).

¹³ People v. Galland, 45 Cal.4th 354 (2008).

¹⁴ Wilson v. Ark., 514 U.S. 927 (1995).

Reasons for knock and announce:

- The protection of the privacy of the individual in his home;
- The protection of innocent persons who may also be present on the premises where an arrest is made;
- The prevention of situations which are conducive to violent confrontations between the occupant and individuals who enter his home without proper notice;
- The protection of police who might be injured by a startled and fearful homeowner;¹⁵ and
- To avoid the unnecessary “destruction or breaking of any house.”¹⁶

LEGAL STANDARD

Elements of knock and announce:

- Police must notify the occupants of their presence. This is usually done by knocking but includes door bell, telephone, bullhorn, etc.
- Police must announce their “authority” and “purpose.” This is usually done by yelling, “Police, search warrant!”
- Police must wait a reasonable time before making forced entry. Reasonable time is often based on how long it would take to destroy the evidence.

Violations of knock and announce:

- Evidence found after a knock and announce violation may not be suppressed during trial (unless the violation was particularly shocking). However, violations may result in discipline and § 1983 lawsuits.

Exceptions to knock and announce (must articulate):

- The officer’s presence is already known to the occupant;
- The suspect is armed and will use his weapon;
- Delay would allow suspect to escape;
- During hot pursuit; or
- Delay may cause the evidence to be destroyed.

CASE EXAMPLES

Opening screen door, before announcement, was a knock and announce violation

Officers walked up to the residence to serve a search warrant and observed that the front door was open, along with a closed screen door. The lead officer knocked several times but did not announce his identity and purpose. He then opened the screen door and walked into the home, while announcing their identity and purpose.

¹⁵ People v. Peterson, 9 Cal. 3d 717 (Cal. 1973).

¹⁶ Wilson v. Ark., 514 U.S. 927 (1995).

The court found this to be a violation of knock and announce. Still, the evidence was not subject to suppression.¹⁷

Knock and announce applies to all uninvited entries, including warrantless entries into the home

“Whatever the circumstances under which breaking a door to arrest for felony might be lawful, however, the breaking was unlawful where the officer failed first to state his authority and purpose for demanding admission.”¹⁸

Delay of 15-20 seconds held reasonable for drug warrant

“[T]he court ruled that a delay of only 15 or 20 seconds from the point in time at which police officers knocked on the defendant’s door and announced that they were there to execute a search warrant for illegal narcotics was reasonable because of the exigent circumstance of possible destruction of evidence.” On the other hand, police looking for a stolen piano “may be able to spend more time to make sure they really need the battering ram.”¹⁹

11.8 Detaining Occupants Inside and in Immediate Vicinity

Generally, you may detain individuals who are on-scene for the duration of the search warrant. Courts recognize the officer safety concerns during a warrant execution, and why it is important to maintain absolute control over the residence.

If a suspect came to the residence during the execution of a search warrant, he may be detained if he appears involved in the crime at issue (e.g., there to purchase drugs).

The best practice would be to detain only the following individuals:

- The home’s occupants so they may open locked containers or otherwise assist in an orderly search of the residence;
- Any individual who will likely be arrested as a result of the search;
- Any individual who would present an officer safety issue if released (gang members or other hostile people);
- Any other individual for good cause.

I strongly recommend that you do not needlessly detain uninvolved individuals not listed above, especially children. This is a best practice and makes law enforcement appear more professional and reasonable.

LEGAL STANDARD

Occupants present at the execution of a search warrant may be detained if:²⁰

- They are in the immediate vicinity of the premises to be searched;
- The manner of detention is reasonable.

¹⁷ People v. Peterson, 9 Cal. 3d 717 (Cal. 1973).

¹⁸ Miller v. U.S., 357 U.S. 301 (1958).

¹⁹ U.S. v. Banks, 540 U.S. 31 (2003).

²⁰ Michigan v. Summers, 452 U.S. 692 (1981).

CASE EXAMPLES

Whether someone is within the immediate vicinity depends on several facts

These factors include the lawful limits of the premises, whether the occupant was within a line of sight of the premises being searched, the ease of reentry from the occupant's location, and other relevant factors (undefined by Court).²¹

Visitors may be detained briefly during probation/parole search

A probation officer may lawfully “briefly” detain a visitor in a house who is present in the house of a juvenile probationer during a Fourth Amendment waiver search long enough to determine whether he is a resident of the house or is otherwise connected to illegal activity.²²

14-hour detention/interrogation of party-goers unreasonable

A sheriff's investigator was held not to be protected by qualified immunity when sued for detaining partygoers for as long as 14 hours after a warrant search for evidence of illegal gaming was executed. Interrogating the participants is not part and parcel of executing a warrant. Also, the detentions could not be justified as Terry stops because individualized suspicion was not established by the partygoers' mere presence in the same large mansion where some limited drug and gaming contraband was discovered, and because detentions as long as 14 hours did not remotely resemble the brief detention authorized by Terry v. Ohio.²³

Note: this search warrant was executed by SWAT and yielded two non-functioning slot machines and three grams of pot! Whoops.

Authority to detain is categorical

An officer's authority to detain incident to a search is categorical; it does not depend on the quantum of proof justifying detention or the extent of the intrusion to be imposed by the seizure. Note, the Supreme Court still requires that the duration of detention be reasonable. Over-detention is still unreasonable.²⁴

Lawful detention of subject who arrived on-scene of large marijuana grow operation

Subject likely knew about grow operation and used a code to enter the facility.²⁵

11.9 Frisking Occupants

You cannot automatically pat down every occupant present during the execution of a search warrant. The standard for a pat down remains the same: individualized reasonable suspicion that a person is armed and dangerous.

²¹ Bailey v. United States, 568 U.S. 186 (2013).

²² People v. Rios, 193 Cal. App. 4th 584 (Cal. App. 5th Dist. 2011).

²³ Guillory v. Hill, 233 Cal. App. 4th 240 (Cal. App. 4th Dist. 2015).

²⁴ Muehler v. Mena, 544 U.S. 93 (2005).

²⁵ U.S. v. Davis, 530 F.3d 1069 (9th Cir. Or. 2008).

Fortunately, this standard is not difficult to meet, especially because search warrants can be inherently dangerous in the sense that occupants know exactly where the weapons are inside the residence and no officer would be able to watch the occupant 100% of the time. This “home court advantage” may help justify conducting a pat down.

The purpose of the warrant itself can also be a significant factor. Naturally there’s different officer safety considerations if you are looking for a handgun versus tax records. But remember that mere presence at the scene of the warrant may not be sufficient, the occupant should be directly connected with the location. For example, if you were executing a search warrant at a bar known for selling drugs, this would not provide independent justification for patting down (for weapons or drugs) of every patron that happens to be there.²⁶

An occupant may be frisked for weapons when:

- The occupant is connected to the residence and the search warrant is inherently dangerous; or
- Reasonable suspicion is developed that an occupant is armed and dangerous.

CASE EXAMPLES

Police cannot search people simply because they are at the house

Persons detained during a search for evidence cannot be searched simply because they are there. Accordingly, those officers who conducted indiscriminate searches of all persons present at the family residence failed to act in an objectively reasonable manner, and are not entitled to qualified immunity.²⁷

Pat down usually authorized of narcotics dealers

Courts tend to recognize the likelihood that narcotics suspects are often armed and may allow a pat down with no more than the conclusory opinion that the “need for officer safety” dictated the need for a pat down.²⁸

Cannot conduct pat down because it is “the safe thing to do”

During a probation search an officer cannot pat down a present known associate, even when there’s evidence of drug abuse occurring at the house, just because it is “the safe thing to do.” Officers still need individualized suspicion that a particular person is armed or dangerous.²⁹

²⁶ Ybarra v. Ill., 444 U.S. 85 (1979).

²⁷ Marks v. Clarke, 102 F.3d 1012 (9th Cir. Wash. 1997).

²⁸ People v. Samples, 48 Cal. App. 4th 1197 (Cal. App. 1st Dist. 1996).

²⁹ People v. Sandoval, 163 Cal. App. 4th 205 (Cal. App. 3d Dist. 2008).

Frisk lawful of person arriving at house the same time as police executed the warrant

Officer did not violate defendant's Fourth Amendment rights in performing pat-down frisk of his outer clothing, where defendant arrived contemporaneously with officers at location where valid narcotics search warrant was about to be executed; frisk was not motivated by anything other than need to secure immediate vicinity of ongoing judicially-approved police operation.³⁰

11.10 Handcuffing Occupants

You cannot automatically handcuff people present during the execution of a search warrant. Like pat downs, you must have an articulable reason before applying any restraints. Remember, courts consider handcuffs a use of force and the mere presence during the execution of a search warrant may not call for using force. Naturally, you may use handcuffs whenever you execute a dangerous search warrant.³¹ Best practices require that if prolonged restraints are required (e.g., more than an hour or so) then other accommodations should be considered so that restraint-based injuries do not occur.

Further, prolonged detentions may require bathroom breaks and access to water. Courts may find the initial detention reasonable, but the method (prolonged handcuffing) unreasonable. You should constantly re-evaluate whether or not restraints are still necessary.

LEGAL STANDARD

Factors to consider if occupants are handcuffed:

- Occupants may be handcuffed during the execution of a dangerous search warrant;
- If reasonable, occupants may remain in handcuffs until search is completed;
- If continuous handcuffing may cause injuries, alternatives should be considered;
- If it is readily apparent an occupant poses no danger, restraints should be removed.

11.11 Serving Arrest Warrant at Residence

An arrest warrant not only authorizes the suspect's arrest in public, but also authorizes you to enter the suspect's home if he is home to make the arrest. This is an extremely helpful option for arresting wanted suspects.

On the other hand, if the suspect is at a third-party's home, like a friend's house, you must apply for a search warrant.

Finally, the arrest warrant can be a bench warrant, misdemeanor traffic warrant, and of course, a felony warrant.

³⁰ U.S. v. Banks, 628 F. Supp. 2d 811, 817-18 (N.D. Ill. 2009).

³¹ Muehler v. Mena, 544 U.S. 93 (2005).

LEGAL STANDARD

An arrest warrant may be served at a residence if:

- You possess a valid arrest warrant;
- You have probable cause the person lives at the home;
- You have reason to believe the suspect is currently home;
- You knock and announce;
- You may conduct a protective sweep if justified; and
- You may not search for evidence, but plain view seizure applies.

CASE EXAMPLES

An arrest warrant authorizes entry into the suspect's home

“For Fourth Amendment purposes, an arrest warrant founded on probable cause implicitly carries with it the limited authority to enter a dwelling in which the suspect lives when there is reason to believe the suspect is within.”³²

11.12 Wrong Address Liability

Whenever police execute a search warrant at the wrong house there will likely to be a lawsuit. How much is paid usually depends on three factors:

1. Lack of pre-warrant due diligence;
2. Amount of damage to residence or injuries to occupants; and
3. Police conduct once they knew, or should have known, they were at the wrong address.

It is vital that before you seek a search warrant, especially one involving SWAT, you conduct a quality investigation and verify the address. Most mistakes can be corrected before the warrant is executed.

It is also vital that once police realize they hit the wrong house they immediately begin to correct or diminish the injury caused.

LEGAL STANDARD

If a search warrant is served on the wrong residence, liability will depend on three factors:

1. Reasonableness of pre-warrant investigation;
2. Reasonableness of warrant execution; and
3. Remedial measures taken once mistake was known.

³² Payton v. N.Y., 445 U.S. 573 (1980).

CASE EXAMPLES

No automatic Fourth Amendment violation when warrant unknowingly served on new tenants

“Officers executing search warrants on occasion enter a house when residents are engaged in [lawful] activity; and the resulting frustration, embarrassment, and humiliation may be real, as was true here. When officers execute a valid warrant and act in a reasonable manner to protect themselves from harm, however, the Fourth Amendment is not violated.”³³

11.13 Receipt, Return, and Inventory

You are required to leave a copy of the search warrant with an occupant or at the residence. Additionally, you must leave a receipt for the items you seized and file a return and inventory with the issuing court. Finally, many courts require that the return be filed promptly, often within 48 hours.

LEGAL STANDARD

After executing a search warrant, you must:

- Leave a copy of the warrant, along with a receipt of what was seized, with an occupant or at the residence; and
- File a return, along with an inventory of what was seized, with the issuing court within the specified time.

CASE EXAMPLES

Leaving a copy of the warrant and a receipt is a constitutional requirement

“[W]hen law enforcement agents seize property pursuant to a warrant, due process requires them to take reasonable steps to give notice that the property has been taken so the owner can pursue available remedies for its return.”³⁴

Actual notice not required, simply good faith effort to notify is required

Police served a search warrant at a suspect’s home who was incarcerated. Police mailed him a copy of the warrant and receipt and he claimed he never received it. The Supreme Court held that this effort satisfied due process.³⁵

³³ L.A. County v. Rettele, 550 U.S. 609 (2007).

³⁴ City of West Covina v. Perkins, 525 U.S. 234, 240 (1999).

³⁵ Dusenbery v. U.S., 534 U.S. 161 (2002).

Chapter 12

Use of Force

12.1 Non-Deadly Force

Whenever police use non-deadly force it must be objectively reasonable. The key is to articulate every material fact in the report. Police should not add important details later, otherwise it loses credibility.

LEGAL STANDARD

Factors to consider whether non-deadly force was reasonable include:¹

- How serious was the offense you suspected had been committed?
- Did the suspect pose a physical threat to you or some other person present at the scene?
- Was the suspect actively resisting or attempting to evade arrest?
- Reasonable force will be judged by the totality of the circumstances.
- Courts must step into the shoes of the officer and not use 20/20 hindsight.

CASE EXAMPLES

Trooper liable after using pepper spray on handcuffed suspect

When the trooper “maced” the motorist, she was handcuffed and standing beside his cruiser. He admitted he had no fear for his own safety at that time. There was no indication that the motorist actively resisted or attempted to flee, or that she was physically aggressive. Thus, there was no stressful and dangerous condition forcing the trooper to make a split-second judgment on what to do.²

12.2 Use of Force to Prevent Escape

You may use deadly force in order to protect yourself or others from imminent or immediate serious bodily harm or death. Additionally, you may use deadly force to “arrest” a violent fleeing felon who would pose a significant risk to others if not captured immediately. Finally, you must give a warning, if feasible, before using deadly force.

² Martinez v. New Mexico Dept. of Public Safety, 47 Fed. Appx. 513 (10th Cir. 2002).

LEGAL STANDARD

Deadly force to prevent an escape may be reasonable, if:

- The suspect poses an imminent threat of serious bodily harm or death; or
- You have probable cause that the suspect has committed a violent felony; and
- If the suspect escapes he will pose an imminent threat of serious bodily harm or death to others; and
- A warning, if feasible, is given before deadly force is used.

CASE EXAMPLES

It is better that a non-violent felony suspect get away than be shot dead

“The use of deadly force to prevent the escape of all felony suspects, whatever the circumstances, is constitutionally unreasonable. It is not better that all felony suspects die than that they escape. Where the suspect poses no immediate threat to the officer and no threat to others, the harm resulting from failing to apprehend him does not justify the use of deadly force to do so. It is no doubt unfortunate when a suspect who is in sight escapes, but the fact that the police arrive a little late or are a little slower afoot does not always justify killing the suspect. A police officer may not seize an unarmed, nondangerous suspect by shooting him dead.”³

12.3 Deadly Force During Vehicle Pursuit

Police may use reasonable force to end a dangerous pursuit. This may include deadly force if the fleeing suspect poses an imminent threat of serious bodily harm or death to innocent people. Still, this area of the law is not completely settled.⁴

Therefore, best police practices must be considered. The Supreme Court cannot prevent suspects and innocent people suing you and your agency. These lawsuits could easily drain your agency of hundreds of thousands of dollars in legal fees. Therefore, only use deadly force when necessary.

LEGAL STANDARD

Deadly force may be reasonable against a fleeing motorist where:

- The fleeing suspect poses an imminent threat of serious bodily harm or death to others outside his vehicle;
- A warning, if feasible, is given before deadly force is used (probably not feasible while chasing a suspect, but it’s required by Tenn. v. Garner).

³ Tennessee v. Garner, 471 U.S. 1 (1985).

⁴ Plumhoff v. Rickard, 134 S. Ct. 2012 (2014).

CASE EXAMPLES

No violation after using deadly force to end dangerous pursuit

“[W]e are loath to lay down a rule requiring the police to allow fleeing suspects to get away whenever they drive so recklessly that they put other people’s lives in danger. It is obvious the perverse incentives such a rule would create: Every fleeing motorist would know that escape is within his grasp, if only he accelerates to 90 miles per hour, crosses the double-yellow line a few times, and runs a few red lights.... Instead, we lay down a more sensible rule: A police officer’s attempt to terminate a dangerous high-speed car chase that threatens the lives of innocent bystanders does not violate the Fourth Amendment, even when it places the fleeing motorist at risk of serious injury or death.”⁵

12.4 Improper Handcuffing

Handcuffing is a use of force and therefore must meet the reasonableness requirements under Graham v. Connor. You may be held liable for excessive force if you improperly handcuff a suspect. Additionally, liability can be incurred if you fail to remove handcuffs when no longer necessary. Remember, handcuffs are temporary restraints.

LEGAL STANDARD

Handcuffing is proper when:

- They are used when reasonably necessary;
- They are not over-tightened;
- They are double-locked to prevent over-tightening (no liability if not double-locked and no injury occurs); and
- If a suspect complains about handcuffs, and the situation permits it, they should be checked to confirm proper fit.

CASE EXAMPLES

Suspect may go to trial over excessive force claim

The suspect complained that his handcuffs were on too tight. They remained on for an additional 15 minutes while being booked. He sued and the court held that claim could go to trial.⁶

⁵ Scott v. Harris, 550 U.S. 372 (2007).

⁶ Martin v. Heideman, 106 F.3d 1308 (6th Cir. Ky. 1997).

The law against over-tightened handcuffing is clearly established

“The law was clearly established that the overly tight application of handcuffs was a violation of an arrestee’s constitutional right not to have excessive force applied during an arrest.”⁷

Involuntary consent to search due to unnecessary handcuffing

The court found a lack of reasoning for the officer’s handcuffing of the subject in question. Since there was no establishment that “the detention was lawful,” and the officer did not have probable cause to search the subject, then the consent to search, given by the subject, was involuntary.⁸

12.5 Pointing Gun at Suspect

Officers should never point their firearm at anyone unless justified by a serious threat. First, an officer could have a negligent discharge (never good). Second, pointing guns during an investigative detention could result in a de facto arrest, requiring probable cause. Finally, courts have found that needlessly pointing guns at suspects may result in excessive force. Nothing good can come from needlessly pointing your firearm.

Naturally, un-holstering your firearm at the low ready position is much different and usually does not result in liability if you can articulate a valid reason.

LEGAL STANDARD

Pointing a gun at a suspect is appropriate if:

- You can articulate a serious officer safety reason.

CASE EXAMPLES*Holding children at gunpoint unreasonable

“While the SWAT Team’s initial show of force may have been reasonable ... continuing to hold the children directly at gunpoint after the officers had gained complete control of the situation outside the residence was not justified under the circumstances at that point. This rendered the seizure of the children unreasonable, violating their Fourth Amendment rights.”⁹

⁷ Baskin v. Smith, 50 Fed. Appx. 731 (6th Cir. 2002).

⁸ People v. Stier, 168 Cal. App. 4th 21 (2008).

⁹ Holland v. Harrington, 268 F.3d 1179 (10th Cir. Colo. 2001).

Pointing firearm at unarmed and cooperative suspect unlawful

Under ordinary circumstances, when the police have only reasonable suspicion to make an investigatory stop, drawing weapons and using handcuffs and other restraints will violate the Fourth Amendment.¹⁰

12.6 Using Patrol (i.e., Bite) Dogs

Generally, patrol canines are not considered deadly force, even if a suspect dies as a result of its deployment. However, a jury may find its use objectively unreasonable if a suspect was not given a warning and an opportunity to peacefully surrender before deploying a canine trained in the bite-and-hold method.

If no warning was given articulate why it was unreasonable, unsafe, or impractical under the circumstances.

LEGAL STANDARD

A patrol “bite dog” may be deployed if:

- The suspect is armed and dangerous or was involved in violent serious felony;
- If he’s escaping, you first give a warning and an opportunity to surrender peacefully; and
- If no warning was given, articulate why.

CASE EXAMPLES*A warning should be given, if feasible, before releasing a bite dog

A jury can properly find that the failure to give a verbal warning before using a police dog trained to bite and hold is objectively unreasonable.¹¹

Use of trained police dog is not deadly force

The court stated that, “there was no basis to instruct the jury regarding the use of deadly force because the use of a trained police dog does not constitute deadly force.”¹²

12.7 Hog/Hobble Tie

Only use a hog-tie as a last resort and if you obtained the proper training,¹³ otherwise you may be liable for excessive force. Additionally, avoid using these restraints on suspects who have a diminished capacity.

¹⁰ Robinson v. Solano County, 278 F.3d 1007 (9th Cir. 2002).

¹¹ Kuha v. City of Minnetonka, 176 F. Supp. 2d 926 (D. Minn. 2001).

¹² Thompson v. County of Los Angeles, 142 Cal. App. 4th 154 (2006).

¹³ Garrett v. Unified Government of Athens-Clarke County, 246 F. Supp.1262 (M.D. GA. 2003).

LEGAL STANDARD

A hobble tie may be used as a last resort to control a suspect, unless he is under the influence of:

- Severe intoxication;
- Under the influence of a controlled substance;
- Severe mental disability, like excited delirium;
- Any other condition that would lead an officer to believe a hobble tie would cause a significant risk to the suspect's health.

Note: Many people that require a hog-tie experience excited delirium, and therefore are highly susceptible to in-custody death. Get medical in-route ASAP and have them evaluate the suspect and monitor him constantly

CASE EXAMPLES

Hobble tie restraints may be used unless diminished capacity is apparent

“We do not reach the question whether all hog-tie restraints constitute a constitutional violation per se, but hold that officers may not apply this technique when an individual's diminished capacity is apparent. This diminished capacity might result from severe intoxication, the influence of controlled substances, a discernible mental condition, or any other condition, apparent to the officers at the time, which would make the application of a hog-tie restraint likely to result in any significant risk to the individual's health or well-being.”¹⁴

Chapter 13

Interview and Interrogation

13.1 When Miranda is Required

Two requirements must be met before you are required tell a suspect his Miranda rights. The requirements are the suspect must be “in-custody” and “interrogation” must be imminent.¹ Additionally, these requirements must be present at the same time. Otherwise, Miranda is not required.

Remember that you do not need to formally tell a suspect they are under arrest for him to be in-custody. Instead, courts look at whether an objectively reasonable person would have believed he was under arrest based on the totality of the circumstances, even if you never intended to arrest him (referred to as a de facto arrest).

Miranda also requires that you interrogate the suspect. In other words, when you are seeking “testimony” from the suspect. Testimony means a statement which tend to prove, or disprove, the crime in question. This is why booking-type questions are not normally considered interrogation, because they seek inmate information and not particular information related to his crime.

Note: a suspect cannot pre-invoke Miranda. For example, if you arrest a suspect and he says, “I want my lawyer!” but you haven’t even started to interrogate him, then it’s not a valid Miranda invocation because he’s not in-custody at the same time he’s interrogated.

LEGAL STANDARD

Miranda rights are required when:

- A person is in-custody (i.e., arrested); and
- You are interrogating him (i.e., “Tell me why you committed this crime”).

CASE EXAMPLES

Miranda not necessarily required after detaining a suspect with handcuffs

“Handcuffing a suspect during an investigative detention does not automatically make it (a) custodial interrogation for purposes of Miranda.”²

Temporarily placing suspect in patrol car not an arrest

Handcuffing and putting an uncooperative suspect in the backseat of a patrol car while the officer checked the vehicle for weapons held not to be an arrest. “A brief, although complete, restriction of liberty, such as handcuffing (and, in this case, putting into a patrol car), during a Terry stop is not a de facto arrest, if not excessive under the circumstances.”³ Still, this confinement is usually an arrest.

Police may use a suspect’s awkward silence during questioning if he is not in custody

Officers interviewed the suspect who was not in custody. He answered most questions but when asked about the gun used in the crime, he became suspiciously silent, as if he knew about it (because he did!). His silence was properly used against him at trial because he wasn’t in custody and under these circumstances there was no attempt to invoke his Fifth Amendment rights.⁴

No violation where suspect invoked right to counsel but subsequently made incriminating statements to his wife

The suspect was accused of murder and child abuse. He was arrested and read Miranda. He subsequently invoked his right to counsel and all questioning ceased. The suspect asked to speak with his wife, and police agreed. An officer remained in the room while the couple spoke and openly tape recorded the conversation. The Supreme Court held there was no violation since police did not ask the wife to speak with the suspect, they simply agreed to allow it.⁵

Prohibited interrogation also refers to its “functional equivalent”

“For purposes of the Miranda rules, the term ‘interrogation’ refers not only to express questioning but also to any words or actions on the part of the police, other than those normally attendant upon arrest and custody [booking questions], that the police should know are reasonably likely to elicit an incriminating response from the suspect; the latter portion of this definition focuses primarily on the perceptions of the suspect, rather than on the intent of the police.”⁶

13.2 Miranda Elements

The following Miranda warnings are required when you interrogate an in-custody suspect.⁷ Additionally, you must read a suspect his entire Miranda rights, even if they cut you off and tell you he already knows his rights.⁸ This is true even if you arrest a judge! All warnings must be given. Period.

Keep in mind that courts do not require these rights to be read verbatim. But police must inform the suspect of all four and articulate the fifth. It is highly ³ Haynie v. County of L.A., 339 F.3d 1071 (9th Cir. Cal. 2003).

⁴ Salinas v. Texas, 133 S. Ct. 2174 (2013).

⁵ Arizona v. Mauro, 481 U.S. 520 (1987).

⁶ Rhode Island v. Innis, 446 U.S. 291 (1980).

⁸ U.S. v. Patane, 542 U.S. 630 (2004).

suggested that you read Miranda from a pre-printed pocket card, otherwise be prepared to be slammed in court by a decent defense attorney, because you do not know exactly what you said to the defendant.

LEGAL STANDARD

Miranda requires the suspect to understand the following rights:

- He has the right to remain silent;
- That any statements made may be used against him in court;
- That he has the right to consult with an attorney and to have that attorney present during questioning;
- That if he cannot afford an attorney, one will be appointed to represent him prior to questioning; and
- The suspect must knowingly and intelligently waive rights.

CASE EXAMPLES

The Miranda decision does not require precise words

“The four warnings Miranda requires are invariable [plus articulating the waiver], but this Court has not dictated the words in which the essential information must be conveyed...The inquiry is simply whether the warnings reasonably ‘conve[y] to [a suspect] his rights as required by Miranda.’”⁹

13.3 Coercive Influences and De Facto Arrests

You may unintentionally create a coercive environment when you detain a suspect. For example, you may need to draw your firearm or use handcuffs for safety purposes. If you intend to obtain a voluntary statement you should minimize those coercive influences and articulate your actions in your report.

Remember, an arrest occurs when a reasonable person would believe he was “in-custody.” It does not matter what you “believed.” Instead, courts will focus on the environment, what you did, what you said, and how you said it. If courts decide a “de-facto” arrest occurred Miranda would be required.

For example, if police made a highly intrusive detention based on legitimate safety concerns, e.g., pointing a firearm to detain a violent-crime suspect, then police should try to minimize those coercive activities before they conduct an interview.

⁹ Powell v. Florida, 130 S. Ct. 1195 (2010).

LEGAL STANDARD

A person's statement is admissible in court if:

- It was voluntary and not coerced; and
- If under arrest, he waived his Miranda rights.

CASE EXAMPLES

Subjective intentions do not matter

An individual is deemed "in custody" where there has been a formal arrest, or where there has been a restraint on freedom of movement, of the degree associated with a formal arrest so that a reasonable person would not feel free to leave. A suspect's or the police's subjective view of the circumstances does not determine whether the suspect is in custody.¹⁰

Lying about purpose of interview not per se coercive

The Court has held that failing to tell a suspect what it is they intend to question him about is irrelevant to the issue of the voluntariness of a Miranda waiver. Still, be careful here ... honesty is often better.¹¹

13.4 Miranda Inside Jail and Prison

Interviewing a suspect in jail or prison about an unrelated crime does not necessarily mean they are in custody for Miranda purposes. Courts will look at several factors. Still, a good rule of thumb is to read Miranda for jail inmates and optionally for prison inmates. This is because jail is not a person's "home" and therefore jail inmates are in "in-custody" for Miranda purposes. However, courts typically view prisons as quasi-homes for inmates, and therefore are not "per se" in-custody. But your actions should not be more "restrictive or coercive" than typical for the prison environment. For example, if a locked interview room is used tell him he is free to leave at any time (after getting the guard to take him back to his cell).¹²

LEGAL STANDARD

Jail inmates:

- You should read pre-convicted jail inmates their Miranda rights.

Prison inmates:

- You are not required to read a prison inmate his Miranda rights because he is not typically considered "in-custody" because the prison is his "home."

¹⁰ Stansbury v. Cal., 511 U.S. 318 (1994).

¹¹ Colorado v. Spring, 479 U.S. 564 (1987).

¹² Miranda v. Ariz., 384 U.S. 436 (1966).

CASE EXAMPLES

Prisoner was not in custody during interview with investigators

Defendant was not in-custody for Miranda purposes when he was escorted into a conference room and questioned by sheriff's deputies about allegations that he had sexual contact with a minor before prison. The defendant was told he could leave and return to cell whenever he wanted to, he was not physically restrained or threatened, he was interviewed in well-lit, average-sized conference room in which he was not uncomfortable, he was offered food and water, and door to conference room was sometimes left open.¹³

13.5 Miranda for Juveniles

Miranda rules that apply to adults equally apply to juveniles. In schools, Miranda is not required if the school is investigating a violation of school policy. However, if a police officer is present, Miranda will be required if there is arrest-like custody.

LEGAL STANDARD

Keep in mind the following issues regarding Miranda and juveniles:

- Miranda rules that apply to adults apply to juveniles;
- Police should be aware that due to the child's immaturity, courts will scrutinize whether the waiver was knowing and voluntarily provided;
- States often have additional requirements, such as parental notification.

CASE EXAMPLES

Miranda not required when interviewed by principal

A vice-principle interrogating an "in-custody" student about drug possession was not required to Mirandize the student before police had arrived.¹⁴

Dean not required to give Miranda before ordering student to empty pockets

A dean received information that a student possessed drugs and confronted the student and ordered him to empty his pockets, which revealed narcotics.¹⁵

Age must be a factor in whether to Mirandize

"It is beyond dispute that children will often feel bound to submit to police questioning when an adult in the same circumstances would feel free to leave."¹⁶

¹³ Howes v. Fields, 132 S. Ct. 1181 (2012).

¹⁴ People v. Pankhurst, 365 Ill. App. 3d 248 (Ill. App. Ct. 2d Dist. 2006).

¹⁵ People v. Stewart, 63 Misc. 2d 601 (N.Y. City Crim. Ct. 1970).

¹⁶ J.D.B. v. North Carolina, 564 U.S. 261 (2011).

13.6 Witnesses and Victims

Often when you investigate a crime, you will talk to various witnesses and victims. Courts have held that uninvolved witnesses or victims are presumed to be reliable, unlike a criminal confidential informant.

Obviously, this does not relieve you of conducting a quality investigation that seeks the truth.

LEGAL STANDARD

Citizen witnesses and victims are presumptively reliable; therefore, you do not need to corroborate their basis of knowledge.

CASE EXAMPLES

Police do not need to be skeptical about ordinary citizen witnesses

“We begin by noting that when examining informant evidence used to support a claim of probable cause for a warrant, or a warrantless arrest, the skepticism and careful scrutiny usually found in cases involving informants, sometimes anonymous, from the criminal milieu, is appropriately relaxed if the informant is an identified victim or ordinary citizen witness.”¹⁷

Witness not unreliable just because he was intoxicated

“Although it is possible that an angry and intoxicated person may be less reliable than a detached uninterested observer who is sober, it is equally possible that those same factors can make a witness more inclined to be truthful than they otherwise might.”¹⁸

Defendant has a right to cross examine witness who provided “testimony”

Domestic battery victim’s written statements in affidavit given to police officer were testimonial, and therefore, defendant had a right to cross exam victim before statement could be used in court.¹⁹

13.7 Invocation Prior to Interrogation

The law is clear that a person may invoke his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination, whether or not he is in-custody. At the same time, he cannot invoke his “Miranda” rights prior to being in-custody and before interrogation is imminent.

¹⁷ Easton v. Boulder, 776 F.2d 1441 (10th Cir. Colo. 1985).

¹⁹ Davis v. Washington, 547 U.S. 813 (2006).

What does this mean in practice? It means that you must respect a person's desire to not incriminate himself, and if a person does not want to talk you must respect it. However, if you later arrest him and want to interrogate, then his previous "invocation" does not apply to Miranda. Therefore, you may Mirandize him and seek a waiver. If he waives, then it is a valid waiver and you may use what he says against him.

Finally, what if the suspect invokes his right to counsel, instead of his right against self-incrimination? First, remember, there is no right to counsel when a suspect has not been charged with a crime—so there is no invocation. Still, it may be a sign that the suspect may also want to invoke his right against self-incrimination, which exists 24/7.

LEGAL STANDARD

If the suspect invokes his right to remain silent before arrest, then:

- If the invocation is unambiguous,
- Scrupulously honor the request; and
- If he's still not in-custody, you may later try to interview him.

If the suspect invokes his right to counsel, then:

- Inform the suspect that he is free to hire a lawyer;
- Be aware that you cannot coerce the suspect to speak with you.

CASE EXAMPLES

Suspect pre-arrest invocation did not apply to arrest interrogation.

Suspect's request for lawyer prior to arrest was not a Miranda invocation.²⁰

13.8 Ambiguous Invocations

If a suspect intends to invoke his rights, he must do so clearly, directly, and unambiguously (You're not a mind reader for God sakes!). Suspects that merely mention abstract ideas about their rights will not be viewed as actually invoking them. For example, if a suspect says, "Maybe I should get a lawyer." That's ambiguous and a reasonable person would not take that to mean the suspect wants a lawyer, but is merely thinking about getting one. Therefore, you may keep asking questions. As I side note, never respond with a phrase such as, "If I were you, I would not get a lawyer." If anything, tell him, "Look that's totally up to you, I cannot make that decision for you."

²⁰ Bobby v. Dixon, 132 S. Ct. 26 (2011).

LEGAL STANDARD

A Miranda invocation is valid if:

- A suspect invoked his right to silence or counsel in an unambiguous manner;
- In other words, the suspect must say, write, or do something that an objectively reasonable person would clearly know was intended as an invocation, not merely a question or verbalized inner-thoughts.

CASE EXAMPLES

Suspect must clearly invoke his rights

“The suspect must unambiguously request counsel. A statement either is such an assertion of the right to counsel or it is not ... he must articulate his desire to have counsel present sufficiently clearly that a reasonable police officer in the circumstances would understand the statement to be a request for an attorney.”²¹

Silence alone may not be enough to invoke Miranda

The fact that defendant was silent during first two hours and 45 minutes of three hour interview was insufficient to invoke his right to remain silent under Miranda.²²
Note: This could have gone either way, articulation is the key.

13.9 Suspect Invoked, Now What?

If you begin the interrogation process, and the suspect tells you he does not want to talk, you must not question him further. The only exception would be public safety questions and routine booking questions. However, the Supreme Court said that after a “significant period of time” you may reengage the suspect and seek a knowing and intelligent waiver as long as you “scrupulously honored” the suspect’s prior invocation (left him alone).

On the other hand, if a suspect invokes his right to counsel, the interrogation must stop and there is no “cooling off” period while in custody. You are done. The only two exceptions are if he independently restarted the interrogation or you waited at least fourteen days after he was released from custody.

LEGAL STANDARD

If a suspect invokes his right to remain silent:

- All questioning must immediately cease;
- You may try to question him after an appropriate “cooling off” period. In one case, the Supreme Court found a two-hour period sufficient.²³

²¹ Davis v. U.S., 114 S. Ct. 2350 (1994).

²² Berghuis v. Thompkins, 130 S. Ct. 2250 (2010).

²³ Michigan v. Mosley, 423 U.S. 96 (1975).

If a suspect invokes his right to counsel:

- All questioning must immediately cease;
- There is no “cooling off” period and counsel must be present before further questioning;
- If suspect is released from jail, then his previous invocation is valid for fourteen days from the day he is released. This right is not “crime” specific—all questioning must cease.

CASE EXAMPLES

Two-hour break, along with Miranda waiver, found to be sufficient

“After an interval of more than two hours, Mosley was questioned by another police officer at another location about an unrelated holdup murder. He was given full and complete Miranda warnings at the outset of the second interrogation. He was thus reminded again that he could remain silent and could consult with a lawyer and was carefully given a full and fair opportunity to exercise these options.” Suspect gave a valid waiver.²⁴

All questioning must cease if a suspect invokes right to counsel

“When an accused has invoked his right to have counsel present during a custodial interrogation, a valid waiver of that right cannot be established by showing only that he responded to further police-initiated custodial interrogation even if he has been advised of his rights. An accused, having expressed his desire to deal with the police only through counsel, is not subject to further interrogation by the authorities until counsel has been made available to him, unless the accused himself initiates further communication, exchanges, or conversations with the police.”²⁵

Request for counsel means that counsel be present during questioning

“When counsel is requested, interrogation must cease, and officials may not reinitiate interrogation without counsel present, whether or not the accused has consulted with his attorney. In context, the requirement that counsel be ‘made available’ to the accused refers not to the opportunity to consult with an attorney outside the interrogation room, but to the right to have the attorney present during custodial interrogation.”²⁶

Even if a suspect has a lawyer, police may seek a waiver

“Our precedents also place beyond doubt that the Sixth Amendment right to counsel may be waived by a defendant, so long as relinquishment of the right is voluntary, knowing, and intelligent. The defendant may waive the right whether or not he is already represented by counsel; the decision to waive need not itself be counseled.”²⁷

²⁴ Michigan v. Mosley, 423 U.S. 96 (1975).

²⁵ Edwards v. Ariz., 451 U.S. 477 (1981).

²⁶ Minnick v. Mississippi, 498 U.S. 146 (1990).

²⁷ Montejo v. Louisiana, 556 U.S. 778 (2009).

13.10 Suspect Invoked, Now Wants to Talk

If a suspect unambiguously invokes his Miranda rights, questioning must cease. However, it's possible for a suspect to change his mind after invocation if you keep the below guidelines in mind.²⁸

LEGAL STANDARD

A suspect is allowed to revoke his previous invocation if:

- The decision to revoke the invocation was made freely by the suspect and not because of undue police influence;
- The suspect wanted to open up a general discussion about the crime, as opposed to merely asking questions about routine matters regarding his custody; and
- You reread Miranda and obtained an express waiver.

CASE EXAMPLES

Suspect must initiate further communication with police

“An accused who requests an attorney, having expressed his desire to deal with the police only through counsel, is not subject to further interrogation by the authorities until counsel has been made available to him, unless the accused himself initiates further communication, exchanges, or conversations with the police.”²⁹

Question, “Well, what is going to happen to me now?” was general dialogue about crime

Suspect invoked his right to counsel. Later, he asked “Well, what is going to happen to me now?” Police spoke to him and he made incriminating statements. The courts held there was “no doubt in this case that in asking, “Well, what is going to happen to me now?”, respondent “initiated” further conversation in the ordinary dictionary sense of that word.”³⁰

13.11 Intentional Versus Accidental Miranda Violations

Sometimes you will mistakenly interrogate a suspect without Miranda. If this happens then naturally that testimony may not be used. Courts separate the violations into two categories: intentional and unintentional. Depending on which rule you violated, you may still be able to obtain a valid Miranda waiver.

If you intentionally interrogate a suspect without Miranda as a tactic to gain a confession, or coerce the suspect, it will not matter that you later obtained a waiver, both confessions will be suppressed.

²⁸ People v. Davis, 46 Cal. 4th 539 (Cal. 2009).

²⁹ Minnick v. Mississippi, 498 U.S. 146 (1990).

³⁰ Oregon v. Bradshaw, 462 U.S. 1039 (1983).

If you accidentally fail to Mirandize you may be able to obtain a valid waiver later.³¹ Courts will want to see that you “cleansed” the invalid interrogation. For example, by telling the suspect his previous answers will not be used and obtaining a new express waiver.

 LEGAL STANDARD

If you intentionally interrogate a suspect without Miranda, then:

- It will not matter that you later obtained a waiver, both confessions will be suppressed.

If you unintentionally interrogate a suspect without Miranda, then:

- You may be able to obtain a valid waiver later if you “cleansed” the invalid interrogation (e.g., tell him previous statement won’t be used).

 CASE EXAMPLES

Intentional interrogation without Miranda, in order to “soften up” suspect, is prohibited

Officers intentionally violated Miranda, so that later interrogation after Miranda would be easier. Such tactics violate Due Process and are prohibited.³²

13.12 When to Provide Miranda Again

Generally, you do not have to “remind” a suspect of his Miranda rights during interrogation. If the suspect gave a knowing and intelligent waiver once, you are usually fine. However, during some complicated investigations the waiver may become “stale” and therefore courts may want to see follow-up waivers.

 LEGAL STANDARD

A Miranda re-advisement may be appropriate when considering:

- A lot of time has passed between the waiver and suspect’s statement;
- Significant interruptions in the continuity of investigation;
- Change in locations;
- Different officers interview the suspect; and
- Whether the suspect has later changed his testimony.

Note: Re-advisements are usually not needed unless multiple factors are present.

³¹ Or. v. Elstad, 470 U.S. 298 (1985).

³² Missouri v. Seibert, 542 U.S. 600 (2004).

CASE EXAMPLES

Asking suspect if he remembered Miranda upheld

“Where defendant voluntarily appeared at police station to inquire of shooting and...led officer to believe that defendant’s involvement was more than casual curiosity and thereupon officer read defendant’s rights from a “Miranda card” after which defendant was questioned briefly and remained in station until investigation shifted to him as a prime suspect approximately two hours later and defendant was asked again if he had been advised of his rights and he answered in the affirmative, renewal of Miranda warnings was sufficient under the circumstances.”³³

13.13 Public Safety Exception

Miranda warnings are not required if you are asking legitimate public safety questions. The safety concern must be something that is pressing and will likely cause substantial bodily harm or death.

Stay away from “why” type questions since that has to do with motive, not public safety. “Why” questions usually violate Miranda. Also, remember that a suspect’s answers to public safety questions may be used against him in court.

LEGAL STANDARD

An in-custody suspect may be interrogated without Miranda if:

- You ask about legitimate public safety concerns (e.g., Where did you toss the gun near the school?);
- You do not ask “why” type questions, but instead focus on pressing public safety concerns;
- Once the public safety questions have been handled, Miranda will be required for further questioning.

CASE EXAMPLES

Police lawfully asked suspect where he ditched the gun

The Supreme Court crafted an exception to Miranda for situations where a suspect’s silence may imminently endanger the public or police. After cornering a rape suspect in a supermarket, police found that the suspect, reported to be armed, was wearing an empty holster. Without first giving him Miranda warnings, police asked him where he had ditched the gun. He responded, “the gun is over there,” and gestured toward a stack of empty cartons. Behind the cartons, police found a loaded revolver and his admission was admitted against him at trial.³⁴

³³ State v. Dixon, 107 Ariz. 415 (Ariz. 1971).

³⁴ N.Y. v. Quarles, 467 U.S. 649 (1984).

13.14 Routine Booking Questions

Police may ask routine biological information in order to complete booking and pre-trial services. However, if the information is not needed for booking, and would likely produce an incriminating response, it is considered interrogation.³⁵

LEGAL STANDARD

An in-custody suspect may be asked questions during the booking process without Miranda if:

- The questions seek routine biological information in order to complete booking and pre-trial services;
- If the information is not needed for booking, and would likely produce an incriminating response, it is considered interrogation.

CASE EXAMPLES

Questions about where suspect worked not proper booking question

The suspect was arrested after he solicited sex from an underage teenager on the internet. During an interrogation, he invoked his right to counsel twice. Subsequently, the detective asked him various questions from the booking sheet, including where he worked. This information was used at trial. The court of appeals found this was a Miranda violation, and suppressed the evidence.³⁶

A request for basic information is not interrogation

“A request for routine information necessary for basic identification purposes is not interrogation under Miranda, even if the information turns out to be incriminating. Only if the government agent should reasonably be aware that the information sought... is directly relevant to the offense charged, will the question be subject to scrutiny.”³⁷

13.15 Evidence Discovered after Miranda Violation

The Exclusionary rule applies to Fourth Amendment violations, and Miranda is a Fifth Amendment right. Therefore, if a police officer interrogates a suspect without obtaining a Miranda waiver then only the testimony cannot be used. Any evidence found as a result of the testimony may be admitted at trial.

Remember, the seizure of any evidence must be done legally and this type of conduct is highly discouraged. In fact, in one extreme case the 9th Circuit has allowed lawsuits against police officers who intentional violate Miranda.³⁸

³⁵ Pa. v. Muniz, 496 U.S. 582 (1990).

³⁶ U.S. v. Hart, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 72473 (W.D. Ky. Aug. 17, 2009).

³⁸ Cooper v. Dupnik, 963 F.2d 1220 (9th Cir. Ariz. 1992).

Additionally, flagrant conduct by officers may be seen as a Due Process violation, subject to a civil rights lawsuit and suppression of evidence. Do not use this as evidence-gathering tactic.

LEGAL STANDARD

Evidence discovered from an un-Mirandized interrogation will not be suppressed if:

- The suspect was not coerced or compelled to speak; and
- There were no other flagrant police conduct that would violate Due Process.

CASE EXAMPLES

Miranda violation does not apply to physical evidence

The Fifth Amendment is not violated by introduction of physical evidence obtained as result of voluntary statements; thus, failure to give suspect Miranda warnings does not require suppression of evidence found after suspect's unwarned but voluntary statements.³⁹

³⁹ U.S. v. Patane, 542 U.S. 630 (2004).

Chapter 14

Law Enforcement Liability

14.1 Exclusionary Rule

The exclusionary rule states that evidence obtained in violation of the Fourth Amendment (and in extreme circumstances, Due Process) is inadmissible in a criminal trial. The purpose of the rule “is to deter future unlawful police conduct and thereby effectuate the guarantee of the Fourth Amendment against unreasonable searches and seizures.”¹

The Fourth Amendment also seeks to “safeguard the privacy and security of individuals against arbitrary invasions by government officials.”

Before a suspect may rely on the exclusionary rule, they must have “standing” to object. In other words, the suspect must have a legitimate privacy interest in the place or thing searched or seized. Without this “skin in the game” the suspect lacks standing, and the exclusionary rule will provide no relief.

Finally, even when police violate the Fourth Amendment, and the suspect has standing to object to using the evidence, there are many exclusionary rule exceptions that may come into play. If so, the evidence may still be used against the suspect. But remember, since using an exception typically means that a Fourth Amendment violation occurred, the suspect may still be able to sue you in a 1983 lawsuit. You do not need that stress. Use this book, get additional training, and comply with the Constitution.

LEGAL STANDARD

Evidence obtained by police may be excluded if:

- You obtained the evidence illegally, particularly in violation of the Fourth Amendment;
- Excluding evidence will serve a deterrent effect for future unlawful police conduct; and
- The evidence is primarily introduced as evidence in a criminal trial against the defendant.

CASE EXAMPLES

Despite unlawful detention, evidence of assault on LEO will not be suppressed as fruit of poisonous tree

“There are limitations to the exclusionary rule which are largely based on common sense. One such limitation is that the rule does not immunize crimes of violence committed on a peace officer, even if they are preceded by a Fourth Amendment violation.²

Fact that evidence is vital for a prosecution does not weigh on the exclusionary rule

Federal prosecutors argued that if evidence was suppressed under the exclusionary rule, they would not be able to prosecute the case. The court dismissed this “necessity” argument. If there is a violation, the exclusionary rule applies no matter the consequences.³

Exclusionary rule does not apply if police rely on binding legal authority

If police search or seize in an objectively reasonable reliance on binding court authority, which is later overruled, the exclusionary rule does not apply because there is no need to deter unlawful police activity.⁴

For example, where police placed a GPS-tracker on a vehicle without a warrant in reliance of then Supreme Court precedent involving “homing beacons,” tracking data should not be suppressed even though the Court later held warrantless GPS tracking offended the Fourth Amendment.⁵

The exclusionary rule does not apply to violations of state or federal statutes unless the state legislature or congress specifically required exclusion

The Fourth Amendment is controlled the Constitution, not by statutes. Therefore, even when police violate a statute the result is not automatic exclusion of evidence unless the legislature intended that result.⁶ Additionally, even if a violation of state law requires suppression, that same law has no effect on federal court proceedings.⁷

14.2 Exceptions to the Exclusionary Rule

The exclusionary rule states that evidence obtained as a result of an illegal search and/or seizure is inadmissible in a criminal trial. This rule is meant to deter police misconduct.⁸ But there are several exceptions.

LEGAL STANDARD

Some of the exceptions to the exclusionary rule, include:

- The defendant has no standing to object;
- Evidence can be used to impeach a defendant;

- Foreign searches;
- Forfeiture proceedings;¹⁰
- Inevitable discovery;
- Deportation proceedings;
- Grand juries;¹¹
- Civil tax proceedings.

14.3 Fruit of the Poisonous Tree

The exclusionary rule forbids the admission of illegally obtained evidence. The “fruit of the poisonous tree” doctrine says that any evidence found as a consequence of the first illegal search or seizure will also be suppressed.

This can get a little confusing but remember this, all illegally obtained evidence will usually be suppressed.

LEGAL STANDARD

Derivative evidence will be excluded as evidence if:

- You discovered evidence subject to the exclusionary rule;
- That evidence led you to discover additional (i.e., derivative) evidence; and
- There are no applicable exceptions.

CASE EXAMPLES

Observations after unlawful entry cannot be used

Observations made after an unlawful, warrantless entry into a structure cannot be used to establish probable cause for a search warrant.¹²

All evidence tainted after unlawful arrest

Where defendant was unlawfully arrested, evidence recovered from his person, incriminating statements, and the products of a search warrant that used all the above as part of its probable cause, were subject to being suppressed.¹³

Consent to search was tainted after unlawful arrest

The defendant was unlawfully arrested and transported to the station primarily because he was standing next to a stolen car and was associated with the prime suspect. At the station he gave consent to search and narcotics was discovered. The unlawful arrest tainted the consent and evidence suppressed.¹⁴

14.4 Standing to Object

In order for a defendant to challenge the constitutionality of a search or seizure he must show that he had some “skin in the game.” In other words, the actual search and seizure must have intruded into area where he had a legitimate expectation of privacy.

It is helpful to the prosecution to ask ownership questions in the field. If someone denies ownership of a bag, backpack, car, etc., that may help show he did not have standing to object to the search or seizure (even if he legally owned the item).

Still, officers should remember that even if standing is lacking for the defendant, other subjects may still be able to sue for civil right violations or suffer criminal penalties.

LEGAL STANDARD

When an unlawful search and seizure occurs, only people with “standing” may take advantage of the exclusionary rule. Generally, standing exists based on the following factors:¹⁵

- The defendant has a property interest in the thing seized or the place searched;
- He has a right to exclude others from the thing seized or the place searched;
- He exhibited a subjective expectation that the item would remain free from governmental intrusion;
- He took normal precautions to maintain privacy in the item; and
- Whether he was legitimately on the premises.

CASE EXAMPLES

Passenger in lawfully car lacked standing to contest search

The defendant was a passenger in a suspected stolen vehicle (later determined not stolen). An officer conducted a protected sweep and a loaded shotgun was found in a plastic bag. The passenger challenged the vehicle search but the court found he lacked standing since the vehicle was lawfully stopped and the vehicle did not belong to him.¹⁶

¹⁵ People v. Roybal, 19 Cal. 4th 481 (Cal. 1998).

¹⁶ Scott v. State, 110 Nev. 622 (1994).

14.5 Good Faith Exception

The Supreme Court outlined a “good faith exception” to the exclusionary rule.¹⁷ The good faith exception usually applies to three activities: Reliance on a search warrant that is technically defective; reliance on an arrest warrant that should have been voided; and reliance on a law that is later found to be unconstitutional.

For example, if police, in good faith, relied upon a search warrant that technically defective because the judge improperly dated it then any evidence found would likely still be admissible. In effect, there is no incentive to punish officers.

The good faith exception also applies when police rely upon an existing law that is later found to be unconstitutional.¹⁸ It would serve no useful purpose to exclude evidence under these circumstances since there is no police misconduct.

LEGAL STANDARD

The “good faith” exception typically applies to these situations:

Invalid search warrants where officers:

- Objectively believed the search warrant was facially valid (e.g., not blatantly lacking probable cause); and
- Issued by a neutral and detached magistrate.

Invalid arrest warrants where officers:

- Objectively believed the arrest warrant was still active.

Unconstitutional statutes where:

- The legislature did not wholly abandon its responsibility to enact constitutional laws; or
- A reasonably well-trained officer would have known the law was unconstitutional.

CASE EXAMPLES

“Good faith” is based on objective reasonableness

In evaluating a “good faith” claim, the courts will look to whether a “reasonably well trained officer would have known that the search was illegal” in light of all the circumstances. The officer’s subjective belief is not a consideration.¹⁹

A stop and identify statute later found to be unconstitutional does not warrant suppression of evidence

“Once respondent refused to identify himself as the presumptively valid ordinance required, the officer had probable cause to believe respondent was committing an offense in his presence...The subsequently determined invalidity of the Detroit ordinance on vagueness grounds does not undermine the validity of the arrest made for violation of that ordinance, and the evidence discovered in the search of respondent should not have been suppressed.”²⁰

¹⁷ U.S. v. Leon, 468 U.S. 897 (1984).

No good faith where search warrant is obviously defective

“[D]epending on the circumstances of the particular case, a warrant may be so facially deficient—i.e., in failing to particularize the place to be searched or the things to be seized—that the executing officers cannot reasonably presume it to be valid.”²¹

14.6 Attenuation

A court may admit evidence discovered after an illegal police search or seizure if the prosecution can show that there was no significant relationship between the unlawful conduct and the discovery of the evidence. This is known as attenuation or an “intervening circumstance.”²²

LEGAL STANDARD

The attenuation doctrine may save evidence from the exclusionary rule based on a review of the following factors:

- How much time was there between your unlawful search and seizure and the discovery of the evidence? The more time the better;
- Was there intervening circumstances having nothing to do with the unlawful conduct? If so, that’s good; and
- What was the purpose and flagrancy of your misconduct? Honest mistakes are better than sloppy police practices.

CASE EXAMPLES

Arrest warrant attenuated illegal detention

“While Officer Fackrell’s decision to initiate the stop was mistaken, his conduct thereafter was lawful... Moreover, there is no indication that this unlawful stop was part of any systemic or recurrent police misconduct. To the contrary, all the evidence suggests that the stop was an isolated instance of negligence that occurred in connection with a bona fide investigation of a suspected drug house... Applying these factors, we hold that the evidence discovered on Strieff’s person was admissible because the unlawful stop was sufficiently attenuated by the pre-existing arrest warrant.”²³

²⁰ Michigan v. DeFillippo, 443 U.S. 31 (1979).

²¹ U.S. v. Leon, 468 U.S. 897 (1984).

²³ Utah v. Strieff, 136 S. Ct. 2056 (2016).

Arrest warrant attenuated unlawful stop of passenger

Unlawful stop of passenger did not require the suppression of evidence found on his person after he was arrested for an outstanding warrant. The evidence was found because of the warrant, not the illegal stop.²⁴

14.7 Inevitable or Independent Discovery

The exclusionary rule forbids the admission of illegally obtained evidence. However, if the prosecution can show that the evidence would have been discovered regardless of the illegal conduct, the evidence will not be suppressed.²⁵

LEGAL STANDARD

The inevitable discovery doctrine may save evidence from the exclusionary rule if:²⁶

- There was a standard procedure (e.g., vehicle inventory) in effect that would have inevitably discovered the same evidence or;
- Either at the time of the misconduct, or after the misconduct, there was an independent line of police investigation underway which developed facts not as a result of the misconduct and would have led to the discovery of the evidence.

The independent source doctrine may save evidence from the exclusionary rule if:²⁷

- At the time of the discovery, there was a legal and valid independent source by which police would have discovered the evidence, then the evidence will not be suppressed.

CASE EXAMPLES*Police search party would have discovered tainted evidence

Police violated Miranda rights and suspect eventually identified child's buried location. Evidence not suppressed because police had a search party in the area and would have likely discovered the remains anyway. Of course, suspect's admission where body was buried was suppressed.²⁸

Evidence admissible if police show they would have gotten a warrant

"The doctrine may even apply where the subsequent search that inevitably would have uncovered the disputed evidence required a warrant and the police had probable cause to obtain this warrant... if the government produces evidence that the police would have obtained the necessary warrant absent the illegal search.”²⁹

It is not enough for police to articulate that they “could have” gotten a warrant, they must show they “would have”

“We reject the contention that inevitable discovery applies where police have probable cause and then search without a warrant (but argue that they “could have” gotten a search warrant) because then there would never be a reason for police to seek a search warrant.”³⁰

Despite an unlawful search, evidence not suppressed because airline would have inevitably searched same item

Cocaine was found by police without a warrant in a misrouted suitcase, and the Court held that the cocaine would have been found by the airline when it searched the suitcase for identity of the owner.³¹

Despite unlawful search of vehicle, evidence would have inevitably found during inventory search

“Here, if police did not recover the contraband in their initial search, they would have recovered it during their later inventory search. Thus, the drugs seized from Camacho’s car would have been admissible under the inevitable discovery rule. Since police would have inevitably discovered the drugs when they performed an inventory search of Camacho’s vehicle pursuant to established police policy following seizures, the district court did not err by admitting the evidence under this exception to the warrant requirement.”³²

14.8 Duty to Protect

You have no legal or constitutional obligation to protect people from harm caused by third-party, non-governmental actors.³³ This is true even if the injury was caused in your presence and you “could have done something.” It is only at the point that you actually get involved, or somehow placed the third-party in harm, that you may be held liable. Though, of course, I am not advocating not doing your job—just pointing out a liability principle.

LEGAL STANDARD

There may be a duty to protect a person from harm if:

- A special relationship exists because you seized the person; or
- You created or enhanced the danger suffered by the person.

²⁹ U.S. v. Jones, 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 71181 (W.D. Pa. June 1, 2016).

³² Camacho v. State, 119 Nev. 395 (2003).

³³ Deshaney v. Winnebago County Dep’t of Social Services, 489 U.S. 189 (1989).

CASE EXAMPLES

Police not liable for death of TPO victim

A suspect violated a TPO and fled before police arrived. The suspect returned later and killed the applicant, even though police did not look for the suspect. Police had no special relationship with victim, and therefore were not liable.³⁴

Police liable for ejected bar patron that froze to death

Police were called about a drunk patron at a bar. Police ejected the patron into freezing weather in only a t-shirt and jeans. Police refused to give him his jacket. He was found dead the next morning in an alley. Qualified immunity denied.³⁵

Police liable after returning naked and beaten minor back to assailant

In a bizarre case in the extreme, police detained a naked and beaten minor during an investigation, then released him to his assailant, Jeffrey Dahmer (before police knew who he really was). After police left, victim was killed. Court found special relationship existed and parents could sue police.³⁶ Whoops.

14.9 Duty to Intervene

You must intervene on behalf of a person whose constitutional rights are being violated by another law enforcement officer (including outside agencies). If not, you may be held vicariously liable and sued. This topic is a touchy one and no cop wants to be put in this situation. But remember, if you have to get involved it's not you that caused it, it's the other officer who failed to follow the rules. At the end of the day it's your career, your family, and your agency you need to protect.

LEGAL STANDARD

You may be liable for failure to intervene if:

1. You witness a clear violation of a civil or federal right;
2. You had an opportunity to intervene;
3. The person violating the rights is a government actor; and
4. You fail to make a reasonable intervention.

CASE EXAMPLES

An officer must intervene, if they have an opportunity

A police officer "has a duty under § 1983 'to intervene to prevent a false arrest or the use of excessive force if the officer is informed of the facts that establish a ³⁴ Town of Castle Rock v. Gonzales, 545 U.S. 748 (2005).

³⁵ Munger v. City of Glasgow Police Dep't, 227 F.3d 1082 (9th Cir. Mont. 2000).

³⁶ Sinthasomphone v. Milwaukee, 785 F. Supp. 1343 (W.D. Wis. 1992).

constitutional violation and has the ability to prevent it.’ Thus, in an excessive force case, a police officer who is present and does not intervene to stop other officers from infringing the constitutional rights of citizens is liable under § 1983 if the officer had reason to know “that excessive force was being used, . . . and the officer had a realistic opportunity to intervene to prevent the harm from occurring.”³⁷

The law requiring intervention is clearly established

“It is not necessary that a police officer actually participate in the use of excessive force in order to be held liable under section 1983. Rather, an officer who is present at the scene and who fails to take reasonable steps to protect the victim of another officer’s use of excessive force, can be held liable for his nonfeasance [i.e., just standing there and watching].”³⁸

14.10 Supervisor Liability

Supervisors must supervise. If you fail to document misconduct or take corrective actions against a subordinate, you may be held liable for similar future misconduct even if you weren’t directly involved.³⁹

LEGAL STANDARD

Supervisors may be liable for a subordinate’s actions if:

- You had actual or constructive knowledge that a subordinate was engaged in conduct that posed a pervasive or unreasonable risk of constitutional violations;
- Your lack of response showed a deliberate indifference or tacit approval of the subordinate’s conduct; and
- There was a causal link between your inaction and the injury.

CASE EXAMPLES

Supervisor may be liable for failure to supervise

A supervisor may be held liable for the alleged unconstitutional acts of his subordinates if plaintiffs demonstrate an “affirmative link” that he actively participated or acquiesced in the constitutional violation. That “affirmative link” can be shown through the supervisor’s personal participation, his exercise of control or direction, or his failure to supervise.⁴⁰

³⁷ Smith v. Hunt, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 101526 (N.D. Ill. Sept. 27, 2010).

³⁸ Fundiller v. City of Cooper City, 777 F.2d 1436, 1441-42 (11th Cir. 1985).

⁴⁰ Holland v. Harrington, 268 F.3d 1179 (10th Cir. Colo. 2001).

Not liable for mere negligent supervision

“Supervisors who are merely negligent in failing to detect and prevent subordinates’ misconduct are not liable.”⁴¹ However, there are state claims where supervisors may be liable for negligence.

14.11 Unequal Enforcement of the Law

You will sometimes be criticized because you are not enforcing a law on everyone. For example, if you pull a subject over for speeding a common defense is that another person was speeding faster. This attack on your discretion is usually not a Fourth Amendment violation. In order to succeed, the suspect would have to prove you had no rational basis for choosing him over another suspect. In reality, this is a very difficult thing to prove.

 LEGAL STANDARD

A claim that a law was unequally enforced against a person in violation of the Equal Protection Clause must prove:

- The plaintiff was treated differently from others similarly situated; and
- There was no rational basis for the different treatment (rational basis is an easy test to satisfy).

Note: A “rational basis” could simply be that you can only enforce the law on one person at a time.

 CASE EXAMPLES
Towing just one car is not unequal enforcement

Noble argues that the Mayor did not like him and that’s why he ordered his car towed. As it stands, “[a]ll it takes to defeat [Noble’s] claim is a conceivable rational basis for the difference in treatment... If we can come up with a rational basis for the challenged action, that will be the end of the matter... a rational basis for the difference in treatment is that the Village cannot be expected to tow every inoperable vehicle at once.”⁴²

14.12 Behavior that “Shocks the Conscious”

You may be liable if you had an intent and purpose to cause harm unrelated to the legitimate object of the arrest, or use of force. This standard is much higher than gross negligence or deliberate indifference and is difficult for a plaintiff to meet.

⁴¹ Morfin v. City of E. Chicago, 349 F.3d 989 (7th Cir. Ind. 2003).

⁴² Noble v. Vill. of Elliott, 605 Fed. Appx. 572 (7th Cir. Ill. 2015).

 LEGAL STANDARD

Some police behavior is so appalling that it will violate the Due Process Clause, even without a specific Fourth Amendment violation.⁴³ Here, the standard is:

- You had an intent and purpose to cause harm; and
- This purpose was unrelated to the legitimate object of arrest.

 CASE EXAMPLES

Illegal home entry and stomach pumping shocked the conscious

“This is conduct that shocks the conscience: Illegally breaking into the privacy of a petitioner, the struggle to open his mouth and remove what was there, the forcible extraction of his stomach’s contents—this course of proceeding by agents of government to obtain evidence is bound to offend even hardened sensibilities.”⁴⁴

Digital rectum searches on prisoners shocked the conscious

“Under the facts as alleged by Vaughan, a reasonable prison official in 1984 would have understood that the [rectum] searches were conducted in a brutal fashion that was not justified by a need for force. The extent of possible injury was great, and at least one inmate suffered significant injury. The joking and insults directed at the inmates support an inference that the force was maliciously and sadistically applied.”⁴⁵

14.13 Deliberate Indifference

A police agency may be liable for a constitutional violation where the officer’s actions were deliberately indifferent to the plaintiff. In plain English, this means that the agency had a policy or custom that deprived the plaintiff of a constitutional or federally protected right.

 LEGAL STANDARD

An agency has been deliberately indifferent to the plaintiff if:

- The agency had a policy or custom, or lack of policy;
- which denied the plaintiff a constitutional or federally protected right;
- This right was foreseeable; and
- That deprivation must have caused the plaintiff’s injury.

⁴³ County of Sacramento v. Lewis, 523 U.S. 833 (1998).

⁴⁴ Rochin v. California, 342 U.S. 165 (1952).

⁴⁵ Vaughan v. Ricketts, 859 F.2d 736 (9th Cir. 1988).

CASE EXAMPLES

Whether an agency is deliberately indifferent depends on what tasks employees are expected to perform

“We hold today that the inadequacy of police training may serve as the basis for §1983 liability only where the failure to train amounts to deliberate indifference to the rights of persons with whom the police come into contact... In resolving the issue of a city’s liability, the focus must be on adequacy of the training program in relation to the tasks the particular officers must perform.”⁴⁶

Mere negligence, or isolated deprivations, will not result in agency liability

“That a particular officer may be unsatisfactorily trained will not alone suffice to fasten liability on the city, for the officer’s shortcomings may have resulted from factors other than a faulty training program... Neither will it suffice to prove that an injury or accident could have been avoided if an officer had had better or more training.”⁴⁷

14.14 Sharing Crime Scene Photos on Social Media

You may be held civilly liable for taking pictures of crime scenes and sharing them with friends or other outsiders, when not in the course of official business. Additionally, the defense may subpoena your personal cell phone for inspection.

Do not take pictures of any crime scene with your phone, it is unprofessional and may get you fired and/or sued.

LEGAL STANDARD

A lawsuit may be commenced if offensive investigation photos are shared with friends or on social media. The elements are:

- The photos end up shared on a public platform, like Facebook;
- The photos contain information not generally available to the public;
- The information is offensive or objectionable to a reasonable person; and
- There are no applicable First Amendment protections.

CASE EXAMPLES

CHP officer liable for sharing accident scene photos with friends

Once photographic evidence is collected, it is not the role of the CHP... to distribute that evidence to friends and family members. [And] it is not the role of the CHP to put the parents and siblings of the decedent at risk of harm of seeing the grotesque death images of their deceased loved one made the subject of Internet spectacle.⁴⁸

⁴⁶ Monell v. Department of Social Services, 436 U.S. 658 (1978).

⁴⁷ Monell v. Department of Social Services, 436 U.S. 658 (1978).

⁴⁸ Catsouras v. Department of CHP, 181 Cal. App. 4th 856 (2010).

14.15 Section 1983 Civil Rights Violations

“1983” civil lawsuits are based on Federal code 42 U.S.C. § 1983. It is a common lawsuit and provides citizens with a remedy for violations of constitutionally protected rights.

Even if there is no real “damage” you may still be sued. For example, during a knock and talk you notice the garage door is open and without consent you enter and knock on the garage’s interior door. This is a clear violation of the Fourth Amendment (warrantless entry), yet a court may award $1 in nominal damages. But his attorney may get “reasonable attorney’s fees” and that could cost your agency tens of thousands of dollars.

LEGAL STANDARD

A § 1983 civil rights suit may be commenced if:

- You violated a constitutionally or federally protected right; and
- You were acting under the color of law (i.e., you were on duty).

CASE EXAMPLES

Probable cause is absolute defense for false arrest

Probable cause is an absolute defense to any claim under § 1983 for wrongful arrest or false imprisonment.⁴⁹

A violation of the law may still be actionable under § 1983

Thirteen police officer made a warrantless entry into suspects home in the middle of the night, ransacked his house, and took him to the station house for questioning. Even though this violated state law, the officers were still held liable for a constitutional rights violation.⁵⁰

14.16 Section 242 Criminal Charges

If you intentionally violate a person’s constitutionally or federally protected rights, you may be charged criminally under 18 U.S.C. § 242. Under a § 1983 suit, the plaintiff does not need to prove intent, here, he does. That’s why the DOJ reserves these actions for the most egregious bad actors.

Remember Rodney King? Initially the LAPD cops were charged under state criminal statutes and were acquitted. That’s when the DOJ came in and convicted the officers under § 242. Not good.

⁴⁹ Bailey v. City of Chicago, 779 F.3d 689 (7th Cir. Ill. 2015).

⁵⁰ Monroe v. Pape, 365 U.S. 167 (1961).

 LEGAL STANDARD

The federal government may file a criminal charge if:

- You intentionally violate a person’s constitutionally or federally protected rights; and
- You were acting under the color of law (i.e., you were on duty).

 CASE EXAMPLES

Koon v. United States

“On August 4, 1992, a federal grand jury indicted the four officers under 18 U.S.C. § 242, charging them with violating King’s constitutional rights under color of law. Powell, Briseno, and Wind were charged with willful use of unreasonable force in arresting King. Koon was charged with willfully permitting the other officers to use unreasonable force during the arrest. After a trial in United States District Court for the Central District of California, the jury convicted Koon and Powell but acquitted Wind and Briseno.”⁵¹

14.17 Bringing Non-Essential Personnel Into the Home

Generally, you may not take non-essential personnel into an area protected by the Fourth Amendment, particularly a home.

 LEGAL STANDARD

It is a constitutional violation if:

- You entered a constitutional protected area (e.g., home); and
- You invited non-essential personnel (e.g., media) without consent.

 CASE EXAMPLES

Bringing media into the home is a violation

“It is a violation of [Fourth Amendment] for police to bring members of the media or other third parties into a home” while police perform their duties.⁵²

Evidence will not be excluded if media violate this rule

A Guam Police Department search warrant resulted in one of the largest busts of stolen items in Guam’s history. The “woefully inadequate” management of the search of the residence attracted members of the media and victims who came to claim their property while the two-day execution of the warrant was ongoing.

⁵¹ Koon v. U.S., 518 U.S. 81 (1996).

⁵² Wilson v. Layne, 526 U.S. 603 (1999).

Although the conduct of the search was highly questionable, given the participation of the public and the media, the district court did not err by deciding not to exclude the stolen items, drugs, and other paraphernalia found in the compound.⁵³

14.18 Qualified Immunity

You work in a dynamic and unpredictable environment. Therefore, you encounter situations where you are tasked to solve unique problems despite no direct training or case law to guide them. Qualified immunity protects you whenever you venture into constitutionally uncharted territories.

LEGAL STANDARD

Even if a constitutional violation occurred and evidence is suppressed under the exclusionary rule, there is no § 1983 violation when:

- You violated a constitutionally or federally right; but
- That right was not clearly established at the time of the violation.

CASE EXAMPLES

Officer that attempted knock and talk on side door, versus front door, entitled to qualified immunity

It is an open, undecided issue, with authority going both ways, as to whether it is lawful for an officer to conduct a “knock and talk” at other than the front door. A trooper was sued by homeowners because he knocked on a side door, instead of the front door. The Supreme Court determined that the officer was entitled to qualified immunity in that the issue is the subject of conflicting authority.⁵⁴

No qualified immunity for prison guard who obviously violated rights

Guard who handcuffed shirtless prisoner to hitching post as punishment not eligible for qualified immunity since it obviously violated the Fourth Amendment.⁵⁵

Chapter 15

Legal Checklists

15.1 Consensual Encounters

15.1.1 Generally

A consensual encounter does not violate the Fourth Amendment when:

- ✓ A reasonable person would believe he was free to leave or otherwise terminate the encounter. In other words, a reasonable person would have believed he was not detained or restrained.

15.1.2 Knock and Talks

Knock and talks are lawful when:

- ✓ The path used to reach the door does not violate curtilage and appears available for uninvited guests to use;
- ✓ If the house has multiple doors, you chose the door reasonably believed to be available for uninvited guests to make contact with an occupant;
- ✓ You used typical, non-intrusive methods to contact the occupant, including making contact during a socially acceptable time;
- ✓ Your conversation with the occupant remained consensual; and
- ✓ When the conversation ended or was terminated, you immediately left and did not snoop around.

15.1.3 Investigative Activities During Consensual Encounter

Questioning

Questioning a person does not convert a consensual encounter into an investigative detention as long as:

- ✓ Your questions are not overly accusatory in a manner that would make a reasonable person believe they were being detained for criminal activity.

Identification

Asking a person for identification does not convert a consensual encounter into an investigative detention as long as:

- ✓ The identification is requested, not demanded; and
- ✓ You returned the identification as soon as practicable, otherwise a reasonable person may no longer feel free to leave.

Consent to search

Asking a person for consent to search does not convert the encounter into an investigative detention as long as:

- ✓ The person's consent was freely and voluntarily given;
- ✓ He has apparent authority to give consent to search the area or item; and
- ✓ You did not exceed the scope provided, express or implied.

15.1.4 Asking for Identification

Asking a person for identification does not convert a consensual encounter into an investigative detention as long as:

- ✓ The identification is requested, not demanded; and
- ✓ You return the identification as soon as practicable, otherwise a reasonable person may no longer feel free to leave.

15.1.5 Removing Hands from Pockets

Asking a person to remove his hands from his pockets does not convert a consensual encounter into an investigative detention as long as:

- ✓ You requested that he remove his hands from his pockets; and
- ✓ You did it for officer safety purposes.

Ordering a person to remove his hands from his pockets may not convert a consensual encounter into an investigative detention if:

- ✓ You had a legitimate safety reason for ordering it; and
- ✓ You articulate that ordering the person to remove his hands was a minimal intrusion of his freedom.

15.1.6 Transporting to Police Station

You may voluntarily transport a person in a police vehicle. However, if the person is a suspect to a crime and you are transporting the person for an interview, remember:

- ✓ Make it clear to the person that he is not under arrest;
- ✓ Seek consent to pat down the suspect for weapons, if the pat down is denied, do not pat down and you probably should not transport.

15.1.7 Consent to Search

Asking a person for consent to search does not convert the encounter into an investigative detention as long as:

- ✓ The person's consent was freely and voluntarily given;
- ✓ He had apparent authority to give consent to search the area or item; and
- ✓ You did not exceed the scope provided, express or implied.

15.1.8 Third-Party Consent

Spouses and Co-Occupants:

Spouses or co-occupants may consent to search inside a home if:

- ✓ The person has apparent authority;

- ✓ Consent is only given for common areas, areas under his exclusive control, or areas or things the person has authorized access to; and
- ✓ A non-consenting spouse or co-occupant with the same or greater authority is not present.

15.1.9 Articulating Greater Authority

An occupant with greater authority over the premises may consent to search over areas either under his exclusive control or common areas if:

- ✓ The co-occupant had greater authority over the area searched;
- ✓ You did not enter or walk through any area where the non-consenting occupant had equal or greater authority;
- ✓ You did not search any property under the exclusive control of the non-consenting occupant; and
- ✓ Your search did not exceed the scope provided by the consenting occupant.

15.1.10 Mistaken Authority to Consent

If you mistakenly receive consent from a person who had “apparent authority,” courts will employ a three-part analysis to determine if your mistake was reasonable:

- ✓ Did you believe some untrue fact;
- ✓ Was it objectively reasonable for you to believe that the fact was true under the circumstances at the time; and
- ✓ If it was true would the consent giver have had actual authority.

15.2 Investigative Detentions

15.2.1 Reasonable Suspicion Defined

Reasonable suspicion exists when:

- ✓ You can articulate facts and circumstances that would lead a reasonable officer to believe the suspect is, or is about to be involved in criminal activity;
- ✓ If your suspicions are dispelled, the person must be immediately released or the stop converted into a consensual encounter.

15.2.2 Detaining a Suspect

A suspect may be detained when:

- ✓ You can articulate facts and circumstances that would lead a reasonable officer to believe the suspect has, is, or is about to be involved in criminal activity;
- ✓ You use the minimal amount of force necessary to detain a cooperative suspect;
- ✓ Once the stop is made, you must diligently pursue a means of investigation that will confirm or dispel your suspicions;
- ✓ If your suspicions are dispelled, the person must be immediately released or the stop converted into a consensual encounter.

15.2.3 Duration of Detentions

The duration of an investigative detention is determined by these factors:

- ✓ Once the stop is made, you must diligently pursue a means of investigation that will confirm or dispel your suspicions;
- ✓ If your suspicions are dispelled, the person must be immediately released or the stop converted into a consensual encounter.

15.2.4 Investigative Techniques

You may conduct investigative techniques in the field when:

- ✓ The suspect is still lawfully detained; and
- ✓ The technique employed is minimally intrusive.

You may demand identification if:

- ✓ The suspect is still lawfully detained;
- ✓ You need the identification to pursue your investigation;
- ✓ However, many states do not allow an arrest for only refusing to identify. Check state law; and
- ✓ And failure to identify is an arrestable offense under applicable state law.

You may capture a suspects fingerprints in the field when:

- ✓ You have reason to believe fingerprints may have been left at the scene;
- ✓ Minimally intrusive means were used to recover the suspect's fingerprints; and
- ✓ The fingerprints will aid your investigation after the suspect is released or during the detention (e.g., mobile fingerprint reader).

15.2.5 Identifications in the Field

A suspect may be required to participate in solo in-field "show-up" if:

- ✓ The procedure is not overly suggestive of guilt (e.g., not surrounding suspect with cops, if safe, removing handcuffs, and not telling the witness that the suspect is the perpetrator).

15.2.6 Unprovoked Flight

A suspect that flees upon seeing you may be detained if:

- ✓ You are patrolling a high-crime area;
- ✓ Upon seeing you or a readily-apparent police vehicle, the suspect suddenly, and without provocation;
- ✓ Engages in a headlong flight commensurate with evasion; and
- ✓ You use a reasonable amount of force necessary to detain the suspect.

15.2.7 Detentions Based on Anonymous Tip

A suspect may be detained based an anonymous tip if:

- ✓ The tip had an indicia of reliability; and

- ✓ The tip was sufficiently corroborated to show that the caller had information not readily available to the general public.
- ✓ Anonymous tips to 911 are presumed reliable if the caller may be identified through subscriber information.

15.2.8 Handcuffing and Use of Force

If a suspect fights or flees during an investigative detention, then:

- ✓ You may use a reasonable amount of force to detain the suspect;
- ✓ The suspect's flight upon a lawful order to stop, or a battery upon an officer, may be probable cause to arrest; and
- ✓ Deadly force cannot be used to detain a suspect, unless the suspect poses a deadly force threat to you or others.

Handcuffing a suspect is appropriate when:

- ✓ The suspect appears to be a flight risk; or
- ✓ The suspect appears to be a danger to himself or others.
- ✓ Handcuffs are removed when no longer justified.

15.2.9 Detaining Victims or Witnesses

A witness may be detained if:

- ✓ He is a material witness for your investigation;
- ✓ The detention should last no longer than necessary to determine his identification and whether he's willing to cooperate with your investigation;
- ✓ If the witness is uncooperative, identify and release. Contact your prosecutor and get advice on how to proceed.

15.2.10 Pat down for Weapons

A suspect may be frisked for weapons under the following circumstances:

- ✓ If the suspect is lawfully or unlawfully armed with a weapon, the weapon may be secured and a pat down of outer clothing conducted for additional weapons;
- ✓ If no weapon is visible, and you believe the suspect is armed and dangerous, a pat down of outer clothing may be conducted; or
- ✓ If the suspect was stopped for a violent crime or one involving weapons, a pat down may usually be conducted.

15.2.11 Pat down Based on Anonymous Tip

A suspect may be frisked based an anonymous tip if:

- ✓ The call states or implies that the suspect is engaged in criminal activity;
- ✓ The tip indicates the suspect is armed and dangerous;
- ✓ The tip had an indicia of reliability; and
- ✓ The tip was sufficiently corroborated to show that the caller had information not readily available to the general public.

15.2.12 Plain Touch Doctrine

Evidence or contraband discovered during a frisk is admissible if:

- ✓ Your frisk was lawfully conducted and limited to weapons;
- ✓ When you felt the item, it was immediately apparent that the item was contraband or evidence of a crime; and
- ✓ You did not build probable cause by manipulating the item.

15.2.13 Involuntary Transportation

Police may not involuntarily transport a suspect away from the location where he was stopped unless:

- ✓ You have legitimate exigent circumstances (rare). Involuntary transportation without exigency is an arrest, requiring probable cause.

15.3 Arrests

15.3.1 Entry into Home with Arrest Warrant

Entry into a home based on an arrest warrant is lawful when:

- ✓ You have probable cause that this is the suspect's home, and not a third-party's home (get a search warrant for third-party homes);
- ✓ You have reason to believe the suspect is home;
- ✓ You knock and announce;
- ✓ If articulated, protective sweeps are permissible; and
- ✓ You may look for the suspect in people-sized places, but not search for evidence, but plain view seizure applies.

15.3.2 Warrantless Entry to Make Arrest

A warrantless entry into a home to make an arrest may be made under five circumstances:

Consent:

- ✓ You may enter if you have consent from an occupant with apparent authority over the premises and you make known your intention to arrest the suspect.

Hot Pursuit:

- ✓ You are in hot pursuit of a suspect believed to have committed an arrestable offense, you have some form of exigency, and he runs into a home (a surround and call-out may also be done for officer safety purposes).

Fresh Pursuit:

- ✓ You are in fresh pursuit of the suspect after investigating a serious violent crime and quickly trace the suspect back to his home.

Suspect will Escape:

- ✓ You have probable cause that the suspect committed a serious violent crime, and you reasonably believe he will escape before obtaining a warrant.

Undercover Officer - Immediate Reentry with Arrest Team

- ✓ You are an undercover officer and conduct a narcotics transaction inside the home, you may leave and immediately reenter with an arrest team when two conditions are met: First, there must be a legitimate officer safety reason why you had to leave first, instead of summoning the arrest team into the home; and you must re-enter as soon as reasonably safe to do so.

Remember for all Uninvited Entries:

- ✓ Knock and announce rules apply; and
- ✓ You cannot search for evidence, but may make a plain view seizure.

15.3.3 Private Searches

Whether a private search becomes a government search depends on three factors:¹

- ✓ Did you encourage direct or participate in the search or seizure? And,
- ✓ Did the private person conduct the search with the intent to help police or discover evidence? If so,
- ✓ Did you exceed the scope of the private search?

The first two factors must both be present for a private search to turn into a government search. The third factor will turn a private search into an unreasonable government search.

15.3.4 Collective Knowledge Doctrine

The collective knowledge has two requirements:

- ✓ The officers must be involved in the same investigation, but may be from different departments (i.e., task forces); and
- ✓ Officers must be in communication with each other related to the investigation.

15.3.5 Meaning of “Committed in the Officer’s Presence?”

An offense is committed within the officer’s presence when:

- ✓ You observed or experienced an essential element of the crime through one of your senses, namely sight, smell, hearing, or touch.

15.3.6 Identifications

Photo Arrays

A photo array (e.g., “six pack”) may be done at any time, without probable cause, and without notifying a suspect’s court-appointed counsel if:

- ✓ You minimized suggestive influences.
- ✓ You should perform double-blind line-up (i.e., officer providing pictures to witness does not know who the suspect is); and

- ✓ You should show the witness one photo at a time, not all at once. This is called absolute certainty versus relative certainty.

Physical Line-Ups

A suspect may be required to participate in a physical line-up if:

- ✓ You minimized suggestive influences;
- ✓ The suspect consents to the line-up or is lawfully arrested; and
- ✓ If the suspect has been arraigned, indicted, or appointed counsel, the attorney must be notified and allowed to attend, but not control, the line-up.

In-Field Show-Up

A suspect may be required to participate in solo in-field “show-up” if:

- ✓ You minimized suggestive influences (e.g., not surrounding suspect with cops, if safe, removing handcuffs, and not telling the witness that the suspect is the culprit).

15.3.7 Protective Sweeps

A protective sweep may be made inside a home during an arrest under the following conditions:

- ✓ Zone 1: You may search the immediate vicinity where the suspect has access to weapons, evidence, or means of escape;
- ✓ Zone 2: You may search for people in people-sized places in adjacent areas where the arrest occurs; and
- ✓ Zone 3: If you have reasonable suspicion that dangerous confederates are in the house, you may search for people in people-sized places and detain the confederates until the arrest is completed.

15.3.8 When to Unarrest a Suspect

An in-custody suspect must be released:

- ✓ If you discover new evidence that clearly eliminates probable cause the suspect must be released; or
- ✓ If you already booked the suspect, you must notify the prosecutor in writing.

An in-custody suspect may be release when:

- ✓ You made the arrest with the intent to book the suspect; and
- ✓ You learned of new facts or circumstances that warrant releasing the suspect with a citation or warning.
- ✓ Remember, you may not use an arrest-and-release as loophole to search the suspect without consent, exigency, or a search warrant.

15.3.9 Attempt to Swallow Drugs

When a suspect is arrested and unsecured, his vehicle may be searched if:

- ✓ The suspect is within the lunge distance of the vehicle;
- ✓ You reasonably believe the suspect may gain access to inside the vehicle; and
- ✓ You may search for weapons, evidence, and a means of escape.

When a suspect is arrested and secured, his vehicle may be searched if:

- ✓ You have reason to believe evidence of the crime for which he was arrested may be inside the vehicle;
- ✓ You do not exceed the scope of search necessary to find the evidence; and
- ✓ When you no longer have reason to believe evidence of the crime is inside the vehicle, the search must end unless you develop additional probable cause to search for something else.

15.4 Vehicles

15.4.1 Community Caretaking Stops

A vehicle may be stopped if:

- ✓ You have a reason to believe one of the occupants needs police or medical assistance; and
- ✓ Once you determine that no further assistance is required, the occupant must be left alone.

15.4.2 Reasonable Suspicion Stops

A vehicle and its occupants may be detained if:

- ✓ You can articulate facts and circumstances that would lead a reasonable officer to believe that one of the occupants has, is, or is about to be involved in criminal activity;
- ✓ Once the stop is made, you must diligently pursue a means of investigation that will confirm or dispel your suspicions;
- ✓ If your suspicions are dispelled, the occupants must be immediately released or the stop converted into a consensual encounter.

15.4.3 Controlling Passengers

Any occupant inside a vehicle may be ordered to stay, or exit vehicle if:

- ✓ The stop was based on reasonable suspicion or probable cause; and
- ✓ You can articulate any legitimate reason (i.e., officer safety or need to interview separately).

15.4.4 Consent to Search Vehicle

A person may consent to search a vehicle if:

- ✓ It is reasonable to believe the driver or occupant has authority to consent to the search;
- ✓ The consent is freely and voluntarily given; and

- ✓ Your search did not exceed the scope of the consent provided, whether express or implied.

15.4.5 Searching Vehicle and Occupants for Weapons

Any occupant may be frisked for weapons if:

- ✓ You can articulate that the occupant is armed and dangerous;
- ✓ You may only pat down the suspect's outer clothing; and
- ✓ A frisk may include inside the passenger compartment, including containers, where a weapon may be retrieved.

15.4.6 K9 Sniff Around Vehicle

If no reasonable suspicion exists that drug evidence is inside the vehicle, then:

- ✓ You may conduct a free-air sniff around the vehicle as long as there is no break in the investigation that led to the stop; and
- ✓ The free-air sniff must not extend the stop.

If reasonable suspicion exists that drug evidence is inside the vehicle, then:

- ✓ You may continue to detain the vehicle for a reasonable amount of time for a drug canine to arrive on scene; and
- ✓ You may conduct a free-air sniff around the vehicle, but may not make a physical intrusion in or on the vehicle without probable cause.

15.4.7 Searching Vehicle Incident to Arrest

When a suspect is arrested and unsecured, his vehicle may be searched if:

- ✓ The suspect is within the lunge distance of the vehicle;
- ✓ You reasonably believe the suspect may gain access to inside the vehicle; and
- ✓ You may search for weapons, evidence, and a means of escape.

When a suspect is arrested and secured, his vehicle may be searched if:

- ✓ You have reason to believe evidence of the crime for which he was arrested may be inside the vehicle;
- ✓ You do not exceed the scope of search necessary to find the evidence; and
- ✓ When you no longer have reason to believe evidence of the crime is inside the vehicle, the search must end unless you develop additional probable cause to search for something else.

15.4.8 Searching Vehicle with Probable Cause

A vehicle may be searched without a warrant if:

- ✓ You have probable cause that contraband or evidence is inside the vehicle;
- ✓ You have lawful access to the vehicle (i.e., not within curtilage or in a backyard);
- ✓ The vehicle appears to be readily mobile (e.g., can be mobile with little to no repair); and
- ✓ Your search does not exceed the scope of the probable cause.

15.4.9 Inventories

A vehicle may be inventoried when:

- ✓ Your agency has an inventory policy which minimizes your discretion;
- ✓ Your primary reason you are towing the vehicle is legitimate and not simply a loophole to search a vehicle for criminal evidence;
- ✓ The policy describes what may be searched and inventoried; and
- ✓ It's recommended you articulate a legitimate community caretaking rationale such as blocking traffic, illegally parked, no license or registration, or risk of theft or vandalism.

15.4.10 Constructive Possession

Multiple occupants may be charged for constructively possessing contraband when:

- ✓ You articulate that there was at least a fair probability that the arrested occupant knew contraband was inside the vehicle; and
- ✓ The occupant had the ability to possess the contraband in the past, present, or future.

15.5 Homes

15.5.1 Knock and Talks

Knock and talks are lawful when:

- ✓ The path used to reach the door does not violate curtilage and appears available for uninvited guests to use;
- ✓ If the house has multiple doors, you chose the door reasonably believed to be available for uninvited guests to make contact with an occupant;
- ✓ You used typical, non-intrusive methods to contact the occupant, including making contact during a socially-acceptable time;
- ✓ Your conversation with the occupant remained consensual; and
- ✓ When the conversation ended or was terminated, you immediately left and did not snoop around.

15.5.2 Curtilage

Whether an area around a home is curtilage, protected by the Fourth Amendment, depends on weighing four factors:

- ✓ The proximity of the area to the home itself (closer the better);
- ✓ Whether the area is included within a single enclosure, natural or artificial, surrounding the home;
- ✓ The use of the area (e.g., BBQ pit, pool, kid's toys, etc.);
- ✓ Steps taken by the resident to protect the area from observations by people passing by (built high wooden fence, guard dog, etc.).

15.5.3 Plain View, Hearing, Smell

Evidence may be seized if:

- ✓ Your protective sweep was lawful;
- ✓ You had probable cause the item was evidence, contraband, fruits, or instrumentalities of a crime (i.e., what courts refer to as “immediately apparent”);
- ✓ You had lawful access to the item.

15.5.4 Consent to Search by Co-Occupants

Spouses and Co-Occupants

Spouses or co-occupants may consent to search inside a home if:

- ✓ The person has apparent authority;
- ✓ Consent is only given for common areas, areas under his exclusive control, or areas or things the person has authorized access to; and
- ✓ A non-consenting spouse or co-occupant with the same or greater authority is not present.

Articulating Greater Authority

An occupant with greater authority over the premises may consent to search over areas either under his exclusive control or common areas if:

- ✓ The co-occupant had greater authority over the area searched;
- ✓ You did not enter or walk through any area where the non-consenting occupant had equal or greater authority;
- ✓ You did not search any property under the exclusive control of the non-consenting occupant; and
- ✓ Your search did not exceed the scope provided by the consenting occupant.

15.5.5 Protective Sweeps

A protective sweep may be made inside a home during an arrest under the following conditions:

- ✓ Zone 1: You may search the immediate vicinity where the suspect has access to weapons, evidence, or means of escape;
- ✓ Zone 2: You may search for people in people-sized places in adjacent areas where the arrest occurs; and
- ✓ Zone 3: If you have reasonable suspicion that dangerous confederates are in the house, you may search for people in people-sized places and detain the confederates until the arrest is completed.

15.5.6 Warrantless Entry for Emergency

A warrantless entry into a home may be made when:

- ✓ You have reason to believe an immediate need exists for the protection of human life or protect property;

- ✓ The search or entry is primarily motivated by the emergency, rather than by an intent to arrest or secure evidence, There is a reasonable connection between the emergency and the actions conducted by law enforcement;
- ✓ Knock and announce rules apply; and
- ✓ You cannot search for evidence, but may make a plain view seizure.

15.5.7 Warrantless Entry to Prevent the Destruction of Evidence

A warrantless entry into a home or business may be made if:

- ✓ You have probable cause that an occupant is or is about to destroy evidence or contraband;
- ✓ You did not create the exigency;
- ✓ Once the home is secured, you must get a warrant;
- ✓ Knock and announce rules apply; and
- ✓ You cannot search for evidence, but may make a plain view seizure (or quickly photograph, leave it, and attach photo to affidavit).

15.5.8 Impounding a Home in Anticipation of Warrant

A residence may be impounded in anticipation of a search warrant when:

- ✓ You have clear probable cause to get a search warrant;
- ✓ You have additional probable cause that the evidence or contraband will be destroyed or moved prior to executing the search warrant;
- ✓ You may not enter the residence unless you have a reason to believe the home is occupied;
- ✓ You must diligently apply for the warrant;
- ✓ Knock and announce rules apply; and
- ✓ You cannot search for evidence, but may make a plain view seizure.

15.6 Personal Property

15.6.1 Searching Containers

A container seized with probable cause that it contains contraband or evidence may not be searched without a warrant unless:

- ✓ Someone with apparent authority gave you consent to search; or
- ✓ The container was seized from a vehicle; or
- ✓ The container's contents were obvious under the single purpose container doctrine; or
- ✓ The container was in the suspect's possession and searched incident to arrest; or
- ✓ You conducted a legitimate inventory; or
- ✓ The container was searched under the community caretaking doctrine; or
- ✓ You had exigent circumstances.

15.6.2 Searching Abandoned or Lost Property

A container is considered abandoned when:

- ✓ Based on the totality of the circumstances, a reasonable person would believe that it was intentionally abandoned; or
- ✓ Based on the totality of the circumstances, it appears the container was inadvertently abandoned, but the container's owner would not have a reasonable expectation of privacy that a member of the general public, including a police officer, would not search it; and
- ✓ If the container was inadvertently abandoned (e.g., accidentally left at the crime scene), your scope of search was similar to what a member of the public could have done (e.g., no forensic analysis).

15.7 Interview & Interrogation

15.7.1 When Miranda is Required

Miranda rights are required when:

- ✓ A person is in-custody (i.e., arrested); and
- ✓ You are interrogating him (i.e., "Tell me why you committed this crime").

15.7.2 Miranda Elements

Miranda requires the suspect to understand the following rights:

- ✓ He has the right to remain silent;
- ✓ That any statements made may be used against him in court;
- ✓ That he has the right to consult with an attorney and to have that attorney present during questioning;
- ✓ That if he cannot afford an attorney, one will be appointed to represent him prior to questioning; and
- ✓ The suspect must knowingly and intelligently waive rights.

15.7.3 Miranda inside Jail and Prison

Jail inmates:

- ✓ You should read pre-convicted jail inmates their Miranda rights.

Prison inmates:

- ✓ You are not required to read a prison inmate his Miranda rights because he is not typically considered "in-custody" because the prison is his "home."

15.7.4 Ambiguous Invocations

A Miranda invocation is valid if:

- ✓ A suspect invoked his right to silence or counsel in an unambiguous manner;

- ✓ In other words, the suspect must say, write, or do something that an objectively reasonable person would clearly know was intended as an invocation, not merely a question or verbalized inner-thoughts.

15.7.5 Suspect Invoked, Now What?

If a suspect invokes his right to remain silent:

- ✓ All questioning must immediately cease;
- ✓ You may try to question him after an appropriate “cooling off” period. In one case, the Supreme Court found a two-hour period sufficient.

If a suspect invokes his right to counsel:

- ✓ All questioning must immediately cease;
- ✓ There is no “cooling off” period and counsel must be present before further questioning;
- ✓ If suspect is released from jail, then his previous invocation is valid for fourteen days from the day he’s released. This right is not “crime” specific—all questioning must cease.

15.7.6 Suspect Invoked, Now Wants to Talk

A suspect is allowed to revoke his previous invocation if:

- ✓ The decision to revoke the invocation was made freely by the suspect and not because of undue police influence;
- ✓ The suspect wanted to open up a general discussion about the crime, as opposed to merely asking questions about routine matters regarding his custody; and
- ✓ You reread Miranda and obtained an express waiver.

15.7.7 Public Safety Exception

An in-custody suspect may be interrogated without Miranda if:

- ✓ You ask about legitimate public safety concerns (e.g., Where did you toss the gun near the school?);
- ✓ You do not ask “why” type questions, but instead focus on pressing public safety concerns;
- ✓ Once the public safety questions have been handled, Miranda will be required for further questioning.

(ii) A person whose driver's license is revoked under this subdivision (a)(2)(D) is required to install a functioning ignition interlock device on his or her motor vehicle under § 5-65-118(a)(1)(B) if the person regains his or her driver's license.

(3) If a person is a resident who is convicted of driving without a license or permit to operate a motor vehicle or motorboat and the underlying basis for the suspension, revocation, or restriction of the license or permit was for a violation of § 5-65-103, in addition to any other penalties provided for under law, the court may restrict the offender to an ignition interlock restricted license for a period of one (1) year prior to the reinstatement or reissuance of a license or permit after the person would otherwise be eligible for reinstatement or reissuance of the person's license or permit.

by the Division of Aging, Adult, and Behavioral Health Services of the Department of Human Services unless the charges are dismissed or the person is acquitted of the charges upon which the suspension or revocation is based.

(B) If during the period of suspension or revocation under subdivision (b)(1)(A) of this section the person commits an additional violation of § 5-65-103, he or she is also required to complete an approved alcohol education program or alcohol treatment program for each additional violation, unless:

- (i) The additional charges are dismissed; or

(2) The office may issue an ignition interlock restricted license to the person only after the person has verified installation of a functioning ignition interlock device to the office in any motor vehicle the person intends to operate, except for an exemption allowed under § 5-65-123(f).

(3) The office shall establish:

(A) A specific calibration setting no lower than two hundredths of one percent (0.02%) nor more than five hundredths of one percent (0.05%) of alcohol in the person's blood at which the ignition interlock device will prevent the motor vehicle's being started; and

(b) The office shall do the following after restricting a person's driving by requiring the use of an ignition interlock device:

(1) (A) State on the record the requirement for and the period of use of the ignition interlock device.

(B) However, if the office restricts the person to using an ignition interlock device in conjunction with the issuance of an ignition interlock restricted license under § 5-65-104, the time the person is required to use the ignition interlock device shall be until the original suspension imposed under § 5-65-104 has been completed;

(2) Ensure that the records of the office reflect that the person may not operate a motor vehicle that is not equipped with an ignition interlock device;

(3) Attach or imprint a notation on the driver's license of a person restricted under this section stating that the person may operate a motor vehicle only if it is equipped with an ignition interlock device;

(4) Require that the person restricted under this section show proof of installation of a certified ignition interlock device prior to the issuance of an ignition interlock restricted license by the office under § 5-65-104;

(5) (A) Require both proof of the installation of an ignition interlock device and periodic reporting by the person for verification of the proper operation of the ignition interlock device.

(B) Proof of the installation of the ignition interlock device for the entire period required by law shall be provided before the person's driving privileges are reinstated;

(6) Require the person to have the ignition interlock device serviced and monitored at least every sixty-seven (67) days for proper use and accuracy by an entity approved by the Department of Health; and

(7) (A) Require the person to pay the reasonable cost of leasing or buying and monitoring and maintaining the ignition interlock device.

(B) The office may establish a payment schedule for the reasonable cost of leasing or buying and monitoring and maintaining the ignition interlock device.

(c) If the person whose driving privilege is restricted under this section cannot provide proof of installation of a functioning ignition interlock device to the office under subsection (a) of this section, the office shall not issue an ignition interlock restricted license as authorized under this section.

(d) The office shall revoke the ignition interlock restricted license and reinstate a driving privilege suspension for the term of the original driving privilege suspension if it finds that a person has violated § 5-65-123.

(e) A person who has had his or her driving privilege suspended or revoked under § 5-65-104 who would otherwise be eligible to obtain an ignition interlock restricted license may petition the office for a hearing, and the office may issue an ignition interlock restricted license as authorized under §§ 5-65-104 and 5-65-205.

(f) (1) The department shall:

(A) Certify the ignition interlock devices for use in this state;

(B) Approve the entities that install and monitor the ignition interlock devices; and

(C) Adopt rules for the certification of the ignition interlock devices and ignition interlock device installation.

(2) The rules shall require an ignition interlock device, at a minimum, to:

(A) Not impede the safe operation of the motor vehicle;

(B) Minimize the opportunities to be bypassed;

(C) Work accurately and reliably in an unsupervised environment;

(D) Properly and accurately measure the person's blood alcohol levels;

(E) Minimize the inconvenience to a sober user; and

(F) Be manufactured by an entity that is responsible for installation, user training, and servicing and maintenance of the ignition interlock device, and that is capable of providing monitoring reports to the office.

(3) The department shall develop a warning label to be affixed to any ignition interlock device used in the state to warn any person of the possible penalties for tampering with or attempting to circumvent the ignition interlock device.

(4) The department shall:

(A) Publish and update a list of certified ignition interlock device manufacturers and approved ignition interlock device installers; and

(B) Periodically provide the list required by subdivision (f)(4)(A) of this section to the office.

(g) (1) A person who has violated § 5-65-103 for a first offense that requires the person's motor vehicle to be equipped with a functioning ignition interlock device under this section may petition the court with jurisdiction for a waiver of the requirement to install a functioning interlock device under this section.

(2) The court with jurisdiction may waive the requirement to install a functioning ignition interlock device under this section under the following conditions:

(A) The person is required to operate an employer's motor vehicle in the course and scope of employment and the business entity that owns the vehicle is not owned or controlled by the person;

5-65-204. Validity - Approved methods

(a) (1) As used in this chapter, § 5-10-105, and § 5-75-101 et seq., "alcohol concentration" means either:

(A) Grams of alcohol per one hundred milliliters (100 ml) or one hundred cubic centimeters (100 cc) of blood; or

(B) Grams of alcohol per two hundred ten liters (210 l) of breath.

(2) The alcohol concentration of urine, saliva, or other bodily substance is based upon grams of alcohol per one hundred milliliters (100 ml) or one hundred cubic centimeters (100 cc) of blood, the same being percent weight per volume or percent alcohol concentration.

(b) (1) (A) A chemical test made to determine the presence and amount of alcohol in a person's blood, urine, saliva, or breath to be considered valid under this chapter shall be performed according to a method approved by the Department of Health and State Board of Health or by an individual possessing a valid certificate issued by the department for this purpose.

(B) The department may:

(i) Approve satisfactory techniques or methods for the chemical test;

(ii) Ascertain the qualifications and competence of an individual to conduct the chemical test; and

(iii) Issue a certificate that is subject to termination or revocation at the discretion of the department.

(C) (i) An auxiliary law enforcement officer appointed as a reserve law enforcement officer and certified by the department in the operation of an instrument used to determine the alcohol content of the breath may operate an instrument used to determine the alcohol content of the breath under this chapter.

(ii) The department shall promulgate rules to implement subdivision (b)(1)(C)(i) of this section.

(2) However, a method of chemical analysis of a person's blood, urine, saliva, or other bodily substance made by the State Crime Laboratory for determining the presence of one (1) or more controlled substances or any intoxicant is exempt from approval by the department or the board.

(c) (1) Blood may be drawn by a person who is licensed, certified, or otherwise authorized by law to perform venous blood draws when a person consents to the procedure or when a warrant or court order has been issued to take a sample of the person's blood.

(2) When a blood sample is taken at the request of a law enforcement officer based on exigent circumstances, the blood may only be drawn by a physician or a licensed nurse.

(3) The limitations under subdivisions (c) (1) and (2) of this section do not apply to the taking of a breath, saliva, or urine specimen.

(d) (1) The person tested may have a physician or a qualified technician, registered nurse, or other qualified person of his or her own choice administer a complete chemical test in addition to any chemical test administered at the direction of a law enforcement officer.

(2) The law enforcement officer shall advise the person in writing of the right provided in subdivision (d)(1) of this section and that if the person chooses to have an additional chemical test and the person is found not guilty, the arresting law enforcement agency shall reimburse the person for the cost of the additional chemical test.

(3) The refusal or failure of a law enforcement officer to advise a person of the right provided in subdivision (d)(1) of this section and to permit and assist the person to obtain a chemical test under subdivision (d) (1) of this section precludes the admission of evidence relating to a chemical test taken at the direction of a law enforcement officer.

(e) Upon the request of the person who submits to a chemical test at the request of a law enforcement officer or because a warrant has been issued to take a sample of the person's blood, full information concerning the chemical test shall be made available to the person or to his or her attorney.

(f) (1) A person who is licensed, certified, or otherwise authorized by law to perform a venous blood draw and any institution or entity employing or using the services of the person is not liable for violating a criminal law of this state in connection with withdrawing blood at the request of a law enforcement officer under this chapter.

(2) A person who is licensed, certified, or otherwise authorized by law to perform a venous blood draw, and any institution or entity employing or using the services of the person is immune from civil and regulatory liability in connection with withdrawing blood at the request of a law enforcement officer under this chapter, unless the person is negligent in connection with the withdrawal of the blood.

(3) The immunity granted under this subsection is not conditioned upon the existence of express consent, probable cause, a search warrant, or a court order.

(1) A conviction for an offense of refusing to submit to a chemical test; and

(2) A suspension or revocation of driving privileges for an arrest for refusing to submit to a chemical test when the person was not subsequently acquitted of the criminal charge.

(B) The arresting law enforcement officer shall seize the license, permit, or other evidence of driving privilege surrendered by the arrested person or found on the arrested person during a search.

(C) (i) If a juvenile, as defined in the Arkansas Juvenile Code of 1989,

§ 9-27-301 et seq., is arrested for violating § 3-3-203(a) or § 5-27-503(a)(3), the arresting officer shall issue the juvenile a citation to appear for a juvenile intake with a juvenile intake officer.

(ii) The arresting officer shall forward a copy of the citation and the license, permit, or other evidence of the driving privilege to the juvenile office before the scheduled juvenile intake.

(iii) Juveniles subject to the jurisdiction of the circuit court under the Arkansas Juvenile Code of 1989, § 9-27-301 et seq., shall not be subject to this section, except as provided in this subdivision (a)(1).

(2) (A) (i) If the license, permit, or other evidence of driving privilege seized by the arresting law enforcement officer has not expired and otherwise appears valid to the arresting law enforcement officer, the arresting law enforcement officer shall issue to the arrested person a dated receipt for that license, permit, or other evidence of driving privilege on a form prescribed by the Office of Driver Services.

(ii) This receipt shall be recognized as a license and authorizes the arrested person to operate a motor vehicle for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days.

(B) (i) The receipt form shall contain and shall constitute a notice of suspension, disqualification, or revocation of driving privileges by the Office of Driver Services, effective in thirty (30) days, notice of the right to a hearing within twenty (20) days, and if a hearing is to be requested, as notice that the hearing request is required to be made within seven (7) calendar days of the notice being given.

(ii) The receipt form shall also contain phone numbers and the address of the Office of Driver Services and inform the driver of the procedure for requesting a hearing.

(C) If the Office of Driver Services is unable to conduct a hearing within the twenty-day period, a temporary permit shall be issued and is valid until the date of the hearing.

(D) (i) The seized license, permit, or other evidence of driving privilege and a copy of the receipt form issued to the arrested person shall be attached to the sworn report of the arresting law enforcement officer and shall be submitted by mail or in person to the Office of Driver Services or its designated representative within seven (7) days of the issuance of the receipt.

(ii) The failure of the arresting law enforcement officer to timely file the sworn report does not affect the authority of the Office of Driver Services to suspend, disqualify, or revoke the driving privilege of the arrested person.

(3) (A) Any notice from the Office of Driver Services required under this subchapter that is not personally delivered shall be sent by first class mail and is deemed to have been delivered on the date when postmarked and shall be sent to the last known address on file with the Office of Driver Services.

(B) Refusal of the addressee to accept delivery or attempted delivery of the notice at the address obtained by the arresting law enforcement officer or on file with the Office of Driver Services does not constitute nonreceipt of notice.

(C) For any notice that is personally delivered, the person shall be asked to sign a receipt acknowledging that he or she received the required notice.

(4) (A) The Office of Driver Services or its designated official shall suspend, revoke, or disqualify the driving privilege of an arrested person or any nonresident driving privilege of an arrested person when it receives a sworn report from the arresting law enforcement officer that he or she had reasonable grounds to believe the arrested person:

(i) Was under twenty-one (21) years of age and purchased or was in possession of intoxicating liquor, wine, or beer in violation of § 3-3-203(a);

(ii) Was under twenty-one (21) years of age and attempted to purchase an alcoholic beverage or use a fraudulent or altered personal identification document for the purpose of purchasing an alcoholic beverage illegally or other material or substance restricted to adult purchase or possession under existing law in violation of § 5-27-503(a)(3); or the arrested person was operating or in actual physical control of a motorboat on the waters of this state or motor vehicle in violation of § 5-65-103, § 5-65-303, or § 27-23-114; or

(b) A sworn report that the arrested person refused to submit to a chemical test of breath, saliva, or urine for the purpose of determining the alcohol concentration or controlled substance content of the arrested person's breath or blood in violation of § 5-65-205, § 5-65-310, or § 27-23-114(a)(5).

(B) The suspension, disqualification, or revocation shall be based as follows:

(i) The driving privileges of a person violating § 5-65-103 shall be suspended or revoked as provided by § 5-65-104;

(ii) The driving privileges of a person violating § 5-65-205(a) shall be suspended or revoked as provided by § 5-65-205(b);

(viii) The driving privileges of a person violating § 5-27-503(a)(3) shall be suspended, revoked, or disqualified as provided by § 5-27-503(d).

(5) In addition to any other penalty provided for in this section, if the arrested person is a resident without a license or permit to operate a motor vehicle in this state:

(A) The Office of Driver Services shall deny to that arrested person the issuance of a license or permit for a period of six (6) months for a first offense; and

(B) For a second or subsequent offense by a resident without a license or permit to operate a motor vehicle, the Office of Driver Services shall deny to that arrested person the issuance of a license or permit for a period of one (1) year.

(6) (A) (i) If the arrested person is a nonresident, the arrested person's driving privilege in Arkansas shall be suspended in the same manner as that of a resident.

(ii) The Office of Driver Services shall notify the office that issued the nonresident's driving privilege of the action taken by the Office of Driver Services.

(B) When the arrested person is a nonresident without a license or permit to operate a motor vehicle, the Office of Driver Services shall notify the office of issuance for that arrested person's state of residence of action taken by the Office of Driver Services.

(7) (A) Upon the written request of a person whose driving privilege has been revoked, denied, disqualified, or suspended, or who has received a notice of revocation, suspension, disqualification, or denial by the arresting law enforcement officer, the Office of Driver Services shall grant the person an opportunity to be heard if the request is received by the Office of Driver Services within seven (7) calendar days after the notice of the revocation, suspension, disqualification, or denial is given in accordance with this section or as otherwise provided in this chapter.

(B) A request described in subdivision (a)(7)(A) of this section does not operate to stay the revocation, suspension, disqualification, or denial by the Office of Driver Services until the disposition of the hearing.

(8) (A) The hearing shall be before the Office of Driver Services or its authorized agent, in the office of the Revenue Division of the Department of Finance and Administration nearest the county where the alleged event occurred for which the person was arrested, unless the Office of Driver Services or its authorized agent and the arrested person agree otherwise to the hearing's being held in some other county or that the Office of Driver Services or its authorized agent may schedule the hearing or any part of the hearing by telephone and conduct the hearing by telephone conference call.

(B) The hearing shall not be recorded.

(C) At the hearing, the burden of proof is on the state and the decision shall be based on a preponderance of the evidence.

(D) The scope of the hearing shall cover the issues of whether the arresting law enforcement officer had reasonable grounds to believe that the person:

(i) Had been operating or was in actual physical control of a motorboat on the waters of this state or a motor vehicle or commercial motor vehicle while:

(a) Intoxicated or impaired;

(b) The person's blood alcohol concentration measured by weight of alcohol in the person's blood was equal to or greater than the blood alcohol concentration prohibited by § 5-65-103(a)(2);

(c) The blood alcohol concentration of a person under twenty-one (21) years of age was equal to or greater than the blood alcohol concentration prohibited by § 5-65-303; or

(ii) Refused to submit to a chemical test of the breath, saliva, or urine for the purpose of determining the alcohol concentration or controlled substance content of the person's breath or blood and whether the person was placed under arrest;

(iii) Was under twenty-one (21) years of age and purchased or was in possession of any intoxicating liquor, wine, or beer; or

(iv) Was under twenty-one (21) years of age and attempted to purchase an alcoholic beverage or use a fraudulent or altered personal identification document for the purpose of purchasing an alcoholic beverage illegally or other material or substance restricted to adult purchase or possession under existing law.

(E) (i) The Office of Driver Services or its agent at the hearing shall consider any document submitted to the Office of Driver Services by the arresting law enforcement agency, document submitted by the arrested person, and the statement of the arrested person.

(ii) The Office of Driver Services shall not have the power to compel the production of documents or the attendance of witnesses.

(F) (i) If the revocation, suspension, disqualification, or denial is based upon a chemical test result indicating that the arrested person was intoxicated or impaired and a sworn report from the arresting law enforcement officer, the scope of the hearing shall also cover the issues as to whether:

(a) The arrested person was advised that his or her privilege to drive would be revoked, disqualified, suspended, or denied if the chemical test result reflected an alcohol concentration equal to or in excess of the amount by weight of blood provided by law or the presence of other intoxicating substances;

(b) The breath, blood, saliva, or urine specimen was obtained from the arrested person within the established and certified criteria of the Department of Health;

(c) The chemical testing procedure used was in accordance with existing rules; and

(d) The chemical test result in fact reflects an alcohol concentration, the presence of other intoxicating substances, or a combination of alcohol concentration or other intoxicating substance.

(ii) If the revocation, suspension, disqualification, or denial is based upon the refusal of the arrested person to submit to a chemical test as provided in § 5-65-205, § 5-65-310, or § 27-23-114(a)(5), reflected in a sworn report by the arresting law enforcement officer, the scope of the hearing shall also include whether:

(a) The arrested person refused to submit to the chemical test; and

(b) The arrested person was informed that his or her privilege to drive would be revoked, disqualified, suspended, or denied if the arrested person refused to submit to the chemical test.

(b) After the hearing, the Office of Driver Services or its authorized agent shall order the revocation, suspension, disqualification, or denial to be rescinded or sustained and shall then advise any person whose driving privilege is revoked, suspended, or denied that he or she may request a restricted permit as otherwise provided for by this chapter.

(c) (1) (A) A person adversely affected by the hearing disposition order of the Office of Driver Services or its authorized agent may file a de novo petition for review within thirty (30) days in the circuit court in the county in which the offense took place.

(B) A copy of the decision of the Office of Driver Services shall be attached to the petition.

(C) The petition shall be served on the Secretary of the Department of Finance and Administration under Rule 4 of the Arkansas Rules of Civil Procedure.

(2) (A) The filing of a petition for review does not stay or place in abeyance the decision of the Office of Driver Services or its authorized agent.

(B) If the circuit court issues an order staying the decision or placing the decision in abeyance, the circuit court shall transmit a copy of the order to the Office of Driver Services in the same manner that convictions and orders relating to driving records are sent to the Office of Driver Services.

(C) (i) The circuit court shall hold a final hearing on the de novo review within one hundred twenty (120) days after the date that the order staying the decision or placing the decision in abeyance is entered.

(ii) The circuit court may conduct the final hearing by telephone conference with the consent of the parties.

(3) An administrative hearing held under this section is exempt from the Arkansas Administrative Procedure Act, § 25-15-201 et seq.

(4) (A) On review, the circuit court shall hear the case de novo in order to determine based on a preponderance of the evidence whether a ground exists for revocation, suspension, disqualification, or denial of the person's privilege to drive.

(B) If the results of a chemical test of blood, breath, saliva, or urine are used as evidence in the suspension, revocation, or disqualification of the person's driving privilege, then § 5-65-206 shall apply in the circuit court proceeding.

(d) (1) A decision rendered at an administrative hearing held under this section shall have no effect on any criminal case arising from a violation of § 3-3-203(a), § 5-27-503(a)(3), § 5-65-103, § 5-65-205, § 5-65-303, § 5-65-310, § 27-23-114(a)(1), § 27-23-114(a)(2), or § 27-23-114(a)(5).

(2) Any decision rendered by a court of law for a criminal case arising from any violation of § 3-3-203(a), § 5-27-503(a)(3), § 5-65-103, § 5-65-205, § 5-65-303, § 5-65-310, § 27-23-114(a)(1), § 27-23-114(a)(2), or § 27-23-114(a)(5) shall affect the administrative suspension, disqualification, or revocation of the driving privilege as follows:

(A) A plea of guilty or nolo contendere or a finding of guilt by the court has no effect on an administrative hearing held under this section;

(B) (i) An acquittal on the charges or a dismissal of charges serves to reverse the suspension, disqualification, or revocation of the driving privilege suspended or revoked under this section.

(ii) The Office of Driver Services shall reinstate the person's driving privilege at no cost to the person, and the charges shall not be used to determine the number of previous offenses when administratively suspending, disqualifying, or revoking the driving privilege of an arrested person in the future; and

(C) The Office of Driver Services shall convert any initial administrative suspension or revocation of a driving privilege for violating § 5-65-103 to a suspension or revocation for violating § 5-65-303 if the person is convicted of violating § 5-65-303 instead of § 5-65-103.

(e) A person whose privilege to drive has been denied, suspended, disqualified, or revoked shall remain under the denial, suspension, disqualification, or revocation and remain subject to penalties as provided in § 5-65-105 until such time as that person applies for, and is granted by the Office of Driver Services, reinstatement of the privilege to drive.

(f) The administrative suspension, disqualification, or revocation of a driving privilege as provided for by this section is supplementary to and in addition to a suspension, disqualification, or revocation of a driving privilege that is ordered by a court of competent jurisdiction for an offense under §§ 5-64-710, 5-65-116 [repealed], and 27-16-914, or other traffic or criminal offense in which a suspension, disqualification, or revocation of the driving privilege is a penalty for the violation.

(g) (1) (A) A person whose driving privilege is suspended or revoked under this section shall:

(i) Both:

(a) Furnish proof of attendance at and completion of the alcoholism treatment program, alcohol education program, or alcohol and driving education program required by § 5-65-104(b)(1) or § 5-65-307(a)(1) and, if applicable, at a victim impact panel as provided in § 5-65-121 before reinstatement of his or her suspended or revoked driving privilege; and

(b) Pay a fee for reinstatement required under § 5-65-119, § 5-65-304, or, if applicable, § 5-65-121; or

(ii) Furnish proof of dismissal or acquittal of the charge on which the suspension or revocation is based.

(B) An application for reinstatement shall be made to the Office of Driver Services.

(2) Even if a person has filed a de novo petition for review under subsection (c) of this section, the person is entitled to reinstatement of driving privileges upon complying with this subsection and is not required to postpone reinstatement until the disposition of the de novo review in circuit court has occurred.

(3) A person whose driving privilege is suspended or revoked under this section may enroll in an alcohol education program prior to disposition of the offense by the circuit court or district court but is not entitled to a refund of a fee paid if the charge is dismissed or if the person is acquitted of the charge.

(h) Except as provided in subsection (a) of this section, this section shall not apply to juveniles subject to the Arkansas Juvenile Code of 1989, § 9-27-301 et seq.

(B) Submitted by mail or in person to the Secretary of the Department of Finance and Administration or his or her designated representative within seven (7) days of the issuance of the receipt.

(e) A notice from the Office of Driver Services required under this section that is not personally delivered shall be sent as provided by § 5-65-402.

(f) (1) If the arrested person is a nonresident, the arrested person's motor vehicle registration in Arkansas shall be suspended in the same manner as that of a resident.

(d) The procedures for forfeiture and disposition of the seized property are as follows:

(e) (1) Upon receipt of a petition complying with the requirements of subdivision (d)(1) of this section, the circuit court judge having jurisdiction shall issue an order to show cause setting forth a statement that this subchapter is the controlling law.

(2) In addition, the order shall set a date at least forty-one (41) days from the date of first publication of the order pursuant to subsection (f) of this section for all persons claiming an interest in the property to file such pleadings as they desire as to why the circuit court should not order the forfeiture of the property for use, sale, or other disposition by the law enforcement agency seeking forfeiture of the property.

(6) Any other factor the circuit court deems relevant.

(i) The final order of forfeiture by the circuit court shall perfect in the law enforcement agency right, title, and interest in and to the property and shall relate back to the date of the seizure.

(j) Physical seizure of property is not necessary in order to allege in a petition under this section that the property is forfeitable.

(k) Upon filing the petition, the prosecuting attorney for the judicial district may also seek a protective order to prevent the transfer, encumbrance, or other disposal of any property named in the petition.

(l) The law enforcement agency to which a motor vehicle is forfeited shall either:

(1) Sell the motor vehicle in accordance with subsection (m) of this section; or

(n) The proceeds of any sale and any moneys forfeited shall be applied to the payment of:

(1) The balance due on any lien preserved by the circuit court in the forfeiture proceedings;

(2) The cost incurred by the seizing law enforcement agency in connection with the storage, maintenance, security, and forfeiture of the property;

(3) The costs incurred by the prosecuting attorney or attorney for the law enforcement agency, approved by the prosecuting attorney, to which the property is forfeited; and

(4) Costs incurred by the circuit court.

(o) The remaining proceeds or moneys shall be deposited into a special county fund to be titled the "Juvenile Crime Prevention Fund", and the moneys in the fund shall be used solely for making grants to community-based nonprofit organizations that work with juvenile crime prevention and rehabilitation.

(p) (1) The law enforcement agency to which a firearm is forfeited may trade the firearm to a federally licensed firearms dealer for credit toward future purchases by the law enforcement agency.

(2) If the firearm is unable to be traded to a federally licensed firearms dealer, the law enforcement agency may dispose of the firearm as the law enforcement agency deems appropriate.

- (b) Automobile insurance maintained by the transportation network company.

(2) If insurance maintained by a driver under subdivision (a)(1)(B) or subdivision (a)(1)(C) of this section has lapsed or does not provide the required coverage, the insurance maintained by a transportation network company shall provide the coverage required under this subsection beginning with the first dollar of a claim, and the insurer has the duty to defend the claim.

(3) Coverage under an automobile insurance policy maintained by the transportation network company shall not be dependent on a personal automobile insurer's first denial of a claim, nor shall a personal automobile insurance policy be required to first deny a claim.

(4) Insurance required under this subsection may be placed with an insurer authorized to do business in this state or with a surplus-lines insurer eligible under § 23-65-305.

(5) Insurance that satisfies the requirements of this subsection shall be deemed to satisfy the financial responsibility requirement for a motor vehicle under § 27-22-101 et seq. and the Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Act, § 27-19-101 et seq.

(6) (A) A transportation network company driver shall carry proof of coverage satisfying subdivision (a)(1)(B) or subdivision (a)(1)(C) of this section with him or her during his or her use of a motor vehicle in connection with a transportation network company's digital network.

(B) In the event of an accident, a transportation network company driver shall provide insurance coverage information required under subdivision (a)(6)(A) of this section to the directly interested parties, automobile insurers, and investigating police officers upon request under the Arkansas Voluntary Enhanced Security Driver's License and Identification Card Act, § 27-16-1201 et seq.

(C) Upon a request under subdivision (a)(6)(B) of this section, a transportation network company driver shall also disclose to directly interested parties, automobile insurers, and investigating police officers whether he or she was logged on to the transportation network company's digital network or was on a prearranged ride at the time of the accident.

(b) A transportation network company shall disclose in writing to transportation network company drivers the following before they are allowed to accept a request for a prearranged ride on the transportation network company's digital network:

(1) The insurance coverage, including the types of coverage and the limits for each coverage, that the transportation network company provides while the transportation network company driver uses a personal vehicle in connection with a transportation network company's digital network; and

(2) That the transportation network company driver's own automobile insurance policy might not provide any coverage while the transportation network company driver is logged on to the transportation network company's digital network and is available to receive prearranged ride requests or is engaged in a prearranged ride, depending on the terms of the insurance policy.

(c) (1) Insurers that write automobile insurance in this state may exclude any and all coverage afforded under the owner's insurance policy for any loss or injury that occurs while a transportation network company driver is logged on to a transportation network company's digital network or while a transportation network company driver provides a prearranged ride.

(2) The right to exclude all coverage under subdivision (c)(1) of this section may apply to any coverage included in an automobile insurance policy, including without limitation:

(4) An automobile insurer that excludes the coverage described in subsection (a) of this section shall have no duty to defend or indemnify any claim expressly excluded thereunder.

(5) Nothing in this subchapter shall be deemed to invalidate or limit an exclusion contained in a policy, including any policy in use or approved for use in Arkansas prior to the enactment of this subchapter, that excludes coverage for vehicles used to carry persons or property for a charge or available for hire by the public.

(6) This section does not imply or require that a personal automobile insurance policy provide coverage while a transportation network company driver is logged on to the transportation network company's digital network, while the transportation network company driver is engaged in a prearranged ride, or while the transportation network company driver otherwise uses a motor vehicle to provide transportation network services.

(7) This section does not preclude an insurer from providing coverage for the transportation network company driver's motor vehicle, if it so chose to do so by contract or endorsement.

(8) (A) An automobile insurer that excludes the coverage described in subdivision (c)(2) of this section shall have no duty to defend or indemnify any claim expressly excluded thereunder.

(B) This section does not invalidate or limit an exclusion contained in an insurance policy, including any policy in use or approved for use in this state before July 22, 2015, that excludes coverage for a vehicle used to carry a person or property for a charge or available for hire by the public.

(9) An automobile insurer that defends or indemnifies a claim against a transportation network company driver that is excluded under the terms of its policy shall have a right of contribution against other insurers that provide automobile insurance to the same transportation network company driver in satisfaction of the coverage requirements of subsection (a) of this section at the time of loss.

(d) In a claims coverage investigation, a transportation network company and any insurer potentially providing coverage under subsection (a) of this section shall cooperate to facilitate the exchange of relevant information with directly involved parties and any insurer of the transportation network company driver, if applicable, including the precise times that a transportation network company driver logged on and off of the transportation network company's digital network in the twelve-hour period immediately preceding and in the twelve-hour period immediately following the accident and disclose to each other a clear description of the coverage, exclusions, and limits provided under any automobile insurance policy maintained under subsection (a) of this section.

26-52-510. Direct payment of tax by consumer-user - New and used motor vehicles, trailers, or semitrailers

(a) (1) On or before the time for registration as prescribed by § 27-14-903(a), a consumer shall pay to the Secretary of the Department of Finance and Administration the tax levied by this chapter and all other gross receipts taxes levied by the state with respect to the sale of a new or used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer required to be licensed in this state, instead of the taxes being collected by the dealer or seller.

(2) The secretary shall require the payment of the taxes at the time of registration before issuing a license for the new or used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer.

(3) (A) The taxes apply regardless of whether the motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer is sold by a vehicle dealer or an individual, corporation, or partnership not licensed as a vehicle dealer.

(B) The exemption in § 26-52-401(17) for isolated sales does not apply to the sale of a motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer.

(4) If the consumer fails to pay the taxes when due:

(A) There is assessed a penalty equal to ten percent (10%) of the amount of taxes due; and

(B) The consumer shall pay to the secretary the penalty under subdivision (a)(4)(A) of this section and the taxes due before the secretary issues a license for the motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer.

(b) (1) (A) Except as provided in this section, when a used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer is taken in trade as a credit or part payment on the sale of a new or used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer, the tax levied by this chapter and all other gross receipts taxes levied by the state shall be paid on the net difference between the total consideration for the new or used vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer sold and the credit for the used vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer taken in trade.

(B) (i) (a) If the total consideration for the sale of the new or used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer is less than four thousand dollars ($4,000), no tax is due.

(b) If the total consideration for the sale of a new motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer is four thousand dollars ($4,000) or more, the full gross receipts tax rate levied under this chapter shall be levied and collected.

(ii) If the total consideration for the sale of a used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer is at least four thousand dollars ($4,000) but less than ten thousand dollars ($10,000), the gross receipts tax due shall be determined under § 26-52-324.

(iii) If the total consideration for the sale of a used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer is ten thousand dollars ($10,000) or more:

(a) The exemption under subdivision (b)(1)(B)(i)(a) of this section does not apply;

(b) The special tax rate provided in § 26-52-324 does not apply; and

(c) The full gross receipts tax rate levied under this chapter shall be levied and collected.

(C) (i) When a used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer is sold by a consumer, rather than traded-in as a credit or part payment on the sale of a new or used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer, and the consumer subsequently purchases a new or used vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer of greater value within sixty (60) days of the sale, the tax levied by this chapter and all other gross receipts taxes levied by the state shall be paid on the net difference between the total consideration for the new or used vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer purchased subsequently and the amount received from the sale of the used vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer sold in lieu of a trade-in.

(ii) (a) Upon registration of the new or used motor vehicle, a consumer claiming the deduction provided by subdivision (b)(1)(C)(i) of this section shall provide a bill of sale signed by all parties to the transaction which reflects the total consideration paid to the seller for the vehicle.

(b) A copy of the bill of sale shall be deposited with the revenue office at the time of registration of the new or used motor vehicle.

(c) The deduction provided by this section shall not be allowed unless the taxpayer claiming the deduction provides a copy of a bill of sale signed by all parties to the transaction which reflects the total consideration paid to the seller for the vehicle.

(iii) If the taxpayer claiming the deduction provided in this section fails to provide a bill of sale signed by all parties to the transaction which reflects the total consideration paid to the seller for the vehicle, tax shall be due on the total consideration paid for the new or used vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer without any deduction for the value of the item sold.

(2) (A) (i) When a motor vehicle dealer removes a vehicle from its inventory and the vehicle is used by the dealership as a service vehicle, the dealer shall register the vehicle, obtain a certificate of title, and pay sales tax on the listed retail price of the new vehicle.

(ii) (a) When the motor vehicle dealer returns the service vehicle to inventory as a used vehicle and replaces it with a new vehicle for dealership use as a service vehicle, the dealer shall pay sales tax on the difference between the listed retail price of the new service vehicle to be used by the dealership and the value of the used service vehicle being returned to inventory.

(b) The value of the used service vehicle shall be the highest listed wholesale price reflected in the most current edition of the National Automobile Dealers Association's Official Used Car Guide.

(B) (i) As used in this subsection, "service vehicle" means a motor vehicle driven exclusively by an employee of the dealership and used either to transport dealership customers or dealership parts and equipment.

(ii) "Service vehicle" does not include motor vehicles which are rented by the dealership, used as demonstration vehicles, used by dealership employees for personal use, or used to haul or pull other vehicles.

(c) All parts and accessories purchased by motor vehicle sellers for resale or used by them for the reconditioning or rebuilding of used motor vehicles intended for resale are exempt from gross receipts tax, provided that the motor vehicle seller meets the requirements of § 26-52-401(12)(A) and applicable rules promulgated by the secretary.

(d) Nothing in this section shall be construed to repeal any exemption from this chapter.

(e) A credit is not allowed for sales or use taxes paid to another state with respect to the purchase of a motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer that was first registered by the purchaser in Arkansas.

(f) (1) (A) Any motor vehicle dealer licensed pursuant to § 27-14-601(a)(6) who has purchased a used motor vehicle upon payment of all applicable registration and title fees may register the vehicle for the sole purpose of obtaining a certificate of title to the vehicle without payment of gross receipts tax, except as provided in subdivision (f)(1)(B) of this section.

(B) (i) The sale of a motor vehicle from the original franchise dealer to any other dealer, person, corporation, or other entity other than a franchise dealer of the same make of vehicle and which sale is reflected on the statement of origin shall be subject to gross receipts tax.

(ii) The vehicle shall be considered a used motor vehicle which shall be registered and titled, and tax shall be paid at the time of registration.

(iii) The provisions of subdivision (f)(1)(A) of this section shall not apply in those instances.

(2) No license plate shall be provided with the registration, and the used vehicle titled by a dealer under this subsection may not be operated on the public highways unless there is displayed on the used vehicle a dealer's license plate issued under the provisions of § 27-14-601(a)(6)(B)(ii).

(g) (1) (A) For purposes of this section, the total consideration for a used motor vehicle shall be presumed to be the greater of the actual sales price as provided on the bill of sale, invoice or financing agreement, or the average loan value price of the vehicle as listed in the most current edition of a publication which is generally accepted by the industry as providing an accurate valuation of used vehicles.

(B) If the published loan value exceeds the invoiced price, then the taxpayer must establish to the secretary's satisfaction that the price reflected on the invoice or other document is true and correct.

(C) If the secretary determines that the invoiced price is not the actual selling price of the vehicle, then the total consideration will be deemed to be the published loan value.

(2) (A) For purposes of this section, the total consideration for a new or used trailer or semitrailer shall be the actual sales price as provided on a bill of sale, invoice, or financing agreement.

(B) The secretary may require additional information to conclusively establish the true selling price of the new or used trailer or semitrailer.

26-52-521. Sourcing of sales - Definitions

(a) (1) This section applies for purposes of determining a seller's obligation to pay or collect and remit a sales or use tax with respect to the seller's retail sale of a product or service.

(2) This section does not affect the obligation of a purchaser or lessee to remit tax on the use of the product or service to the taxing jurisdictions of that use and does not apply to the sales or use taxes levied on the retail sale excluding lease or rental, of motor vehicles, trailers, or semitrailers that require licensing.

(b) Excluding a lease or rental, the retail sale of a product or service shall be sourced as follows:

(1) If the product or service is received by the purchaser at a business location of the seller, the sale is sourced to that business location;

(2) If the product or service is not received by the purchaser at a business location of the seller, the sale is sourced to the location where receipt by the purchaser or the purchaser's designated donee occurs, including the location indicated by instructions for delivery to the purchaser or donee known to the seller;

(3) If subdivisions (b)(1) and (2) of this section do not apply, the sale is sourced to the location indicated by an address for the purchaser that is available from the business records of the seller that are maintained in the ordinary course of the seller's business when use of this address does not constitute bad faith;

(4) If subdivisions (b)(1)-(3) of this section do not apply, the sale is sourced to the location indicated by an address for the purchaser obtained during the consummation of the sale, including the address of a purchaser's payment instrument, if no other address is available if the use of this address does not constitute bad faith; or

(5) If none of the previous rules of subdivisions (b)(1)-(4) of this section apply, including the circumstance in which the seller is without sufficient information to apply the previous rules, the location will be determined by the address from which tangible personal property was shipped, from which the specified digital products or the digital code was first available for transmission by the seller, or from which the service was provided, disregarding for these purposes any location that merely provided the digital transfer of the product sold.

(c) The lease or rental of tangible personal property, specified digital products, or a digital code other than property identified in subsection (d) or subsection (e) of this section shall be sourced as follows:

(1) (A) For a lease or rental that requires recurring periodic payments, the first periodic payment is sourced the same as a retail sale in accordance with the provisions of subsection (b) of this section.

(B) Periodic payments made after the first payment are sourced to the primary property location for each period covered by the payment.

(C) The primary property location shall be as indicated by an address for the property provided by the lessee that is available to the lessor from its records maintained in the ordinary course of business if use of this address does not constitute bad faith.

(D) The property location shall not be altered by intermittent use at different locations such as use of business property that accompanies employees on business trips and service calls;

(2) For a lease or rental that does not require recurring periodic payments, the payment is sourced the same as a retail sale in accordance with the provisions of subsection (b) of this section; and

(3) This subsection does not affect the imposition or computation of sales or use tax on leases or rentals based on a lump-sum or accelerated basis or on the acquisition of property for lease.

(d) The lease or rental of motor vehicles, trailers, semitrailers, or aircraft that do not qualify as transportation equipment as defined in subsection (e) of this section shall be sourced as follows:

(1) (A) For a lease or rental that requires recurring periodic payments, each periodic payment is sourced to the primary property location.

(B) The primary property location shall be as indicated by an address for the property provided by the lessee that is available to the lessor from its records maintained in the ordinary course of business if use of this address does not constitute bad faith.

(C) This location shall not be altered by intermittent use at different locations;

(2) For a lease or rental that does not require recurring periodic payments, the payment is sourced the same as a retail sale in accordance with the provisions of subsection (b) of this section; and

(3) This subsection does not affect the imposition or computation of sales or use tax on leases or rentals based on a lump sum or accelerated basis or on the acquisition of property for lease.

(e) (1) Including a lease or rental, the retail sale of transportation equipment shall be sourced the same as a retail sale in accordance with the provisions of subsection (b) of this section, notwithstanding the exclusion of a lease or rental in subsection (b) of this section.

(2) As used in this section, "transportation equipment" means any of the following:

(A) Locomotives and railcars that are utilized for the carriage of persons or property in interstate commerce;

(B) Trucks and truck tractors with a gross vehicle weight rating of ten thousand one pounds (10,001 lbs.) or greater, trailers, semitrailers, or passenger buses that are:

(i) Registered through the International Registration Plan, Inc.; and

(ii) Operated under authority of a carrier authorized and certificated by the United States Department of Transportation or another federal authority to engage in the carriage of persons or property in interstate commerce;

(C) Aircraft that are operated by air carriers authorized and certificated by the United States Department of Transportation or another federal or a foreign authority to engage in the carriage of persons or property in interstate or foreign commerce;

(D) Containers designed for use on and component parts attached or secured on the items under subdivision (e)(1) of this section and this subdivision (e)(2).

(f) As used in subsection (b) of this section:

(1) "Receive" and "receipt" mean:

(A) Taking possession of tangible personal property, specified digital products, or a digital code; or

(B) Making first use of services; and

(2) "Receive" and "receipt" do not include possession by a shipping company on behalf of the purchaser.

(g) When a motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer that requires licensing is sold to a person who resides in Arkansas, the sale is sourced to the residence of the purchaser.

(h) This section shall apply to all state and local taxes administered by the Department of Finance and Administration.

(i) The destination sourcing rules in this section do not apply to florists.

(2) (A) On or before the time for registration as prescribed by § 27-14-903(a), the person making application to register the motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer shall pay the taxes to the Secretary of the Department of Finance and Administration instead of the taxes being collected by the dealer or individual seller.

(B) The secretary shall collect the taxes before issuing a license for the motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer.

(3) The exemption in § 26-52-401(17) for isolated sales does not apply to the sale of a motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer.

(4) If the person making application to register the motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer fails to pay the taxes when due:

(A) There is assessed a penalty equal to ten percent (10%) of the amount of taxes due; and

(B) The person making application to register the motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer shall pay to the secretary the penalty under subdivision (a)(4)(A) of this section and the taxes due before the secretary issues a license for the motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer.

(b) (1) When a used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer is taken in trade as a credit or part payment on the sale of a new or used vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer; the tax levied in this subchapter and all other use taxes levied by the state shall be paid on the net difference between the total consideration for the new or used vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer sold and the credit for the used vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer taken in trade.

(2) (A) (i) If the total consideration for the sale of the new or used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer is less than four thousand dollars ($4,000), no tax is due.

(ii) If the total consideration for the sale of a new motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer is four thousand dollars ($4,000) or more, the full compensating use tax rate levied under this chapter shall be levied and collected.

(B) If the total consideration for the sale of a used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer is at least four thousand dollars ($4,000) but less than ten thousand dollars ($10,000), the compensating use tax due shall be determined under § 26-53-150.

(C) If the total consideration for the sale of a used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer is ten thousand dollars ($10,000) or more:

(a) The exemption under subdivision (b)(2)(A)(i) of this section does not apply;

(b) The special tax rate provided in § 26-53-150 does not apply; and

(c) The full compensating use tax rate levied under this chapter shall be levied and collected.

(3) (A) When a used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer is sold by a consumer, rather than traded in as a credit or part payment on the sale of a new or used motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer, and the consumer subsequently purchases a new or used vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer of greater value within sixty (60) days of the sale, the tax levied by this chapter and all other gross receipts taxes levied by the state shall be paid on the net difference between the total consideration for the new or used vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer purchased subsequently and the amount received from the sale of the used vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer sold in lieu of a trade-in.

(B) (i) Upon registration of the new or used motor vehicle, consumers claiming the deduction provided by subdivision (b)(3)(A) of this section shall provide a bill of sale signed by all parties to the transaction which reflects the total consideration paid to the seller for the vehicle.

(ii) A copy of the bill of sale shall be deposited with the revenue office at the time of registration of the new or used motor vehicle.

(iii) The deduction provided by this subdivision (b)(3) shall not be allowed unless the taxpayer claiming the deduction provides a copy of a bill of sale signed by all parties to the transaction which reflects the total consideration paid to the seller for the vehicle.

(C) If the taxpayer claiming the deduction provided in this subdivision (b) (3) fails to provide a bill of sale signed by all parties to the transaction which reflects the total consideration paid to the seller for the vehicle, tax shall be due on the total consideration paid for the new or used vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer without any deduction for the value of the item sold.

(c) The tax imposed by this subchapter shall not apply to a motor vehicle, trailer, or semitrailer to be registered by a bona fide nonresident of this state.

(d) Nothing in this section shall be construed to repeal any exemption from this subchapter.

(e) (1) Upon payment of all applicable registration and title fees, any motor vehicle dealer licensed pursuant to § 27-14-601(a)(6) who has purchased a used motor vehicle may register the vehicle for the sole purpose of obtaining a certificate of title to the vehicle without payment of use tax.

(2) No license plate shall be provided with the registration, and the used vehicle titled by a dealer under this subsection may not be operated on the public highways unless there is displayed on the used vehicle a dealer's license plate issued under the provisions of § 27-14-601(a)(6)(B)(ii).

(f) (1) (A) For purposes of this section, the total consideration for a used motor vehicle shall be presumed to be the greater of the actual sales price as provided on a bill of sale, invoice or financing agreement, or the average loan value of the vehicle as listed in the most current edition of a publication which is generally accepted by the industry as providing an accurate valuation of used vehicles.

(B) If the published loan value exceeds the invoiced price, then the taxpayer must establish to the secretary's satisfaction that the price reflected on the invoice or other document is true and correct.

(C) If the secretary determines that the invoiced price is not the actual selling price of the vehicle, then the total consideration will be deemed to be the published loan value.

(2) (A) For purposes of this section, the total consideration for a new or used trailer or semitrailer shall be the actual sales price as provided on a bill of sale, invoice, or financing agreement.

(B) The secretary may require additional information to conclusively establish the true selling price of the new or used trailer or semitrailer.

(f) Notwithstanding any of the provisions of this subdivision (a)(3)(H) to the contrary, for a vehicle to be operated separately or in combination with other vehicles, which vehicle or combination has a total outside width in excess of one hundred two inches (102') but not exceeding one hundred eight inches (108') and is utilized or intended to be utilized to transport compacted seed cotton, the annual license fee shall be six hundred fifty dollars ($650). Provided, any full trailer or semitrailer used in combination with the registered vehicle shall also be registered in accordance with and pursuant to the applicable fees set out in subdivision (a)(3)(I) of this section. That portion of the annual license fee established by this subdivision (a)(3)(H)(ii)(f) which equals four hundred eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents ($487.50) is declared to be a permit fee for the use of the public roads and streets of this state by the vehicles while operated separately or in combination with other vehicles due to the unusual design and size of the vehicles or combinations of vehicles.

(iii) (a) The foregoing vehicles shall not exceed the maximum axle load permitted by law.

(b) Five-axle vehicles may haul maximum gross loaded weights of up to eighty thousand pounds (80,000 lbs.) without the purchase of any additional or different type license.

(iv) The Secretary of the Department of Finance and Administration shall cause to be issued special and distinctive license plates for vehicles in this classification, with separate farm license plates to be established for those vehicles used in the noncommercial hauling of farm products produced in this state, and for the hauling of feed, seed, fertilizer, poultry litter, and other products commonly produced or used in agricultural operations or compacted seed cotton and separate natural resources license plates to be established for those vehicles hauling timber products, clay minerals, or ores.

(v) (a) Before any license may be issued for a vehicle designated as either a farm vehicle or a natural resources vehicle, the applicant shall, by affidavit, state that he or she is familiar with the purposes for which the licenses may be used as authorized under this classification and that he or she will not use the vehicle for which application for license is made for any purpose not authorized under this classification. The applicant shall indicate on his or her affidavit whether the vehicle is to be used for the hauling of farm products, animal feed, compacted seed, or cotton or for the hauling of forest products, clay minerals, or ores.

(b) If the applicant is the owner of a mini-truck, then the affidavit shall state that the vehicle is being used exclusively for farm purposes and that the mini-truck meets the other requirements of § 27-14-726.

(vi) (a) Upon submitting an affidavit, any person entitled to obtain a farm license for a motor vehicle used for hauling farm products as authorized under this classification, if the vehicle is required for only seasonal or occasional use, may be issued a farm license for the vehicle for the first six (6) months of the annual licensing period at a rate equal to one-half (1/2) of the annual fee but in no event less than sixty-five dollars ($65.00) or for the last month of the current annual licensing period and the first six (6) months of the subsequent annual licensing period at a rate equal to seven-twelfths (7/12) of the annual fee but in no event less than seventy-five dollars ($75.00).

(b) The secretary shall issue special distinctive license plates or license plate validation decals for the vehicles, including the indication thereon of the expiration date, so as to identify them from annual plates.

(vii) The owner of any motor vehicle who is entitled to obtain a farm license for the motor vehicle for use in hauling farm products as authorized in this subdivision (a)(3)(H) may use the motor vehicle for the hauling of baled cotton from the cotton gin to a cotton compress without the necessity of the payment of additional license fees or the obtaining of additional license plates for the motor vehicle.

(viii) The secretary shall promulgate such rules as may be necessary to carry out the intent of this classification and prevent abuse thereof. However, before any such rules shall be effective, they shall be approved by majority action of the members of the State Highway Commission acting for and in behalf of the Arkansas Highway Police Division of the Arkansas Department of Transportation, which is the agency charged with the principal responsibility of enforcing the motor vehicle license laws of this state.

(ix) Vehicles licensed under this classification for the hauling of farm products only shall be permitted, without payment of additional fees, to transport return loads to the farm or domicile of the owner of the vehicles where the return load contents are the property of, and to be used or consumed by, the owner of the vehicle or his or her family.

(x) If a violation of the natural resources classification as authorized in this subdivision (a)(3)(H) is discovered, a license must immediately be purchased for the vehicle in accordance with the rate of license that should lawfully be required for the vehicle for so moving on the roads and highways of this state. No credit shall be given on the purchase price of the license for any amount or amounts paid for license hitherto purchased for use on the vehicle. This requirement of license purchase shall not be in lieu of any criminal prosecution.

(xi) All affidavits required under the provisions of this subdivision (a)(3)(H) shall be acknowledged by the secretary, his or her authorized agent, or some other person authorized by the laws of this state to administer oaths.

(xii) The owner of a mini-truck under § 27-14-726 may license and register the mini-truck as a Class Eight farm vehicle if the vehicle is used for farm purposes;

(1) All trailers drawn by automobiles and Class One trucks, and all boat trailers and travel trailers drawn by any truck, which truck has a load capacity of one (1) ton or less, a triennial fee of twenty-one dollars ($21.00). Provided, however, every owner of a trailer drawn by automobiles and Class One trucks, and all boat trailers and travel trailers drawn by any truck, purchased or otherwise acquired on or after January 1, 2002, shall pay thirty-six dollars ($36.00) for the issuance of a permanent registration that shall remain valid, without renewal, until the owner of the trailer sells or otherwise disposes of the trailer for which the registration is issued. Permanent registration issued under this subdivision (a)(3)(I)(i)(a)(1) shall not be transferred to other owners or other vehicles, and shall not be replaced under § 27-14-602(b)(6). Any owner of a trailer registered under the provisions of this subdivision (a)(3)(I)(i)(a)(1) before January 1, 2002, may, at his or her option, upon expiration of the registration, pay thirty-six dollars ($36.00) for the issuance of a permanent registration as authorized in this subdivision (a)(3)(I)(i)(a)(1);

(2) All semitrailers used in combination with Class Two - Class Eight trucks, with the exception of those for which a fee is set out in subdivision (a)(3)(I)(i)(a)(1) of this section, a fee of twenty dollars ($20.00). Provided, however, the owner of any semitrailer used in combination with Class Two - Class Eight trucks may, at his or her option, pay a fee of sixty-five dollars ($65.00) for issuance of a permanent registration that shall remain valid, without annual renewal, until he or she sells or otherwise disposes of the semitrailer for which the registration is issued. (ii) (a) "Gross loaded weight" as used in this section means the weight of the vehicle or vehicles plus the load to be hauled.

(b) (1) If any truck, trailer, or semitrailer, as provided in this section, is at any time found to be operating on the highways of Arkansas with a gross loaded weight in excess of the weight permitted by the license registration thereon, the owner or his or her agent must then and there, before proceeding, pay an additional license fee on the truck, trailer, or semitrailer, or combination, on the basis of one dollar and thirty cents ($1.30) per one hundred pounds (100 lbs.), or fraction thereof, for the excess weight. For the purpose of ascertaining excess loaded weight on any truck, trailer, semitrailer, or combination thereof, a tolerance of one thousand pounds (1,000 lbs.) over and above the permitted weight, as indicated by the license registration certificate thereof, shall be allowed before the additional license fee required in this subdivision (a)(3)(I)(ii)(b)(1) shall be charged.

(2) It shall be unlawful for any truck to operate on the highways of Arkansas without the license registration card being, at all times, in the possession of the operator thereof. This card shall, at all times, be subject to inspection.

(3) Any truck, trailer, or semitrailer, or combination thereof, on which an additional license fee is paid because of excess weight, as provided in this subdivision (a)(3)(I)(ii)(b), shall be permitted for the remaining portion of the regular license year to operate at the newly established weight limit.

(4) In no event shall any license be issued for a greater weight than that permitted by law governing axle loads; and

(ii) Before any license may be issued for a vehicle designated as a wrecker or tow vehicle, the applicant shall furnish to the secretary a certification from the board that the wrecker or tow vehicle has been permitted as a wrecker or tow vehicle by the board.

(iii) Beginning January 1, 2008, every wrecker or tow vehicle permitted by the board shall obtain upon initial registration or at the time of next renewal a distinctive wrecker or tow vehicle license plate.

vehicles, an office used for that business, a telephone listed in the name of the business, and a sign identifying the establishment. Certification shall be required for all renewals of dealer license plates. This dealer certification shall not apply to dealers licensed by the Division of Arkansas State Police, the Arkansas Motor Vehicle Commission, or the Arkansas Manufactured Home Commission and who are regulated by those authorities. The dealer certification shall consist of completion of a self-certification form prepared by the Office of Motor Vehicle.

(ii) (a) Except as provided in subdivision (a)(6)(B)(iv) of this section for dealers who sell only all-terrain vehicles, upon furnishing the certification to the secretary, or a copy of the dealer's license from either the Division of Arkansas State Police or the Arkansas Motor Vehicle Commission and the payment of a fee of one hundred dollars ($100), the dealer shall be issued a master license plate and upon the payment of a fee of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) shall be issued a dealer's extra license plate as provided in § 27-14-1704. of the dealer's license from the Arkansas Manufactured Home Commission and upon the payment of fifty dollars ($50.00), the manufactured home dealer shall be issued certification from the secretary for the purpose of assigning manufactured home titles.

(b) Each location shall be treated as a separate entity, and certification by the department shall be required for each location.

(c) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, the Office of Motor Vehicle shall provide distinctive dealer's license plates for manufactured homes. Manufactured home dealers shall not be provided and shall not be authorized to use dealer's license plates designed for a motor vehicle, motorcycle, or anything other than a manufactured home.

(iv) (a) Upon furnishing certification to the secretary or a copy of the dealer's license from the Arkansas Motor Vehicle Commission and upon the payment of one hundred dollars ($100), dealers engaged exclusively in the business of buying and selling all-terrain vehicles, as defined in § 27-21-102, shall be issued certification from the secretary for the purpose of assigning all-terrain vehicle titles.

(b) Each dealer location shall be treated as a separate entity, and certification by the secretary shall be required for each location.

(c) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, all-terrain vehicle dealers that are engaged solely in the business of buying and selling all-terrain vehicles shall not be provided and shall not be authorized to use dealer's license plates designed for any motor vehicle required to be registered for operation on public streets and highways.

(C) When a dealer's master license plate or extra license plate is attached to any dealer-owned motor vehicle, the motor vehicle may be used by the dealer, a manager, a sales manager, or a salesperson employed by the dealership to drive to or from work and for personal or business trips inside

(B) No person shall have the authority to extend the time for payment of the fees past the period specified in this subdivision (b)(2).

(C) The provisions of this subdivision (b)(2) shall not apply to trailers drawn by automobiles or by Class One trucks.

(D) (i) The secretary shall, upon request, assign the same registration period to any owner of two (2) or more trucks, truck-tractors, trailers, and semitrailers, and combinations thereof, except Class One trucks as defined in § 27-14-1002.

(ii) The secretary shall, upon request, assign a different month of registration other than the vehicle's current month of registration to any owner of a truck, truck-tractor, trailer, and semitrailer, and combinations thereof, except Class One trucks as defined in § 27-14-1002, and all fees shall be prorated accordingly on a monthly basis.

27-14-907. Transfer by operation of law - Definition

(a) (1) Whenever the title or interest of an owner in or to a registered vehicle passes to another person by a method other than voluntary transfer, the registration of the vehicle shall expire, and the vehicle shall not be operated upon public streets or highways for more than sixty (60) days after the transfer date unless a valid registration plate is attached to the vehicle.

(2) In the event that title has become vested in the person holding a lien or encumbrance upon the vehicle, the person may apply to the Office of Motor Vehicle for, and obtain, special plates as may be issued under this chapter to dealers and may operate any repossessed vehicle under such special plates only for purposes of transporting it to a garage or warehouse or for purposes of demonstrating or selling it.

(b) (1) Upon any such transfer, the new owner may either secure a new registration and certificate of title, upon proper application and upon presentation of:

(A) The last certificate of title, if available;

(B) Evidence that the lien or encumbrance was previously recorded in the State of Arkansas or that the motor vehicle is physically present in the State of Arkansas; and

(C) Such instruments or documents of authority, or certified copies thereof, as may be sufficient or required by law to evidence or effect a transfer of title or interest in or to chattels in such case.

(2) (A) If the motor vehicle to be registered was last registered in a jurisdiction other than Arkansas and if the name of the new owner as lienholder is not shown on the existing certificate of title, a certificate of title may not be issued to the new owner under this section. Instead, the new owner may secure a new registration and certificate of title only by obtaining an order issued by a court of competent jurisdiction directing the new registration and certificate of title.

(B) The provisions of subdivision (b) (2)(A) of this section do not apply to a motor vehicle that was last sold by a motor vehicle dealer licensed in Arkansas or another state to an Arkansas purchaser and the Arkansas purchaser failed to register the vehicle in this state. The lienholder of that vehicle may obtain a title under this section upon presentation of:

(i) The last certificate of title, if available;

(ii) A copy of the instrument creating or evidencing the lien or encumbrance that reflects the name and address of the Arkansas resident purchaser of the motor vehicle; and

(iii) Instruments or documents of authority, or copies thereof, as may be sufficient or required by law to evidence or effect a transfer of title or interest in or to the motor vehicle.

(ii) The auto auction has a written agreement with the repossessing lienholder to sell repossessed motor vehicles at the auto auction.

(B) The exception provided under subdivision (b)(3)(A) of this section shall not apply unless the repossessing lienholder submitted along with the application for registration for the motor vehicle an affidavit, on a form prescribed by the Office of Motor Vehicle, affirming that the motor vehicle would be offered for sale by the auto auction with whom the lienholder has made the agreement.

(C) For purposes of this section, "auto auction" means:

(i) A person who operates or provides a place of business or facilities for the wholesale exchange of motor vehicles by and between licensed motor vehicle dealers;

(ii) A motor vehicle dealer licensed to sell used motor vehicles, or selling motor vehicles using an auction format but not on consignment; and

(iii) A person who provides the facilities for or is in the business of selling motor vehicles in an auction format.

(D) The Office of Motor Vehicle may request information from the auto auction as necessary to verify the exception provided under subdivision (b)(3) (A) of this section.

(4) The new owner, upon transferring his or her title or interest to another person, shall execute and acknowledge an assignment and warranty of title upon the certificate of title previously issued, if available, and deliver it, as well as the documents of authority or certified copies thereof, as may be sufficient or required by law to evidence the rights of the person, to the person to whom the transfer is made.

(c) The Secretary of the Department of Finance and Administration shall have the power to adopt rules to establish what documents or evidence are required to verify that a lien or encumbrance holder or his or her assignee has complied with this section.

(c) (1) An Arkansas certificate of title issued from an out-of-state certificate of title or comparable ownership document that carries a designation such as "damaged", "salvaged", "water-damaged", "reconstructed", "rebuilt", or other similar classification shall have a brand notation printed in the remarks section on its face as would be required by this subchapter to be printed on an Arkansas certificate of title issued under the provisions of either subsection (b) or subsection (e) of this section.

(2) (A) Provided, however, an Arkansas certificate of title shall not be issued from an out-of-state junking certificate or other ownership document bearing a designation of "junk", "parts only", "nonrepairable", or similar classification, it being the intent of this section that any motor vehicle damaged to the extent that it has been so designated shall be dismantled for parts or scrap and shall not be registered in the State of Arkansas but may receive a "parts only" title.

(B) (i) An Arkansas title may be issued only if the state that placed the designation on the certificate of title or issued the junking certificate removes the designation or cancels the junking certificate and replaces it with a certificate of title.

(ii) The designation placed on the certificate of title or issuance of junking certificate may be modified or removed only by that state.

(iii) A court of this state shall not have jurisdiction to change or modify the designation or finding of another state issuing a certificate of title or the junking certificate.

(d) (1) When any motor vehicle issued a "salvage" certificate of title or similar branded title by another state is rebuilt or reconstructed, the owner shall, within ten (10) working days, make application to the Office of Motor Vehicle for the registration and issuance of a new certificate of title to the motor vehicle.

(2) The application shall be accompanied by the "salvage" certificate of title or similar title issued by another state, a fee in the amount now or hereafter prescribed by law for the registration and issuance of a certificate of title, and a sworn statement executed by the rebuilders or restorer on a form prescribed by the Office of Motor Vehicle describing the types of repairs performed, listing all parts replaced, and including the vehicle identification number of any parts bearing such a number or a derivative thereof.

(e) (1) Upon receipt of such "salvage" certificate of title or similar title issued by another state and the sworn statement required to be submitted by subsection (d) of this section, there shall be issued a new certificate of title with the word "rebuilt" printed in the remarks section on the face of the title.

(2) The brand shall be carried forward and printed in the remarks section on the face of all titles issued thereafter for the motor vehicle.

(f) The sworn statement submitted pursuant to subsection (d) of this section shall be maintained by the Office of Motor Vehicle as a part of the permanent title record of the motor vehicle in question, and the information contained therein shall be made available to any prospective buyer or transferee upon request.

(g) (1) If an insurer has the responsibility under this subchapter to surrender the certificate of title on a salvage vehicle for which it has taken title or to notify the Office of Motor Vehicle that a motor vehicle is a salvage vehicle, prior salvage vehicle, or "parts only" vehicle, the insurer may delegate its responsibility to surrender the certificate of title or to notify the Office of Motor Vehicle to a servicing organization or to a buyer of the salvage vehicle from the insurer.

(2) The insurer shall remain responsible under Arkansas law if the servicing organization or buyer fails to properly surrender the title or notify the Office of Motor Vehicle.

(h) (1) The Office of Motor Vehicle may issue a "parts only" title to the owner of a salvage vehicle under the following conditions:

(A) The owner of the salvage vehicle decides that the salvage vehicle has no resale value except as a source for parts or scrap; and

(B) The owner surrenders the current certificate of title to the salvage vehicle to the Office of Motor Vehicle.

(2) An owner under this subsection may be an insurer that owns the salvage vehicle.

(3) (A) The salvage vehicle shall be dismantled for parts or scrap and issued a "parts only" title in the State of Arkansas.

(B) The "parts only" brand shall be carried forward and printed in the remarks section on the face of all titles subsequently issued for the motor vehicle without regard to the claim of any person that the salvage vehicle has been rebuilt or reconstructed.

(1) The safety of their streets and highways is materially affected by the degree of compliance with the state and local ordinances relating to the operation of motor vehicles.

(2) Violation of such a law or ordinance is evidence that the violator engages in conduct which is likely to endanger the safety of persons and property.

(3) The continuance in force of a license to drive is predicated upon compliance with laws and ordinances relating to the operation of motor vehicles, in whichever jurisdiction the vehicle is operated.

(b) It is the policy of each of the party states to:

(1) Promote compliance with the laws, ordinances, and administrative rules and regulations relating to the operation of motor vehicles by their operators in each of the jurisdictions where such operators drive motor vehicles.

(2) Make the reciprocal recognition of licenses to drive and eligibility therefor more just and equitable by considering the overall compliance with motor vehicle laws, ordinances, and administrative rules and regulations as a condition precedent to the continuance or issuance of any license by reason of which the licensee is authorized or permitted to operate a motor vehicle in any of the party states.

ARTICLE II Definitions

As used in this compact:

(a) "State" means a state, territory, or possession of the United States, the District of Columbia, or the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

(b) "Home state" means the state which has issued and has the power to suspend or revoke the use of the license or permit to operate a motor vehicle.

(c) "Conviction" means a conviction of any offense related to the use or operation of a motor vehicle which is prohibited by state law, municipal ordinance, or administrative rule or regulation, or a forfeiture of bail, bond, or other security deposited to secure appearance by a person charged with having committed any such offense, and which conviction or forfeiture is required to be reported to the licensing authority.

ARTICLE III Reports of Conviction

The licensing authority of a party state shall report each conviction of a person from another party state occurring within its jurisdiction to the licensing authority of the home state of the licensee. Such report shall clearly identify the person convicted; describe the violation specifying the section of the statute, code, or ordinance violated; identify the court in which action was taken; indicate whether a plea of guilty or not guilty was entered, or the conviction was a result of the forfeiture of bail, bond, or other security; and shall include any special findings made in connection therewith.

ARTICLE IV Effect of Conviction

(a) The licensing authority in the home state, for the purposes of suspension, revocation, or limitation of the license to operate a motor vehicle, shall give the same effect to the conduct reported, pursuant to Article III of this compact, as it would if such conduct has occurred in the home state, in the case of convictions for:

(1) Manslaughter or negligent homicide resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle;

(2) Driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or a narcotic drug, or under the influence of any other drug to a degree which renders the driver incapable of safely driving a motor vehicle;

(3) Any felony in the commission of which a motor vehicle is used;

(4) Failure to stop and render aid in the event of a motor vehicle accident resulting in the death or personal injury of another.

(b) As to other convictions, reported pursuant to Article III, the licensing authority in the home state shall give such effect to the conduct as is provided by the laws of the home state.

(c) If the laws of a party state do not provide for offenses or violations denominated or described in precisely the words employed in subdivision (a) of this article, such party state shall construe the denominations and descriptions appearing in subdivision (a) hereof as being applicable to and identifying those offenses or violations of a substantially similar nature, and the laws of such party state shall contain such provisions as may be necessary to ensure that full force and effect is given to this article.

ARTICLE V Applications for New Licenses

Upon application for a license to drive, the licensing authority in a party state shall ascertain whether the applicant has ever held, or is the holder of, a license to drive issued by any other party state. The licensing authority in the state where application is made shall not issue a license to drive to the applicant if:

(1) The applicant has held such a license, but the same has been suspended by reason, in whole or in part, of a violation and if such suspension period has not terminated.

(2) The applicant has held such a license, but the same has been revoked by reason, in whole or in part, of a violation and if such revocation has not terminated, except that after the expiration of one (1) year from the date the license was revoked, such person may make application for a new license if permitted by law. The licensing authority may refuse to issue a license to any such applicant if, after investigation, the licensing authority determines that it will not be safe to grant to such person the privilege of driving a motor vehicle on the public highways.

(3) The applicant is the holder of a license to drive issued by another party state and currently in force unless the applicant surrenders such license.

ARTICLE VI Applicability of Other Laws

Except as expressly required by the provisions of this compact, nothing contained herein shall be construed to affect the right of any party state to apply any of its other laws relating to licenses to drive to any person or circumstance, nor to invalidate or prevent any driver license agreement or other cooperative arrangement between a party state and a non-party state.

ARTICLE VII Compact Administrator and Interchange of Information

(a) The head of the licensing authority of each party state shall be the administrator of this compact for his or her state. The administrators, acting jointly, shall have the power to formulate all necessary and proper procedures for the exchange of information under this compact.

(b) The administrator of each party state shall furnish to the administrator of each other party state any information or documents reasonably necessary to facilitate the administration of this compact.

ARTICLE VIII

Entry Into Force and Withdrawal

(a) This compact shall enter into force and become effective as to any state when it has enacted the same into law.

(b) Any party state may withdraw from this compact by enacting a statute repealing the same, but no such withdrawal shall take effect until six (6) months after the executive head of the withdrawing state has given notice of the withdrawal to the executive heads of all other party states. No withdrawal shall affect the validity or applicability by the licensing authorities of states remaining party to the compact of any report of conviction occurring prior to the withdrawal.

ARTICLE IX

Construction and Severability

This compact shall be liberally construed so as to effectuate the purposes thereof. The provisions of this compact shall be severable and if any phrase, clause, sentence, or provision of this compact is declared to be contrary to the constitution of any party state or of the United States or the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person, or circumstance is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this compact and the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person, or circumstance shall not be affected thereby. If this compact shall be held contrary to the constitution of any state party thereto, the compact shall remain in full force and effect as to the remaining states and in full force and effect as to the state affected as to all severable matters.

27-23-114. Commercial motor vehicle driving offenses and penalties - Definitions

(a) (1) It is unlawful and punishable as provided in this subchapter for any person who is intoxicated to operate or be in physical control of a commercial motor vehicle. The term "intoxicated" means influenced or affected by the ingestion of alcohol, a controlled substance, any intoxicant, or any combination thereof, at such measurable level so that the driver's reactions, motor skills, and judgment are substantially altered, and the driver therefore constitutes a clear and substantial danger of physical injury or death to himself and other motorists or pedestrians.

(2) It is unlawful and punishable as provided in this subchapter for any person to operate or be in actual physical control of a commercial motor vehicle if at the time there was four-hundredths of one percent (0.04%) or more by weight of alcohol in the person's blood as determined by a chemical test of the person's blood or breath or other body substances. For the purpose of this subchapter, there is no presumption, as there is found in § 5-65-206, that a person is not under the influence of an intoxicating substance if the person's blood alcohol concentration is five-hundredths of one percent (0.05%) or less.

(3) It shall be unlawful and punishable as provided in this subchapter for any person operating a commercial motor vehicle to leave the scene of an accident involving the commercial motor vehicle and resulting in any injury to or death of any person, in any damage to another vehicle, whether attended or unattended, or in any damage to any fixture legally upon the highway or adjacent to a highway. The person operating a commercial motor vehicle involved in any such accident shall be under a duty to stop his or her vehicle at the scene of the accident and render the same aid and give the same information as required by § 27-53-103.

(4) It shall be unlawful and punishable as provided in this subchapter for any person driving a commercial motor vehicle to use a commercial motor vehicle in the commission of a felony.

(5) It shall be unlawful and punishable as provided in this subchapter for any person driving a commercial motor vehicle to refuse to submit to a chemical test to determine the person's blood alcohol concentration while driving a commercial motor vehicle. A person driving a commercial motor vehicle requested to submit to such a chemical test shall be warned by the law enforcement officer that a refusal to submit to the test will result in that person's being disqualified from driving a commercial motor vehicle.

(b) Any person convicted of a violation of driving a commercial motor vehicle while intoxicated, driving a commercial motor vehicle while the person's blood alcohol concentration is four-hundredths of one percent (0.04%) or more, leaving the scene of an accident involving a commercial motor vehicle driven by the person, or using a commercial motor vehicle in the commission of any felony shall be deemed guilty of a Class B misdemeanor and shall be disqualified from driving a commercial motor vehicle as specified in § 27-23-112.

(c) (1) A law enforcement officer having reasonable cause to believe the person to have been driving a commercial motor vehicle while intoxicated or driving a commercial motor vehicle while the person's blood alcohol concentration was four-hundredths of one percent (0.04%) or more shall have the authority to administer or have administered a chemical test to determine the person's blood alcohol concentration. The chemical test authorized shall be identical to and under the same standards of the test given to persons under the Omnibus DWI or BWI Act, § 5-65-101 et seq.

(2) (A) At the time of an arrest under subdivision (a)(1), subdivision (a)(2), or subdivision (a)(5) of this section, the law enforcement officer shall seize the driver's license of the arrested person as provided by § 5-65-402, and the Office of Driver Services shall disqualify the driving privileges of the arrested person as provided by § 27-23-112 under the procedure in § 5-65-402.

(B) The arrested person shall have the same right to administrative and judicial review provided in § 5-65-402.

(d) (1) Every magistrate or judge of a court shall keep a record of every violation of this section presented to the court and shall keep a record of every official action taken by the court.

(2) Within five (5) days after a person has been found guilty, or pleaded guilty or nolo contendere on a charge of violating any provision of this section, every magistrate of the court or clerk of the court shall prepare and immediately forward to the Office of Driver Services an abstract, which shall be certified as true and correct, of the record of the court covering the case where a person was found guilty, or pleaded guilty or nolo contendere.

(3) The abstract shall be made on a form furnished by the Office of Driver Services and shall include all items that the Office of Driver Services shall determine as necessary.

(e) Any violation of the offenses found in subsection (a) of this section and the penalties and suspensions imposed for those violations shall be cumulative and in addition to the penalties and suspensions for any other offense or violation under a similar Arkansas motor vehicle traffic or criminal law.

(f) Upon determining that the driver has violated subdivision (a)(1) or subdivision (a)(2) of this section previously or has previously been convicted of violating § 5-65-103 or § 5-65-303, the court shall order an assessment of the driver's degree of repeated alcohol abuse and shall order treatment for alcohol abuse as a condition of sentencing if appropriate.

- (2) Acts in concert with a shared-vehicle driver who fails to return the shared vehicle under the terms of the peer-to-peer car-sharing program agreement.

(d) The peer-to-peer car-sharing program shall ensure that during each car-sharing period, a shared-vehicle owner and a shared-vehicle driver are insured under a motor vehicle liability insurance policy that:

- (1) Provides insurance coverage in amounts no less than the minimum coverage required in § 27-22-104; and
- (2) Either:
 - (A) Recognizes that the shared vehicle insured under the motor vehicle liability insurance policy is made available and used through a peer-to-peer car-sharing program; or
 - (B) Does not exclude the use of a shared vehicle by a shared-vehicle driver.

(e) The insurance requirement described in subsection (d) of this section may be satisfied by motor vehicle liability insurance maintained by:

(2) The Secretary of the Department of Finance and Administration shall register every such vehicle for a permissible gross weight not exceeding the limitation set forth in this chapter.

(3) Every such vehicle shall be equipped with brakes as required in §§ 27-37-501 and 27-37-502.

(b) (1) The Secretary of the Department of Finance and Administration shall insert in the registration card issued for every such vehicle the gross weight for which it is registered. If it is a motor vehicle to be used for propelling other vehicles, the Secretary of the Department of Finance and Administration shall separately insert the total permissible gross weight of that motor vehicle and other vehicles to be propelled by it.

(2) The Secretary of the Department of Finance and Administration may also issue a special plate with the gross weight or weights stated thereon which shall be attached to the vehicle and displayed at all times.

(3) A wrecker or tow vehicle shall be required to register only for the gross weight of that wrecker or tow vehicle without inclusion of the weight of the vehicle being towed by the wrecker or tow vehicle. In the registration card issued for a wrecker or tow vehicle, the Secretary of the Department of Finance and Administration shall only insert the total permissible gross weight of the wrecker or tow vehicle.

(c) (1) It shall be unlawful for any person to operate any vehicle or combination of vehicles of a gross weight in excess of that for which registered by the Secretary of the Department of Finance and Administration or in excess of the limitations set forth in this chapter.

(2) In determining the gross weight of a wrecker or tow vehicle, only the gross weight of the wrecker or tow vehicle shall be considered without inclusion of the weight of the vehicle being towed.

(d) The Secretary of the Department of Finance and Administration shall implement rules and regulations issued by the United States Secretary of Transportation pertaining to federal use tax payments.

(2) The provisions of this section shall not be applicable to vehicles owned and operated by the State of Arkansas or any city or county of this state.

(b) (1) Whenever an officer, upon weighing a vehicle and load as provided in subsection (a) of this section, determines that the weight is unlawful, the officer may require the driver to stop the vehicle in a suitable place and remain standing until such portion of the load is removed as may be necessary to reduce the gross weight of the vehicle to the limit permitted under this chapter.

(2) All material so unloaded shall be cared for by the owner or operator of the vehicle at the risk of the owner or operator.

(c) Any driver of a vehicle who fails or refuses to stop and submit the vehicle and load to a weighing, or who fails or refuses when directed by an officer upon a weighing of the vehicle to stop the vehicle and otherwise comply with the provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

(d) It shall also be the duty of county sheriffs or any other state or local police officers to enforce, or to cooperate in enforcing, the weight limits specified in this chapter or authorized on any public way in this state and to prevent overloading of vehicles or other violations of the traffic laws upon the public highways within their respective jurisdictions.

(a) Maximum Single Axle Load. The total gross load imposed on the highway by the wheels of any one (1) single axle of a vehicle shall not exceed twenty thousand pounds (20,000 lbs.).

(b) (1) Maximum Tandem Axle Load. The total gross load imposed on the highway by two (2) or more consecutive axles whose centers may be included between parallel transverse vertical planes spaced more than forty inches (40') and not more than ninety-six inches (96') apart, extending across the full width of the vehicle, shall not exceed thirty-four thousand pounds (34,000 lbs.).

(2) No one (1) axle of any such group of two (2) or more consecutive axles shall exceed the load permitted for a single axle.

(e) (1) No vehicle, or combination of vehicles, shall operate upon any highway in this state when the total gross load imposed on the highway by the wheels of any one (1) single axle of such vehicle or combination exceeds eighteen thousand pounds (18,000 lbs.), nor when the total gross load imposed on the highway by two (2) or more consecutive axles of any such vehicle or combination of vehicles whose centers may be included between parallel transverse vertical planes spaced more than forty inches (40') and not more than ninety-six inches (96') apart, extending across the full width of the vehicle or combination of vehicles, exceeds thirty-two thousand pounds (32,000 lbs.), nor when the total gross weight of the vehicle, or combination of vehicles thereof, is in excess of seventy-three thousand two hundred eighty pounds (73,280 lbs.) unless the vehicle, or combination thereof, shall not exceed the value given in Table I corresponding to the distance in feet between the extreme axles of the group, measured longitudinally to the nearest foot.

(2) (A) If the Federal Highway Administration or the United States Congress prescribes or adopts vehicle size or weight limits greater than those prescribed by the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1956, which limits exceed, in full or in part, the provisions of subsection (a), subsection (b), subsection (c), or subsection (d) of this section or this subsection, the State Highway Commission shall adopt size and weight limits comparable to those prescribed or adopted by the Federal Highway Administration or the United States Congress and shall authorize the limits to be used by owners or operators of vehicles while the vehicles are using highways within this state.

(B) No vehicle size or weight limit so adopted by the commission shall be less in any respect than those provided for in subsection (a), subsection (b), subsection (c), or subsection (d) of this section or this subsection.

(f) (1) (A) Vehicles, or a combination of vehicles, transporting products commonly recognized in interstate commerce at gross weights exceeding seventy-three thousand two hundred eighty pounds (73,280 lbs.) shall be permitted direct access across any highway in this state to or from the nearest federal interstate highway or the nearest state primary highway.

(B) Vehicles, or combinations thereof, shall be subject to the limits set forth in subsections (a)-(e) and (g) of this section.

(2) Where more than one (1) highway in this state affords access to or from the point of shipment or receipt within this state, the commission may designate the access route to or from the nearest federal interstate highway or state-designated primary highway.

(g) (1) (A) Vehicles, or combinations of vehicles, which vehicles or combinations of vehicles have a total outside width in excess of one hundred two inches (102') but not exceeding one hundred eight inches (108') used for hauling compacted seed cotton from the farm to the first point at which such seed cotton shall first undergo any processing, preparation for processing, or transformation from its compacted state shall be permitted an eight-thousand-pounds-per-axle variance above the maximum allowable gross axle weight for single and tandem axles set forth in subsections (a) and (b) and subdivision (c)(1) of this section; provided, no such variance for such vehicles from the formula prescribed in subsection (e) of this section, nor from the axle weight nor overall maximum gross weight shall be allowable on federal interstate highways. Provided, further, no vehicle or combination of vehicles permitted the above axle variance, which vehicle or combination of vehicles has only three (3) axles, shall exceed a maximum overall gross weight of seventy thousand pounds (70,000 lbs.) and no such vehicle or combination of vehicles permitted the above axle variance, which vehicle or combination of vehicles has four (4) or more axles, shall exceed a maximum overall gross weight of eighty thousand pounds (80,000 lbs.).

(B) Vehicles, or combinations of vehicles, with five (5) axles and used exclusively by the owner of livestock or poultry for hauling animal feed to the owner's livestock or poultry for consumption in this state shall be permitted an eight-percent variance above the allowable gross weight whenever the formula in subsection (e) of this section is applied to the vehicle or combination of vehicles. (3) The towing and storage firm shall provide in writing to the law enforcement officer or agency the results of the search and, if appropriate, certify that a physical search of the unattended vehicle, abandoned vehicle, or impounded or seized vehicle disclosed that no ownership documents were found and that a good faith search was conducted.

(4) If the vehicle is subject to a hold limiting access to the vehicle, the law enforcement agency issuing the hold shall perform a good faith search to locate documents or other evidence of ownership and lienholder information to the extent required to preserve limited access to the vehicle.

(c) (1) Within not more than twenty-four (24) hours from the order to remove, the officer involved or his or her agency shall contact the towing and storage firm and advise the firm of any unusual circumstances causing the delay of the required information that was not available to the officer at the time the order to remove was issued.

27-50-1207. Removal of vehicles

(a) (1) A law enforcement agency that directs the removal of an unattended vehicle, abandoned vehicle, or impounded or seized vehicle shall adopt a written vehicle removal policy, the provisions of which shall not be in conflict with this subchapter.

(2) (A) Any vehicle removal policy shall provide that owner preference as defined by this subchapter shall be offered to the owner, to his or her agent, or to any competent occupant of any disabled or inoperative vehicle except in those instances of exigent circumstances or where the immediate clearing of a public thoroughfare mandates an expedited towing service.

(B) In those instances where exigent circumstances or where the immediate clearing of a public thoroughfare mandates an expedited towing service, owner preference shall be honored when the owner has requested a towing service that is located in the particular towing zone where services are to be rendered and is ready to promptly respond to the request for services.

(C) (i) If a law enforcement officer fails to provide an owner of a vehicle with an owner preference as required under this section, then the owner may file a complaint with the law enforcement agency that employs the law enforcement officer or the Arkansas Towing and Recovery Board, or both.

(ii) Nothing in this subsection precludes a person who has been denied the right of owner preference from seeking any other legal or equitable remedy.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize the towing of a vehicle in violation of other provisions of this subchapter.

(b) All law enforcement officers shall comply with the policies prescribed by their agencies as to the removal of an unattended vehicle, abandoned vehicle, or impounded or seized vehicle as defined by this subchapter.

(c) No law enforcement officer shall:

(1) Suggest or recommend any particular towing and storage firm to the owner, his or her agent, or any competent occupant of any disabled or inoperative vehicle; or

(2) Accept gifts or special consideration from the owner of a towing business or anyone acting on the owner's behalf in relation to removal of vehicles as provided by this subchapter.

(d) Upon request, any law enforcement officer or his or her agency who orders a removal pursuant to this subchapter shall provide to the owner, to his or her agent, or to any competent occupant of the removed vehicle the name, location, and telephone number of the towing and storage firm requested to remove and store the vehicle.

(e) (1) Should the owner or lienholder of a vehicle removed under this subchapter consider that the removal of the vehicle was not legally justified or properly subject to a law enforcement hold, the owner or lienholder may within thirty (30) days after removal or within thirty (30) days after the receipt of notification of a law enforcement hold from the towing and storage firm, whichever is later, seek a review to determine whether the unattended vehicle, abandoned vehicle, disabled vehicle, or inoperative vehicle was wrongfully removed or withheld from the owner through the following procedures:

(A) In the case of a vehicle removed by or at the direction of a state agency, by filing a petition with the Arkansas State Claims Commission;

(B) In the case of a vehicle removed by or at the direction of a county or city agency and when the county or city has established an administrative review process, by filing a petition according to the established administrative review process; and

(C) In all other cases, including when the county or city has failed to establish an administrative review process, by filing a petition in the circuit court in the county where the unattended vehicle or abandoned vehicle is stored.

(2) In the case of a final decision reached through a county or city administrative review, the owner or lienholder may appeal an adverse ruling to the circuit court in the county where the unattended vehicle or abandoned vehicle is stored.

(3) The petition shall name the state agency ordering the tow as a respondent and, when filed in circuit court, shall also name the towing company among the respondents if the towing company still possesses the vehicle. In the case of removal originated by an agency of a political subdivision of the state, the petition shall name the county, city, or town as a respondent.

(4) If the vehicle, its contents, or both are subject to impoundment or seizure by law enforcement under the Arkansas Rules of Criminal Procedure or a court order, the procedure for return or restoration of the impounded or seized vehicle and its contents shall be governed exclusively by Rule 15 of the Arkansas Rules of Criminal Procedure to the extent applicable.

(f) (1) Upon the filing of the petition, the owner or lienholder may have the unattended or abandoned vehicle and contents released upon posting with the commission, with the court, or with the city or county clerk or other person designated by a political subdivision, as the case may be, a cash or surety bond equal to the amount of the charges for the towing and storage to ensure the payment of such charges in the event that he or she does not prevail.

(2) (A) Upon the posting of the bond and the payment of the applicable fees, the administrative decision maker, commission, or court, as the case may be, shall issue an order notifying the towing company and the respondent agency of the posting of the bond.

(B) Upon service of receipt of the order, the towing company shall release the stored property.

(3) At the time of release, after reasonable inspection, the owner or the lienholder shall give a receipt to the towing and storage firm reciting any claim for known loss or damage to the unattended or abandoned property or the contents thereof.

(g) Upon determining the respective rights of the parties, the final order of the administrative decision maker, commission, or court, as the case may be, shall provide for immediate payment in full of the reasonable recovery, towing, and storage fees by the owner or lienholder of the unattended or abandoned property or by the respective law enforcement agency.

(h) In cases where the owner or lienholder has posted a cash or surety bond to obtain immediate release and the owner or lienholder is found to be responsible for reasonable recovery, towing, and storage fees, the administrative decision maker, commission, or court, as the case may be, shall declare the bond to be forfeited, with the amount paid to the towing and storage firm to cover reasonable recovery, towing, and storage fees.

(i) Nothing in this section shall be construed to waive the sovereign immunity of the State of Arkansas nor any immunity granted to its political subdivisions.

(j) This section shall not be construed to defeat a lien held by a towing company under § 27-50-1208.

27-50-1208. Possessory lien and notice to owners and lienholders

(a) (1) The towing and storage firm shall have a first priority possessory lien on the vehicle and its contents for all reasonable charges for towing, recovery, and storage for which the owner is liable.

(2) (A) A possessory lien under this section attaches to not only the vehicle and its contents but also any trailer attached to the vehicle at the time it is towed and any contents of such trailer including, but not limited to, other vehicles or boats.

(B) A lien under this section shall not extend to the following items, without limitation:

- (i) Personal or legal documents;
- (ii) Medications;

- (iii) Child-restraint seating;
- (iv) Wallets or purses and the contents of such;
- (v) Prescription eyeglasses;
- (vi) Prosthetics;
- (vii) Cell phones;
- (viii) Photographs; and
- (ix) Books.

(C) The items described in subdivision (a)(2)(B) of this section shall be released without charge by the towing and storage firm to the owner or operator of the motor vehicle or his or her duly authorized representative.

(b) The lien shall be perfected by:

- (1) Maintaining possession;
- (2) Mailing notice to the owner or owners and lienholders as shown on the data provided by the law enforcement agency involved as prescribed by this subchapter; or
- (3) In the case of a vehicle removed pursuant to § 27-50-1101, giving notice to the last known registered owner or owners and lienholders as provided from the records of the:

- (A) Office of Motor Vehicle;
- (B) Arkansas Crime Information Center; or

(C) If known, motor vehicle records of any other state where the vehicle's registration indicates the name and address of the last registered owner and the name and address of the holder of any recorded lien, if any, on the vehicle.

(c) (1) The notice shall be mandatory and by certified mail, return receipt requested.

(2) The notice shall be posted not sooner than two (2) business days but within eight (8) business days after the date that the towing and storage firm receives the vehicle.

(d) (1) If within forty-eight (48) hours the ownership and lienholder information has not been received from the law enforcement agency requesting the removal of a vehicle pursuant to this subchapter, the towing and storage firm shall obtain information concerning the last known registered owner or owners and lienholder or lienholders as provided from the records of the:

- (A) Office of Motor Vehicle;
- (B) Arkansas Crime Information Center; or

(C) If known, motor vehicle records of any other state where the vehicle's registration indicates the name and address of the last registered owner and the name and address of the holder of any recorded lien, if any, on the vehicle.

(2) (A) For the purpose of notices required by this section, if the data records of the Office of Motor Vehicle or the office of motor vehicles for the state where the vehicle is registered, if known, do not contain any information as to the last known registered owner or owners and lienholder or lienholders, notice is sufficient under this section if the notice is provided by publication one (1) time in one (1) newspaper of general circulation in the county where the vehicle was found unattended, abandoned, or improperly parked and by posting on the website sponsored and managed by the Arkansas Towing and Recovery Board for that purpose.

(B) (i) The notice by publication may contain multiple listings of vehicles, shall be published within the time requirements prescribed for notice by certified mail, and shall have the same contents required for a notice by certified mail.

(ii) A towing business using the website to post notice under subdivision (d)(2)(A) of this section shall:

(a) Be licensed by the board under § 27-50-1203; and

(b) Pay a reasonable fee for each notice posted on the website in an amount to be determined by the board.

(e) (1) The notice shall contain the following information:

(A) The year, make, model, and vehicle identification number of the vehicle towed;

(B) The name, address, and telephone number of the storage facility;

(C) That the vehicle is in the possession of that towing and storage firm under police order, describing the general circumstances of any law enforcement or other official hold on the vehicle;

(D) That towing, storage, and administrative costs are accruing as a legal liability of the owner;

(E) That the towing and storage firm claims a first priority possessory lien on the vehicle and its contents for all such charges;

(F) That unless claimed within forty-five (45) days, the vehicle and its contents will be dismantled, destroyed, or sold at public sale to the highest bidder;

(G) That the failure to exercise the right to reclaim the vehicle and its contents within the time prescribed by this section constitutes a waiver by the owner and lienholder of all right, title, and interest in the vehicle and its contents and constitutes consent to the sale, dismantling, or destruction of the vehicle and its contents;

(H) That the owner or lienholder may retake possession at any time during business hours by appearing, proving ownership, and releasing the law enforcement or other official hold, if any, and by paying all charges or by other written arrangement between the owner or lienholder and the towing and storage firm;

(I) That should the owner consider that the original taking was not legally justified, he or she has a right for thirty (30) days to contest the original taking as described by § 27-50-1207; and

(J) That the owner of the vehicle or operator or his or her authorized representative may recover without charge any item described in subdivision (a)(2)(B) of this section by providing within forty-five (45) days to the towing and storage firm proof that the claimant is the registered owner of the vehicle or has been authorized by the registered owner of the vehicle to take possession of the items.

(2) A notice to an owner of a vehicle deemed abandoned on the premises of an automobile repair facility under § 27-50-1101 shall also advise that the automobile repair person holds an absolute lien on the vehicle under § 18-45-201 et seq.

(f) Nothing in this section is to preclude the owner, lienholder, or agent from making alternative arrangements within the two-day to eight-day period with the towing and storage firm, waiving his or her rights to the notice requirement.

(g) When any vehicle reclaimed from the towing and storage firm by a lienholder contains contents not subject to the lienholder's interest, the lienholder shall be accountable to the owner of the contents in the same manner as the lienholder would in any other case of repossession of a vehicle, and the towing and recovery firm releasing the vehicle and its contents shall be relieved from all responsibility for the contents.

(h) (1) A towing and storage firm that in good faith follows the procedures of this subchapter or the provisions of § 27-50-1101 shall not be subject to claims of unlawful detainer or conversion for vehicles or their contents for maintaining property pursuant to the possessory lien as provided by this subchapter.

(2) A challenge to the removal and holding of an unattended vehicle, abandoned vehicle, or impounded or seized vehicle as provided by this subchapter shall be controlled exclusively by the provisions of § 27-50-1207.

(3) This section shall not be construed to limit liability of the towing and storage firm for any other act or omission otherwise actionable under statutory or common law.

27-50-1209. Foreclosure of liens

(a) (1) The failure of the owner or lienholder to exercise his, her, or its right to reclaim the vehicle and its contents within forty-five (45) days of the posting or publication of notice to owners and lienholders constitutes a waiver by the owner or lienholder of all right, title, and interest in the vehicle and its contents.

(2) If a law enforcement official or other official refuses to release any hold on the vehicle or its contents, the owner or lienholder has an additional twenty (20) days to reclaim the vehicle and its contents after the date when the hold is released.

(3) (A) The owner or lienholder may challenge any law enforcement official hold or other official hold under the procedures in § 27-50-1207(e).

(B) However, the provisions of § 27-50-1207(f) pertaining to release of the vehicle do not apply when the owner or lienholder challenges a law enforcement official hold or other official hold.

(b) (1) Except as provided in subsection (c) of this section, the towing and storage firm, municipality, or county that holds a perfected possessory lien on any vehicle and its contents not redeemed by its owner or security lienholder within the time frame provided by this section shall sell the vehicle and its contents at a non-judicial public sale for cash.

(2) The sale shall not occur later than ninety (90) days after perfection of the lien or forty-five (45) days after the release of any law enforcement hold or other official hold, whichever is later.

(c) A vehicle that is held by a municipality or county on a storage lot owned and operated by the municipality or county may defer the public sale and make use of the vehicle for law enforcement purposes if:

(1) The municipality or county complies with the notice provisions of § 27-50-1208;

(2) The time frame as provided under subsection (a) of this section has expired; and

(3) The municipality or county enacts an ordinance that:

(A) Declares the municipality's or the county's policy regarding the deferral for law enforcement purposes;

(B) Charges a specific municipal or county official with the responsibilities of:

(i) Identifying the vehicles to be used by the municipality or county; and

(ii) (a) Declaring a future date to publicly sell the vehicle pursuant to § 27-50-1210.

(b) The date of the sale shall be a maximum of six (6) months following the passage of the time frame for an owner or lienholder to reclaim a vehicle under subsection (a) of this section or as soon as is practicable if circumstances arise that prevent the sale on the declared sale date; and

(C) Requires that the official ensure that the public sale proceed on the sale date declared in the ordinance.

(d) (1) The towing and storage firm, municipality, or county shall obtain written verification that the Arkansas Crime Information Center records do not list the vehicle as having been reported stolen.

(2) The verification shall be on a form prescribed by the center, the Office of Motor Vehicle, a municipal police department, a county sheriff's department, or the Division of Arkansas State Police.

(3) When the verification provided by this subsection is sought directly from the center by the towing and storage firm, the center may charge a fee, not to exceed ten dollars ($10.00) per vehicle verification.

(e) (1) Notice of the sale shall be sent at least fifteen (15) days before the date of the sale by certified mail, no return receipt requested, to the registered owner and lienholder, if any.

(2) If the data records of the Office of Motor Vehicle or the office of motor vehicles for the state where the vehicle is registered do not contain any information as to the last known registered owner or owners or lienholders, the notice required under subdivision (e)(1) of this section is not required.

(3) Nothing in this subsection removes the requirement of notice of sale by publication under subsection (f) of this section.

(f) In addition to the notice by mail, notice of the sale shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the county at least one (1) time at least ten (10) days prior to the sale and shall be posted on the website that is sponsored and managed by the Arkansas Towing and Recovery Board for that purpose.

(2) The possessory lienholder shall have a valid claim against the owner for the full amount of the charges, including the costs of the sale and including a reasonable charge for processing the paperwork, less the sale price of the vehicle and its contents.

(c) (1) Upon presentation of documentation to the Office of Motor Vehicle to the effect that the sale procedure provided in this subsection has been complied with protecting the rights of the owner or lienholder, the purchaser of the vehicle shall be entitled to receive a new title to the vehicle upon meeting other applicable administrative requirements of title and registration laws.

(b) Local authorities in their respective jurisdictions may, in their discretion, authorize by ordinance higher prima facie speeds than those stated in § 27-51-201 upon through highways or upon highways or portions thereof where there are no intersections or between widely spaced intersections, if signs are erected giving notice of the authorized speed, but local authorities shall not have authority to modify or alter the basic rule set forth in § 27-51-201(a) or in any event to authorize by ordinance a speed in excess of forty-five miles per hour (45 m.p.h.).

The Nonresident Violator Compact of 1977, as amended and in effect on January 1, 1985, hereinafter called "the compact," is enacted into law and entered into with all other jurisdictions legally joining therein in the form substantially as follows:

ARTICLE I

FINDINGS, DECLARATION OF POLICY AND PURPOSE

(a) The party jurisdictions find that:

(1) In most instances, a motorist who is cited for a traffic violation in a jurisdiction other than his home jurisdiction:

(i) Must post collateral or bond to secure appearance for trial at a later date; or

(ii) If unable to post collateral or bond, is taken into custody until the collateral or bond is posted; or

(iii) Is taken directly to court for his trial to be held.

(2) In some instances, the motorist's driver's license may be deposited as collateral to be returned after he has complied with the terms of the citation.

(3) The purpose of the practices described in paragraphs (1) and (2) above is to ensure compliance with the terms of a traffic citation by the motorist who, if permitted to continue on his way after receiving the traffic citation, could return to his home jurisdiction and disregard his duty under the terms of the traffic citation.

(4) A motorist receiving a traffic citation in his home jurisdiction is permitted, except for certain violations, to accept the citation from the officer at the scene of the violation and to immediately continue on his way after promising or being instructed to comply with the terms of the citation.

(5) The practice described in paragraph (1) above causes unnecessary inconvenience and, at times, a hardship for the motorist who is unable at the time to post collateral, furnish a bond, stand trial, or pay the fine, and thus is compelled to remain in custody until some arrangement can be made.

(6) The deposit of a driver's license as a bail bond, as described in paragraph (2) above, is viewed with disfavor.

CHAPTER 54
NONRESIDENT VIOLATOR COMPACT

(7) The practices described herein consume an undue amount of law enforcement time.

(b) It is the policy of the party jurisdictions to:

(1) Seek compliance with the laws, ordinances, and administrative rules and regulations relating to the operation of motor vehicles in each of the jurisdictions.

(2) Allow motorists to accept a traffic citation for certain violations and proceed on their way without delay whether or not the motorist is a resident of the jurisdiction in which the citation was issued.

(3) Extend cooperation to its fullest extent among the jurisdictions for obtaining compliance with the terms of a traffic citation issued in one jurisdiction to a resident of another jurisdiction.

(4) Maximize effective utilization of law enforcement personnel and assist court systems in the efficient disposition of traffic violations.

(c) The purpose of this compact is to:

(1) Provide a means through which the party jurisdictions may participate in a reciprocal program to effectuate the policies enumerated in paragraph (b) above in a uniform and orderly manner.

(2) Provide for the fair and impartial treatment of traffic violators operating within party jurisdictions in recognition of the motorist's right of due process and the sovereign status of a party jurisdiction.

ARTICLE II DEFINITIONS

(a) In the Nonresident Violator Compact, the following words have the meaning indicated, unless the context requires otherwise:

(b) (1) "Citation" means any summons, ticket, or other official document issued by a police officer for a traffic violation containing an order which requires the motorist to respond.

(2) "Collateral" means any cash or other security deposited to secure an appearance for trial, following the issuance by a police officer of a citation for a traffic violation.

(3) "Compliance" means the act of answering a citation, summons, or subpoena through appearance at court, a tribunal, and/or payment of fines and costs.

(4) "Court" means a court of law or traffic tribunal.

(5) "Driver's license" means any license or privilege to operate a motor vehicle issued under the laws of the home jurisdiction.

(6) "Home jurisdiction" means the jurisdiction that issued the driver's license of the traffic violator.

(7) "Issuing jurisdiction" means the jurisdiction in which the traffic citation was issued to the motorist.

(8) "Jurisdiction" means a state, territory, or possession of the United States, the District of Columbia, Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Provinces of Canada, or other countries.

(9) "Motorist" means a driver of a motor vehicle operating in a party jurisdiction other than the home jurisdiction.

(10) "Personal recognizance" means an agreement by a motorist made at the time of issuance of the traffic citation that he will comply with the terms of that traffic citation.

(11) "Police officer" means any individual authorized by the party jurisdiction to issue a citation for a traffic violation.

(12) "Terms of the citation" means those options expressly stated upon the citation.

ARTICLE III PROCEDURE FOR ISSUING JURISDICTION

(a) When issuing a citation for a traffic violation, a police officer shall issue the citation to a motorist who possesses a driver's license issued by a party jurisdiction and shall not, subject to the exceptions noted in paragraph (b) of this article, require the motorist to post collateral to secure appearance, if the officer receives the motorist's personal recognizance that he or she will comply with the terms of the citation.

(b) Personal recognizance is acceptable only if not prohibited by law. If mandatory appearance is required, it should take place immediately following issuance of the citation.

(c) Upon failure of a motorist to comply with the terms of a traffic citation, the appropriate official shall report the failure to comply to the licensing authority of the jurisdiction in which the traffic citation was issued. The report shall be made in accordance with procedures specified by the issuing jurisdiction and shall contain information as specified in the Compact Manual as minimum requirements for effective processing by the home jurisdiction.

(d) Upon receipt of the report, the licensing authority of the issuing jurisdiction shall transmit to the licensing authority in the home jurisdiction of the motorist, the information in a form and content as contained in the Compact Manual.

(e) The licensing authority of the issuing jurisdiction need not suspend the privilege of a motorist for whom a report has been transmitted.

(f) The licensing authority of the issuing jurisdiction shall not transmit a report on any violation if the date of transmission is more than six months after the date on which the traffic citation was issued.

(g) The licensing authority of the issuing jurisdiction shall not transmit a report on any violation where the date of issuance of the citation predates the most recent of the effective dates of entry for the two (2) jurisdictions affected.

ARTICLE IV PROCEDURE FOR HOME JURISDICTION

(a) Upon receipt of a report of a failure to comply from the licensing authority of the issuing jurisdiction, the licensing authority of the home jurisdiction shall notify the motorist and initiate a suspension action, in accordance with the home jurisdiction's procedures, to suspend the motorist's driver's license until satisfactory evidence of compliance with the terms of the traffic citation has been furnished to the home jurisdiction licensing authority. Due process safeguards will be accorded.

(b) The licensing authority of the home jurisdiction shall maintain a record of actions taken and make reports to issuing jurisdictions as provided in the Compact Manual.

ARTICLE V
APPLICABILITY OF OTHER LAWS

Except as expressly required by provisions of this compact, nothing contained herein shall be construed to affect the right of any party jurisdiction to apply any of its other laws relating to license to drive to any person or circumstance, or to invalidate or prevent any driver license agreement or other cooperative arrangements between a party jurisdiction and a nonparty jurisdiction.

ARTICLE VI
COMPACT ADMINISTRATOR

(a) For the purpose of administering the provisions of this compact and to serve as a governing body for the resolution of all matters relating to the operation of this compact, a Board of Compact Administrators is established. The board shall be composed of one representative from each party jurisdiction to be known as the compact administrator. The compact administrator shall be appointed by the jurisdiction executive and will serve and be subject to removal in accordance with the laws of the jurisdiction he represents. (d) The board shall adopt bylaws, not inconsistent with the provisions of this compact or the laws of a party jurisdiction, for the conduct of its business and shall have the power to amend and rescind its bylaws.

This subchapter may be referred to and cited as the "Arkansas Highway Financing Act of 2011".

History.

Acts 2011, No. 773, § 3.

27-64-502. Findings

The General Assembly of the State of Arkansas finds that:

(1) There is an immediate need for highway improvements throughout the State of Arkansas in order to provide for the health, safety, and welfare of its citizens and to promote economic development within the state;

(2) Through revenues generated pursuant to the Arkansas Highway Financing

Act of 1999, § 27-64-201 et seq., the State Highway Commission has been successful in completing the rehabilitation of much of the state's Interstate Highway System and that the rehabilitation has been carried out in an efficient, cost-effective manner;

(3) Continued improvement of the Interstate Highway System and other routes on the National Highway System is necessary, and the best way to accomplish the improvements expeditiously is through the issuance of additional federal highway grant anticipation and tax revenue bonds to finance highway improvements;

(4) Bonds should be payable from revenues currently designated by the Arkansas Highway Financing Act of 1999, § 27-64-201 et seq., including federal highway assistance funding and the proceeds from the Arkansas Distillate Special Fuel Excise Tax Act of 1999 and the Motor Fuel Excise Tax Act of 1999, §§ 26-55-1005, 26-55-1006, 26-56-201, and 27-72-305, and § 26-56-801 et seq.; and

(5) The repayment of the bonds should be guaranteed by the full faith and credit of the state.

"Authorizing the State Highway Commission to issue State of Arkansas Federal Highway Grant Anticipation and Tax Revenue Bonds (the 'Bonds') if the total principal amount outstanding from the issuance of the bonds, together with the total principal amount outstanding from the issuance of bonds pursuant to the Arkansas Highway Financing Act of 1999, § 27-64-201 et seq., the Arkansas Interstate Highway Financing Act of 2005, § 27-64-301 et seq., and the Arkansas Interstate Highway Financing Act of 2007, § 27-64-401 et seq. shall not, at any time, exceed one billion one hundred million dollars ($1,100,000,000). If approved, the bonds will be issued in several series of various principal amounts from time to time, with the last series being issued no later than December 31, 2017, for the purpose of paying the cost of constructing and renovating improvements to the Interstate Highway System and related facilities in the State of Arkansas and improvements to other routes on the National Highway System and related facilities in the State of Arkansas.

"The bonds shall be general obligations of the State of Arkansas, payable from certain designated revenues including particularly and without limitation a new tax described below, and also secured by the full faith and credit of the State of Arkansas, including its general revenues.

"Under the Arkansas Highway Financing Act of 2011 (the 'Bond Act'), the bonds will be repaid first from:

(1) revenues derived from federal highway assistance funding allocated to the State of Arkansas;

To the extent that designated revenues are insufficient to make timely payment of debt service on the bonds, the payment shall be made from the general revenues of the State of Arkansas. The bonds shall be issued pursuant to the authority of and the terms set forth in the Bond Act.

"Under the Bond Act, the highway improvements to be financed are limited to the restoration and improvements to the Interstate Highway System and of other routes on the National Highway System within the state, including roadways, bridges, or rights-of-way under jurisdiction of the State Highway Commission, which shall also include the acquisition, construction, reconstruction, and renovation of the Interstate Highway System and of other routes on the National Highway System and facilities appurtenant or pertaining thereto.

(3) revenues derived from the excise tax levied on distillate special fuel (diesel) pursuant to Arkansas Code § 26-56-802, which is a new five-cent-per-gallon tax to be levied upon the approval of this measure. The bonds are further secured by the full faith and credit of the State of Arkansas, and to the extent 'designated revenues' are insufficient to make timely payment of debt service on the bonds, the general revenues of the state shall be used to pay debt service on the bonds."

(c) The ballot title shall be "Issuance of State of Arkansas Federal Highway Grant Anticipation and Tax Revenue Bonds and pledge of full faith and credit of the State of Arkansas, and the levy of an additional five-cent-per-gallon tax on distillate special fuel (diesel)". are erected upon the highway or portion of any highway affected; and

WHEREAS, the maintenance of the state highways is an ever increasing burden, compounded by higher costs of maintenance, increased truck weights and severe winter season causing much damage to these highways; and

WHEREAS, the determination of maximum weights for all traffic facilities should be based upon studies of engineering and traffic characteristics thereof; and

WHEREAS, the local District Engineers of the Arkansas State Highway and Transportation Department are best qualified to conduct such studies and best able to respond to emergency situations whenever any highway, by reason of deterioration, rain, snow, or other climatic conditions will be seriously damaged unless the use of vehicles thereon is prohibited or the permissible weights thereof reduced; and

WHEREAS, the posting of such signs as to weight and the prohibitions or restrictions imposed thereon, are declared by the Arkansas State Highway Commission to be within the direct authority of the District Engineers of the Arkansas State Highway and Transportation Department.

NOW THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED that the actions of the District Engineers of the Arkansas State Highway and Transportation Department in erecting and maintaining such signs upon the highways under the jurisdiction of the Arkansas State Highway Commission and the District Engineers are directly authorized to continue with studies of the state highways within their respective districts, and with the posting of signs giving notice of any prohibition of any limitation as to weight of vehicles operating upon such highways, with such restrictions to be effective when such signs are erected and maintained.

- Vehicles, or combinations of vehicles, which vehicles or combinations of vehicles have a total outside width in excess of 102” but not exceeding 108” used for hauling compacted seed cotton from the farm to the first point at which such seed cotton shall first undergo any processing, preparation for processing or transformation from its compacted state; and

FURTHERMORE, upon objectionable evidence of pavement deterioration attributed to these increased weights, the Department’s District Engineers are authorized to reinstate the previous weight restrictions in order to limit further deterioration.

2016-112

WHEREAS, some state highways are posted for weight restrictions below the maximum weight limits allowed by State law; and

WHEREAS, the “Process for Establishing Roadway Maintenance Assessments on Weight Restricted Highways” to accommodate non-divisible overweight loads by permit was developed and implemented in 2008; and
